Grand Trunk Will Abandon The Telegraph For Operating; The Telephone Is Much Quicker

Superintendent Nixon, of the Grand Trunk, has announced to The London Advertiser that as soon as is practicable the Grand Trunk will do away with the present system of operating their trains by telegraph and will install what is known as the telephone system.

Mr. Nixon states that this will not in any way reduce the number of operators required, but will give the railway a much quicker and fully as efficient a system of operating.

The change will probably be made within the next month or two.

A Year's Trial

"A year's trial of the telephone as a means of dispatching trains," said Mr. Nixon, "has proved its practicability; railway telegraph men recognize that the day of the ticker is past as far as they are concerned, and they are preparing to hasten the change all over the continent of America."

In December, 1907, the first installation of the telephone was made on the New York Central road, over a small stretch between New York and Fonda; to-day, the new system extends over 4,900 miles; and by the end of another year, it will cover fifteen thousand miles of track in the United States and Canada.

The Great Advantage

The great advantage of the telephone over the telegraph in railway work lies in the speed of transmission which allows for the transaction of a much greater volume of business. The cost of installation is great, about seven times as much as the installation of a telegraphic connection from the fact that two copper wires must be used instead of one iron wire; the cost of maintenance is greater and the cost of operation is about the same; but the increased facility of operation, especially over the congested portions of the railway are held to justify the change. Where the telephone is supplanting the telegraph the same operators are used, so that there is no change in this respect. The telephone has also the advantage that the operator may speak to any trainman direct and not necessarily through a second operator, a third party. It is claimed to be just as safe, if not safer than the telegraph.

The First to try it

The New York Central Railway was the first company to seek an improvement on dispatching by telegraph and during the year 1907 made a series of experiments with an independent telephone circuit before finally making a permanent installation. The tests were closely watched by the other railway companies of the continent, and immediately after the system was adopted in an experimental way.

At present it is in operation over 4,000 miles in the United States and Canada; over 6,700 other miles of road the construction of telephone equipment is authorized and in large part under way; while for 2,300 miles more it is under construction for the coming year.

On the C. P. R.

When asked regarding the use of the telephone system, the C.P.R. officials informed The Advertiser that while the system has been adopted on their lines east of Montreal, it is not talked of for the western division yet.

HAD USED GLOVE 15 YEARS--LOST IT AND REGAINED IT

A citizen of leisure was going the rounds of his friends last night, gladly telling that he had found the glove which he had lost on the day before Christmas. He had purchased the apair fifteen years ago. They were of buckskin, serviceable, if they were plain of appearance. They had primarily cost five dollars and the service of fifteen years without wearing out, was a splendid return for the money.

One of them was lost and every conceivable place was visited with the idea that it might have been dropped there. Finally it was found yesterday and everybody had to join in the rejoicing.

HOME LOYALTY.

A letter is printed in another column in reference to the plans for the proposed new Public Library building, a letter which, it is hoped, is superfluous. The idea cannot surely be seriously entertained of going outside the city, not to speak of going outside the country, for plans for public library buildings. While it is desirable to have the very best type of plans for such a building we certainly, as "Citizen," in his letter points out, have architects capable of producing plans that will meet every essential requirement. The matter involved in going abroad for plans is hardly worth discussing—it is so absolutely beyond the possibility of being entertained. It is enough of humiliation, some of us think, to accept the money of a foreigner without going the length of placing dependence upon foreign brains. If we go to both lengths we could logically go further. If we go to the United States for plans, we can plead a similar justification or stultification for going there for material and workmen to erect the building. Let us be loyal to our home interests. Let us have as much Peterborough stock as possible in the Peterborough Public Library.

Every good citizen will do his buying, his planning and his building at home; will stand by the city in all its interests.

NEW TIMBER REGULATIONS.

The new timber regulations passed at the last session of parliament, and since incorporated in the new Dominion lands' act, are working most satisfactorily. Under the previous regulations, which date back to 1885, any person could have a timber berth put up to competition, the Government retaining power to fix the conditions under which the successful bidder might operate the berth. But the rapid settlement of the west during the past few years has naturally had the effect of greatly enhancing the value of standing timber, and a change in the system of disposing of berths was found to be advisable.

The new regulations provide that the maximum area of a timber berth is 25 square miles. Now berths are not sold by auction until after a survey has been made and the timber has been cruised and estimated by a Government cruiser, and in no case is a berth sold below an upset price fixed by the minister of the interior. The license is for one year, but is renewable as long as timber of the kind and dimensions described therein remains on the land in sufficient quantity to make it commercially valuable. The minister has power to require the erection of a mill and the operation of the berth, and the licensee may be required to do the cutting on any portion of the berth which the minister decides should be cleared for settlement purposes. As a protective measure there is a rule prohibiting unnecessary waste in cutting, and the destruction of young trees, and care is taken that trees which may be necessary for a seed supply shall not be disturbed. Licensees are required to exercise strict and constant supervision to prevent the outbreak and spread of fire.

The general license regulations apply to timber lands outside of the forest reserves and forest parks, but not to timber in the reserves and parks, these being governed by special regulations.

In addition to the sale of timber under license by public competition, it may be obtained under permit by settlers for their own use, for cordwood, mining purposes, construction of public works and a few similar objects. Another provision is for the granting of berths of not more than one square mile, without competition, to small mills, in order that settlers in districts where it cannot otherwise be easily and cheaply obtained, may be enabled to procure a ready and cheap supply of lumber. For this a fixed fee of $100 a mile, in addition to dues on timber cut is charged. This provision is of especial value in the newly opened-up districts.

TELEPHONE TO REPLACE TELEGRAPH.

The London Advertiser is informed by Superintendent Nixon, of the Grand Trunk Railway, that that line is preparing to substitute the telephone for the telegraph as a medium of train despatching. That this change is considered an improvement by the railway company is shown by the fact that the installation of telephone wiring and instruments will be much more expensive, but it is claimed this will be offset by greater rapidity of business. It is probable that the railways consider the telephone safer than the telegraph. If this be the case the change will be welcomed. It is stated that many accidents result from mis-reading of messages. If this difficulty is hoped to be eliminated by the use of the telephone, the experience of taking messages over private 'phones hardly justifies the conclusion. Especially in newspaper work the telephone affords a wide field for misunderstanding of certain words, or classes of words. Perhaps this difficulty can be overcome in railway telephones. If it can be done the change will be welcomed, especially in view of another possibility the use of the telephone suggests. Many times the mistakes of despatchers, which are liable to lead to disastrous collisions might be remedied, but for the inability to "raise" operators at way stations not kept open all night. It is difficult to picture the agony of despair of an operator who has through inadvertence, or oversight, or carelessness, lauched a heavy passenger train on its way to a very probable collision, when his frantic efforts to raise an intermediate station have been fruitless. It seems possible by the use of the telephone to keep in touch with an operator after he has closed up for the night. By having an instrument in his home or lodging place he would always be within reach of the despatchers on the system, and, even if he were absent, another person—for anyone can use the 'phone—who might know nothing about telegraphing, could take his place, receive the message and take steps to stop the train on its way to, perhaps disastrous collision. This much gained would represent a great advance in railway train movement. The saving of even one human life would be something worth working for.

ONE BAD MISTAKE

Is Frequently Made by the Wisest of Peterborough People.

It's a serious mistake to neglect backache. Backache is the first symptom of kidney ills. Fatal complications may follow. Booth's Kidney Pills act quickly to overcome kidney ills, do not delay until too late, it may mean Diabetes, Bright's Disease. Read what a Peterborough resident says.

Mrs. R. Duncan, of No. 115 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "Some thirteen years ago I suffered with a severe attack of la grippe that had until this spring left me in a weakened and miserable condition. The kidneys had been disordered through this and became so inactive that doctors had pronounced it Bright's Disease, and termed my case incurable. My back was very weak and the pains across the kidneys were most excruciating. The urine was highly coloured and contained a quantity of whitish sediment. I had become so discouraged through my years of suffering that I had no care for anything. Booth's Kidney Pills were advertised at the Market Drug Store and I tried them. The first box convinced me of their merits. I used five boxes of the remedy and I have been entirely cured. I am like a new person, well and strong and can sleep through the night and awake refreshed and ready for the day."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Western Agricultural College has discovered a sure cure for hog cholera. Hamilton newspapers are suggesting a supply of the "serum" used for Toronto.

Last year the province of Alberta produced two million pounds of butter, which, at twenty-five cents per pound, netted the 40,000 farmers of the province an average of $13 each.

During November, of 1908, there were only three labour disputes in Canada, affecting 819 employees. The loss in working hours was 5,715 hours, as against 37,800 in October and 19,275 in November, 1907. The Lemieux Act seems to have had a beneficial effect. Conciliation is better than coercion.

ALF SHRUBB SAYS HE WILL RUN LONGBOAT OFF HIS FEET IN 3 MILES

Alf Shrubb is rubbing it into Tom Longboat in New York these days. In an interview in New York Shrubb says:

"I will beat Tom Longboat just as easily as I will beat Dorando Pietri, Johnny Hayes, or any other of the Marathon champions.

"I think that I can train harder than any athlete running to-day. But the results of my hard work speak for themselves, and I will continue to work hard as long as I am in the running game. I don't smoke and only take a drink at meal time. In all my races I never resorted to the use of dope. If my natural system cannot win for me I would rather be defeated.

"I never run unless I feel like it. I know there are many athletes that go out to train when they are not feeling quite well, but they do themselves more harm than good. When I do train I work just as hard as I do in a race. I never jog as some runners do. I run and run hard, and while formerly I ran about six miles now I have increased my distance to about fifteen miles a day.

"About Longboat, he will never be a real champion. I doubt if he could do four miles in 21 minutes, and that's not fast at all. In my coming race with Longboat, without praising myself I want to say that I don't think the Indian has a chance to beat me. I will find him out for three miles and run him off his feet. The Indian is overrated."

New York, Dec. 28.—There will be plenty of men to race against Alfred Shrubb in his twelve-mile relay race at Madison Square Garden, on January 9th. In fact, applications for positions on the team who will each race four miles against the English champion distance runner are coming in so fast that it will be hard work to pick the team that will finally compete.

Among the aspiring runners who would like to trim Shrubb are Felix Carbajal, a Cuban; T. P. Morrissey, the Yonkers wonder; W. H. Feeney, of Brooklyn; H. B. Behmar, who claims he ran rings around everybody in Texas and Mexico; Fred Simpson the Canadian Indian; Tom Slater of Troy, the pedestrian; Frank Kenaly, who has competed against Shrubb in previous races; and Mike Spring.

JACK LONDON'S GRAPHIC STORY OF THE BURNS-JOHNSON BATTLE

Jack London, the well known author, has the following graphic reference to the Burns-Johnson fight.

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 28. — The fight! There was no fight. No Armenian massacre could compare with the hopeless slaughter that took place in the Sydney Stadium to-day. It was not a case of "Too Much Johnson," but of all Johnson. A golden smile tells the story, and a golden smile was Johnson's.

The fight, if fight it might be called, was like unto that between a Colossus and a toy automaton. It had all the seeming of a playful Ethiopian at loggerheads with a small and futile white man—of a grown man cuffing a naughty child; of a monologue by one Johnson, who made a noise with his fists like a lullaby, tucking one Burns into his little crib in Sleepy Hollow; or a funeral with Burns for the late deceased, Johnson for undertaker, grave-digger and sexton.

Start of the Battle

Twenty thousand men were at the ringside and twice twenty thousand lingered outside. Johnson, first in the ring, showed magnificent condition. When he smiled a dazzling flash of gold filled the wide aperture between his open lips, and he smiled all the time. He had no trouble in the world.

When asked what he was going to do after the fight, he said he was going to the races. It was a happy prophecy. He was immediately followed into the ring by Burns, who had no smile whatever. He looked pale and sallow, as if he had not slept all night, or as if he had just pulled through a bout with fever. He received a heartier greeting than Johnson and seemed a favourite with the crowd.

It promised to be a bitter fight. There was no chivalry or good will in it, and Johnson, despite his careless pose, had an eye to the instant need of things. He sent his seconds intently into Burns' corner to watch the putting on of the gloves for fear a casual horseshoe might stray in. He examined personally Burns' belt, and announced flatly that he would no fight if Burns did not remove a tape from his skinned elbows.

Tape is Removed

"Nothin doin' till he takes 'em off," quoth Johnson.

The crowd hooted, but Johnson smiled his happy golden smile, and dreamed with Ethiopian stolidity in his corner. Burns took off the offending tapes and was applauded uproariously. Johnson stood up and was hooted. He merely smiled. That is the fight epitomized — Johnson's smile.

The gong sounded and the fight and the monologue began all right.

"Tommy," said Johnson, with an exaggerated English accent, and thereafter he talked through the fight—when he was not smiling.

Several had they mixed when he caught his antagonist with a fierce uppercut, turning him completely over in the air, and landing him on his back.

There is no use giving details. There was no doubt from the moment of the opening of the first round. The affair was too one-sided. There was never a one-sided a world's championship fight in the history of the ring. It was not a case of a man being put out by a clever or a lucky punch. In the first or second round it was a case of a plucky, determined fighter, who had no chance for a look in at any single instant of the fight.

Burns Never a Factor

There was no fraction of a second in all the fourteen rounds that could be called Burns'. So far as damage is concerned Burns never landed a blow. He never phased the black man. It was not Burns' fault, however. He tried every moment throughout the fight except when he was groggy. It was hopeless, preposterous, heroic. He was a glutton for punishment, and he bored in all the time, but a dewdrop in Sheol had more chance than he with the giant Negro.

In all justice it must be urged that Burns had no opportunity to show what he had in him. Johnson was too big, too able, too clever, too expert. He was impregnable. His long arms, his height, his cool seeing eyes, his timing and distancing, his footwork, and his splendid outsparring and equally splendid infighting kept Burns in trouble all the time.

CITY LEAGUE SCHEDULE DRAWN UP; FIRST GAMES WEEK FROM THURSDAY

At a meeting of the senior City League executive held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. the schedule for the season was adopted. As will be seen the League season opens a week from Thursday and will be closed on Thursday, February 4th, a double header being played every Thursday night. President C G Graham was in the chair and there were present Leo Quinn, Lakefield; W J Macnaral, Strathcona; J McNirn, West Ends; R Hall, Belmonts, and J Beanard, T.A.S.

F D Craig was elected secretary-treasurer of the League to succeed B T Huston, who had to resign the office owing to his departure from the city.

The secretary-treasurer was ordered to refund to the Rough Riders their entrance fee of $2 in view of their having dropped out of the league.

The following schedule was adopted:—

FIGHT ARRANGED FOR NEW YEAR'S NIGHT

New York, Dec. 28—Frankie Madden and Tommy Murphy have been finally matched to fight on New Years night after considerable haggling about the weight question. Madden has promised to make 133 pounds at six o'clock. Johnny White has succeeded in bringing the fight about and it promises to be a fast mill. Madden, fluaned with his recent victories believes he can knock Murphy out.

B. A. C. WON DOUBLE-HEADER; BEAT MIDGETS AND BELMONTS

To the tune of the "Campbells are Coming" and other Highland airs rendered by the Glee Club, the B A C's great Scotch trio, Bruce, McCrea and Campbell, jumped into the first division of the ten pin league last night at the P. B. C. by taking four games of their double header, two each from the Midgets and Belmonts thus tieing the last named club for sixth place in the league race. In their first engagement they met the Belmonts and by consistent work took the first two games, the losers with the exception of Pollard in the second game being decidedly off colour. In the third game, however, the Belmonts showed characteristic form and won out by over seventy pins, a margin that enabled them to show a larger pinnage for the evening than their opponents. Pollard, who is easily one of the best match bowlers in Peterborough, was high man with a total of 463, Bruce of the B A C was second.

In the second game the B A C's easily duplicated their earlier performance at their game with the Midgets, postponed from last week, taking the first two and losing the final game. A most peculiar feature of the last game was the fact that it was won by the Midgets on a foul committed by one of their own bowlers. Hanrahan had replaced Craig in this game and on his last frame fouled on a ball that left up an impossible split. When the pins were reset he got a spare and enough pins on the extra ball to give the Midgets the game.

In this game Ernie Bruce was again the best performer, running up a 200 score, in his first string and tieing with Pollard with 463 for the evening's high score. Campbell who was rolling his first game, created a most favourable impression.

To-night Hutch's team meet the Midgets and the Rams are counting on taking at least a couple of games. They have signed Gene Hartbise, the giant wrestler, and he will make his first appearance with the team to-night.

Last night's games follow—

HOCKEY TEAMS GOOD PRACTICE

Intermediates and Juniors Had a Practice Game Last Evening.

The best hockey practice of the season was held last evening, when there was a full line-up of seniors and juniors on the ice, and a lively practise game was played with Len Dobson as referee. The forward line of each team was worked against its own defence for a while and then the juniors and seniors had a go. The senior men out were Deropher, Glover, Parnell, Dusty, Seymour, McWilliams, Weatherstone and Rose, while the juniors out were L. Giroux, Fox Wade, Ray, C. Giroux, Hillier and Pentland. The boys are fast rounding into shape and will have another practice to-morrow night. The juniors have their first game in Wathy on New Year's night.

QUAKERS WIN THEIR FIRST GAME

Defeat Ackermans' in Exhibition Game at Brock Street Rink.

The Quaker Oats Hockey team defeated Ackerman's Leather Workers at the Brock Street Rink last night between ten and eleven o'clock. When the final gong had sounded the Quakers had kalsomined the leather men by six goals to nil. The Quakers lined up as follows: Goal, Callaghan; point, Fred Hyslop; cover point, Ira Moore; rover, Huard; centre, Bill Pratt; left wing, Gillman; right wing, Bellegbem. "Stan" Wade gave general satisfaction with the gong. The game was in the nature of a workout for the teams.

CURLING.

The games played at the curling rink last night were—

Webb, skip 14	Wightman, skip 20
Fitzgerald, skip 7	Hall, skip 12
Giroux, skip 7	Neill, skip 12

HOCKEY

An article on last night's sporting page is somewhat misleading. It stated that the "Belmont Club" met yesterday and appointed Mr. Robt. Hall manager." It would appear that the meeting had been held on Sunday, whereas the article had been written for Saturday's paper and referred to a meeting which had been held on Christmas Day when "Bobbie" was chosen manager. The article had been carried over to Monday's paper and had not been changed.

• • • •

All members of Knox Church Guild who intend to play hockey this winter are requested to be out for practise between 7 and 8 o'clock to-morrow night at Knox Rink. The juniors will practise on Thursday night.

• • • •

All members of the Y.M.C.A. interested in hockey are asked to be at the building to-morrow morning to arrange for teams for a game on New Year's day.

• • • •

The T. A. S. hockey team will practise to-night at the Brock Street Rink between 10 and 11 o'clock, when the following members are requested to be out: Callaghan, Hickey, Conroy, Gorham, Kennedy, Evans, Milloy, Hefferman, Coughlin, McFadden, Dercher, Galvin, Quinlan, Quigley, C. Giroux, Henry and Kelly.

The other members of the club, whose names are not mentioned here, are asked to be out on Saturday night. It has been found necessary to limit the number of men in this way, as there have been so many candidates out that it has been impossible to get full benefit of the practice hours.

The Stratheonas' City League team will practise to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock. The following players are expected out: Wilson, Barber, Roddy, Fox, Dusty, Long, Weatherstone, McMillan, Seymour, Ray and Dobson.

LECTURE ON CUSTOMS OF THE FAR EAST

Given in St. Andrew's Church Last Night by Returned Missionary.

The lecture given in St. Andrew's Church by Missionary Kennedy last night was a great success. Mr. Kennedy represents Queen's Missionary Society of Kingston, and has travelled in Palestine for the last four years, returning a short time ago to study medicine. He intends to return as soon as his course is finished, and may possibly be sent to Constantinople. He is a graduate of Queen's University, and was sent as a master to Bithynia College, in Asia Minor, travelling through the country during his holidays and other spare time with Professor Calander, who worked under Sir Wm. Ramsay, the only great authority on Asia Minor.

The proceeds of this lecture were to go towards the support of two boys, who are being educated in the Far East. The lecture was profusely illustrated with limelight views and was very interesting throughout, Mr. Kennedy telling many stories of the customs of the Turks and Jews of that far country, which were listened to with great interest by all present. He left here this morning for Lindsay, where it is hoped he will meet with greater succes than he did here.

ARTISTIC CALENDARS

Messrs. Sanderson & Co. have issued a rich and attractive calendar for 1909. The handsome features of a fashionably dressed young girl of this period is artistically portrayed in pleasing colourings, making the calendar much sought after by the firm's customers. The design is one of Hamilton King's.

Mr. M Pappas has shown his fastidious taste for the beautiful in the choice of a pretty calendar depicting a bright, gay lady in red, and representing "The Parisian Model." The execution of the calendar is good, and brings out in true costume and coquettish art, the characteristics of the smart beauties of gay Paree. This calendar is by Bryson.

It is the request of Storey & Simpson that all accounts owing them be paid before Jan. 1st 1909.

DEMAND FOR EMPLOYMENT OF HOME ARCHITECTS

"Citizen" Thinks We Should Not Go to United States for Public Library Plans.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Some time ago I noticed that a design for the proposed new library building had been submitted by an American firm of architects. I trust that the men in charge of the building of our new library, on the corner of George and McDonel streets—which is by all odds the most suitable site in the city—will not show such a lack of patriotism, or of faith in Canadian ability, as to go outside of Canada for an architect. We have architects in Canada, and in Peterborough too, thoroughly competent to design and carry out the building of a library which will be a credit to the city, and in proof of this assertion I need only point to our beautiful new Collegiate Institute.

ours truly,

Sometimes Help the Hair to go.

In any changeable climate the hair is apt to become brittle and to break off stubby here and there. This makes hair-dressing almost a necessity, especially to ladies. In using a hair-dressing why not get the best one that combines with it the efficiency in killing the dandruff germ, the germ that eats the hair off at the roots causing what is called fallout hair and in time baldness. Newbro's "Herpicide" is that kind of a hair dressing. You have no idea how delightful your scalp will feel, and how stylish your hair will appear, after an application of two of Herpicide. It is certainly a wonderful innovation as a scalp antiseptic and hair-dressing.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. McDermid and Jury, and 3 boxes for $1.25.

LOCAL MASONS FITTINGLY CELEBRATE THE CUSTOMARY FESTIVAL OF ST. JOHN'S NIGHT

Installation of Officers and Banquet in Masonic Hall Last Night—Many Bright Speeches Made and Occasion Was Notable One.

THOSE WHO FILL THE CHAIRS

"There is a line, more royal more majestic, than is the sceptred line of mighty crowns."—King Lear.

In accordance with their time honoured custom the members of Peterborough and Corinthian Lodges, A.F. and A.M., gathered in the Masonic Hall last evening to observe the festival of Saint John's Day, by the installation of officers, followed by the annual dinner and post prandial entertainment. It was indeed a red letter night for the members of the Craft who were present in large numbers for the occasion.

The function was a brilliant success in every sense of the word, and was pleasantly marked by the presence of the oldest Mason in Canada, if not in the whole world—Bro. Mantel, of Tilsonburg, who will be 100 years of age next May. Mr. Mantel is hale and hearty, and is the guest of his grandson-in-law, Mr. Edwards, of Cressman's departmental store. Despite his great age he responded to the toast of the visiting brethren in a vigorous after dinner speech, replete with humorous reminiscences and anecdote. While admitting to have passed successively through the stages of childhood and manhood, and on to childhood again, the distinguished and thrice-welcomed visitor displayed a degree of intellectual vigour worthy of many a younger man.

Another exceptionally interesting number was the response of Rt. Wor. Bro. H R H Kenner to the toast of "Canada," his learned address including an instructive review of the comparative histories of France and Britain as empire-building nations, together with Canada's marked advance in science, art, education and literature since the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, that glorious event so recently celebrated at Quebec. In education he thought Canada leads the world. The eloquent speaker left his audience with the thought that Canada has two futures to choose from—that of independence or that of Imperial federation. The former state he characterized as selfish, and the latter as generous and of world-wide influence.

Bro. (Rev.) J R Webb also gave an intellectual treat in his much appreciated lecture entitled "Some Principles of Masonry as exemplified by the life of St. John the Evangelist."

During the evening very acceptable vocal solos were rendered by Bro. W Mellroy, W Bro. Walter Stocker, Bro. H W Morphet and Bro. C M Bennett. W. Bro. John Crane officiated as accompanist in his customary talented manner.

The menu was served by Bro. T Hooper, who catered for the occasion in a style that called for the commendation of all present. V. Wor. Bro. D Spence made a very capable chairman of the banquet, at which he was strongly supported by Wor. Bro. W H Bradburn.

Barriers Prevented Jackson Park Toboggan Slide From Being Used

The difficulty between the management of the Radial Railway Company and the party who has a lease of the property through which the last part of the toboggan slide at Jackson Park runs, has not yet been settled, and a result the slide cannot be used. Both parties claim to have a lease for the property, and until the matter is threshed out the young people who were wont to indulge in the exhilarating pastime of tobogganing will have to seek some other place for the pursuit of their hobby. Last night, it is stated, that the gentleman who claims a lease of the property at the south end of the slide, placed a pile of ties across the slide at the beginning of the land claimed by him and thus prevented the slide being used. A large crowd had gone out to the park and they were unable to use the chutes after the first toboggans had gone into the barrier which, despite the protests of the management, was not removed.

THE BACHELORS' DANCE A SUCCESS

Most Enjoyable Affair in the Conservatory of Music Hall.

The dance under the auspices of the Bachelors of Peterborough in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night was a remarkable success, two features being the large attendance and the large number of visitors to the city that were present. Nearly every one seemed to have a visitor and they were all present at the dance. The floor was in excellent shape and the music which was provided by Frolick's orchestra from Toronto could not have been improved upon.

The hall was decorated for the occasion with flags and presented a most attractive appearance. Delightful refreshments had been provided for the occasion by Mr. T. H. Hooper, and these were served by the stewards. The light fantastic was tripped until an early hour.

The patrons of the most successful affair were Mrs. John Crane, Mrs. A. N. Montizambert, Mrs. J. A. Ardmer, Mrs. Peter Campbell, Mrs. W H Hill, Mrs. W. T. Hall, Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. T. A. S. Hay, Mrs. J. R. Stratton, and Mrs. Geo. Rubidge.

The Stewards were Messrs. W S Davidson, W. B. Snow, C. Rogers, A H. Mulhern, D. Davidson, W. E. Hillhouse, Dr A. W. MacPherson, G K Rackham, M. Moore, B. Gillespie, N. J. H. Brown, C. A. Barber, W. C. Ferguson, and C. B. Cameron, hon. sec.

Music and Drama

"AT THE GRAND"

A packed house greeted the Carl W. Cook Stock Company at their opening performance of a week's engagement at the Opera House last night. The piece presented was "Nature's Nobleman," a four act society comedy of Washington, D. C., life. The piece was well staged and every part was in most capable hands and every member of the cast did themselves credit. The costuming was of the best. Between the acts five specialties were offered, that made the performance continuous. They were all high class and a show within themselves. The Marvellous Vade, the feature of the vaudeville bill, presented an act in magic, juggling and balancing that was a headliner and brought forth a big encore. To-night the bill will be a new western drama, "Ranch 7-11," a story of the plains and one of the company's most pleasing bills. An entire change will be made in the vaudeville. Matinees will be given both New Year's day and Saturday afternoon.

A LARGE SHIPMENT OF COAL

Enormous Consignment of Coal Reported For C. G. E. Works.

Carloads of coal are being received almost daily just now at the C. G. E. Works, being part of a consignment which is reported to be of immense proportions. It was brought from Buffalo and unloaded in the yard of the company. It is learned that sometimes as many as ten carloads arrive, and a huge pile is being formed from which it is used as required.

BOTH TRY TO LAND THE COMPANY

Hamilton and Toronto After the Otis-Fensom Company.

Mayor Oliver, of Toronto, strongly favours that city selling the Otis-Fensom Elevator Company, of this city, twenty-two acres of land for $27,500. Some objection is being made because the price is thought to be too law. Mayor Oliver says the same objection gave Hamilton the smelting works. The company, if it goes to Toronto, will employ 500 men, later increasing the number to 1,000. The Board of Control is not unanimously in favour of the deal.—Hamilton Times.

This company is looking for a new location and it is apparently between these two cities as to who will get it.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

LACK OF TEAM WORK BEAT EDMONTON; WHITCROFT AND PATRICK THE STARS

Montreal Dec. 28— The opening game for the Stanley Cup was not exactly a love feast, as hockey brand of hockey served up was not of championship order. What the game lacked in team play and mid-season perfection was made up by hard, close checking and general rough-house tactics. The result of the game is to give the Wanderers a tighter hold on the silverware and to make its removal to Alberta's capital a remote and doubtful prospect.

Seven to three is the tale that has to be told. The half-time score was 3 to 2 in favour of the Edmonons, and for a time their followers had visions of the Stanley Cup adorning the western captial. In the second half the game was all Wanderers, and they had the westerners played out. The fault of the Edmonton team lay in poor team work. Individually they compared very favourably with the Wanderers, and with proper team work would make a championship team. As it was there was practically no team work. Every man took a rush when he felt like it, and while at times it made a spectacular showing, it did not get goals. For Edmonton, Lester Patrick was easily the star, and no mar on the ice had anything on him. Not only was he able to break up the rushes of Ross, but his own rushes were always dangerous. He was ably seconded by Whitcroft and altogether Edmonton's defence was very strong. In addition to their lack of team work the westerners were hardly in condition to stand the fast pace set at the outset.

The game started off with a rush with close hard checking. For awhile the westerners has the Wanderers going, but the fine staying qualities of the latter stood them in good stead. In the second half Edmonton did not score a goal, while the Wanderers continued to rain shots on the westerners' goal. Tom Phillips was hardly in form to-night and failed to play his usual brilliant game. Smith of the Wanderers was also somewhat off colour. While an aggressive hard worker his shooting was off to the bad and as a result he missed many chances to score. Both teams appeared to be somewhat nervous, and overanxious and offsides and penalties were frequent. Referee Bowie and Judge of Play Kirby were very strict and penalized every offence.

The general opinion is that the Wanderers team is the better, probably due more to their superior condition and their better team work. With proper rounding into shape Edmonton could work up a team that would equal anything in the country, but this rounding-up process will come too late to help them to lift the Stanley Cup.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

WEDDING BELLS

POLLARD—COVENEY

A very pretty and quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Pollard, Syndicate Avenue, when Miss Florence Coveney, of Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. Wm. E. Pollard, of this city.

The bride looked charming in an Empire gown of bisque eolienne with trimmings of lace and pale blue vevet, her only ornament being a sunburst of pearls, the gift of the groom.

The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Haydon, pastor of the Bpatist Church, in the presence of just the immediate relatives.

Congratulations over the party sat down to a dainty wedding breakfast, after which the happy couple left amid showers of rice and good wishes, for their new home on Fredericа street.—Fort William Daily Times-Journal.

SIMPSON—McGUIRE

On Wednesday last the wedding took place of Miss Mary Alice McGuire, of Penetanguishene, to Mr. John M. Simpson, principal of the Bobcaygeon Public School. Mr. Ben Simpson, of the staff of the Hamilton Collegiate Institute, was groomsman.

Local Vocalists Have Joined Operatic Company In Toronto

The two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Edwards, who recently went to Toronto, have joined an operatic Company formerly known as the Oriole Opera Company, but which will travel under a different name this year.

Miss Mae Edwards was well known as a soloist of the All Saints Church choir, and was greatly missed when she left to take her position in Toronto. Her voice which is very strong soprano, will be of great benefit to the chorus if indeed it does not raise her to the role of leading lady.

Mrs. Elliott, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, has also joined the same company. She has a very high soprano voice and was heard here in Peterborough but seldom, when she sang at concerts or evening parties. The company is to be congratulated on securing two such splendid voices, which are sure to do credit to the city.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles, trivial or serious and that is to tone up or put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction and in a short time it is able to do its work properly.

Harry Dodd, of Bridge street, Hastings, Ont., says: "For seven years I had suffered and spent much money doctoring, but all to no avail. I could eat but very little, as the food would ferment and sour, making gas, which caused serious heart depression. I was in constant misery, sour gas would belch from my stomach, I was languid and weak and had no ambition. I did not feel like going anywhere or seeing anyone. There was a constant dull pain in the pit of the stomach. I was unable to sleep, was nervous, restless and would awake more tired than on going to bed. I tried Mi-o-na and soon found relief, and in less than six weeks Mi-o-na had completely cured me.

Wm. Madill, the druggist, sells Mi-o-na tablets at 50 cents a large box, under a rigid guarantee to do all that is claimed for them or money back.

ENTERTAINED THEIR BIBLE CLASS

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Collier Were the Hosts of a Delightful Gathering Last Night.

The members of the Mispah Bible Class of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church were very pleasantly entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. B Collier at their residence, Weller street last evening. Some twenty young ladies were present and had a very enjoyable evening. The time passed very pleasantly in games and music and refreshments were served. During the evening some business in connection with the class including the election of officers took kplace. The gathering broke up at 12 o'clock after a most enjoyable evening in which the host and hostess did everything in their power to give the members of the class a good time.

ENNISMORE TO HAVE A CONTEST

Messrs. Young and Perdue are in the Field for Reeveship.

There will be a contest in Ennismore next Monday, both for the reeveship and council, and considerable interest is being taken in the fight among the people of the township. The nominations were held on Monday of this week and resulted as follows:

For Reeve—Messrs. Young and Perdue.

For Councillors—Messrs. Costello, O'Connor, Cavanagh, Harrington, T. H Crough, O'Reilly and W H Crough.

COOK COMPANY SCORE BIG HIT

Mr. Cook's Own Play, "Ranch 7-11," Was Enthusiastically Received Last Night.

A well filled house, greeted the Carl W Cook Stock Company at The Grand Opera House last night, when they presented, Mr. Cook's own play, "Ranch 7—11" a new story of the plains. The bill was as far different as could be from the offering of the night previous, but pleased equally as well. It gave the entire company a chance to show their versatility. An entire change was made in the vaudeville and some new and novel numbers were offered that pleased. To-night the bill will be Mr. Mark Swan's great story of life along the coast of Maine, "In His Power," a piece that has plenty of strong dramatic situations, tells a pretty story, Plenty of heart interest pathos, and good wholesome comedy. The Vaudeville will again be changed. Matinees will be given both New Year's and Saturday afternoons.

The officers of St. Peter's Y.A.S. and their wives were entertained last night by Mr. P Kane at his residence on Rubidge street. An enjoyable time was spent in games, music and a pleasant evening was the result.

TWENTY CANDIDATES START IN THE MUNICIPAL RACE WHICH PROMISES TO BE ONE OF CLOSEST

Eight Contestants for the Four Vacancies on School Board—Time is Near at Hand When Citizens Will Make Their Choice.

NINE NEW CONTESTANTS

Twenty candidates for the city council and eight for the Board of Education had filed the required qualifications with City Clerk Armstrong at nine o'clock last night, when the allotted time had closed.

Those who will stand for aldermanic honours are given as follows, with the members of last year's council mentioned first,—Wm. Fuller, W. G. Morrow, Robt. Neill, W. H. Bradburn Geo. E. Ellis , J. J. Turner, jr., Hy. Phelan, George A. Gillespie, Harry W Morgan, A. A. Mein yre Robert Hicks, Jas R. Metherel, Archie R. Moore, Jos. J. Duffus, W. H. G. Armstrong, George H. Duncan, James Bogue, John D. Craig, Alex. Gibson, and Andrew Brown.

For School Trustees

Of the ten who were nominated for the Board of Education two have dropped out and the following eight will stand for election—E. A. Morrison, B. F. Ackerman, Robt. Fair, W. S. Robinson, E. V. Frederick, M. McClelland, Wm. Medill and E. F. Mason.

Twelve of the twenty nominees for the council will be elected and four vacancies are to be filled on the Board of Education.

The first four of those mentioned above were on last year's Board.

There was some discussion among those who were assembled in the city building last night, when the prescribed time was concluded and the last name received. It was remarked that there would be likely a large vote polled on account of the many friends of the candidates. It was generally considered that the list was almost without exception a strong one and a close contest would likely be the result.

This Solder Does Not Stick; Neither Does The Peddler

A lady residing in the West End of the city has asked the Examiner to sound a note of warning to the house wives of Peterborough in connection with the visits from door to door of a certain individual who pretends to be conferring a boon upon humanity in the shape of a solder that is supposed to be perfect in its results. He has been successful in disposing of a large quantity of the article in question and in leaving is careful to state that the article to be soldered must be left for several days to allow the solder to harden. The Examiner's informant states that the solder is as soft as putty and is useless, while there have been no signs of a return visit from the peddler.

Dry Goods And Clothing Stores Will Close At Ten On Saturdays

Commencing next Saturday night the local clothiers will close their stores at ten o'clock, and will continue to do so. This was decided some time ago and those who have been in the habit of shopping late will see to it that they procure their necessities earlier than in the past. This change will not affect some of the stores for they have been accustomed to closing at the hour of ten, but there are many who remained open before midnight until the last straggler had wended his way homeward and the streets were appearing deserted and lonely.

It is not known what action the other merchants will take. The most of them try to get away shortly after ten o'clock if possible. It is a business axiom that there is no money in turning away customers. The change will be appreciated by the clerks who have been used to late hours.

Contest In North Monaghan; Seven Candidates Running

There will be an election in North Monaghan this year and considerable interest is being taken in the contest for the council, as there are seven candidates in the field. The race promises to be exceptionally hot. All the old council which was composed of W C Bowden, Geo. H May, E A Dobbins, and H J Forster, is in the field, and the new candidates are Walter McKee, Jas. Morrow and John F Clarke. All are well known and the contest is likely to arouse much interest in the township.

Switchboards From Former Local Office In Lindsay's New Service

The Bell Telephone System in Lindsay has recently undergone a change similar to that which occurred in Peterborough last winter, and have besides enlarged the capacity. There are two local and three longdistance switchboards in the Lindsay service now and these were used in the old office that was situated on George street.

New Year's Reception At Y.M.C.A.; Cordial Invitation Extended

The Board of Directors and Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will be "At Home" to the members and subscribers and their lady and gentleman friends on New Year's Day, between the hours of 2.30 and 5.30 p.m. The arrangements have been completed for the affair, which promises to be most successful, and a very enjoyable time may be expected, as no effort that will tend to make the occasion a notable one, is being spared. There will be a musical programme and refreshments will be served during the afternoon, while the guests will have an opportunity of inspecting the handsome building and its fittings. It is hoped that this invitation will be accepted by a large number of citizens, who will find that they can pass New Year's afternoon very profitably as the guests of the Y. M. C. A.

In the morning the building will be thrown open to the boys of the city, who are cordially invited to come and make use of all the privileges of the association.

Father Fitzpatrick Thrown From Sleigh And Injured

While driving into Peterborough on Monday afternoon, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick was thrown from his cutter on the road, north of the bridge, and seriously injured. He had taken the east road from the cross and was driving west towards the bridge when his team suddenly became frightened at something and ran away.

Father Fitzpatrick was bruised and cut about the head. He was assisted by neighbours, who took him to his home where he is confined to bed. The horses were stopped about a mile farther west.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick's many friends sincerely hope that he will be around in a short time.

THE ITALIAN HORROR.

Words are utterly inadequate to express the horror and extent of the character of the earthquake catastrophe which overwhelmed Calabria and Sicily, the sections of Italy destroyed by earthquake. Imagination only can faintly picture the dreadful intensity and sweep of a cataclysm which has swallowed up in a few moments a population one hundred times greater than that of the city of Peterborough. The death roll is estimated to reach between 100,000 and 175,000 names. There has been correspondingly destruction of property and obliteration of dwellings and the suffering of the survivors will be widespread and intense. The Italian earthquake will go down in history as one of the greatest, if not the greatest seismic horrors of which there is record. From proximity we got a better idea of the San Francisco earthquake of April, 1906, in which only a thousand lives were directly lost. One can only compare the suffering when 100,000 or 150,000 lives are involved, can only dimly picture the horror of a scene where thousands of dwellings are shaken into ruins, burying their inmates, and where those who are not killed outright are burned to death in the succeeding flames. The suffering of our fellow men and women and children in Italy strongly appeals to the practical sympathy of all our people, and it is hoped that measures to send relief from Peterborough and all the rest of Canada will speedily be adopted.

Since the twelfth century—1137, earthquakes have destroyed 532,600 lives, accepting 150,000 as the total death roll of last Monday.

FINANCIAL CRITICISM.

It is understood from hints thrown out by the Conservative press that the line of attack to be assumed by the Opposition next session of Parliament will be an arraignment of the financial policy and administration of the government. Of course, Mr. Foster will lead the criticising cohorts, but the memory of the people is not so short as to permit them to forget that Mr. Foster was, in his day, one of the most reckless finance ministers the country ever had. They will remember that his financial ability consists largely in the faculty of finding fault—of telling how things should be done, but not in doing them. They have only to compare the Fosterian era of deficits, the millions added to the public debt with Mr. Foster at the helm of finance, with the regime of Mr. Fielding, to appreciate the contrast. The burden of debt imposed by Mr. Foster has been a hampering circumstance to the present government, with comparatively little to show from the obligations so incurred and necessary to meet. In the twelve years during which Mr. Foster, as Conservative finance minister, reigned, the total ordinary public expenditure exceeded the total revenue by $4,984,902. In the twelve years of Liberal administration the total revenue exceeded the total ordinary expenditure by the great sum of $113,039,106. Otherwise expressed, the average annual surplus in the twelve year period—nine and one-quarter millions per year—was twice as great as the deficit total of four millions odd under Mr. Foster's brilliant management.

No one will deny that there has been liberal expenditure under Liberal administration, and no one will deny that, in the main, it has been judicious, justifiable, defensible. It has been liberal expenditure in a double sense—Liberal because made by a Liberal Government, and Liberal in that it was incurred on Liberal principles—to meet the demands of a progressive policy, to provide means for national development and growth. As the country grew; as, under a vigorous Liberal immigration policy, settlement seized upon and population occupied new areas; as immensely enlarged production demanded increased transportation facilities; as demands for improved means of communication with our best market, the British market, became resistlessly exigeant, the government had to respond. The increasing commerce of the west, both outward and inward, called for improvement of our internal waterways and general improvement of transportation facilities. The enlargement of our canals, the continued construction of the Trent Valley Canal, the deepening of the St. Lawrence channel, the improvement of the harbours of our seaport metropolis, Montreal, and a thousand other allied improvements, and the construction of another transcontinental railway, were all indispensable wheels in the machinery of our national development. All these things cost money, and called for the liberal expenditure of public money, justified, both on the score of national necessity and on the score of having the money with which to do the work. Under Liberal rule we have had unexampled prosperity. When the Liberal party took power in 1896 the annual revenue was thirty-six millions of dollars. Under reduced rates of customs' taxation, with improved trade, increased prosperity, the revenue swelled each year under Liberal rule, until last fiscal year it reached ninety-six millions—nearly three times greater than a dozen years previous.

It is the duty of the Opposition to closely criticise the expenditures of the government. It is a pleasure to know that Mr. Fielding's record will stand the severest fair criticism.

The eighteen months' old Lemieux Act is receiving many compliments as to its effectiveness in the adjustment of the conflicting interests of labour and capital.

CANADA'S GREAT GOLD MINE.

Canada's harvest, in 1908, was worth 432 millions of dollars, enough to pay the national debt of 263 millions and leave a balance large enough to build the government section of the Grand Trunk Pacific, 1,800 miles, at the generous figure of $75,000 per mile, and have 94 millions left to deepen the Welland Canal to twenty-two feet, to complete the Trent Canal and build a wharf on the front of the city property from the "Quaker Oats" building to the C. P. R. bridge. Or, to put it another way, the balance after paying the national debt—169 millions—divided equally would give $26 to every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Last year's crop of 432 millions of dollars was five times greater than the whole mineral production of Canada in 1907. It could provide paid-up capital for four and one-quarter more chartered banks than we have in all Canada. The total bank note circulation of all our chartered banks would have to be increased six and one-half times to pay for the crop of 1908. The value of the soil crop of Canada for 1908 was three times greater than the gross earnings of the 22,000 miles of Canadian railways in 1907. The soil crop value—432 millions dollars—of Canada would pay for the total Canadian exports of 1907, the products of our mines, of our forests, of our fisheries, of our animals and our manufacturing establishments, and leave a balance sufficient to pay a year's wages to every man, woman and child employed in all the manufacturing establishments of the Dominion of Canada. The farm is the great source of riches and the farming guild gilds the land with wealth. Therefore "stick to the farm" is not bad advice to give the farmers' boys and girls. It is a bank that never stops payment.

The interest paid on the national debt of Canada in 1871 was $5,165,304, in 1901 it was $10,807,955, and in 1906 it had fallen to $6,712,771.

GRAFT IN THE KITCHEN.

All the graft is not confined to Government and Municipal departments. The evil seems to have fairly well permeated all classes of society. A complaint made to a New York newspaper by a butcher that he was the victim of grafting cooks employed by the well-to-do customers prompted an investigation that led to astonishing results. Practically it may be said as a consequence of the investigation that every householder who entrusts the purchases of food supplies to his servants has to pay the graft levied by these people upon the merchants with whom they deal.

Some dealers have at different times made efforts to break away from the custom, but unsuccessfully. The cook is too powerful. Denied her commission, she can very easily render the meat supplied by the butcher unsatisfactory. It is not a good thing to place meat under a hot water tap just previous to cooking it, and the cook knows it. She also knows other ways of attaining the same end and she utilizes them, so that the butcher is apt to lose this customer through no fault of his own.

It is true that he can appeal to the customer and tell him why he is getting poor results; but what is the use? When a man is fortunate enough to secure a good cook he thanks twice about summarily dismissing her.

Butchers asked their experience in this regard produced letters from their customers. One man wrote that it was easier for him to pay the 5 per cent. commission demanded by his cook than to find another as satisfactory, so would the butcher kindly add the 5 per cent. to his bill. That is the way of it. There is so much interior service offered that when a man who has money is lucky enough to find competent household help he is willing to pay much more than the market price for it—almost anything in fact—rather than have his domestic peace disturbed.

WHERE SAVAGES BEAT US

The rude, uncultured savage did not sit most of the day in a padded office chair, a carriage or car. His food was not prepared by a chef. He had to hunt for something to eat. And dinner, when he got it, was none too rich.

But the rude, uncultured savage did not suffer from indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, as we civilized beings do. Exercise and the amount of fruit and fresh vegetables in his diet, kept liver, bowels and kidneys working right.

None of us want to go back to the days of wigwams and tomahawks but a lot of us certainly would like to have the digestion of the savages.

We can, by taking "Fruit-a-tives." "Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and skin, and keep these organs in perfect condition. "Fruit-a-tives" bring back lost appetite and sound digestion to the Dyspeptic—regulate the bowels of those who suffer from Constipation — and build up the whole system. Trial size 25c. Regular size 50c, or 6 for $2.50.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

To-day a letter addressed to the "leading minister," was placed in the post office box of a resident clergyman. The envelope contained a mass of closely typed matter relating to the 'second coming." The writer, a Toronto dentist,, has in the professional process of pulling the "wisdom" teeth of patients for years, perhaps drawn more than his share of wisdom from the mouths of the public. Anyway he claims that "the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob has commissioned him to declare the end of the world forty-five years from December 12th, 1908." So we have till 1953 to get our change ready for ferryman, Charon.

On Tuesday evening, December 22nd, the pupils and teacher of S. S., No 8, Douro, entertained the parents and others in the section.

The children presented their teacher with a handsome lamp, accompanied by the following address: Miss Josie Condon, Douro, Ont.

Dear Teacher,—We, the pupils of S. S. No. 8, Douro, take this opportunity to make a few remarks to you.

However, rest assured that your labour has not been in vain, for in you we recognize a devoted teacher and constant friend.

Although we know that when we enter our class room next year, you will not be here to greet us with a pleasant "good morning," and your kind disposition, which made our school life a pleasure, we are pleased to learn that you are not going far from us, and we may often have the pleasure of seeing you.

In recognition of your untiring zeal on our behalf, and the many noble qualities which you possess, and which claim for you a warm place in our affection, we beg of you to accept this lamp, not at all for its intrinsic value, but to try in some way to show the esteem in which you are held by us, your pupils.

Wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

Signed on behalf of the school.

CHIEF MALONE HAS BEEN ARRAIGNED

Chief of Police at Simcoe Sent For Trial at Assizes.

WILKINS TELLS OF CRIMES

Victim of Shooting Goes on Stand and Gives List of Fires Started and Places Robbed by His Superior—Was Afraid of Malone, Who Had Threatened to Kill Him—May Plead Insanity.

Simcoe, Dec. 30.—Ex-Chief of Police A. W. Malone was committed for trial at the Assizes in February by Magistrate John Beemer yesterday afternoon on a charge of attempting to murder Constable Wm. Wilkins in Lynwood Park shortly after midnight Dec. 1.

When the magistrate announced his intention of sending the accused up for trial a decided murmur of approval swept over the 1,500 spectators.

But the real climax was reached when, after Mr. Kelly had entered another impressed plea for bail on the ground that Constable Wilkins, who laid the charge, was admittedly a thief and as deserving of being locked up as the prisoner, the venerable magistrate refused. Thunderous cheering and applause shook the auditorium as the vast crowd gave vent to its long pent up feelings. It was fully five minutes before order was restored.

Never was so much interest evinced in a trial here. For hours before the court house opened the steps and lawn weres warming with eager people. Rigs drove in from every direction, some coming 20 miles. Many families brought lunch and remained in the building through the noon intermission in order to be assured of standing room.

Defence Counsel Kelly did not call any witnesses, and it is hinted that in the failure to balk a committal he may plead insanity of the "dementia paresis" species on behalf of his witness.

Wilkins was pale, and showed the effects of his painful experience, from which he has not fully recovered. His left eye was covered with a white patch. The sight is gone.

Briefly he rehearsed the story in what was thought to be his anti-mortem statement while in the sanitarium on Dec. 1. He further told of two robberies and several fires in which both he and Malone were implicated and assigned a motive for the shooting to the fact that Malone was afraid of him because he "knew too much" and that "dead men tell no tales."

In fact, he declared that it was Malone who did all the thieving, the holding-up of fakirs at the county fair for hush money on threats of arrest and the ignition of several buildings, including Madden's fire June 16, the race track barn Sept. 10, Assistant Crown Attorney Agar's barn, West & Peachey's boiler house and Schuyler's cellar.

Wilkins disclaimed any belief that himself was guilty of theft, so long as the plunder was given to him second hand. The best that the attorney for the defence could get from him was: 'He did it and I was there."

As the regular night duty man, it was Wilkin's duty to enter all occurrences in a book, and this volume was produced. Witness admitted that all the details of the above depredations, which were skilfully disguised so as to look quite natural, were penned by his hand; but he insisted that Malone dictated them to him. He practically had to do everything Malone told him to do, "because," he faltered, "I was afraid of him."

He said that Malone had fired Agar's barn while he was standing near, in order to get even for an unpaid bill for $5 for getting out an affidavit in a horse-stealing case.

Witness said that on one occasion when he expressed some fear of discovery if these pilferings kept up, the chief said to him: "Keep your mouth shut. Don't let anyone pump you. If you do your life won't be worth a candle."

JUDGE FRANK SMITH IS ALL RIGHT

It Was Not the Buffalo Horseman Who Was Involved in Last Week's Tragedy.

The Toronto Star says:—When it was reported that Judge Frank Smith, the starter, was the victim of a tragedy in Detroit, there was a general wave of disappointment among the horsemen, but it develops that the report sent out was an erroneous one, and that Smith is alive and well at his Buffalo home, and will be on hand to send the horses away on Friday at Dufferin Park. The man they thought was Smith, and who was supposed to have shot a woman, and then killed himself was a Pole with a name almost unpronounceable, who had changed it to Smith for convenience. Secretary Eddie Baker was in communication with Smith at Buffalo yesterday, and he said he would be on hand a day before the meeting opens.

REUNION AT HOME OF MR. AND MRS. T. PETRIE

Pleasant Affair Was Spent on Christmas Day.

Christmas Day was very pleasantly spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Petrie, Otonabee, where a reception was given to his sister, Mrs. J. B. Girven and son Arthur of Kinbrae, Minnesota.

The members of the family present were Mr. and Mrs. Petrie, Sen. her aged parents, Mrs. W. Girven, Otonabee, Mrs. Shannon, city, Mrs. Crawford, Toronto. Amongst others present were Mr. W. Girven, Mr and Mrs. Kruger, City, Mrs. Cober, Kirkmount Mr. and Mrs J. Girven, city.

During the afternoon and evening the company were entertained with music and the songs of their youth, recitations were given by the younger members of the company.

Supper was served at eight o'clock and after an hour spent in social enjoyment, Auld Lang Syne was sung and all prepared to go to their homes feeling that they had spent a very pleasant evening.

CURE IT IN ONE DAY

Coughs and Colds Disappear Like Magic When Hyomei is Used.

If the thousands of people who suffer from hacking coughs and agonizing colds would arouse themselves sufficiently to follow this advice, they would cease to complain within 24 hours.

Here is the advice, if you take it and you are afterwards sorry that you did, it won't cost you a penny.

Go to Wm. Madill, the druggist, and purchase from him a Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit. It will only cost you $1.00. Take it home; use it according to directions and if it does not cure your cough or cold, take it back and he will refund the purchase price.

Mr. I. Coon, of John street, Actop, Ont., says: "I had a swelling come near my eyes which was caused by the catarrhal condition. I had to cough up the bad impurities that dropped into my throat, and it felt as if a hard cold had attacked me, right in my head, nose and glands near. A week's treatment of Hyomei overcame my trouble. I am glad to endorse Hyomei."

When you use Hyomei you don't swallow nauseating drugs. You simply breathe in the soothing, pleasant and antiseptic Hyomei air through the little pocket inhaler that comes with each outfit. As this medicated air passes over the inflamed parts, relief comes almost at once and cure follows.

Hyomei is also guaranteed by Wm. Madill to cure catarrh croup, grip and asthma.

RELATION OF SUN SPOTS TO EARTHQUAKE THROES

Italian Catastrophe Confirms Theory of Inter-Relation of These Phenomena

Yesterday Dr. Marsh, while "telescoping" the sun, noticed two large areas of violent disturbance of the photospheen, one on the eastern limb and the other on the western. The effect of these juxtaposed centres of photospheric currents creathe a powerful magnetic fluid in the intervening space. This magnetic condition co-incidently affects the earth, with the result that we have severe terrestial magnetic influences disturbing the poise of the needle of the mariner's and other compasses, and after exhibited in the form of auroral displays, and seismic upheavals.

Astronomers have noticed that these double disturbances in the solar surface and the reflex magnetic conditions develoed on the earth have a fairly constant relation to earthquakes. For some time records have been kept in order to furnish data for test of the theory. Dr. Marsh on Monday on noticing the sun disturbances on the respective eastern and western limbs of the sun, communicated with some of his astronomical friends and suggested the probability of serious magnetic disturbances or earthquakes. As if in confirmatio of the theory that the sun disturbances mentioned have a distinct relation to seismic manifestations, the terrible earthquake in Italy was in progress about the time of the observation of the disturbances. Neither in the material nor moral world does there seem to be such a thing as independent influence. There is perpetual interrelation and reaction between the heavenly bodies and the earth and between the moral forces of mankind.

THE LUBRICATOR COMPANY'S MACHINERY ARRIVES FOR THE NEW FACTORY IN EAST CITY

Great credit is due the Peterborough Lubricator Manufacturing Co., for the marvellous rapidity they have made in getting their machinery placed for the manufacture of the automatic compressed air grease cups of which they have the patent right for the Dominion of Canada. Their machinery is all of the latest design some of the machines having to be specially made for the company.

The two last machines ordered are now on the way, consisting of two large presses which are used in pressing out the steel parts of the cup. One of these machines is well worth a trip to the factory to see in operation, when Mr. Pennington, the efficient superintendent, will gladly show how the machine will handle a flat piece of cold steel like a child would a toy and a fully shaped cup is produced in a moment of time.

Great pressure is required to do this work, one of these machines having a crushing pressure when the two parts come together of 60,000 pounds.

Very much credit is due the Managing Director, Mr. Boerema, as he has been untiring in his efforts to push everything to a successful finish. Owing to the large amount of orders to be placed in the city of Toronto alone. The President and Board of Directors found it advisable to open up a sales department and demonstrating office at 12. Bay st., where they have secured spacious offices on the ground floor.

The success of the company is assured and it will be doubt be one of the best dividend paying concerns in the Dominion. Orders are continually pouring in which will require the factory running overtime from the very start, which at once goes to show how much the article is appreciated. In our interview with the president Mr. Wm. Haraton, it is needless to say he is more than delighted with the prospects of the new company.

Another Addition To The Library Of St. Peter's T.A.S.

Nearly Two Hundred New Volumes of Standard Literature Have Arrived—Ladies' Parlour Has Been Handsomely Furnished.

AN ILLUMINATED SIGN

Another addition is being made to the already well-stocked library in connection with St. Peter's T. A. S. From time to time careful selections of new books are being made, with the result that a large number of splendid works are to be found on the shelves. Books are found under nearly every classification in a modern library, and the plan of the society to continually increase the number, has been responsible for the splendid condition which now exists. Between one hundred and fifty and two hundred volumes constitute the latest addition, which has just arrived at the local customs office. They were carefully selected, are well bound and will be a decided improvement. Rev. D. O'Brien, who has given special attention to the library and reading room, was largely responsible for the choice of the works, which possess literary value that will benefit their readers.

Formerly a fee was imposed for the privileges of the library, but some months ago this was removed, with the result that all the members enjoy the use of the books, the only cost being the monthly membership fee.

The Ladie's Parlour

The ladies' parlour is now the finest room in the building. It has been thoroughly repaired and is as comfortably and handsomely furnished as any club room in the city. A noticeable feature is the taste that is evident in the choice of the wall paper, carpet, chairs, electric fixtures and pictures. A number of the ladies selected the furnishings which gives the room a homelike and appealing appearance.

There are women's magazines, periodicals and papers found on the reading tables and everything has been provided for the comfort of the lady members of the society.

Annual Concert

The entertainment which will mark the ninth anniversary of the foundation of St. Peter's T. A. S. will be held on January 8th, and promises to be an unusually enjoyable event. A feature will be an illustrated lecture by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. Further particulars will be given later.

An Illuminated Sign

An illuminated sign will be hung over the George street entrance, as provided by a recent decision of the Board of Trustees.

Poultrymen Are Enthusiastic; Bright Prospects For Show

The outlook for the big poultry show in the Market building next week under the auspices of the Peterborough Poultry Association are very bright, judging from the large and enthusiastic attendance at the meeting of the Association held last night in the Bank of Montreal Chambers for the purpose of making final arrangements for the show. About forty enthusiastic poultry fanciers were in attendance and they entered into the work with a vim that presages a most successful undertaking. All arrangements for the show were completed, committees appointed and everything is in readiness. Already nearly 100 entries have been received and the indications point to 1,000 birds being shown.

The farmers of the surrounding country are taking an active interest in the undertaking and rightly too, as the poultry department should be a leading feature in farm work. The farmers should make it a point to attend next week's event as it cannot fail to be of profit to them. Mr. Geo. Putnam, the superintendent of the Institutes branch of the Department of Agriculture has arranged to have Miss Mary Yates, one of the lecturers in connection with the Department, visit Peterborough on Jan. 6th, the second day of the show, and give lectures in the afternoon and evening on subjects of interest to poultrymen. This feature alone should insure the success of the show. It is expected that there will be large contingents from the surrounding districts on Jan. 5th, 6th and 7th, the three days of what promises to be by far the most successful affair of its kind that has ever been held in Peterborough.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S. AT CHURCH

Will Receive Holy Communion in a Body on Sunday Next.

Next Sunday the members of St. Peter's T. A. S. will receive holy communion in a body at the 8 o'clock mass. They will assemble at 7.45 in the basement of St. Peter's school and will march to the church where they will occupy the centre seats in the body of the church. A large turnout will likely be witnessed as this is the ninth Christmas time when the society has attended in a body.

FAMILY REUNION LAST NIGHT

At the Home of Mr. Wm. Kemp, Bethune Street.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mr. Wm. Kemp, 548 Bethune street, last evening when the family gathered for another occasion. The guests were Mrs. John Kemp, the mother, a resident of Douro. Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp of Otonabee, Mr and Mrs. Ed. Kemp and son of Douro; Mr and Mrs Lance Kemp and family of Douro; Mr. and Mrs. T. Kemp of Douro, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, of East City and Mr. W. J. Kemp, of Sarnia, who is spending his holidays in Peterborough. Supper was served at 8 o'clock and the party broke up at midnight after a most pleasant evening.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT THE PAVEMENTS

One Citizen Says That the Snow Should Be Left on Sidewalk.

"Carlyle is right, men are mostly 'fools,' remarked a well known citizen, as he made his way into the Examiner sanctum this morning, with ire in his eye, and when asked for an explanation said that no one but an idot would clean the snow off the pavements and leave them bare in the event of a thaw. He complained that it was utterly impossible to walk upon the pavements in some spots today and that he had been compelled to walk in the road with many other citizens in the same predicament. The citizen thought that it would be a far better policy to leave the snow on the pavements pointing out that it made good walking when tramped down, and that it was not so dangerour in the event of a thaw.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

THE ST. ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT WAS A SUCCESS

One of the most successful entertainments that has been held in St. Andrew's school room for the past twelve years was the annual tea and programme of the Sunday school last night. Unlike other years all the departments combined and the result proved very enjoyable both from the point of attendance, interest and character of the entertainment. A big crowd was present, and the children were out en masse. Supper was served from 5.30 until 7.30 o'clock, and this was followed by a half hour of play for the children. At eight o'clock the programme was started and it consisted of a chorus by the primary and kindergarten department. Miss Billings of Auburn, gave "The New Church Organ," as a recitation, and the Mandolin Club rendered several selections.

The cantata "The Wait's Christmas," was presented by the children in a manner which showed very careful and thorough training as well as talent. Miss Bella King is responsible for the training of the youngsters. Miss Ethel Tully assisted her at the piano.

The programme was followed by the Christmas tree and the distribution of presents to the primary and kindergarten classes.

Rev. J G Potter read the list of prize winners. Prizes were awarded for attendance at Sunday School, and for the highest percentage of marks. A number of prizes were also donated by the session for attendance at church.

There were 20 prizes for those receiving over 85 par cent.; 20 prizes for over 75 per cent., and 20 prizes for over 65 per cent.

Miss Jessie Stevens and Miss Laura Grant won Mr. C & McClelland's general proficiency prize.

Victor Thorndike received a special prize as he was at Sunday School 52 Sundays during the year.

The prizes were presented by Mr. R. Lees and at the close Rev. Mr. Potter expressed appreciation to those who had taken part in the programme, and who assisted in making the evening so pleasant.

Five Young Ladies Received Into Sisterhood Of St. Joseph

Impressive Ceremony at Mount St. Joseph This Morning—Postulants Become Novices—Ceremony Performed by Bishop O'Connor—Many Witnessed the Event.

SERMON BY FR. DOWDALL

The reception of five young ladies into the Sisterhood of St. Joseph constituted a very impressive and interesting ceremony, performed by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, in the chapel at Mount St. Joseph this morning.

The names of the young ladies are given as follows, with the names they will bear hereafter in their religious life:

Miss Mary Hamilton, Eganville, Ont.; Sister Sylvester.

Miss Sarah O'Neill, of Shanoway, Cork County, Ireland; Sister St. Felix.

Miss Elizabeth McNulty, of Douglas, Ont.; Sister Margaret.

Miss Elizabeth Guinea, of Montreal; Sister Mary Leona.

Miss Blanche Coutourier, of North Bay; Sister Mary Antoine.

Their First Step

These young ladies have been on probation for some months and took their first step, which is the reception of the holy habit. Two years from now they will make their final vows, the concluding step to the sisterhood.

High mass was celebrated in the chapel by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and the following members of the clergy were present: Rev. Father Dowdall, of Eganville; Rev. Father McColl. Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Rev. Father Kelly, Rev. Father Hurley, of St. Basil's, Toronto, and Rev. Father McGuire, of the Oblate Order of Ottawa. There were also a large number of the friends and relatives of the novices, who had come from the respective towns to witness the ceremony. The music during the mass was sung by the Sisters' choir of Mount St. Joseph. The chapel, which was appropriately ornate for the occasion, was crowded.

During the past week the five young ladies were on a retreat, which was preached by Rev. Dr. O'Brien.

The Sermon

During the mass Rev. Father Dowdall, D.D., of Eganville, preached a special sermon from the text, "What will it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his own soul." It was an eloquent discourse upon the responsibilities of the young woman who enters the Sisterhood and also emphasized the sacrifice which had to be made. God had placed His people on this earth that they might save their own sould. The young ladies might do this in their lives with the rest of the world, but by their call to the religious life He had chosen them to be nearer Him for their salvation, for caring for the sick and poor, and teaching the ignorant. Rev. Father Dowdall portrayed the beauty of the religious life, and throughout his sermon uttered words of good advice that would be of assistance to the novices.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor also addressed them.

SHERIFF HALL GIVES LECTURE

Spoke on the English Language at Knox Church on Monday.

The Knox Church Young People's Society held a literary evening on Monday night when Sheriff Hall gave a very interesting lecture on the subject, "English, and how it is Spoken." He pointed out the unnecessary use of profane language of those in positions of authority. Those under them hearing the slang uttered would of course learn to use the same. The speaker, referred to writers of poems, etc., that put these words in, that would not aid them any, to make the poem, etc., strengthened in its expression, in fact it showed a weakness in speech. Mr. Hall regretted very much the free use of these blasphemous phrases on the lips of boys of the school age. It was urged upon those present to do what they could to put a stop to this habit. The lecture was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A COWBOY GIRL

Clever Sue Marshall will be with us soon at the head of the new Kilroy and Britton melodramatic, comique musical show called, "The Cowboy Girl". Miss Marshall is a bright and talented little woman and associated with her in the musical success are her Funky Broncos". A name given the chorus of vivacious soubrettes who dance, sing, look pretty and represent a superb ensemble of fetching show girls. The dramatic part of "A Cowboy Girl" is of the better sort and though the play possesses several rather sensational scenes, yet they could not be termed lurid and are relieved by the comedy element and catchy special musical numbers. Among the original song hits that were written for the play are the following— The Life of a Cowboy Girl," "All the World's in Love," "He Treated Me Polite," "No Fool like an Old Fool" "Whittling", "The Boston Tourist Girls," "Four Bad Men from Arizona", etc.

"The Cowboy Girl" is from the prolific pen of Lem B. Parker, who has long since won an enviable reputation as a playwright of popular successes. The music is of the whistling kind and was composed by W. R. Williams who is noted for tunes that possess a happy swing.

Kilroy and Britton are presenting "The Cowboy Girl" with an extravagant scenic display, a full dramatic company, comedians of ability and a chorus of attractive girls who lend life and pleasing atmosphere to the production. "The Cowboy Girl" is a big hit from curtain to curtain and decidedly the newest thing in modern theatricals and will be seen at the Grand next Monday, January 4th.

One of the funniest stunts that has been done with any theatrical company this year is the really comical character quartette skit called "Four Bad Men from Arizona" which introduces one of the best comedy singing quartettes entour. They amuse, wear funny makeups, and they can sing. This is but one of the few features with the new play 'The Cowboy Girl.'

100,000 PEOPLE ARE SLAIN

Southern Italian and Sicilian Cities Are Annihilated.

MESSINA A MASS OF RUINS

Flames Supplement Devastation of Earthquake and Tidal Wave and Thousands Are Roasted to Death —Panic Is Widespread and Looters Are Being Shot on Sight— Pestilence Is Now Dreaded.

Rome, Dec. 30.—One hundred thousand dead; Messina, in Sicily, and Reggio, and a score of other towns in Southern Italy overwhelmed; the entire Calabrian region laid waste. This is the earthquake's record so far as it is at present known from the reports that are coming slowly into Rome on account of the almost complete destruction of lines of communication to the stricken places.

The death list in Messina ranges from 12,000 to 50,000; that of Reggio, with its adjacent villages, numbered 45,000 people, includes almost the entire population. At Palmi 1,000 are reported dead; at Cassano, 1,800; at Cosenza, 500; and half of the population of Bagnara, about 4,000.

The Monte Leone region has been devastated, and Bipesta, Sambiase, San Giovanni, Scilla, Pizzaro and Cannitelle, and all other communes and villages bordering on the straits are in ruins.

The King and Queen of Italy are now on their way to Messina, having sailed last night from Naples, aboard the battleship Vittorio Emanuela. The Pope has shown the greatest distress at the calamity, and he himself was the first to contribute, a sum amounting to $300,000, to the relief of the afflicted. British, French and Russian warships are steaming towards the south, and already several of the ships of Great Britain and Russia have reached Sicily. Officers and men of these ships have performed heroic services in the work of rescue.

It is feared that many foreigners have been killed, as a number of the hotels at Messina, and doubtless at other places, were crowded with tourists. Little is known of the fate of the diplomatic representatives of the foreign powers stationed at these posts, although the Italian Government is using every effort to relieve the anxiety felt on their account.

Pestilence Is Feared.

There is the gravest danger that a pestilence will follow the destruction of the towns, where, on account of the vast havoc wrought, bodies will lie buried for days and weeks. Those who escaped death, many of whom are badly injured, are making their way by the thousands to the nearest place of refuge. Their sufferings even now must be intense, as they are without food or clothing.

Stunned at the magnitude of the calamity which has overtaken fellow-countrymen, all Italy mourns to-night for the stricken Province of Calabria and the Island of Sicily.

Accustomed for centuries to earthquakes, Italy stands ever in dread, but none was prepared for the disaster which in the fraction of a minute Monday devastated cities and towns and caused the death of thousands.

Messina, whose tragic history has been marked by tidal waves and war and which was the centre of Monday's torrential maelstrom, was shaken to ruins. Flames burst forth to complete the city's destruction and to burn alive untold numbers, helplessly pinioned beneath fallen walls and broken timbers. The Straits of Messina was shaken and twisted by the earth's trembling, for mariners report the channel altered beyond recognition. The ports and villages on both the continental and Sicilian sides were wrecked or inundated and all lighthouses along the coasts were swallowed up. Navigation now is dangerous and in some places impossible.

In the Calabrian district, which was only beginning to recover from the effects of the earthquake of 1905, Reggio was the centre of the earth's upheaval. The seaport of Reggio is reported as no longer existing, and the city proper is in ruins. The loss of life on both sides of the strait and in Eastern Sicily was enormous.

Fleeing In All Directions.

Starving, bleeding from injuries and almost insane from their terrifying experience, Messina's survivors are fleeing in all directions, abandoning hundreds of their fellow-citizens to their fate, imprisoned in the wreckage of tumbling buildings.

One of those who escaped said: "The earth seemed suddenly to drop and then turn violently on its axis. The whole population who practically were precipitated from the houses rent in twain, were spun round like tops as they ran through the streets. Many fell crushed to death and others, bewildered, took refuge for the breath, beside the tottering walls, where they soon met the fate of their companions."

Already British and Russian squadrons have arrived at Messina. Sailors and marines have been disembarked and they have performed courageous acts in rescuing the injured and removing the wounded.

A large number of survivors have been transferred to the warships, which are transformed into great floating hospitals. It is imperative that the dead be removed form the ruins in order to avoid a pestilence. Steamers with doctors, druggists, firemen and workmen have arrived at Messina from Cavania and other places.

Special despatches received here from Calabria confirm the destruction of Reggio. They report that the situation there is as bad as, if not worse than, at Messina. The streets in Rome are jammed with people, who snatch the special editions from the newsboys. The people are plunged in grief and lamentations are heard on all sides. Here and there one asks another "when will end this awful repetition of devastation and death in our country?"

Nations Will Help.

The hands of all the nations have been extended to Italy in her affliction. From rulers have come messages of condolence, and from the people spontaneous promise that aid which brings the world closer together in times of great calamity. Great Britain, France, and Russia have sent their warships, quick as the flash of the telegraph could carry the orders, to lend assistance to the stricken cities. Relief funds have already been started and a hundred ships and trains are on their way carrying supplies and reinforcements to the south. Rome, Milan, Florence, Naples and other cities are sending physicians, police and firemen. Yesterday all the ambassadors and ministers expressed sympathy with M. Tittoni, Minister of Foreign Affairs, whose emotion was profound.

The bourses and theatres have been closed throughout Italy and despatches of sympathy continue to pour in from all quarters of the globe.

Robbers at Work.

Eight sailors from the Sapho were landed and took up the work of rescue. Officers and men from Italian and British steamers also went ashore as soon as possible, the Britishers saving a family of five who were imprisoned in a burning house. Many prisoners from the jails made their escape and looted right and left. Hundreds engaged in the work of robbing the banks and business houses. In the opinion of the officers of the Sapho half the population of Messina perished.

Robbers pillaged the ruins of shattered buildings and even stole clothing and valuables from the corpses of the victims.

Everything possible is being done to succor the wounded, but the relief measures are still utterly inadequate owing to the immensity of the disaster.

The finest palaces, churches and theatres of Messina are now heaps of ruins. Countless dead bodies are scattered through the wreckage, and their decomposition will doubtless bring pestilence to add to the horrors of the situation.

The devastation over the entire district was more or less complete. No part of the Province of Reggio de Calabria escaped.

Wave Sweeps Catania.

Catania was flooded by a tidal wave which swept into the port. The intensity of the shocks may be estimated from the fact that they extended right through Italy, from Calabria to the Alps, having been appreciably felt at Somodossola, on the Simplon route, and at Moncalieri, near Turin.

Thousands of people have abandoned their homes, notwithstanding that a terrific rainstorm prevailed. They filled the air with lamentations and prayers, and in some places, such as Prizzo, Catrone, Santa Severina and Piscopia, the people had the courage to enter the churches almost while they were falling, and carry out the saints.

Woman Describes Scene.

Catania, Dec. 30.—The following graphic story is told by a woman who arrived here from Messina yesterday morning. She was herself badly injured. She described the horrors that accompanied the disaster at Messina in these words:

"Inferno is the only word that will adequately describe the fearful and terrifying scene. When the first shock came most of the city was fast asleep. I was awakened by the rocking of the house, windows swayed and crockery and glass crashed to the floor. The next moment I was violently thrown out of my bed to the floor. I was half-stunned, but knew that the only thing to do was to make my way outdoors.

"The streets were filled. Everybody had rushed out in their nightclothes, heedless of the rain falling in torrents. Terrified shrieks arose from all sides, and we heard heart-rending appeals for help from the unfortunates pinned beneath the ruins.

"Walls were tottering all around us, and not one of my party expected to escape alive. My brothers and sisters were with me, and in a frenzy of terror we groped our way through the streets, holding our own against the panic-stricken people, clambering over piles of ruins, until we nearly reached a place of comparative safety. But this was not done before I was struck down and badly injured by a piece of furniture that fell out of the upper storey of a house.

"All along the road we were jostled by scores of fleeing people, half-clad like ourselves. The houses seemed to be crashing to the ground in whatever direction we turned.

"Suddenly the sea began to come into the town. It seemed to me that this must mean the end of everything. The oncoming water rolled in a huge wave, accompanied by a terrifying roar.

"The sky was aglow with the reflection of burning pieces and other buildings, and, as if this was not enough, there suddenly shot up into the sky a huge burst of flame, followed by a crash that seemed to shake the whole town. This probably was the gasworks blowing up."

TO PROTECT TRAINMEN.

Orders Are Issued by Railway Commission to Ensure Greater Safety.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—After many conferences with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and officials of the different railways, the Railway Commission has promulgated orders for the better protection of railway employes.

Every locomotive engineer must have at least one year's continuous experience as a fireman and pass a satisfactory examination in regard to the proper care of locomotive engines, the handling of air brakes and train rules and regulations.

Be at least 22 years of age and undergo an eye and ear test by a competent examiner, before being eligible for appointment as such engineer.

Except in cases of emergency, every conductor of such companies must have at least one year's experience as brakeman or conductor, and be at least 21 years of age, before being eligible for appointment as such.

The telegraph operators of such companies, required to handle train orders, shall be at least 18 years of age, able to write a legible hand, to send and receive messages at the rate of not less than 20 words a minute, and be thoroughly familiar with and required to pass an examination upon train rules, before a competent examiner.

Every employe of such railway companies, engaged in operating trains, shall, before undertaking such duties, be required to undergo a color test by a competent examiner.

TARIFF ON COAL.

U. S. Company Thinks Canada Should Make a Concession.

Washington, D.C., Dec. 30.—A suggestion has been made that a way out of the tariff difficulty could be found by copying the law recently enacted in Great Britain, which makes it necessary for all patented articles for consumption there to be manufactured in that country. The House committee may investigate.

A West Virginia coal company has entered a strong protest against the free entry of coal unless a similar concession is obtained from Canada, claiming that Canada derives five times as much revenue from its importations of American bituminous coal as that received by the United States from its importations of Canadian coal, although it is claimed there were five times as much American coal sold in Canada as there was Canadian coal sold in the United States during 1907.

It is rumored that the new bill will put hides on the free list, and provides for a substantial reduction in the duties on shoes and leather products.

Boom For Cape Breton.

Glace Bay, N.S., Dec. 30.—It is reported on good authority that the North Atlantic Collieries Co. of Port Morien, C.B., and the company owning the Broughton Areas, will shortly join forces and also that lands owned by Manager Cowans of Springhill Collieries near Morien will be taken over by the combined company.

Manager Richardson of the first named organization is at present in England and it is expected that the deal will go through within a few weeks. If the merger goes through it will mean a big boom for Cape Breton.

71 Elopes With 64.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 30.—The filing of the marriage certificate yesterday revealed the elopment to this place on Saturday of Thomas J. Fales of Fall River, Mass., 71 years old and divorced, and Mrs. Ella M. Armstrong, also of Fall River, a widow of 64.

They came by separate routes, met and took out a license in the City Hall. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Pond. They then started on a wedding trip.

Both Victims Will Die.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—Mrs. M. Buterus, a cousin of J. M. Assaly, the Syrian merchant who was shot at Hawkesbury Monday, was brought to the Royal Victoria Hospital, and but slight hopes are entertained for her recovery.

Assaly has since died, and Salem Assaly, a brother of the dead man, who shot both, is still at liberty.

Will Ratify Treaty.

London, Dec. 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Times' Paris correspondent says there is every reason to believe that Mr. Fielding will succeed in obtaining the ratification of the Franco-Canadian treaty, and points out if Germany also obtains the advantage of the Canadian middle tariff the value of the British preference will almost disappear.

St. Kitts Mayoralty Candidate Is Sent For Trial.

SIGNED SPONSOR'S NAME

Man Whose Signature Appears on Landis C. Bradt's Nomination Form as Proposer Says He Never Signed It—Disqualification of Bradt Will Re-elect Mayor Campbell by Acclamation.

St. Catharines, Dec. 30.—A sensation was caused yesterday afternoon when Chief of Police Parnall, acting on instructions from County Crown Attorney Brennan, laid information against Landis C. Bradt, charging him with forgery, and upon a warrant issued later by Police Magistrate Campbell, Bradt was taken into custody.

At nomination meeting on Monday Bradt handed to City Clerk Pay a paper properly filled out, proposing himself for mayor for 1909. The paper was supposed to have been signed by Jacob Haynes and Michael McGlade.

When Haynes read in the papers that he had signed Bradt's nomination papers, he at once proceeded to make people understand that such was not the case, and to strengthen the matter, made out and signed a statutory declaration to that effect. When this reached the authorities it was considered sufficient to warrant an enquiry and reference to the nomination paper showed that all the names were in practically the same handwriting.

Chief Parnall walked out of the town clerk's office, met Bradt on the street, and in five minutes the would-be mayor was a prisoner.

Hearing was set for Thursday morning. Bradt was admitted to bail, giving bonds for $2,000 himself and $2,000 by Charles Elliott.

Bradt appeared at the city clerk's office to file his declaration of qualification, but City Clerk Pay refused to accept it, claiming his nomination was irregular. Mayor Campbell is, therefore, re-elected for a second term.

Say Hains Was Crazy.

Flushing, L.I., Dec. 30.—The defence of Thornton J. Hains, indicted with his brother, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., for the killing of Wm. E. Annis, called two witnesses in yesterday's session of the trial to show certain acts of Mrs. Claudie Hains, which the lawyers of the defendants claim so affected Capt. Hains that he became mentally unbalanced.

Samuel Chester Reid of Chicago, a friend of the Hains' family, swore that Capt. Hains told him of all his marital misfortunes, and that the captain evinced signs of being irrational.

Children's Temperance Parade.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—A unique demonstration will take place this afternoon in behalf of the license reduction movement, when a parade of several hundred Sunday school children will take place.

Just how many will turn out is not known, but it is expected that the quota from each of the many Sunday schools will result in a string of some 200 or more autos and carriages. The children will carry bannerets suitably inscribed, and will sing campaign songs.

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—J. A. Krohn of Portland, Maine, arrived in this city yesterday on a walk of 9,000 miles, which he is to make on a wager in 400 days. Krohn must push a wheelbarrow en route. He has already walked 4,800 miles, an average of 26 miles a day, and to complete the walk on schedule must walk 23 miles a day. In spite of eleven days lost on account of illness he is far ahead of requirements.

Suicides With Wife Dead.

FRED SIMPSON TO HAVE CHANCE TO RUN ALBERT COREY OF CHICAGO

The Toronto Star says:—Another Canadian Indian will have a chance to get the coin Marathon running.

To-day Lou E Marsh received a wire from George Kennedy, the Montreal man, who handles the big wrestlers from Chicago, offering a big guarantee for a Marathon race at Chicago between Albert Corey, the western champion, who wants to meet Longboat, and any Canadian runner Marsh may select. He preferred an Indian, and Marsh immediately communicated with Fred Simpson, the Mississaugan; Henry Jackson, the Huron, and Hilton Green, the Mohawk, and the chances are that he will sign up either one for the big race.

While Corey is a good man, any one of the three Indians would give him a gallop. Indeed, Simpson, in form, should hand him the small end of the purse without any great amount of difficulty. Green, in shape, is a grand indoor runner, and a great boy to create trouble along the route. The gingery Mohawk, if he is right, is possibly the best man to send along to try Mr. Corey out Jackson, the Midland Indian, is the lad who won the Junction Marathon Christmas day. He is in pretty fair condition right now, and should be able to go the route, though he has never tried the longer distance. He was entered in the Ward Marathon, and the Hamilton Herald races, but did not start in either. He won the Junction 15-mile Marathon against a pretty good field, and won it away off. He had a mile lead nearly at one stage of the game, but loafed coming home. Jackson and Simpson are both eager to turn "pro." Simpson wired Tom Flanagan the other day, offering to turn "pro" if Tom would manage him, and friends have written New York on his behalf, offering his services to run against Alf Shrubb in the Jan. 9 relay race for the Little Englishman.

Corey is the Chicago soldier boy who chased Sidney Hatch so closely at St. Louis and Chicago Marathons in 1907, and who finally beat Hatch last year. He is a French-Canadian, by the way, and is about as fast a man as Dorando. He is the man T J McAughey, the Toronto-to-New York grinder, says he is to run a 100 mile race at Jersey City, or Newark, some time early in January.

WHITCROFT MAY BE OFF TEAM TO-NIGHT
WRITES PETERBORO' BOY IN MONTREAL

A former Peterborough man who is in Montreal for the Stanley Cup games writes the Examiner as follows in connection with Monday's contest:

Montreal, Dec. 29, '08.

Although the challengers have lost the first game of the Stanley Cup series their chance for final victory is not altogether lost. The forward line will be completely changed. Whitcroft will likely be dropped and Ross Deaton and Miller will fill vacancies. Ross in proper place should play cover, but will likely be placed at rover; Miller will take the place of Phillips, who is in the Western Hospital with a broken ankle, and is the great hope of the challengers. Deaton, while not a fast player, is consistent and will help some.

The Edmonton team are great players individually and before the season is out will easily be the greatest team in Canada. McNamara is out of the game with a twisted knee.

EUREKAS WANTED GAME NEW YEAR'S BUT COULD NOT BE ACCOMMODATED

Albert Sanagan, manager of the Eurekas of Toronto Junior O.H.A. team has written the secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club, asking for an exhibition game with the local junior O.H.A. team on New Year's night in Peterborough. The locals would have liked to have arranged the game with the Eurekas, but it was impossible owing to the fact that the locals are playing in Whitby that night. The Strathconas City League team considered the offer but figured out that it was too late to arrange a game for the holiday and the Eurekas were communicated with to-day to the effect that it would be impossible to give them a game here on New Year's night.

HAMS SURPRISED THEMSELVES AND EVERYONE ELSE BY SCORING WIN

In a ten pin league fixture at the P. B. C. last night in which only 45 pins separated the teams on the three games, Hutchs Hams last night started to climb the percentage chute by taking two out of three from the Midgets. Gene Hurtubise made his initial appearance with the Hams and his splendid work contributed materially to the victory of his team. He had third high score for the evening and his addition to the team has greatly strengthened it and should make the tau enders a factor in the race from this forth.

The opening game was the hardest fought of the evening, the Hams eventually winning out by a margin of eighteen pins.

In the second contest it was all Midgets from beginning to end, Carol Hayes' splendid effort sealing the fate of the losers. The third and last game was just as easy a proposition for the Hams as the previous one had been the reverse.

The scores follow—

HUTCH'S HAMS

Hutchinson	114	118	110	342
Hurtubise	160	120	154	434
Hay	195	134	183	512

The Montreal Herald says — The secretary of the Fairmount basket ball club has received a letter from F. C. Cressman, of the Peterborough "Brownies" advising him that they will very probably line up as follows for the game on New Year's night in the Fairmount gym

Forwards—G. Millar, F. Cressman centre, T. Millar defence Sutherland and H. Hall. Mr. Collings, the physical director of the Peterborough Association will accompany the team on its trip.

Fairmount's team will be picked from the following—H. Cobb, J. N. McCuaig, W Dunwoody, G Robinson C. E. Bowen and R. Graham. The boys have been putting in a lot of practice and may be expected to give the Brownies a hard tussle.

LINDSAY CLUB'S FIRST PRACTICE

Most of the Old Players Were in Line on Monday Night.

The Lindsay Watchman Warder—Lack of skating practise was evident as it would naturally be expected last night. The finished play which characterized to work of the team towards the end of the season last year was lacking. Inside a week, however, there will be a different bunch.

Kyoi and Randall were in good shape, especially the latter. He worked like a horse during the practise last night. Bill Stoddard, Goosie Taylor, Basil Newton, Kenny Lane, Livingston, Karl Sylvester, and a number of others were out last night, and there will be a number contesting for the vacancies on the team

Altogether the first practise was very satisfactory. Dr. Brown and Manager Simpson were witnesses of the practise.

A meeting of the Executive of the Junior City Hockey League will be held to-morrow night at 7.30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of drawing up the schedule. Every team that intends to enter is requested to have a representative at the meeting as only those who are represented will be included in the schedule.

THE CHURCH LEAGUE SCHEDULE

Will be Drawn up at Meeting of Representatives To-night.

A meeting of the schedule committee of the Church League is called for Wednesday night at 7.30 sharp in the Y. M. C. A parlours. The following members are urged to be present—E. Reid, St. Andrew's; Stanley Hughes, Park street; Fred Reed, Knox and E Lebar, All Saints. Any teams wishing to enter the junior series must do so at this meeting when the junior schedule will be drawn up

BIG HOCKEY PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

Junior Team to Play in Whitby Will be Selected After Workout.

A special turnout of the junior O. H.A. team is requested for to-night at Brock street rink in preparation for the junior O.H.A. game in Whitby on New Year's night. The following juniors are asked to be out to-night: Goal, L Giroux, point, Fox; cover-point, Wade; forwards, Giroux, Pentland, Gorham, Hillier and Ray. The intermediates will also be out to-night and will stack up against the juniors. The following are requested to be at the rink and the team to play the juniors will be chosen from them: Derocher, Glover, Moore, Dusty, Parnell, Rose, Dobson, Weatherstone, Long and Seymour.

SKIPS ARE CHOSEN FOR BONSPIEL

Skips of the Peterborough Curling Club Met Last Night.

A meeting of the skips of the Peterborough Curling Club was held last night in the club room at teh curling rink for the purpose of selecting the skips who will represent the Peterborough club in the big bonspiel to be held here commencing Jan. 12th and also to choose the skips for the District cup competition the date of which has not been arranged. It was decided that Messrs. R. Neill and Dick Davidson should be the skips for the bonspiel and Messrs. T. F. Matthews and Robt. Hicks for the District Cup

The bonspiel promises to be a great success and the members of the local club are working energetically with this end in view.

HOCKEY

A Montreal despatch says: The individual work of both teams was at times marvellous. Whitcroft's mystic moves fooled the Wanderers time and again, and when they resulted in the second goal he was heartily applauded. Vair at centre had a hard position to fill and for a fight man did himself credit.

• • • •

The Strathconas City League team had a great practice last night at Brock street rink with a big squad of men on the ice. Among those out were Derocher, Roddy, Fox, Dusty, McMillan, Weatherstone, Seymour, Long, Ray, Dobson, Parnell, Ellis and Curtis.

• • • •

The T.A.S. City Leaguers were out in force at Brock street rink last night and had a lively practice between 10 and 11 o'clock. The Abstainers will be able to put a strong team on the ice this winter.

• • • •

Vair seems a bright, fearless player, and Whitcroft, though not too strong apparently, might do well in the best company in this part of the country, while Lindsay will be snapped up some day as a first rate goalkeeper. —Montreal Star

• • • •

Whitcroft has been touted as a sensation for a couple of seasons, but like most of the "good ones" doesn't race in his work-out form —Montreal Herald.

• • • •

• • • •

A special meeting of all junior and senior players is called for 7.30 this evening sharp in the T A S hall. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will be transacted.

Belmont City League team practises from 6 to 7 o'clock at Brock street rink to-night.

CURLING.

The games played at the curling rink last night were:

Davidson, sk., 9; Brown, sk., 14.
Dr. Greer, sk., 9; Foote, sk., 5.
Ald. Morrow, sk., 8; Brightman, sk., 10.

PRISON TERROR.

French-Canadian Whose Conviction Fills Prison Officials With Dread.

A French-Canadian, convicted in London recently, was said to have been in and out of prison since 1886, and to be so troublesome to the jail authorities that they receive him into their care with considerable dread. His name is Albert Max Martin, aged 56, and he was found guilty of obtaining food and lodging by false pretences.

Martineau had posed as secretary to a "Baron Lichtenfel," a bogus nobleman. The prosecution said he had had "a most extraordinary career."

Detective William Steel said Martin was only at liberty a fortnight when he committed the present frauds, and he was arrested as he left prison after serving a week in jail for being drunk.

According to the prisoner's own statements he was educated in Germany, Italy, Switzerland, and England. He was at Eton, Harrow, and also at the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Bonn, Heidelberg, Konigsberg, Berlin, Geneva, Bologna, and Rome. He claims to have studied as a doctor, and to have had five medals given to him for bravery during the Franco-German war, 1870, and three during the Bulgarian-Turko war.

Accused said he was aide-de-camp, private secretary, and interpreter—he says he speaks twelve languages—to Marechal MacMahon and Marechal Bazaine. Thirty years ago he had a beautiful hotel at Lucerne, Switzerland, and through family complications lost a fortune of $200,000.

Sentence of three and a half years' penal servitude was passed.

TRIUMPHANT TOHUNGAS.

On Cook Islands the March of Progress Does Not Prevail.

News from the Cook Islands brings the intimation that, notwithstanding the march of progress in other directions, the Tohunga still continues to maintain his pre-eminence. Col. Gudgeon, the Resident Commissioner, in his new report on the administration of the islands, declare that the Tohunga is as dangerous to the well-being of the people of the Cook Islands as he has been in New Zealand for any time during the last five years, and in either place he will not easily be suppressed, for the simple reason that the Maori has such amazing faith in him. The Tohunga, it may as well be explained at this point, is a kind of Maori witch-doctor, and his ascendancy is due to certain peculiar qualities of the Maori mind. For instance, if a Maori is sick and the first dose of medicine does not effect an immediate cure, it is no good, and he will have no more of it. Again, he cannot see that the food he is eating can have any connection with or effect on the malady from which he suffers, and therefore if his complaint be dysentery he will continue to eat unripe mangoes, and his wife will neglect to cook him proper food, because she cannot see the necessity for so doing. To these peculiarities the Tohunga administers with a fine knowledge of human nature; and flourishes accordingly, The Maori, however, generally dies.

Maoris Unmoved.

"When the United States fleet steamed into New Zealand waters," writes an Auckland correspondent to The Standard of Empire, "the magnificent array of warships left one section of the community wholly unmoved. No Maori could be brought to see anything wonderful about it. They have traditions of their own about navigation, and when they recall the fact that their ancestors explored the Antarctic in their big decked canoes, discovered America, populated Japan, and sailed the Pacific from end to end, you cannot persuade them that there is anything remarkable about the visit of the United States battleships. All the way from the Siam Peninsula to New Zealand, and up to the northward beyond Sagahalien, the Maoris, according to their own legends, have left their traces; and it is certainly a curious fact that there are hundreds of words in Malaysian dialects which are still part of the Maori vernacular of to-day."

"Practice and Be Sure."

Viscount Wolverhampton—better remembered, perhaps, as Sir Henry Fowler—who has recently been appointed Lord President of the Council, has declared that, when he made his first speech in the House, he felt that it was the crisis of his life. He does not write out his speeches; his plan is to saturate his mind with the facts, and then to make a few notes of the order in which he proposes to deal with them in his speech, these notes being confined to the facts and their verification. He is strangely free from mannerisms and affectations, and there are very few men who approach him in lucidity. "If you would become a great speech-maker," says Lord Wolverhampton, "practice, practice, practice, and always be sure of your facts!"

Flue of Engine Blows Out.

Guelph, Dec. 30.—Engineer John Taylor and Fireman Richard Brookbank had a narrow escape from serious injury as they were about to leave yesterday morning on the 8.30 C.P.R. rain, a flue in the boiler blew out, throwing open the fire door and covering them with red hot ashes. An Easy Task.

PORTRAIT WAS HIDDEN.

Valuable Picture Found in Gravesend Was Covered by a Landscape.

When purchased at auction the work was a French landscape of a very ordinary school, but when it was being cleaned signs that a second picture underlay the landscape were noticed. The underlying painting proves to be the portrait of a woman, evidently the work of a master, although no signature is attached. It is now revealed that the woman bears a striking resemblance to a picture of Madame Tallien in Paris, and subsequent comparisons with two other reputed portraits verify the opinion that the picture is actually a portrait of this notable woman.

The pictures of Madame Tallien are believed to have been painted after her death from memory, and noticeable divergencies are thus accounted for. Her features have been variously described by writers of the period, but they are unanimous on one point—that she was exceptionally beautiful. She is said to have dyed her hair, and to have varied or accentuated her beauty by artificial means, as the whim took her.

Madame Tallien, or, as she was then, Madame Fontenay, had many exciting experiences during the French Revolution. She was caught endeavoring to escape from France with Fontenay, her husband. Tallien was struck with her charm, and rescued her from the mob and from the yet more merciless tribunals.

Eventually Madame Fontenay became Madame Tallien. The horrors through which she had passed made her tender-hearted, and she succeeded in repressing Tallien's lust for blood, while reaping much pecuniary advantage from his clemency. She took an active part in the intrigues of the day, and led a life of luxury and gaiety during this respite from the troubles which pursued her.

SPITEFUL WILLS.

Hatred That Testators Wish to Carry Beyond the Grave.

One of the uniformed officials of an English railway line who died recently, leaving estate valued for probate at $1,500, made in his will some unkind remarks directed against a certain person, of whom he states that:

"My estate would have been considerably larger if it had not been for my association with this perambulating human vinegar cruet and the cleverest known legal daylight robber."

These associations he estimated to have cost him considerably over $2,000.

Vindictive wills of this nature, says The London Daily Telegraph, are very uncommon, although such few as have been noticed have been directed against women. Some years ago the will was proved of a man who left to his wife the sum of one farthing, and directed that it should be sent to her by post in an unstamped envelope. His will was made two years before his death, and he gave as the reason for his action that his wife had called him names.

Another case was that of a man who left his property to his daughter on the condition that she paid to a certain person the sum of seven cents for the purchase of a hempen cord or halter for the use of the dear wife of that person, expressing the hope that she would make use of the same without delay.

"Looked Like a Fool."

It is a remarkable fact that the highest appointments in the Church of England to-day are held by Scotsman. The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Archbishop of York both hail from the land of the Shorter Catechism, and if rumor speaks truly the next Bishop of London will be Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, at present Bishop of Stepney, the son of Dr. Marshall Lang, principal of Aberdeen University. Queen Victoria held Dr. Cosmo Lang in considerable esteem, and frequently had him down to preach at Osborne. On one occasion, however, his mannerism while in the pulpit brought a piece of candid criticism down upon him from a lady of his acquaintance. He was preaching in Westminster Abbey, and during his sermon closed his eyes in order to concentrate his mind on the subject. The lady, when he met her, commented upon the fact thus: "You may think with your eyes shut you looked like a saint, but you really looked like a fool."

Deceitful.

"I admire patience an' self control," said Uncle Eben, "but when I see a man dat kin keep on smilin' after he done bruise his thumb with a hammer I can't help bein' s'picious of his capacity foh deceit."—Washington Star.

THE DEATH LIST STILL GROWING

Fatalities Number 110,000 in Two Big Cities Alone.

KING AND QUEEN AT SCENE

Wounded Who Cannot Live and Sufferers From Starvation Will Bring Deaths Up to 200,000—Thousands Are Roaming About Half Dead With Hunger — Looters Are Being Shot Down on Sight.

Rome, Dec. 31.—The immensity of the disaster in Southern Italy and Sicily can only be measured by the fact that it is now estimated that 110,000 people perished in Messina and Reggio alone.

A score of others towns have been devastated, and thousands of victims in these places must be added to the roll. In the face of this awful total, all Italy stands appalled.

Nor has the full death list yet been reached. Shiploads of fugitives have arrived at Naples and other ports, and the vast majority of these are sorely injured. Other thousands remain near the ruins of their homes, or wander half-starving, half-naked over the land. The forces that on Monday overwhelmed cities also destroyed the means of subsistence. Telegraphic communication has been established with Messina, the apparatus having been installed.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena were in Messina yesterday. The King explored the ruins regardless of the danger to which he exposed himself. He was often moved to tears at heart-rending scenes he came upon at every turn. The King was loud in his praise of the fine work accomplished by the British, Italian and Russian bluejackets, who saved many who otherwise would have inevitably perished.

The Queen spent the day in the wards of improvised hospitals visiting the wounded, many of whom have lost all that was dear to them. Her Majesty did her best to cheer them with womanly words of consolation, often breaking into sobs as she listened to their dreadful tales of suffering. The King left for Reggio last night.

Miraculous Escapes.

The refugees are beginning to tell tales of their marvelous escapes. After the first shock they were for a while imprisoned in their ruined houses. The piles of wreckage made egress impossible. Many waited in terror for the coming of light. They then made their way out, and climbing over the countless obstructions in the streets, escaped to the open. They had to leave behind them under the ruins countless victims who called for help in heart-rending tones. It was impossible to give succor.

A large proportion of those who escaped sustained injuries. It is asserted that probably half the fatalities occurred because it was impossible for the survivors to render assistance. Not the least of the suffering was caused by the torrential downpour of rain.

The devastated district is still filled with half-demented survivors who cannot get away. They are naked and starving and wander aimlessly in a downpour of rain. The ruins are still burning.

Every possible thing is being done to forward the work of relief, but trains with supplies are halted long before they can reach the scene. The railroads have been put out of operation and in many cases transportation by rail is impossible.

Bagnara, a town of 10,000 people, north of Reggio, is reported as annihilated. The entire population is said to have perished. A wandering survivor has raised a cross over the smouldering ruins of Bagnara. Reggio, a city of 50,000 people, has been practically demolished.

Islands May Have Suffered.

Cable communication with the Aeolian Islands, 20 miles north of Sicily, is interrupted. It is evident that the line is broken, and it is thought that the islands also have been devastated.

The largest of the group is the Island of Lipari, and the capital town has a population of 12,000.

It is feared that vast treasures have been looted at Messina. The local branch of the Bank of Italy had $2,000,000 on deposit there and other banks had large amounts of money in their vaults.

A despatch received last evening from the British cruiser Sutlej, at Messina, says that Arthur S. Cheney, the United States consul at Messina, and his wife lost their lives in the destruction of the city.

National Relief Committee Formed.

Taking prompt action in the name of Italy's earthquake sufferers, a great national committee has been formed to collect funds for their assistance. The committee is headed by the Duke of Aosta, and include the presidents of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies, the mayor of Rome, and all prominent men in the leading towns. The subscription list has been opened with $40,000 contributed by King Victor Emmanuel. All banks, clubs, civic and commercial associations and the newspapers have opened subscription lists.

The Lord Mayor of London has telegraphed that subscriptions have also been opened in British colonies, including the resident colonies in the United States.

Pierpont Morgan has telegraphed promising a $10,000 donation in aid of the sufferers.

Refugees at Naples.

Naples, Dec. 31.—Time only confirms the unspeakable horrors of the overpowering catastrophe in southern Italy for earth and sea ruthlessly claimed thousands of human beings, and the flames mercilessly completed the unfinished devastation.

Naples, vibrant with the memory of Vesuvius, is prostrated anew by the misery and woe from Messina confided to her care. The hospitals, hotels and homes are crowded with refugees, and the people are vieing with one another in aiding the stricken.

Those who have expert knowledge on the subject agree that the centre of the cataclysm was the Strait of Messina, which also is the centre of the volcanic zone, the highest peak of which, Mount Aetna, is now silent. From this base, the telluric disturbance extended, abating little by little, northerly as far as Cape Vaticano and southerly as far as the Bay of Catania, ravaging the western region of Calabria and the eastern coast of Sicily for a distance of nearly 160 miles.

It is impossible to accurately ascertain the extent of the movement east and west in the inland regions, but it is certain that the beauty of one of the most charming sections of southern Italy has been irrevocably despoiled.

Vineyards are no more; waving rows of lemon, orange and olive trees have been torn up and the enchanting coastline, with its soft and fragrant foliage has been converted into a hideous desert. Reggio, whose gay aspect set off the severity of the mountains, and Palmi, perched jauntily amid orange and olive trees, have become mere blots.

Looters Shot Down.

Catania, Dec. 31.—The latest news sets forth that some progress is being made in the work of succoring the wounded survivors, but no attempt is being made to remove the wreckage. The troops and sailors have been obliged to shoot down robbers caught looting. All the funds of the Messina branch of the Bank of Italy, some $2,000,000, has been saved and is on board an Italian warship.

The rescuers at Messina are rapidly becoming exhausted. The fires have not yet been put out, and there is no water with which to combat the flames. Many of the people still refuse to leave the ruins of their houses. Force often is necessary to get them to the ships in the harbor. There are, however, large numbers of persons in the suburbs of Messina who will not come back into the city for fear of a re-occurrence of the shocks.

A despatch from Deputy Felice at Messina says: Organize squadron of volunteers for rescue work. Send us food, for we are dying of hunger. A number of the survivors are leaving for Catania. It is the duty of every family in Catania to shelter a family from Messina.

Only two members of the municipal council of Messina survived the disaster.

The bluejackets from the Russian warships at Messina have performed valorous service. They risked their lives recklessly in the work of extricating the wounded. Hospitals have been improvised in the railroad station, which is partially standing, and in another building on First of September street, and on board the steamer Reina Margherita, but they already are full. A roll call of the Eighty-Ninth Regiment of Infantry reveals the fact that the organization has only ten survivors. A man named Roberto, the sole survivor of his family, became mad from grief in Catania yesterday and committed suicide.

Sympathy From Montreal.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—The City Council yesterday passed a resolution of sympathy with the sufferers in Sicily, but, according to their charter, cannot send any money.

French Relief.

Toulon, Dec. 31.—A French relief squadron carrying food, clothing, medical supplies and money for the relief of the Messina sufferers left here yesterday for that port.

Municipal Water Pays.

Guelph, Dec. 31.—Municipal ownership in Guelph continues to pay.

Yesterday morning the water commissioners handed over to Mayor Newstead a check for $17,000, which is a portion of their earnings for 1908. There will be more when the commissioners complete their financial statement for the year.

At a cost of $125,000, an almost entirely new system of waterworks will be completed in a few days. It includes an addition to the pumping house, with two new powerful pumps and a 24-inch pipe line laid to a number of springs five miles out. A concrete reservoir, with a capacity of half a million gallons and a hundred foot standpipe of the same capacity, on the highest elevation in the city, are also features of the new system.

Laymen Take a Hand.

Guelph, Dec. 31.—The civic section of the Laymen's Missionary Movement have taken drastic action in connection with a story of graft in the city council. It is alleged that Harry Norrish gave it out that it cost him $33 to secure the passing of a bylaw by the council to lengthen the hours of the pool-rooms of the city until 11 o'clock Saturday night. An investigating committee has been formed with the view of exposing the guilty parties.

SPENCE IS HOWLED DOWN

Temperance Speaker Tries In Vain For Twenty Minutes to Get a Hearing—Partizans on Both Sides Pack Massey Hall and Interrupt Orators For Other Side—Fight In Hall—Policeman Was Called.

Toronto, Dec. 31.—An exhibition of rowdyism has seldom been paralleled at a public gathering in the city, ended in the breaking up of the mass meeting held in the Massey Hall last night in the interests of the anti-license reductionists. The announcement that both sides were to be represented at the demonstration had excited the keenest interest among supporters of both parties, and long before the proceedings were timed to start the hall was besieged by a large crowd eager to obtain admission. By eight o'clock the large auditorium was filled to its utmost capacity, and still hundreds struggled to get in, with the result that it was eventually found necessary to close the doors. It was evident from the first that the parties were pretty evenly represented.

The trouble really started when Mr J. H. Kennedy, the president of the District Trades and Labor Council, got to his feet and proceeded to explain why he, as representing trades unionists, was opposed to the reduction bylaw. His remarks apparently did not meet with the approval of a considerable section of the audience whose sympathies were with reduction, and throughout he was subjected to a running fire of interruptions.

The climax came when Controller F. S. Spence rose to reply on behalf of the reductionists. It seemed as if many of the audience opposed to reduction had made up their minds to retaliate for the interruptions of the previous speakers by preventing Mr. Spence from being heard.

Pandemonium Breaks Loose.

Whatever the reasons, the controller's rising was the signal for a pandemonium. The cheers seemed to predominate, but the booing and hissing, were more persistent, and the more he endeavored to make himself heard the greater the din became.

Controller Spence, vainly striving to make himself heard, appealed to the opponents of license reduction to be as fair to him as the chairman and Mr. Wright had been, but the noise became louder. Then the reductionists took a hand in the game and struck up the hymn "Hold the Fort." Again the chairman intervened with a threat that unless the disorder ceased he would close the meeting. This had some effect, and for a few minutes Mr. Spence was allowed to proceed, though with great difficulty.

He had scarcely completed his first argument, however, when the interruptions were renewed, and the excitement was increased by a fight which took place in the body of the hall.

Recognizing that drastic measures had to be adopted the chairman called for a policeman, who, amid much excitement, marched down the hall and ascended the platform, where he took up a position ready to pounce on the first man who made a disturbance. But even this action failed to have the desired effect. Mr. Spence made a final effort to be heard and then wisely gave up, and after Mr. Wright had made a few remarks the gathering broke up in disorder.

CHILDREN IN PROCESSION.

License Reduction Parade In Toronto Draws 1,500 Youngsters.

Toronto, Dec. 31.—The children's license reduction procession enlivened the campaign yesterday afternoon.

President Martin of the Canadian Temperance League was grand marshal, and delighted the juveniles by his equestrian skill. The procession was divided into two detachments, each headed by a band from the Salvation Army. Sixty vehicles were in the procession. They ranged from a Shetland pony team and children's carriage to monster drays holding 50 children. About 1,500 children took part.

In each wagon load of children several of them held aloft cartoons with the picture of a boy and a barrel, and the query, "The boy or the barrel?"

Other campaign inscriptions were "Vote for Us," "Greater Toronto needs Sober Citizens," "Don't Kill Toronto Citizens," "Save the Boys and Keep the City," "Less Bar-rooms," "We Need the Boys to Save the Flag."

Throughout the parade the children kept up an incessant shout of:

Local option, local option,
Sis, boom, bah!
Reduction, reduction,
Rah! Rah! Rah!

Chokes Wife to Death.

New York, Dec. 31.—Their suspicions aroused by the fact that Carl Breitag, a laborer of South Brooklyn, had the floor of his house cellar concreted the day after his wife Matilda disappeared three weeks ago, the police yesterday made a visit to the Breitag house, and in a corner of the cellar, two feet under the concrete, disinterred Mrs. Breitag's body.

Breitag, who had made strenuous objections, finding the police in earnest about the task, pointed to a corner and said: "You'll find her anyway; she's over there." They did.

The police say he told them he choked her to death.

"She bothered me too much," he explained.

Canadians and Englishmen Now Control Corporation.

Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—Horatio G. Lloyd has announced that Robert Fleming of London and New York was the purchaser of the Lake Superior Corporation securities from Philadelphia institutions.

This was indicated by the fact that a New York house with which Mr. Fleming has close relations has been a considerable purchaser of the securities of the Lake Superior Corporation since the purchase of the bank's collateral was consummated.

It is understood that Mr. Fleming, who is well-known from his prominence in the Reading, Texas & Pacific and other re-organizations years ago, represents some very substantial English and Canadian capitalists, who, with Edward J. Berwind and his associates, now fully control the Lake Superior Corporation. These capitalists have now fully control the Lake Superior Corporation. These capitalists have not only purchased the Philadelphia bank collateral, which consisted of $1,000,000 of Lake Superior Corporation stock and lands, but they have also negotiated and acquired all the other holdings of the Canadian Improvement Co.

A year later he was appointed a member of the commission to investigate the working of law regarding half-breed lands. From 1881 to 1890 he acted as superintendent of education for the Catholic section. Tax Collector Held Up.

Glace Bay, N.S., Dec. 31.—Archibald McLean, one of the county tax collectors, was held up Tuesday night by two masked men on the road leading to Glace Bay and robbed of $300. McLean was thrown down and gagged while one of the robbers went through his pockets. Both escaped.

SINKING INTO THE SEA

PROFESSOR SAYS AUSTRALIA IS SLOWLY DISAPPEARING.

Prof. David of Sydney University Says That Eastern Coast Line of Island Continent Is Subsiding—Peaty Formations Not Yet Fossilized Are Found Below the Sea, Showing Fall Took Place Recently.

Prof. David, who holds the chair of Geology and Physical Geography in Sydney University, and is at present enjoying a holiday in company with Lieut. Shackleton's Antarctic expedition, is a man of many unorthodox ideas, and among them is one to the effect that the eastern coast line of the Commonwealth, including the New South Wales Metropolis, is gradually slipping into the Pacific Ocean. It appears, says The Globe, that some few months ago the Government of that state had a test cylinder sunk in Sydney Harbor with a view to ascertaining the nature of the formation on which will rest the piers intended to support the proposed bridge to connect the two opposite shores. The professor descended the cylinder to a depth of 90 feet below highwater mark, where he found the formation to consist of peaty material—stems, leaves, and seeds of plants—intermixed with a tough unctuous clay. This was at a depth of about 40 feet below the bed of the harbor. From the harbor bottom down to the level reached by Prof. David, the deposits consisted principally of sand, with marine shells.

The peaty formation was not fossilized, and could not have been more than a couple of thousand years old. The professor thinks it probable that when the peaty material was laid down the harbor was much shallower than at present. Evidence in favor of this view has been afforded by the results of investigations in other parts of the harbor, and at different places on the coast. In boring for coal a few miles north of Sydney peat beds were encountered about 20 feet below sea level. When sinking for the foundations of the great railway bridge across the Hawkesbury river, trunks of large trees were met with at a depth of about 70 feet below sea level. Further north, during the sinking in connection with the Hunter river delta collieries, near Newcastle, a large amount of woody material and coarse river gravel, was passed through at depths, in places, of considerably more than a hundred feet below sea level, the material marking the former level of the old valley before the submergence took place.

At Fingal's Bay, Port Stephens, north of Newcastle, beds of peat can be traced down to the low-tide level, dipping considerably thence; while bores for coal in the vicinity have passed through a bed of peat 100 feet below sea level. In cutting a canal in one of the creeks in Sydney Harbor, a submerged forest of large honeysuckle trees, together with a bed of peat, was found at a depth of 15 feet below highwater level. A remarkable circumstance in connection with the discovery was the finding of a couple of aboriginal stone tomahawks in the peat, showing that the work of submergence must have taken place within a comparatively recent period. All this evidence, according to Prof. David, points to the fact that there has been, in recent geological days, a subsidence of a considerable portion of the New South Wales coastline, amounting to something like a couple of hundred feet.

"This," he says, "has admitted the waters of the Pacific Ocean to the old land valleys, and thus the great estuaries, such as Broken Bay and Port Hacking, and harbors like Port Jackson and Botany Bay, are simply what American geologists term 'drowned valleys.'" This raises the question as to whether the work of submergence is still going on. But the evidence on this point is somewhat scanty. At Largs, on the Hunter river, there are extensive beds of marine shells, of recent origin, elevated 15 feet above sea level; and in some parts of Sydney Harbor incrustations of oyster-shells are frequently met with at a distance of 10 feet above high-water mark. The difficulty in making observations and calculations extending over a number of years consists in the fact that the sea level is not an unalterable quantity. The constant shrinking of the earth, owing to its cooling, is supposed to have the effect of making the oceans deeper and narrower, and the land surface more extensive.

In the course of his remarks Prof. David explained that if there should occur, by any phenomenal change, such a rise of temperature in the Arctic and Antarctic regions as would convert the ice collected there into water all the low-lying portions of the New South Wales coast would become submerged. The ice-bound regions, representing about one-fortieth part of the surface of the globe, hold sufficient ice, if melted, to raise all the oceans of the world several feet. Such a contingency is, however, unlikely, by reason of the cart hbecoming cooler instead of warmer. But a theory has been raised as to whether the slipping away of the New South Wales coast is not in some measure due to the gradual moving of a "fold" in the earth's crust, which is visible in the geological strata in portions of the coastal side of the Blue Mountain ranges. This view of the matter is being carefully investigated. Meanwhile, it has been pointed out that when there are large accumulations of flood waters in the bed of the Nepean river, the upper part of the Hawkesbury, their weight causes a disturbance in the land level, which is distinctly noticeable in the instruments at the Sydney Observatory, and which disappears as the floods subside.

Clipping Their Wings.

The costume of the Pu Yuan Pen-jen women in the Shan states is very striking, consisting of a cloth hood, an open jacket and a pair of short white trousers reaching barely to the knee. But the most important though the least noticeable part of their costume is their colored cloth gaiters. These the women are obliged to wear, as without them it is believed they would be able to fly away, leaving their husbands and sweethearts sorrowful.

BESIEGED BY CANNIBALS.

Jack London and Wife Have Exciting Time In South Seas.

News has just come to hand by way of Sydney, New South Wales, of a remarkable adventure experienced by Jack London, the American novelist, and his wife, during a cruise they are now making in the Pacific.

Mr. London's yacht, the Snark, it is stated, became disabled some weeks ago, and as the pieces of machinery required to re-equip it had to come from Sydney, the vessel was laid up on the island of Guadalcanar. Mr. and Mrs. London subsequently decided to board a labor-recruiting vessel, the Minota. After joining this boat the novelist and his wife were carried one night on to the Mallua Reef, which is close to the dreaded cannibal island of Malaita, the gory doings of whose inhabitants outvie the wildest fiction.

According to the story told to the Sydney Press by the officers of H. M. S. Cambrian, Mr. and Mrs. London were stranded on the reef for two days and two nights, during which time they were surrounded by the canoes of the hideous man-eaters. The novelist was fully armed, as were the crew of the Minota, but the savages were so treacherous and numerous that watch night and day had to be kept to avert surprise and a hideous death.

The safety of the party during the time taken to refloat the Minota was more due, however, to Mr. Caulfield, one of the few missionaries in the Pacific who have influence over the natives of Malaita. Mr. Caulfield induced the mission boys to form a bodyguard for the protection of the Minota's passengers and crew. Eventually the Minota was made seaworthy again and the peril disappeared.

"MURPHY MARATHON."

Peeling Potatoes Is Novel Contest at Cookery Exhibition.

Exactly at eight o'clock one evening recently 12 white-clad cooks set to work peeling potatoes at the Cookery Exhibition, Horticultural Hall, Westminster, Eng. There was a large audience to watch this "murphy marathon," and stern-faced judges of both sexes watched the peelers' every movement from a raised jury box. A great tin pail containing 28 pounds of potatoes was in front of each competitor, who was armed with a patent Lancashire peeler resembling a gigantic J nib. At the word "Go!" the 12 began work, and the silence was only broken by the clattering of the potatoes in the tin pails and the heavy breathing of the competitors.

No. 12, who was left-handed, was much fancied at the start. His left hand worked with incredible swiftness, but he could not stay, and No. 1 (Mr. H. Webb), pale and perspiring, soon forged ahead, and poured a perfect avalanche of peeled and eyeless potatoes into his pail. As each competitor consigned the last potato to the paid he cried "Done!" and finally, amid much enthusiasm, the result was declared as follows: H. Webb, 9 mins., 18 secs.; J. Jones, 10 mins.; W. Cheshire, 10 min., 50 secs. The competitor who came in last pealed the 28 pounds of potatoes in 13 minutes. Last year the slowest time was 18 minutes.

Madame Melba, Billposter.

Who would ever imagine that Madame Melba, whose farewell concert at the Albert Hall took place recently, once went forth, armed with a pail of paste in one hand, a huge paste-brush in the other, and a roll of bills under her arm? But this actually happened in the early days of her career, when she was hungering for opportunities to sing in public. While she was still a schoolgirl, she got up a concert at Sorrento, in Victoria, in aid of one of the local charities. Her father, however, in the hope of stifling her leaning toward a professional career, refused to give her any financial aid whatever, and she had to carry the matter through without any assistance. All her own savings had been swallowed up by the preliminary expenses, and she had not a penny left to pay for posting the bills on which she relied for advertising the entertainment. So she determined to be her own billposter. Marching straight to the kitchen, she persuaded one of the maids to make her a quantity of paste, and this she put into a pail. Then she borrowed a billposter's brush, and, when all was dark, set off on her adventurous round, and posted up all the bills she had had printed. The result was a big house and a bigger success for the young songstress—a success which was a fitting omen of the world-wide renown she was destined to achieve.

Jefferson's Joke.

Joseph Jefferson, America's great actor, who died a couple of years ago, was the author of a joke which had its scene in Montreal. It is, moreover, the last scene of all in the drama set for him in the Masterpieces. Mr. Iles was pointing out to the veteran actor where the Ice Palace had stood on Dominion Square during the carnival of the previous winter (1885-86). On the right Mr. Jefferson saw a building which, he was told was a Methodist church; and on the left the Roman Catholic Cathedral. And I suppose, he remarked, 'there was a coolness between them." Mr. Jefferson was interested in Montreal's art collections. The canvasses of Corot in Sir George Drummond's gallery greatly pleased him.

Hunter and Wolves.

Thomas Garvin of Hull recently had a hair-raising experience with wolves near Baskatong, Que.

Being pursued by a pack of eight wolves and finding escape by flight impossible, he turned and faced them.

Before they could close in on him he shot the two leaders and the others became frightened and escaped into the bush.

Wolves are reported to be unusually numerous and ferocious for this season of the year.

Big Gold Output.

Dr. Barrett of Dawson City, Yukon Territory, was a visitor to Vancouver recently. He states that the output of gold from the territory this year will be $2,000,000 in excess of last year.

A FORGOTTEN HEROINE

MRS. SARAH DEFIELD'S ACT IN WAR OF 1812.

Thrilling Incident of the Niagara Frontier That Has Been Almost Lost Is Adventure of Woman Who Pluckily Saved Young British Captain From Capture by American Soldiers—Rewarded With Land.

During the interval between the defeat of the British at Chippawa on July 5 and the Battle of Lundy's Lane, July 25, 1814, our Niagara frontier, with the exception of the forts at the mouth of the river, was in possession of the invading American army. One hot July day at this time a British officer rode leisurely down Lundy's Lane, little thinking a great decisive battle would soon be fought under his very feet, or of the danger awaiting himself. The officer was the vigilant young Captain FitzGibbon, the hero of Beaven Dams, to whom 600 Americans, with two field pieces, their colors and cavalry, had surrendered the year before through the timely warning of the renowned Laura Secord.

As FitzGibbon approached a tavern near the corner of Portage road he noticed a woman making signals to him, but not comprehending her meaning, he dismounted and tied his horse to a chestnut tree. On coming forward he was suddenly intercepted by two American soldiers, a horseman and rifleman. FitzGibbon, undaunted, exclaimed, "Boys, surrender!" but they immediately levelled their firearms at him. Mrs. Defield (who had tried to warn him) instantly picked up a stone and with it struck the flint out of one musket and thrusting up the cover spit on the powder in the pan of the other—thus rendering both innocuous. A desperate struggle now ensued, which is best told in FitzGibbon's own words:

"Having seized hold of a rifle and musket presented at me by the two American soldiers, which I could neither wrest from them nor could they from me, the rifleman, retaining hold of his rifle with one hand, drew my sword with the other, and attempted to stab me with it in the side. While watching his uplifted hand, with the intent if possible to receive the point of the sword in my arm, I saw the two hands of a woman seize his wrist and carry it behind his back, where she and her sister forced the sword from him."

Pointing the captain's sword at the Americans, she threatened them with death, while her sister, Mrs. James Kirby, grasped their arms behind and thus the soldiers were made prisoners. An American detachment of 150 men was within one hundred yards, at a neighboring house, but were screened from view by a few young pines.

Robert Gourlay (the banished Briton) in a letter years afterwards, expresses his admiration of her deed in the following manner: "Say, O, Heroic Muse, if you ever sung the praises of anyone more deserving in deeds of arms than Mrs. Defield! So prompt, so collected, so brave, so efficient, so successful, and I repeat that Sarah Bloomfield, wife of Edward Defield, is worthy of fifty pounds a year from the Government . . . that an American detachment of 150 men was within a hundred yards heightens admiration of our heroine; and when the painter does his part in illustrating her gallant achievement, a few young pines in the background, with the star-spangled banner waving over them, will indicate where lay the detachment."

After the end of the war Captain FitzGibbon waited on His Excellency Governor Gore, and represented her conduct to him, asking to have her rewarded. The governor recommended the Executive Council to make a grant of land, and an order was accordingly made for four hundred acres from the best land in the Talbot Settlement.

Twenty-seven years afterwards a son of the same Mrs. Defield took up arms against the Government, under William Lyons Mackenzie. He was taken in arms at the Windmill, near Prescott, in 1838, with the rebels who crossed from Ogdensburg and was condemned to suffer death as a traitor. Col. FitzGibbon with Mr. Alex. Hamilton, sheriff of the Niagara district, and Mr. David Thorburn, M.P., prayed His Excellency, Sir George Arthur, to pardon the son in consideration of the former good conduct of his mother, and after the lapse of some months a pardon was granted.

Such is one of many thrilling incidents little known, and in many cases entirely forgotten, that occurred along the Niagara frontier one hundred years ago; when year after year powerful invading armies poured into this country; when the border was torn by no less than eight battles and engagements fought from Niagara to Fort Erie, and the torch of the enemy destroyed all the towns and villages, with every house from Queenston to the Falls, Chippawa and Fort Erie—when death and desolation and ruin reigned alone. In strong contrast are to-day's handsome cities and towns, and glorious countryside, with the rich landscape it presents, its beautiful farms and gardens.

"Orchards and vine-clad hills,
On which the power of cultivation lies,
A veritable land of fruits and flowers,
Hallowed by historic memories.
Heavens! What a goodly prospect spreads around,
Of hills and dales and woods and lawns and spires,
And glittering towns and gilded streams."

A Plowman at 91.

Atkinson Township, Frontenac County, has probably one of the oldest plowmen in Canada, in the person of Henry Johnston, 91 years of age. Recently he plowed with a team of colts, and drives as straight a furrow as a farmer half his years.

DRIFTED MONTHS AT SEA.

Caroline Islanders Show How the Pacific Isles Were Peopled.

A few natives of the Caroline islands have again answered the old conundrum how the widespread islands of the Pacific came by the people who were found on them. The Caroline islanders are born seamen, and no mariner who knows their skill and daring will be surprised to hear that in March last year six of them confidently put to sea to visit Japan, over 1,200 miles away.

They were out less than a week when the terrible typhoon that in four days brought complete destruction to some of the islands wrecked the little vessel. She still floated, but had no rudder, mast, sails or oars. The men aboard her were helplessly adrift.

For two months they saw nothing but the heavens and the sea till one night a light shone out. But the castaways feared unfriendly natives and did not try to reach the light, though that very day their last bit of food had been eaten.

They caught fish and turned their provision boxes into firewood to cook them. They partly assuaged thirst by spreading their garments to catch the rain. So on they drifted, half dead, and no one knows exactly how long, for the time was not recorded, when they were pulled out of their boat on the shore of north Formosa. All but one were senseless. Two died in a few hours, and the others recovered. The distance between their starting and landing points is 1,700 miles.

Some years ago all the records of drifts or long sea journeys of Pacific islanders were collected, and this mass of evidence left practically no doubt that the myriad islands were populated by such voluntary or involuntary wanderings.—New York Sun.

Would He Like It?

In defense of dress reform Mrs. J. Gardiner Merritt, the sculptress, said at a recent luncheon in Washington:

"Isn't dress reform needed—at least for all of us except the very slender? I heard a young man, a rather lazy young man, tell a pretty girl the other day that he envied woman her idleness; that he would like to have been born a woman.

"The girl, tossing her head and snorting, answered:

"'You'd like to be a woman! Oh, yes! Just try it for a day. Fasten a blanket and a counterpane around your legs, buckle a strap around your waist so tight you can't draw a full breath or eat a hearty meal, have your hair all loose and fluffy, so that it keeps tickling your ears and getting into your eyes; wear high heeled shoes and gloves a size too small for you, cover your face with a veil full of spots that make you squint, fix a huge hat on with pins, so that every time the wind blows it pulls your hair out by the roots, and then, without any pockets and with a three inch square of lace to blow your nose with, go for a walk and enjoy yourself. You would like it!'"

Wind Gauge For Trains.

A singular device for the protection of railway trains crossing a viaduct exposed to heavy winds has recently been employed at Ulverston, England, says Professor R. DeC. Ward in Science. It consists of a wind gauge fixed at the west end of the Levens viaduct. When the wind pressure reaches thirty-two pounds to the square foot an electric contact is made automatically and bells ring in the signal cabins on each side of the viaduct. Upon this all trains are detained until the force of the wind abates. The interruption is telegraphed along the line. In February, 1907, a wind velocity of sixty-five miles an hour was recorded. The danger of very high winds to trains on an exposed bridge or viaduct was tragically illustrated many years ago by the lamentable Tay bridge disaster in Scotland.

Our Future Population.

Many estimates have been made of what the population of the United States will be in 1950. They vary all the way from 175,000,000 to 200,000,000. The latest person to make an estimate, however, takes quite a different view. In the Atlantic Monthly W. S. Rossiter, a census expert, shows that the rate of increase in population is steadily declining. From 1870 to 1880 the increase was 31 per cent, from 1880 to 1890, 20 per cent, and from that date to 1900, 21 per cent. In view of this steady decrease in the rate Mr. Rossiter estimates that the population in 1950 will not be over 130,000,000 and after that date will tend to become stationary.

Rotted Money Restored.

Mrs. A. E. Brown, for twenty-five years an expert in the United States treasury, recently finished a task that called for exceeding patience and deftness. A roll of bank notes which had been hidden in a tin can and buried in the earth for two years was given to Mrs. Brown to examine. The money had rotted and was little better than green tinted pulp. She was so successful in separating the decayed paper, piecing the bits and deciphering the letters and figures that practically the entire amount was redeemed and made good to the distressed owner.

A pretty schoolteacher, noticing one of her little charges idle, said sharply: "John, the devil always finds something for idle hands to do. Come up here and let me give you some work."

A New Sensation.

Mrs. Bullion—I wish I knew something to do that would provide me with an absolutely new sensation. Mr. Bullion—Go out and pay cash for something.

Windmills.

Windmills were invented and used by the Saracens.

When You Buy Oysters Don't Pay For Water

Why should you get a pint of water with every quart of Oysters? Water is cheap—bloats and bleaches the oyster—spoils its natural flavor.

You have never known how good oysters can be unless you have had

"Sealshipt" Oysters

They are shucked into air-tight steel cans and shipped direct from the beds—packed with ice around the container, not in contact with the oysters. You get all solid meats. And how fresh, wholesome, appetizing and deliciously different they are!

Ask for "Sealshipt Sense," a booklet containing new and attractive ways of preparing oysters.

If your dealer doesn't sell "Sealshipt," here are some who do:

S. A. Oke, G. O'Brien, J. T. Braund, R. C. Braund, G. A. Goheen

The genuine "Sealshipt" Oysters are always sold from a White Porcelain Display Case bearing the "Sealshipt" trade mark in blue. This is for your protection—look for it. The "Sealshipt" Carrier System is patented. Infringements will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM DOWNEYVILLE

Downeyville, Dec. 26.—The people of Downeyville learn with regret of the sad death of Miss Matilda O'Neill, in Rochester on Wednesday, Dec. 23rd. The corpse was brought to Omemee Thursday evening, accompanied by her sister, Miss Mary Ann, who was with deceased at the time of her death and during her short illness of two days. Owing to her many noble qualities Miss O'Neill had numerous friends here. The funeral took place on Saturday morning at nine o'clock from the old homestead, one mile east of Downeyville, where she spent her childhood days and lived until a few years ago, when she went to Rochester. Despite the disagreeable weather a large procession followed the hearse to the church and thence to the new cemetery. Deceased lady leaves an aged mother, two brothers, Dan and Ned, of this place, and three sisters, Ellen, at home, Mary Ann, of Rochester, and Sister M Thecla, of St. Joseph's Convent, Peterborough, who were all present.

The weather Christmas Eve and Christmas Day was exceedingly mild and the country people feared there would be no merry sleigh bells ringing soon, but Saturday was so severely cold that those fears were soon set aside.

Miss Flossie O'Brien and Miss Mary and Ethel Harrington, of St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, spent Christmas holidays at their respective homes.

Mr. Daniel Duffy who has been away for about fourteen years returned for Christmas and introduced to the Downeyville people his bride.

Miss Delphine Leggott who has been teaching at Fenelon Falls, is home for the holidays.

Miss Gertie Lucas, teacher at Tweed, and Miss Lottie Fitzpatrick, who is attending Normal School in Peterborough, spent Christmas under the parental roof.

Miss May Murtha, Lindsay, spent the great feast day at the home of her uncle, Mr. Frank Milloy.

Mr. Daniel Connell, of Toronto, was also welcomed to Downeyville by his many friends.

Mr. John Rudden, Nephew of Rev. Father McGuire spent Christmas at the Presbytery.

On Dec. 22, the people of Lindsay held a Christmas Fair which was a great success, and owing to the hens, turkeys, geese, ducks, eggs, beef and hogs we should judge that the people in this vicinity have been making good use of their time and need not fear poverty. The horse show created great excitement when the main street was crowded with magnificent horses, all colours and sizes, and seemed anxious to walk over their opponents. The most pleasing feature of the day was the baby show in the Academy of Music when twenty-nine babies were cooing and pouting from the stage, when the curtain rose. Baby Rose Calvert won the prize, which was five dollars, presented by Major Begg. This was the first Christmas fair and was a huge success.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

British Columbia Hunter's Exciting Adventure In the Rockies.

Apropos of the presence of much large game in the settled portions of British Columbia this year, the following account of a hunter's encounter with a wounded bear near Fernie is worth reproduction, writes a correspondent in Victoria. Bears have been so plentiful in the vicinity of Fernie, and have ventured so near the settlements, that many local sportsmen have made successful trips into the adjacent mountains in search of big game.

One of these excursions on Oct. 12 narrowly escaped ending in tragedy, and, as it is, the hunter is still in the hospital suffering from severe wounds inflicted by the infuriated animal he had wounded. The wounded man, named Price, proceeded a few miles north of here, in the Woods-McNab Co.'s timber limits, where several bears had been seen, and soon discovered the tracks of one of the animals. About two miles above the company's mill Price came on three bears, and he shot, wounding one, which, however, made off into the woods. He tracked the animal for a couple of hours, and was about to give up the chase, when, on entering some heavy underbrush, he came suddenly on his quarry, not a gun's length from him. He fired point blank at the animal, and before he could get out of its way it struck him a heavy blow on the head, and before he could recover himself the maddened animal had sprung on him and inflicted some terrible wounds with its claws and teeth. The injured man fought desperately in the unequal contest, and, though of powerful physique, was rapidly becoming exhausted, when the animal for some unaccountable reason left its prey and wandered into the bush. Price bound up his wounds as best he could and dragged himself down the mountain, where he was discovered by another hunter, who assisted him to the lumber mill, where a conveyance was secured and the injured man was driven into Fernie and his wounds dressed by Dr. Corsan. The man's leg and arm had been badly chewed by the bear, and, though weak from loss of blood and the terrible experience through which he had come, it is thought he will recover.

How Fires Start.

What starts the forest fires? This question has been asked over and over again this year. Campers and locomotives, is the usual answer. Many of the other things which start blazes in the forests are forgotten. It is true that perhaps one-half to three-fourths of the forest fires do begin as a consequence of the carelessness of some camper or from sparks flying from locomotives, but there are a number of things which set the woods afire.

For more than one-third of the fires the cause is not known. This is not strange when it is remembered that a fire may smoulder for days if the air is too thick to permit the smoke to be seen at a distance by the forest officer.

If campers would be sure to extinguish their fires before moving, and if the railroad companies would use efficient spark arresters, it is reasonable to think that the annual forest fire loss could be reduced more than one-half. In the case of lightning, man has no greater responsibility than to put the fire out as soon as possible after discovery. Careless brush burning by homesteaders and persons clearing land is said to be the cause of many of the fires which have started this year, particularly those which have swept over the Lake country.

Seeking Rare Caribou.

In search of the fabled Rangifer Dawsonei, the caribou of an undescribed species which is supposed to have as its habitat the Queen Charlotte group of islands, Frank Kermode, curator of the British Columbia provincial museum, left recently for the north on the steamer Amur. He will be accompanied by Samuel Whittaker, his assistant, and it is hoped that in this wild and inaccessible district some specimen of the animal, if it exists, will be found. The belief in the existence of the species is based upon the discovery of a fragmentary skull and one horn, but the description of the skin by a gentleman who saw it warranted Ernest Thompson-Seton in his conclusion. Any doubt in the mind of the naturalist was set at rest by Commander Hunt and Lieut. Bills, formerly of H.M.S. Shearwater, who found tracks of the animal and a shed antler upon the occasion of a visit there some years ago. Mr. Kermode has longed for a specimen for many years and believes that his present tour will be successful.

HELPED LOUIS RIEL.

Honore Jaxon Ran For Member of the Dominion Government.

Honore Joseph Jaxon, who was prominent in the United States last year because of his correspondence with President Roosevelt upon the Haywood-Moyer-Pettibone "undesirable citizenship" question, created much comment in the country west of Winnipeg during the recent elections by appearing as a candidate for the Ottawa Parliament.

He came to the northwest several months ago and was put forward as the candidate of an independent element that has arisen among the workingmen and seemed to have strength. In his appeal to the voter Jaxon attacked both leading political parties and put forth a statement which struck radically at Canadian claims to govern the northwest.

Mr. Jaxons' candidacy brought up the question whether he is a Canadian, or belongs under the United States flag by birth. He claimed, when living in Chicago, to have been born in Jaxon's buffalo camp, between Montana and the Northwest Territory, the location of the camp to the international boundary line being doubtful. His father was a hunter and trader and his mother was a woman who had been educated in England.

Jaxon claimed kindred with the Meti Indians, and said he had also Welsh, Scottish, English, French and Spanish forebears. He was educated at Toronto University and associated with Louis Riel in his rebellion.

Captured by the Government troops he escaped into the United States and lived for several years in Chicago. In May, 1907, he left Chicago, announcing that he was going to join the Cree Indians.

A SLEEPY MALLARD.

To find a wild duck asleep on the lake shore seems an impossible experience, but "impossible" is always a dangerous word.

Whatever may have been the impelling motive, a mallard, the largest of our inland wild ducks, took a sound sleep on the shore east of Toronto recently, and was surprised to awaken in the hands of a delighted friend. He showed no evidence of wounds, sickness, or any kind of disability except soporific weariness, and he soon shook that off to demonstrate the strength of his wings.

The sleepy mallard is already happy and contented in an open pond, fraternizing with gorgeously colored wood ducks and still more brilliant mandarin ducks from the eastern continent. Conscious of the uneven balance of a few short-end quills, he shows no desire to continue his journey southward. These ducks are agreeable migrants, nesting in convenient situations about the lakes, as well as along their routes to the Arctic coast. Their ways are familiar, their nests have often been found, and their eggs have been successfully hatched under domestic ducks. But Toronto has the only record of a fine, healthy mallard found confidingly asleep and reduced to a state of domestication.

Good Shooting In B.C.

One sportsman at least has found good sport on Vancouver Island this season, judging from the short but pithy letter he wrote to "Field and Stream" from Victoria. He says: "In two days, ending Sept. 7th, and within thirty miles of this city of 35,000 people, over seventy deer were shot and brought into town from right along the line of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railroad. Twelve of these deer were shot only seventeen miles out, and a panther eight feet long was downed with buck-shot by E. J. Cameron, a resident here.

"From farther up the island, say around Alberni, reports come that the deer are as thick as flies. I have tasted no finer venison than on Vancouver Island, and twenty-pound "spring" salmon are so numerous on trains that they create no comment. In a walk of eleven miles along a forest highway yesterday I saw four deer, and flushed hundreds of blue and willow grouse."

Whitney's Recreations.

Sir James Whitney is one of the few prominent men still riding the bicycle for pleasure. He takes a real delight in playing with his grandchildren. Another of the Premier's amusements is to walk down Yonge street and look in the store windows. This amusement is perhaps not deliberate, but anyone seeing him must be aware of the keen, though unconscious, delight which he takes in the pastime. The general public is possibly not aware that Sir James is an authority on the prominent men and women of England, especially upon the statesmen of the home country. He passes much of his spare time in reading the English newspapers, and also gets an insight into United States politics by reading papers and periodicals from across the line.

C.P.R.'s Growth.

In the six years, 1902 to 1908 there was an increase in the equipment of the C.P.R. of 659 locomotives, 842 sleeping cars and day coaches, and 25,190 freight cars, at an approximate cost of $37,000,000. This is equivalent to one locomotive every three working days, one passenger car every two days, and fourteen freight cars each day during the entire period of six years.

CANADA FAKERS.

Arthur Stringer Severely Censures Sir Gilbert Parker.

Mr. Arthur Stringer has recently written a severe article arraigning what he calls the "Canada faker." Mr. Stringer has little patience with the authors who profess to write of Canada and produce work full of glaring inaccuracies. Sir Gilbert Parker is one of the culprits, says the writer.

"Strange," he declares, "are the errors of Sir Gilbert Parker, who is Canadian-born and was for many years a school teacher in his native country. Thus, in his book, 'The Chief Factor,' he has two of his characters about to fight a duel, with swords. It is natural, of course, that two such combatants would search for passably level ground. Sir Gilbert takes them from the Hudson Bay Co.'s post and brings them to a moose-yard. Now it is my fixed conviction that the author in question has in some way confounded the word 'moose-yard' with 'barn-yard.' It is equally my conviction that Sir Gilbert has never looked upon a moose-yard, much less tried to travel through one in the winter-time. For a moose-yard is nothing more than an intricate net-work, a wandering maze, of deep tracks, or, rather, of deep gutters, an irregular series of trap-holes two feet and more to the bottom. And a delightfully odd and uncertain place indeed in which to indulge in combat by sword! Still again, Sir Gilbert's tendency to sentimentalize the situation leads him to depict his characters as marching across the snow in the dead of winter while one member of the band blithely defies sub-zero weather and trippingly plays a flute. Now just how this placid-souled gentleman fingered the stops is a very nice problem, when an unmittened hand will show signs of frost-bite before even the aria of 'Annie Laurie' could be rendered."

MONTREAL'S NEW SQUARE.

Site of Old Ship Fever Hospital Station Is Chosen.

Another square has just been completed by the road department of Montreal and next spring will be laid out in walks, with grass and trees planted. It blots out what has been an eyesore to the residents of McCord street and the locality for more than a quarter of a century. The new square has been laid out on the north side of the approach to the Wellington Bridge, almost facing St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church.

The site during the ship fever days of 1847 was a hospital station for many of the brave sisters, priests, doctors and laymen, who faced death in ministering to the wants of the stricken victims. Many of these noble spirits fell in the performance of a Christian duty. Among others, Mr. John E. Mills, who was at the time Mayor of Montreal, and courageously did his duty as first citizen and magistrate. Wellington and McCord streets were barricaded at this point, so that those attending the fever patients could not enter the city. Probably the venerable Canon Ellegood is the only survivor of the workers of those terrible days. There is a feeling among the citizens that it would be an appropriate act to name the new square after the heroic Mayor Mills.

The property was acquired by the city at the price of $50,000 for a square, on the south side approach to the bridge, where is deposited the huge boulder to the victims of 1847.

Whale Catch Good.

The whale fisheries off the coast of Vancouver have been phenomenally successful this year, the total catch being half as much again as it was in 1907. The number of whales taken is 556, of an aggregate estimated value of more than $1,000,000 ($1,025,000). The Blue Funnel liner Bellepheron carried as part cargo 5,000 barrels of whale oil consigned to Glasgow, the largest single shipment ever made. A remarkable feature of this year's hunting is the number of sulphur bottoms that have been captured. At the Kyuquot station more than one-third of the take has been comprised of this species, which is the largest of the whale family in the Pacific, averaging from 70 to 80 feet in length and weighing anywhere from 70 to 85 tons. Each of these mammals is worth about $3,500. A couple of years ago, when the whaling industry was started in these waters, the prophecy was hazarded by experts that the mammals would become extinct after a couple of seasons. Far from this proving the case, they have grown more numerous each year.

A Lavish Steward.

The owners of the barkentine Everett G. Grigs, got Victoria, B.C., did not long retain the services of a new steward engaged for the vessel at San Francisco some time ago. When Simon Palmer, the newly employed of the six-masted barkentine was ordered by Capt. Delano to provision the vessel for a voyage of eight months, he gave the matter considerable study and finally ordered for the use of the crew the following: Four hundred and fifty barrels of beef, 200 barrels of pork, 100 quart bottles of wine, 100 pounds of pepper, 300 pounds of salt, 400 bags of potatoes and 100 pounds of salted almonds. The item of salted almonds, when it fell under the captain's eye, furnished the safety valve for an impending attack of apoplexy. The steward admitted that his knowledge of supplies was based largely upon an account of the supplies needed by the battleship fleet when it sailed from the Atlantic coast. The Griggs sailed with another steward and the magnificent order was cancelled.

Dreams of Children.

Mr. and Mrs. John Creamer, father and mother of the two children who disappeared so mysteriously from their home at Spence Settlement one Sunday several years ago, are now living at Roxbury, Mass. In a letter to her sister in Sackville, N.B., recently Mrs. Creamer says: "John has been dreaming of the children lately. He seems to think that we will hear of them. That will never be, I guess. They seem to be able to find everything but them."

The Modern Husband.

Mrs. Knicker—We are to have a thousand foot skyscraper. Mrs. Bocker—I suppose that means that Henry will be detained at the office 500 feet later.

THE PARACHUTE.

Leonardo da Vinci Was the First One to Suggest It.

Credible accounts exist of an English Benedictine monk, Oliver of Malmesbury, in the eleventh century having tried to fly by precipitating himself from the height of a tower with the assistance of wings attached to his arms and his feet. It is said that, having gone along a little way, he fell and broke his legs. He attributed his accident to failure to provide his apparatus with a tail, which would have helped preserve his equilibrium and made his descent a gentler one.

In the sixteenth century Leonardo da Vinci first demonstrated that a bird, which is heavier than the air, sustains itself, advances in the air, "by rendering the fluid denser where it passes than where it does not pass." In order to fly it has to fix its point of support on the air. Its wings in the descending stroke exert a pressure from above down, the reaction of which from below up forces the center of gravity of its body to ascend at each instant to the height at which the bird wishes to maintain it. Some sketches which have come down to us prove that Leonardo occupied himself, like Oliver of Malmesbury, with giving man the power to fly by the assistance of wings suitably fixed to the body.

We owe to Leonardo also the invention of the parachute, which he described in the following terms: "If a man had a pavilion each side of which was fifteen braces wide and twelve braces high he might cast himself from any height whatever without fear of danger." It may be said, too, of Leonardo da Vinci that he was the first to suggest the idea of the screw propeller.

A SAUCY DUCHESS.

Her Audacious Fight For Gay and His "Beggars' Opera."

When the "Beggars' Opera," by Gay, was produced in 1728 it took positively by storm. The king still clung to Handel, but the nobility, with the Duchess of Queensberry among them, flocked rapturously to the "Newgate pastoral." The "Beggars' Opera" had a run of sixty-two nights, unprecedented in those days, and as one result of its success Handel became bankrupt. Suddenly there came an order from the lord chancellor to stop the new piece. Why, is not exactly known unless it was because the prime minister considered himself to be too faithfully represented therein. However that may have been, the theater had to be closed, whereupon the Duchess of Queensberry took up Gay's cause and vehemently championed it.

Very busy was she in those days, driving about in her coach asking for guinea subscriptions for printing copies of the forbidden play. And so heedless was Kitty that she carried her list to the queen's drawing room itself and had the audacity to ask the king for a subscription. This was a little too much, and her grace was requested to withdraw from the court, Kitty announcing, with characteristic composure, that the command was very agreeable to her, as she had never gone there for her own diversion, but to bestow civility upon the king and queen.

Papua Island.

Papua island was so named by the Malays, and the word means "frizzled," in reference to the hair of the inhabitants. It is generally supposed that Papua or New Guinea was originally part of the mainland of Australia. It was discovered by the Portuguese in 1526, though it was probably sighted by A. Dabreu during his voyage fifteen years earlier. The Australian government, realizing the danger that would arise if an enemy seized land so near their coasts, frequently urged England to annex the eastern portion of the island, and after two or three unauthorised annexations a British protectorate was established there in 1884.

"The physician attending me prescribed, on my rallying from an attack of rheumatism, your Scott's Emulsion, which I have been taking every winter since. I find it most valuable in strengthening and building up one after a severe illness. I have not had rheumatism since the time mentioned above and I owe it to your most valuable Emulsion. It is my life now, and makes me strong and healthy."—R. PICARD, Grand Ligne, Quebec.

Billy's New Year's Eve

By Mary K. Hyde

COPYRIGHT, 1902, BY MARY K. HYDE.

BILLY woke up and couldn't get to sleep again. First he thought he had the stomach ache, but when he remembered what his mother said about that second piece of chocolate cake he concluded he hadn't. Then he thought he must be thirsty, so he called Norah. He knew Norah was to sit up until his mother and father came home from the party where they were to "see the New Year in," whatever that was. But Norah was fast asleep in the morris chair by the window and just wouldn't wake up. So Billy decided to go to the bathroom himself for his drink of water.

As he pattered his way back toward his room Billy heard the big clock in the hall give the funny kind of "cluck" it always makes about three minutes of and wondered what time it was. The moon was shining bright into the dining room, and Billy dropped down on the big bearskin in front of the mantel to wait for the hour to strike, wondering what his mother would think of his being out of bed and prowling around the apartment at this time of night, for he was sure somehow that it was very late.

The big clock in the hall struck. Twelve times it struck.

"Gee!" exclaimed Billy. "Twelve o'clock—midnight! Why, I'm seeing the New Year in! Wonder what happens!"

Of course Billy knew all abo[illegible]hat happens at Christmas, and he amused himself by starting off into that fascinating game of "if."

"If it was Christmas instead of New Year's, and midnight the way it is, and moonlight the way it is, and if my grandpa lived in the country instead of in a brownstone house downtown, and if I was making him a visit, and if he had a barn, and if there was snow on the ground, and if everybody but me in the house was asleep, and if I got out of bed and ran to the barn and went in quietly to listen, and if the cows should begin to talk—oh, dear!" said Billy right out loud. "Oh, dear" –

"Well, what is it?" asked a gentle voice with a peculiar, soft, furry tone, quite unlike Norah's or any one else's Billy had ever heard before.

"Why did you call me, Billy? Look up here and tell me."

Yes, it was the deer's head over the fireplace speaking to him!

"Why, can you talk?" asked the astonished boy. "I knew live animals could talk at Christmas, but you"—

"You didn't know this was Stuffed Animals' night, did you? Well, you're in luck, and we're in luck, too, for we've often wished we could have a little chat with you. All you have to do is to call us. What shall we tell you about?"

"Let's play 'if,' same as I've been. You go on. What would you do 'if?'"

"If I were visiting my grandpa at his home in the country," said the deer, "and if it was moonlight, and if there was snow on the ground, I should probably be stalking through the Adirondacks to get a midnight drink at a little brook I remember, and it really makes me shudder after resting comfortably over this fireplace so many years to think of walking through the snow and wading down into that brook and drinking that icy water! Thank you! I'm contented where I am! So here's a happy New Year to you, and may I continue to look down upon you for many a year! Would you care to leave this happy home for the simple life of a wild deer?"

"Well, you must think I'm a looney!" began Billy.

"No, you don't!" called out a shrill voice, with a laugh that ran up and down Billy's backbone. "Don't flatter yourself that you show any resemblance to our family!" and the loon that hung by his legs on the wall near the door laughed so hard that the board behind him rattled against the casement.

"Well, what would you do 'if?'" asked Billy.

"Like my deer brother who has just spoken," said the loon, who is a great joker, "it makes me shiver to think of leaving my quiet roost over this comfortable radiator for a return to my old home. But just to please you, Billy, I'll tell you what I should do 'if.'

"If I were paying a visit to my grandfather's home and it was moonlight, I should doubtless be sailing around on some New Hampshire lake and laughing loud enough and long enough to scare every little boy within a mile and send him creeping down inside the clothes where he couldn't hear," and at the recollection of such doings the loon laughed again until the board behind him rattled and Billy's teeth chattered.

"Oh, stop, I say!" cried Billy. "I don't like that noise. Now, who"—

"Whoo—whoo—whoo!" came the words from the library.

"Well, who—who—who are you?" cried Billy.

"Oh, it's that old owl!" snapped the loon. "She's stuck up because she's on top of the bookcase!"

Sure enough, the big yellow eyes were staring right through the doorway at Billy, as if wondering why so wise a person had been left out of the game.

"All right, Mrs. Hoot. What would you do 'if?'"

"If I could leave my position here as supervisor of the library"—

"Wouldn't that jar your feathers!" snapped the loon.

"If I could leave, and if I should visit my grandfather's home among the leaves of the forest, and if it were moonlight and midnight, and if I saw a nice fat little mouse running along the snow"—

"Oh, rats!" snapped the loon.

"And if I could have one more nice fat little mouse to eat"—

"Oh, don't!" said Billy. "I'm afraid of mice. I can't bear"—

"Oh, you can't, can't you? Get up, then!" growled a bass voice coming directly from where Billy's hand was resting on the rug. As the boy sprang up, however, the growl changed into a deep laugh.

"Don't be afraid of me, Billy, after all these years!" said the bear. "You've taken too many naps on my back to be afraid now. What fur, eh?"

As soon as Billy dared to sit down again he stroked the bear's head and asked him to go on with the game.

"Oh," growled Mr. Bear, "if I should crawl away from this good warm room, and if I should visit my grandfather's home, whether it were midnight or moonlight, New Year's or Fourth of July, 'twould be c-o-l-d, oh, so c-o-l-d!" and he shivered until Billy nearly had a chill. "And if little boys get out of bed at midnight in the moonlight they get so c-o-l-d"—

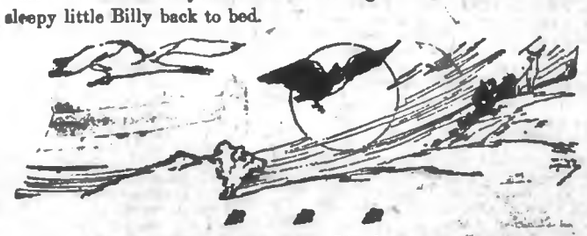
"If it hadn't been for that Welsh rabbit," broke in a voice very much like mamma's.

"Dear me, do Welsh rabbits talk, too?" said Billy. "Well, they have sweet voices anyway. I wish mamma"—

"Why, of all things!" the voice went on. "If here isn't Billy asleep on the rug! What on earth, child, are you doing here at this time o' night? Now, didn't I tell you that chocolate cake"—

But Billy stared blindly around the lighted room and began to explain about animals, deer and bears and loons and owls.

"Look here, young[illegible]ster," said his daddy, "the kind of animal you've had is the nightmare!" and he marched sleepy little Billy back to bed.



The Kaiser's Christmas.

When the bescheerung (the distribution of gifts under the Christmas tree) is in full blast, everywhere are heard cries of "Oh!" and "Ah!" delight, surprise and gratitude on all sides, mother and father smothered under a shower of kisses, their children running to and fro, inspecting breathlessly newly unearthed treasures or eying those of brother and sister. Most captivating the stern kaiser is then. Standing before his own "layout," he shows all the boyish good nature and curiosity of his sons—poking his nose into this box or that case, making pretense of being unable to untie a parcel wrapped up with particular cunning, glancing through some new books or a portfolio of rare prints, smiling, laughing and shouting and being a child again among children.—Wolf von Schierbrandt in Lippincott's.

Where Christmas Comes In January.

In remote places in eastern Kentucky they still observe Jan. 6, or old Christmas, never having changed the calendar. Their ancestors came from England about the middle of the eighteenth century, just when the change was being made there. They have been shut in here for these 150 years, with almost no communication with the outside world, and have learned nothing of changes.—Travel Magazine.

MEXICANS STARVING IN WILDS

Mexican Women and Child Found Near Athabasca Landing.

HAVE BEEN HOUNDED ABOUT

After Long Time In Which They Have Been Driven Back and Forward Across the U.S.-Canadian Border Indians Discover Old Woman and Daughter Desperate With Hunger In Desolate Region.

Winnipeg, Dec. 31.—Wandering about in the wilds of the north, among the haunts of innumerable timber wolves, Margaret Romaro, a Mexican woman, old and frail, together with her daughter, a child of thirteen, have been found by Indians in a starving condition, almost frozen and desperate from hunger.

The place where the two were found was at Calling Lake, 75 miles west of Athabasca Landing. The pitiful story came to the immigration offices of Mr. J. Bruce Walker yesterday. The place is uninhabited, and only wolves and big game abound in the bush and swamps, which in winter are buried in mountains of snow. Evidently the victims have endured unknown hardships for a long time. Both have been driven from Canada into the United States, and from the States into Canada again.

New Brunswick's Good Year.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 31.—The first financial statement of the Hazen Government was made public yesterday for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, of which they had control for about seven months. The statement shows revenue of $1,86,738.34, and expenditure of $1,042,196.45, leaving a surplus of $44,541.89.

The revenue was the largest in the history of the province and the expenditure was $69,000 greater than in 1907.

The new Government, on taking charge in March last, found a floating debt of $215,781, which they funded. The territorial revenue was $343,000, the largest in the history of the province, although the lumber cut was much smaller than in many previous years.

Eight Million For Mine.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—The statement was made at the Windsor last evening on the authority of several mining men who had come from Cobalt that the O'Brien Mine had just been sold to a foreign syndicate for the sum of $8,000,000.

It has been known for some time past that M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew, the almost sole owner of the mine, has been negotiating with a view to a sale; consequently the news of a final transfer will be no surprise in Cobalt. Mr. O'Brien said last year that he would not take less than ten millions for the property, but that was considered a pretty high figure even for the O'Brien.

Lord Rosebery's Warning.

Leith, Dec. 31.—At a dinner composed largely of financiers and notables, and at which Lord Rosebery was the guest of honor, those present were surprised to hear him sound a warning to Germany.

His remarks were in response to "war days." Lord Rosebery did not believe there would be an attempt by Germany to invade this country. Great Britain, however, must ensure herself against all risks.

His speech was vociferously received, the guests going so far as to stand upon their chairs and wave frantically the Union Jack.

Fire at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Dec. 31.—Six small shops on South Cumberland street, damaged by an early morning fire to the extent of $7,000, included W. F. Fortune, furnishings; Henderson Bros., furnishings; Carroll & Thornton, butchers; Rogers' Photo Studio and a Chinese restaurant.

Huge Airship Company.

New York, Dec. 31.—Announcement was made yesterday of the proposed organization of the Aerial Navigation Co. of America, with principal office in New York City and a capital of $60,000,000.

Thurlow Wood Barn known in connection with large Chinese railway operations, is to be president of the new company.

Shot by a Woman.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 31.—A despatch from Washington, North Carolina, says: John Emerson Stone, aged 23, highly connected in Boston and New York, was shot and killed early yesterday by May Woolard, who then shot herself twice.

The tragedy followed Stone's call on the woman to say he was leaving her forever.

Will Reach Fifty.

Ennis, W. Va., Dec. 31.—The fatalities in the Lick Branch Mine, as the result of the explosion on Tuesday afternoon, will probably reach fifty. Twelve bodies have already been taken out.

There are 38 men in the mine with little chance of their recovery alive. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Three Monthes For Stabbing.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Andrew Pritchard of Kazabazua was yesterday given three months for stabbing William Stephenson at that place a week ago. Pritchard was drunk and disorderly, and was being removed from the skating rink when the stabbing took place.

May Eat Turkey.

Toronto, Dec. 31.—Word has been received from Rome that dispensation has been granted Catholics of Canada to allow of the eating of turkey on New Year's Day.

Fruit Prices Advance.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—As the result of the earthquake in Sicily, the wholesale fruit men report that the prices of oranges and lemons have already advanced.

For Selling Dangerous Coal Oil.

Alexander, Man., Dec. 31.—The first information for the sale of dangerous coal oil has been laid by Inspector Earl of the Inland Revenue Department against D. A. Inspector Gosnell obtained a sample from the barrel, which flashed at 65 points, twenty points below the required standard.

A complimentary luncheon will be tendered by the clergy and laity of the diocese to the bishop at the Windsor Hotel on Wednesday, Jan. 6, at 1.30 p.m.

The enthronement will take place in Christ Church Cathedral on the feast of the Epiphany, Wednesday, Jan. 6, at 8 p.m.

Discusses Canada's Investments.

London, Dec. 31.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—British Empire Trust issues a statement wherein it deals lengthily with Canadian securities.

A warning note is sounded regarding municipal extravagance and the view is expressed that unless greater caution is exercised in spending money which can be easily borrowed Canada may have to face a financial crisis.

At the same time the trust declares that Canada is given as good if not better opportunities as any other country in the world provided care is exercised in the selection of investments.

Major Hains told the jury of the changes that he had noted in Capt. Hain's mental condition. All through his testimony the tears fell from Major Hains' eyes.

Minnie Rohn, cook in the Hains' household, said she overheard at two o'clock Sunday, two days following Capt. Hains' arrival from the west, a confession of Mrs. Hains to her husband. The witness further declared that Mrs. Hains told her of a trip to New York last spring.

One on the Judge.

"Here you are," said the judge to the colored prisoner, "complaining that you can't get along with one wife, and yet Solomon had hundreds of 'em."

"Yes, yer honor," was the reply, "but you must rickollect dat de last testimony he give in wus dat dey wus all vanity an' vexation of spirit!"

Still Holds Good.

"There was a time," exclaimed young Spenders, who had gone through a fortune, "when people used to say I had more money than brains. They can't say it now."

"No?" queried the caustic cad.

"No. I'm down to my last penny."

"Ah, but you have the penny."

THE PRISON BIRD.

Tyrannical and Jealous Feathered Beauty of Africa.

The peculiarity of the prison bird, a feathered beauty of Africa, is that he is the most tyrannical and jealous of husbands, imprisoning his mate throughout her nesting time. Livingstone watched the bird's habits while in Monpour, and in his subsequent observations referred to the nest as a prison and the female bird as a slave.

The nest is built in the hollow of a tree through an opening in the bark. As soon as it is completed the mother bird enters carefully and fearfully and settles down in it. Then papa walls up the opening, leaving only just space enough for air and food to pass through. He keeps faithful guard and brings food at regular intervals without fail. The female thrives under her enforced retirement. But if the prison bird is killed or in any other way prevented from fulfilling his duties the mother and her little ones must die of starvation, for she cannot free herself from bondage.

Normally the imprisonment lasts until the chicks are old enough to fly. Then the male bird destroys the barrier with his beak and liberates his family. "It is charming," writes Livingstone, "to see the joy with which the little prisoners greet the light and the unknown world."

THE NORMAN "OYEZ."

A Legacy of William the Conqueror to the Courts.

Everybody who has ever been in a United States courtroom knows that when the judge walks out of his chambers and ascends the bench the court crier drones out:

"Oyez, oyez, oyez, the honorable court of the (whatever district it may be) is now in session."

Not many persons, however, realise that the crier says "oyez, oyez, oyez," instead of "harken, harken, harken," because of a chance visit that William the Conqueror made to an English court almost 900 years ago.

William had overrun England, seized the government and placed himself at its head. Happening to enter a courtroom, he heard the crier call the assemblage to order in English. William rebuked him and on the spot decreed that the business of all English courts should be transacted in Norman French, his native tongue. Afterward the courts went back to English, but to this day "oyez, oyez, oyez," clings to court customs wherever the English language is spoken as a reminder of the great Norman who whipped King Harold in the battle of Hastings.—Scrap Book.

One of Life's Tragedies.

He had expected a tender embrace from his sweetheart, but her greeting of him was cold. He could not understand it.

"Darling," he exclaimed in agony, "what is the matter?"

But she remained silent, her lips tightly closed, and motioned him from her.

He fell upon his knees.

"My love," he cried, "tell me what I have done to offend you? I swear I have done nothing wrong! I confess I kissed the Simpson girl last night at the party, but on my oath I—I thought she was you."

Her lips closed even tighter, but she uttered not a syllable, and, in despair at her unbending demeanor, he fled from the place, he knew not whither.

Would you know, oh, reader, the reason of the conduct by which a woman blighted two young lives? 'Twas simply this: She had left her false teeth in the bathroom.

Probably She Meant It.

Lucile, a carefully brought up little girl of five years, returned from her first party in great glee.

"I was a good girl, mamma," she announced and talked nice all the time."

"Did you remember to say something pleasant to Mrs. Townsend just before leaving?" her mother asked.

"Oh, yes, I did," was the enthusiastic reply. "I smiled and said: 'I enjoyed myself, Mrs. Townsend. I had a lot better dinner than I thought I'd have.'"—Delineator.

Talk.

"It takes a baby mos' two years to learn to talk," said Uncle Eben, "an' den it takes de res' of its lifetime to learn to keep f'um talkin' too much."

Two Bad Bites.

Diogenes being asked "What is that beast which is the most dangerous?" replied, "Of wild beasts the bite of a slanderer and of tame beasts that of the flatterer."

STOLEN GOODS SAID TO BE IN BUFFALO, N.Y.

Toronto, Dec. 31.—Latest developments tend to confirm the story of Policeman Wilkins as to wholesale thefts from tamcoc stores. It is said some $1,200 worth of goods have been found in Buffalo, of which $900 worth are furs from Falls' store. This is taken to indicate that Malone had some provincial detective as confederate.

THEY ENTERTAINED THE LITTLE CHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. C Rutherford entertained the children of the House of Providence at their residence, London street yesterday afternoon and evening and the little folks had an outing that they will long remember. During the afternoon they were treated to a sleigh drive around the city which was greatly enjoyed. Afterwards a delightful fowl supper was served to which the little ones with their appetites sharpened by the drive, did ample justice. A large Christmas tree in the hall was loaded down with an abundance of gifts for the children ,and no one was forgotten. Afterwards all the children gave a very enjoyable programme of songs and recitations their finished work showing that they have received very careful training. Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford have made this treat for the children of the House of Providence an annual affair, and it is eagerly looked forward too,

TYPICAL SCENES FROM EARTHQUAKE DISTRICT.

FAMILY OF LOCAL ITALIAN LIVES AT TERMINI, SICILY, NEAR ILL-FATED MESSINA

The Longo cousins, proprietors of the fruit store on Hunter street, east of George street, are but three years out from Sicily, and one of their families is living in the town of Termini situated about twenty-five miles from Palermo on the coast of the Tyrrhenian Sea.

When seen by an Examiner reporter last night, Mr. Longo stated that he did not consider that any of his relatives had met with injury as the reports seemed to indicate that the western part of the island had escaped the disaster. It is hoped that this surmise is correct but it may possibly be that Termini was affected as the shock was plainly felt in Palermo.

His Family There

The town of Termini is almost on a straight line between Palermo on the west and Messina and Reggio on the east. It is a strange coincident that Joseph Longo is the name of each of the two men referred to. They stated that they are cousins and before coming here lived next door to each other in a double house. One is taller than the other and of darker [illegible] his family out to Canada, but the other man who is known widely in the city, from his peddling fruit in the summer with a waggon, has his own family and his father in his native town. He sent a letter home yesterday inquiring about the safety of his family, but expects to have one from them soon, sent before the arrival of that which he has dispatched.

Experienced a Quake

Just before they came to Canada, their town was visited by an earthquake of minor force when compared with that which has devastated the beautiful Calabrian and Sicilian cities. Mr. Longo in describing its effect said "it was just like a great big stone hitting the roof of your house and you never expecting it. It shook from top to bottom and you would think it was going to pieces and would fall about you. Our houses were badly shaken and the people badly frightened. They thought a worse one would come so they went out on to a plain outside the town and camped in tents until their fear passed away."

Messina the Fruit City

The fair, progressive city of Messina has suffered sadly. Probably everybody knows that most of the lemons and many of the oranges that we use are shipped from that port. Mr. Longo pointed to a crate of lemons and there on one end was the name Messina, showing that it had been packed and shipped from that city. Termini is about one hundred or more miles from this port, and it is likely that a more or less severe shock was felt in the home city of the Longos. One's imagination makes no mistake in the supposition that large amounts of lemons, oranges and olives were lost in the earthquake. Mr. Longo says that he is confident that such has been the case. To substantiate his belief a late despatch from Montreal is as follows:

Montreal, Dec. 31.—As the result of the earthquake in Sicily the wholesale fruit men report that the prices of oranges and lemons have already advanced. That portion of Sicily affected is in the centre of the lemon and orange district, from which Canada receives a very large share of her supplies.

Mr. Longo stated that he knew a Toronto firm who had a consignment of 1700 crates of lemons ordered from Messina which were to be shipped on Tuesday. Needless to say that shipment did not get far on its journey.

The reporter gained many other interesting items of information regarding Sicily from Mr. Longo who said that his home town is the centre of one of the best olive districts in the world.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS OF WEDDED LIFE HUSBAND PRESENTS ANOTHER RING

Lakefield, Dec. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Jacob White, Dummer Township, celebrated on Monday the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, when the brothers and sisters or representatives of their families, assembled at the home, "Pleasant Valley." A unique feature was the presentation to each by the host and hostess of suitable memorials in gold of the enjoyable event. The groom of fifty years presented the bride with a handsome wedding ring, and the bride and groom gave a duet of original composition, recalling incidents of their early life. Rev. Dr. Mervin, pastor of Wesleyan Methodist Church, and his wife, were among those present, the former officiating as chairman. Mrs. Geo. Grant and three children, Paisley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. White, were present.

WHITE & GILLESPIE FURNISH THE EQUIPMENT FOR NEW BUTTER PLANT

Messrs. White & Gillespie have just installed a modern butter plant in Oakwood factory, a few miles west of Lindsay. A rather tangled history is connected with this factory. Two years ago its butter and cheese equipment was placed on the market and purchased by Mr. Gillespie. Since that time there has been no business carried on at Oakwood and recently it was decided to install a butter plant. The machinery was secured from the local store and Mr. Gillespie stated that there are several other factories contemplating changes.

SENTENCE WAS DEFERRED UNTIL MONDAY NEXT

The trial of William Rattray for the theft of nearly $700 from Mr. Martin Connors during the summer, was continued this morning when all the evidence was received and Magistrate Dumble deferred judgment until Monday morning.

The principal witness to-day was P. C. Newhall, who went to Toronto on December 17th with Mr. Connors when it was learned that Rattray had been apprehended. They went to the police station, where he was in custody, and while Mr. Connors spoke to the prisoner through the bars, P C. Newhall remained in the corridor and afterwards, when Mr. Connors had gone. The conversation he overheard was rather damaging against the prisoner, as it was with another man in an adjoinint cell.

P. C. Newhall Testifies

I heard Mr. Connors say to the prisoner, "You've got yourself into a nice box," and referred to the theft. Rattray replied that he never had any money and stated that he had been with a number of Peterborough fellows sitting on the tombstone at the corner of George and Charlotte streets about one-thirty of the night in question.

Witness said Mr. Connors told prisoner that he had tried to get young O'Toole and another fellow to help him do the job. Part of the reply Rattray made was as follows: "If they say so it must be true, for I was boosed. I had been hitting it up good." He denied having an accomplice. He said he went along Charlotte street to Aylmer, and thence to the C. P. R. He caught a freight about 1.30 a. m.

It Looked Bad

Mr. Connors remarked that the fact that he was well acquainted with the hotel looked bad against him. Rattray replied that it did, as he knew where the money was kept and how to open the window, but "other people knew as well as myself."

P. C Newhall stated that he heard a prisoner in an adjoining cell say, "You gave yourself away when you told about being on the tombstone and being boosed, etc., but there is only his and your word for it." Rattray replied, "They can't do anything to me, as nobody seen me and they said there was another man with me."

The voice asked again, "What about them rubber shoes?" Rattray replied, "They were my ball shoes. We took the spikes off them. Connors said somebody told him I got them to do the job."

The voice said, "It looks bad your skipping out when you had just got there." Rattray said, "We had arranged to come down. Was with another fellow for work, but the other fellow backed out and he came alone.

P. C Newhall gave an account of that part of the conversation which referred to Rattray's trip to Chicago. It took him five days and nights to do the journey, and after staying two days in that city started back again. He had slept around the docks in Toronto for a time, and the first night he spent at home he was arrested. Later he said no one had found any money on him. One of the prisoners said, "You were foolish to tell that hotelkeeper that it must be true if the fellows he had been with said so."

PICTURES OF THE DISASTER.

To-day the Examiner is able to publish the first of the series of cuts illustrative of the terrible disaster in Sicily and on this page are found a number of photographs, which give a good impression of the appearance of the cities that were destroyed in one of the most awe inspiring fatalities that the history of the world has ever recorded. These photographs will be published from day to day in the Examiner and will no doubt prove a popular feature As soon as possible pictures of the disaster itself will be published.

LATEST SUMMARY DECLARES DEAD MAY YET TOTAL 200,000

Rome, Dec. 30.—The details of one of the most appalling disasters recorded in the history of the world are being unfolded in the despatches coming in to-day from Calabria and Sicily. It is a story of indescribable horror and calamity. The earthquake of Monday morning wrought havoc and destruction that cannot be estimated. Italy is stunned. Italy is weeping. The country is crushed by a visitation described as the greatest disaster in the memory of man, yet the full measure of the catastrophe has not yet been taken.

The calamity grows with the receipt of every fresh despatch from the south. Calabria is dotted with small towns and villages ,and new localities are reporting almost hourly casualty lists that run from the hundreds into the thousands.

It is still impossible to reach any accurate estimate of the dead, but the total number is placed anywhere between 100,000 and 150,000. In some quarters it is declared that the final numbers will be as high as 200,000 persons.

Countless thousands of wounded persons, men, women and children, are dying to-day in the ruins. It is utterly impossible to succor them all. They cannot be reached before death puts an end to their misery. Numberless wounded of the survivors who have made their way to other cities, are still without medical attention. The facilities for proper care even in the cities that did not suffer are inadequate.

The devastated district is still filled with half-demented survivors who cannot get away. They are naked and starving, and wander aimlessly in a downpour of rain. The ruins are still burning.

WELL KNOWN NORTH MONAGHAN MAN ELECTED MAYOR OF ALAMEDA, SASK.

From the Alameda, Sask., Despatch, it is learned that Mr J J Brealey, a former resident of North Monaghan whose name is kept in memory in the township by "Brealey's School House," at the recent municipal elections in Alameda was elected Mayor by a majority of 9. The report of the voting indicates that Mr. Brealey has somewhat departed from the strenuous and lively methods which marked the assertion of his citizenship in this vicinity some years ago. It states that Mr. Brealey sat quietly in his head quarters during the polling, but that at the close of the poll "Jim" received congratulations and passed round the cigars."

"BLACKLISTED" MAN PAYS FOR BREACH OF LAW

Two bottles of Calcutt's lager found in the pockets of a man who has been on the "Indian list" for the past five or six months was the primary reason for the imposition of a fine of ten dollars at this morning's police court.

The two pints were produced in court and were certainly not perfumery or soft water. The prisoner appeared to have been on a spree and although P. C McGinty testified that he had smelt liquor on him when he arrested him, he stated that he had not had a drink in weeks.

His explanation of the bottles was that he had bought them from a man in Calcutt's brewery before he was "listed" and had them hidden in his father's cellar during that time.

"I suppose you passed and repassed them as a practice in self control," Magistrate Dumble caustically remarked. The prisoner had asked for a drink in a local hotel and was being served with it when another bartender entered and seeing him, took the bottle and glass from him.

DRY GOODS STORES EARLY CLOSING HOUR

In yesterday's issue an article appeared stating that the dry goods and clothing stores would close on Saturday evenings at ten o'clock. It has since been learned that the clothiers have this hour, but during the months of January and February the millinery and dry goods stores will be closed on Saturday evenings at 9 o'clock. This is to encourage earlier shopping and to give the clerks better hours. The buying public and especially the women are requested to try and finish their purchases an hour earlier than in the past.

THE OLD YEAR AND THE NEW

At this season of rejoicing and festivity, as we close the volumes of 1908 and welcome the new year with its joys and sorrows, its duties and responsibilities, its toil and its rest, one naturally casts a retrospective eye over the year just closed. As the light of the rising sun dims the stars, so does the joyous light of the Christmas tide soften and make trivial the vexations and trials of every day life—the bickerings and bitterness, the heart-burnings and hardnesses of 1908—that sprang from the inevitable contentions and conflicts of interest or ambition in social emulation or business rivalry. They grow small as they sink into the distance of the past. They lose the power to bring the vexation of spirit and sadness of heart which they carried with them at the time. Viewed from the vantage ground of the higher ideals that Christmas time creates, they recede and fade from the sight of the eye, from the harbour of the heart and from the shelter of the mind.

In the heat of political contention, in the strife for social supremacy, in the race for wealth and business success, and in all the ambitions of human achievement, it has been inevitable, that words should have been said and acts done that are to-day recalled with regret, to be forgotten, let us hope, as to ourselves, to be forgiven as to others, and wiped out of recollection with honest satisfaction as we close the old book and open a new record with an unsullied page.

So long as mankind is as human as we find it, so long as so much variation of temperament, so much capacity for honest difference of opinion exists, so long shall we see men grouped in party camps, civic, provincial and national, both honestly holding opposing ideas as to policies and theories of government and administration. This is a condition that tends to maintain the body politic in healthy condition. The sea of political and civil life but for the storms of contention would become a standing pool, a dead sea of ambitionless and fruitless stagnation. Where danger lies is when the rivalry of principles, and the conflict of theories degenerate into personal hostilities: when we fail to agree to disagree, and so, in effect, impeach the sincerity of others in regard to the opinions they hold and fail to respect convictions as honestly held and with as good warrant, perhaps, as our own. Mutual tolerance and charitable regard for the opinions of others are not incompatible with the widest divergence of viewpoint in all the matters that enter into the composition of the complex human organism, that constitutes civilized and Christian society. With all our contentious activities, all our rivalries and struggles, we should be large enough of soul to recognize that all are marching, though by seemingly different divergent paths, towards the common goal—the common good. Whatever be our social shibboleth, our civic theories, our religious or political faith, we can, consistently with loyalty to our belief, remember that we are citizens of one country and that "no mean country"—brothers of one race, with common interests, with common aims, with a common ambition and with a common patriotism.

The forward movement in which Canada is so splendidly engaged appeals to the universal Canadian instinct of patriotism, regardless of party differences, which are after all of light importance when weighed in the balance with the moral well-being and material progress and general prosperity of our common country.

Harmony and co-operation—standing shoulder to shoulder as citizens—will accomplish much, not only to elevate the standard of political and national life, but to promote the welfare of the country. In this view we shall, to borrow with reverence, the language of St. Paul, "forget the things that are behind—the asperities and bitterness that have too much marked national life in all its features "and press forward to the mark of the prize of our high calling" as a heaven-dowered national unit in a heaven-dowered Empire.

Passing from the more general to the more concrete it could, with profit, be remembered that under our system of government, the Opposition in Parliament have duties, as distinct, and responsibilities, as exacting, as have the Ministerial members. By frank and fair discussion, and wholesome and honest criticism, dealing with interests not individuals, an Opposition in Parliament becomes an essential factor in good government.

The rivalry of men of differing political sentiments, in the pursuit of public favour and a healthy emulation in performance of public duties, ought not necessarily to engender injurious acrimony or hostile parliamentary or personal relations. The call of duty to a government and government party is to faithfully discharge its trust and to regard an Opposition as co-workers. The duty of an Opposition is to regard a Government as an expression of the voice of the people, the representative embodiment of the popular will, to accept the verdict of the nation, and, when no surrender of principles is involved, to agree to disagree on points of difference in policy and practice. With such relations established and maintained our legislators will raise themselves to a plane of disinterested patriotism, immeasurably higher than all considerations of politics—where all can unite on common ground as instruments in the accomplishment of the manifest destiny to which the bounty of nature and the ties of Empire point the way.

It, in this spirit, we meet the responsibilities of the New Year, each doing his duty faithfully in his place in the ranks of human activity, each living in love and charity with his neighbour, each squaring his life to the line of the Golden Rule, it will be no mere amiable formality to wish to Canadians all, as the Examiner wishes to its readers and all the world,

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Quebec has 165,474 square miles of forest reserves, and Ontario 16,300 square miles of forest reserves, which are estimated to contain seven billion feet of pine.

NAILING DOWN THE WINDOWS

This is the time of the year when a great many citizens nail down the windows. The price of coal is high, and the family expenses are large. In order to keep down the expense the houses must be closed up tightly, and the fresh air must be kept out. Storm sashes are placed in the windows of the sleeping-rooms even though this practice is not as common as it was ten years ago. The average house is closely guarded against fresh air with the consequent result that coughs, colds, and tubercular diseases run riot through the land.

However, the fresh air theory is making progress. More and more people are learning that fresh air is the greatest medicine in the world. The only difficulty in Canada is the fear of the ordinary individual that cold air is bad for the lungs. It is hard for him to realise that hot air is more harmful than cold air. Moreover, there are few inducements for people to remain outdoors in the cold weather. The younger people indulging in skating, snowshoeing, tobogganing, and sleigh-riding get more or less fresh air during the winter months; the older people who spend their time in churches, theatres, and homes get very little fresh air, and are continually breathing air which is not fit for human consumption.

In the cities, people have much less chance of getting fresh air than in the country. The restaurant, the street car, and the public buildings are over crowded and badly ventilated. As Dr. Geo. D. Porter says in a paper read before the Canadian Medical Association—"Many a man blames the rise and fall of the thermometer for his failing health, when the rise and fall of the stock market have had far more to do with it. Most of us know of some invalid who has gone to Colorado, changed his mode of life and recovered his health, and then attributed it all to the climate, when he might have been cured much easier and at less expense by hieing himself to the pure air and the simple life of the country in his own neighbourhood."—Canadian Courier.

A certain young artist in New York who is on terms of comparative intimacy with the janitor of the apartment house wherein he maintains his studio is in some doubt whether the said janitor is a cynic or something of an art critic, or both.

"One day while doing a bit of repair work in the studio," says the painter, "Mike scrutinized a bit of my work with ominous solemnity. When I indicated a portrait of myself the blow fell. Said I:

"'The paint on this is badly cracked, which spoils the likeness.'

"With no more expression in his countenance than is to be seen in the face of a representative of Buddha Mike replied:

"'Not at all, sir.'"

Training Canaries.

In the canary breeding establishments of Germany only the male birds are valued, because the females never sing. The method of training the birds to sing is to put them in a room where there is an automatic whistle, which they all strive to imitate. The breeder listens to the efforts of the birds and picks out the most apt pupils, which are then placed in another room for further instruction. These are the best singers and ultimately fetch high prices.

Lived Up to His Belief.

A FAMOUS CEMETERY

Pere Lachaise Is One of the Landmarks of Paris.

IT HAS A STORMY HISTORY.

This Picturesque Burial Place Has Served as a Battleground as well as a Graveyard—Its Monuments, Lovers and Disconsolate Widows.

Pere Lachaise is the largest and quite the most interesting of the Paris cemeteries and named after the Jesuit confessor of Louis XIV., whose country seat occupied the site of the present chapel until the ground was made a cemetery in 1804. It covers 110 acres of ground, is picturesque, but quite unlovely. Hare wrote about the tombs that "weight was their chief peculiarity and that all the monuments looked as if each family had tried to pile as much marble as possible on to their deceased relatives."

Pere Lachaise has a stormy history. In 1814 the Russians fought the French there and gave them a beating. During the commune the Versaillais and Communards fought several pitched battles among the tombstones and did considerable damage. But it is not so much with the history of the cemetery as with the people buried in it that we have to deal. A volume might be filled with the mere list of all the celebrated men and women buried in it, for, as Victor Hugo wrote, "being buried in Pere Lachaise is like having mahogany furniture—a sign of elegance."

In Pere Lachaise the monument which attracts most visitors is that of Abelard and Heloise, the two most famous lovers in the world. The monument was first erected 637 years after their death and brought to Pere Lachaise in 1817 from the museum where it had been during the revolution. Another famous lover, Alfred de Musset, lies buried not far from the two willows over the graves of Heloise and Abelard. David, the painter; Rachel, the actress; Balzac, Scribe, Michelet and many other well known folk lie near at hand. Admiral Sir Sydney Smith, Lord Seymour and other well known Englishmen are to be found in other portions of the cemetery, while literature is represented not only by great authors, but by Lesurques, the victim of Dubosc in the famous legal Lyons Mail imbroglio.

But Pere Lachaise has more romance than in its tombstones. Chatting one day with one of the old soldiers who are the keepers of this grim park, I learned some curious facts about it.

"We never have a dull moment," the man said. "You may think that our time here is monotonous, but you are quite wrong if you do so. To begin with, there are the burglars. The cemetery is overrun with them. There are three kinds of burglars. There are the connoisseurs who often get away with valuable prizes, for you will be surprised at the works of art of small size which people put in their chapels. The window is broken, a stick slipped through the hole, and all sorts of things worth having are fished out; then the bronze stealers, who take away as much as they can carry in their special pockets and make from 15 to 20 francs a day at the game until we catch them.

"A little while ago a bust weighing forty pounds was taken out of the cemetery over one of the walls. But the most curious form of robbery is, perhaps, that of the pearl wreaths. Women are the principal offenders. They select the new ones, which are not weather stained, flatten them with their backs against the tombstone, slip them under their dresses, and when they have got away with them (we have no right to search even suspicious looking customers) sell them to dealers, to whom they tell the well worn story of a poor workwoman who has need of food.

"You would hardly believe it, but Pere Lachaise," said the keeper, "is a favorite meeting place for lovers. We get lovers of all ages, and perhaps more schoolboys and schoolgirls than anything else. But the three most curious things we see here in the cemetery are the forlorn widows, the letter boxes and the cafe." "The cafe?" I asked. "Yes. There are hundreds of people in Paris who refuse to believe that their dead do not enjoy after death the good things they used to like when they were alive. Mothers bring apples and sweets and leave them on the tombstones of their children. People bring wine and glasses, and there is one old gentleman who leaves a potato salad on his son's tombstone regularly every Sunday. Of course the children soon find out these things, and we have never been able to convince the people who bring them of the absurdity of doing so. It is a very harmless superstition, after all."

"And the letter boxes?" I asked. "Lovers' letter boxes?" said the guardian. "There are dozens of them in all parts of Pere Lachaise. Sometimes they are holes in the trunks of trees; sometimes they are little hollows under stones.

"The inconsolable widow is a frequent visitor. She is a pretty woman, and black suits her. She kneels down by a tombstone, rarely the same one, and when a likely looking mourner of the other sex appears bursts into tears. He consoles her pretty soon, and the two leave the cemetery arm in arm. One of these widows invited me to her wedding, six months ago, and last month I was called to give evidence about her meetings with her victim, for she had seven other husbands living."—St. James' Gazette.

Those who want friends to whom to open their griefs are cannibals of their own hearts.—Bacon.

THE LOWER LACHINE ROAD.

Ah! Well you know
The old grey road where shafts of gleaming light
Strike through the trees and lie so cool and white
'Neath stately elms;
As near the river brim upward they sweep
To arch o'erhead their branches bending deep,
Seeming to heed
The murmur or the roar of waters vex't
Lashed by the storm or lulled, perchance, to rest.
Where rushing on,
O'er shelves of rock, the rapids foam and toss,
Forever turning, churning, without loss,
As when La Salle
Bartered for furs and watched the Indians ply
Deftly their paddles as they came to buy
Here were his hopes,
Bright with youth's ardent glow, and here, perchance,
He dreamed new glories for his well-loved France.
* * * * *
Long, long ago,
Slain with his quest unended! Well you know
The old grey road where purple iris grow,
For there a rill—
Silvers with joy and ecstasy, to meet
From out the woods an incense warm and sweet.
While a deep voice
Comes from the distant hills, "Look—look, for we Mark time and place for long Eternity."

NEW BRUNSWICK PIONEER.

Mrs. Janet Patterson of Kent County, N.B., is 107 Years of Age.

There lives to-day in Kouchibouguac, Kent County, one of the oldest women in the province, and in fact all Canada. It is nearly one hundred and seven years ago that Janet Patterson was born in the parish of Kirkmichael, Dumfries-shire, Scotland. Her maiden name was Janet Potter. In the year 1833 she emigrated to Canada and settled in that province, in the parish of Carleton. With her husband, the late James Patterson, she lived the strenuous life and endured many hardships when the country was young. She raised a large family. Robert, John and Margaret live in Kouchibouguac, the latter having the care of the mother; two, Mrs. Kee and Mrs. Cummings, reside in the United States, while four others with her dear husband have gone to the "palace o' the King."

That Mrs. Patterson's health is exceptional for a lady of her years goes without saying. She regrets that her eyesight is failing so that, as she herself puts it, it is difficult to make sure of what she reads, and that her memory also is failing, and yet she can converse intelligently upon many things, and asks questions about persons and events which really surprise one. She has been a member of the Presbyterian church for many years, and her faith in the eternal truths is strong. She occasionally lapses into the dialect of "my ain countrie" and you have to listen with all your ears. When asked if it was her strong constitution that had brought her through so many years she said, "No, is was just the goodness of God."

Labor Conditions Better.

There was further improvement in industrial and labor conditions during October, according to the November issue of The Labor Gazette. Generally speaking, the outlook is for steady improvement of trade and general industry.

Manufacturing, though more active than in September, was characterized by caution. Lumbering remained dull, coal mining less active than in September. In cities the general labor market was well supplied. There was marked activity in railway construction.

There were only four labor disputes during the month, a decrease of 18 as compared with October, 1907. Three were settled. The number of employes affected was 8,512, and the loss of working days 37,880. During the month industrial accidents occurred to 241 work people, 79 of which were fatal.

Met Him Before.

Here is a story going the rounds of the English press concerning Dr. Ingram, Bishop of London, who made such a favorable impression in Canada on his recent visit.

Lord Salisbury, as is well known, was a very absent-minded man, and his memory for faces was just about as bad as King Edward's is excellent. Now, on one occasion, when both the Bishop of London and Lord Salisbury were visiting at Sandringham, the former observed that the Premier did not seem to recognize him. His prognostications were correct. Lord Salisbury knew the face, but just whom it belonged to he couldn't think.

"I've met that man before, I know!" declared the Premier to his royal host.

"Well, I should think you have," replied King Edward, "seeing that you made him Bishop of London!"

Hairs and Feathers.

Hairs are found on almost everything that grows, and, if we may so call the fine fibers of asbestus, they even invade the mineral world. From a piece of mineral asbestus quarried from the earth and looking like a stone with a satiny fracture the silken fibers can be rubbed with the finger till the lump is worn away.

Secure a feather somewhere—it will be much better than a picture—and you will see that it has a main stem or midrib. Along each side of this extends the thin part known as the vane. Look closely and you will see that this vane is composed of tiny feathers, called beards, fastened together throughout their whole length from where their bases join the midrib to their tips. You can easily separate one of these from the rest, when you will see how like a tiny feather it is, with what seems a fine fussiness along each edge. —St. Nicholas.

HABITANTS IN THE WEST.

French-Canadians Are Steadily Colonizing District Around Edmonton.

The French-Canadians have an ardent and growing colony in Edmonton, and a few years ago Morinville and St. Paul des Metis were started and have become thriving towns. The tide of French immigration has largely increased recently and 20 miles north of St. Paul there is now the parish of St. Vincent, with 150 families, where a year ago there was nothing.

But these settlements are not far enough north to suit the French-Canadians. A regular press campaign has been made in the French eastern press in favor of the Peace river country, a vaguely understood country known to be beyond Athabasca Landing, and it has found a responsive chord among the sons of old trappers, who find kinsmen among the halfbreeds settled at the old Catholic missions. The French-Canadians are doing their share in the transformation that is so fast taking place in the far north. A generation ago flour and potatoes were a novelty to the Indians of the country, and the introduction of the first horse is still of more recent date. The hardy pioneers who were settled at Lesser Slave Lake not ten years ago, thought only of the prospects of barter and the chase and the fishing. Now the newspapers are read at least weekly, the news-gatherer is here, and politics and the crops are being discussed in as lively a manner as in any part of the country. Very good cereal crops were at Lesser Slave Lake this year, and a circuit court of justice, which sat here a few weeks ago for the first time, marked the passing of the country into the realm of organized society. The advent of the railway will complete the transformation and start an early stampede for homesteads.

GAME ACT CHANGES.

Six Provinces Make Amendment in Laws Governing Sportsmen.

Six of the Canadian provinces amended their game acts during 1908. The practice is growing in the provinces to delegate to the lieutenant-governor-in-council authority to make or alter certain provisions concerning game. In British Columbia this year this officer was authorised during the present year to set aside tracts of crown lands for game reserves and make the necessary regulations therefor. In Quebec the lieutenant-governor was authorised to fix fees from time to time for the incorporation of fish and game organizations. Such powers, which are becoming rather numerous, while they make it more difficult to keep track of existing provisions insure at the same time greater flexibility in the laws, which is undoubtedly an excellent thing.

B. C. makes an exception to its non-export laws in favor of export of big game for scientific, zoological, or Government purposes.

The most noticeable feature in U. S. game laws is the growing popularity of the license system as a means of raising revenue and regulating hunting, licenses for residents being established in several states for the first time.

Canadian Exports to Japan.

Ten years ago exports from Japan to Canada were insignificant, amounting to a little over $100,000. To-day, they amount to $700,000. If these figures are not very large they are pregnant in meaning.

The export of Canadian flour to Japan inaugurated by the visit to Japan by Hon. Sydney Fisher five years ago amounts to 30,000 barrels, valued at $130,000; fishery products, thanks to Japanese enterprise in British Columbia, amounting to two (in some years,) $300,000; the forests of the same province send products worth $60,000 or $70,000. Especial significant is the export of Canadian condensed milk, although it was started only after Canada joined in the treaty between Great Britain and Japan in 1906. Until then it was impossible for Canadian condensed milk to compete against the American goods in the Japanese markets, for the former has been barred from enjoying the benefit of the lower rates of the preferential tariff.

Queensland's Upas Tree.

Queensland, Australia, has a curious tree which ensnares and kills insect life and sometimes birds also. A traveler says of it: "The seed vessels of the Queensland upas tree, 'ahmoo' of the blacks (Pisonia brunoniana), which are produced on spreading leafless panicles, exude a remarkably viscid substance approaching birdlime in consistency and evil effect. Sad is the fate of any bird which, blundering in its flight, happens to strike against any of the many traps which the tree in unconscious malignity hangs out on every side. In such event the seed clings to the feathers, the wings become fixed to the sides, the hapless bird falls to the ground and as it struggles heedlessly gathers more of the seeds, to which leaves and twigs adhere, until by aggregation it is inclosed in a mass of vegetable debris as firmly as a mummy in its clothes."

Britain's Latest Admiral.

The British navy has another royal admiral. Official approval has been given for the King of Sweden of the Gotha and the Venda to be appointed honorary admiral in His Majesty's fleet. The other honorary admirals in the British fleet are: Admirals of the Fleet: The Kaiser, the Czar. Admirals: Prince Henry of Prussia, the King of the Hellenes, the King of Norway.

Sweet and Low.

A young man named Sweet engaged to marry a young woman named Lowe. A few Sundays previous to the wedding the happy couple attended church together, and as they walked along the aisle the choir began singing the song "Sweet and Low," entirely unconscious of the musical pun that was being perpetrated.

MIDLAND TEAM HERE TO-MORROW

Northerners Will Play the Local Tiger Team at "Y" Gym.

The chief sporting attraction for New Year's Day in Peterborough will be the basket ball game to-morrow night between the Union of Midland and the local Tigers. The Midland team has the reputation of being a very speedy outfit and their visit not to Peterborough is creating considerable interest. The local team will be strong and expect to take the visitors into camp although they realize that they have their work cut out for them. There should be a big crowd on hand for the game which takes place in the Y. M. C. A. gym. to-morrow night.

OTTAWA PREPARING FOR THE BROWNIES

Senior Team is Practising Hard for Game With Locals on Saturday.

Ottawa, Dec. 30—The senior basket ball players of the Y. M. C. A. were out in full force last evening preparing for their game with the famous Peterborough team, who are due here Saturday night. Instructor Lee kept the men hard at work for over an hour. All the players showed up well, especially the new players of whom there were several in line. Both sides showed good combination and shooting, and there was little to choose between them. There will be another practice Thursday evening at 6.45 after which the team for the game will be selected. the following players were on the floor last evening Storey, Neelin, McCann, McLaughlin Dillon, Cleland, Woodland, Talbot, Cole, McGregor and Swain.

HAD A GOOD PRACTICE LAST NIGHT

The Peterborough junior O. H. A. team had a good practice last night in preparation for the first O.H.A. game of the season to-morrow in Whitby. The eight candidates for the team were out last night and had a rattling practice against the intermediates. The kids are going at a surprising clip and some of the hockey talent who have not been watching the practices lately are in for a surprise when they see them in action. Following will be the team for Whitby to-morrow, the boys leaving on the 8.20 a.m. G.T.R. train:

Goal—Len Giroux.
Point Fox.
Cover—Wade.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—O Giroux.
Spare—Gorham.

Trainer "Bill" Milburn will accompany the team who will practise again to-night in final preparation for the game.

POINTS FOR BOWLERS

Don't step or slide over the foul line, even though no one is looking.

Don't swear when you miss an easy spare or even a strike. Your day will get it the next time.

Don't allow your head to grow too large for your hat, should you be lucky enough to make a record string.

Don't find faults with the pinboys, even though the pins refuse to fall. It's not their fault.

Don't try to jolly your opponent in a match game; he might do the same to you. Besides, it's bad manners.

Don't get mad when your captain has another man roll in your place when you are hitting them poor. Remember that he has the interests of the team at heart.

Don't follow your average too closely; you will never get anything that way. Instead, watch and see where you are rolling the ball. That's the only way to fatten your average.

Don't try to imitate another bowler; you may be just as funny looking yourself. Who knows?

Don't try to roll duck, candle and bottle pins at the same time; you can only be good at one or the other.

Don't roll too much, as you are liable to go stale, and no stale roller is wanted on any team.

Don't roll unless you have rubber shoes, for you can slide better.

Don't smoke and bowl at the same time, for the smoke is liable to get in your eyes and thus throw your arm out.

Don't go inside the benches during a match game unless you are in the line-up. You are only keeping some man out of his place who has more right there than you have.

Don't kick and complain of the poor condition of the alleys just because you make a low score. Just remember that others can make a high score on the same alleys.

Don't try and swing your captain for the price of a string and then tell everybody what a lobster he is.

Don't lift the ball; the owners of the alleys don't like it and the alleys won't stand it.

Don't complain of a lame foot, of a sore finger, of a sore face, of a toothache, or any other ache or pain when you are unable to make a good score. Remember that they have all been given before you knew how to bowl. Try something new.

Don't forget to read these twice.

JUNIOR CHURCH LEAGUE HAVE THEIR SCHEDULE ARRANGED

The schedule committee of the Junior Church League met in the Y. M. C. A. last night and arranged the games that are to be played, which will be played on the rinks also mentioned. Four churches are represented. They are St. John's, Knox, Murray Street Baptist and All Saints'. A double schedule has been prepared and should furnish some good games before the season is over.

The series is as follows:

St. John's vs. All Saints', on Knox rink, Jan. 8.

St. John's vs. Murray Street, on Park, Jan. 25.

All Saints' vs. St. John's, on Knox, Jan. 29.

St. John's vs. Knox, on Park, Feb. 8.

Murray Street vs. St. John's, on Park, Feb. 15.

Efficient referees will be secured and the prospects that a fast league will be the result.

EDMONTON WON LAST GAME BUT WANDERERS HOLD THE CUP

Montreal, Dec. 30.—Wanderers retain their title of champions, and the Stanley Cup remains in Montreal to adorn the Wanderers' quarters. But Wanderers were lucky to win out on the series. They were out-played to-night, and lost by a score of 7 to 6, but on the total they net 13 goals to Edmonton's 10.

To-night's match was an exhibition of real championship hockey, and was a complete reversal of the form shown on Monday night. The game to-night was all Edmonton's. They set a fast pace at the outset and led all the way, except for a bad ten minutes in the middle of the second half. During these ten minutes Wanderers rallied and evened the score. Even at that Wanderers were lucky to win out. Three of their tallies were flung round with horse shoes and with ordinary luck would not have been registered as goals.

Lindsay played a star game in goal, but on two occasions he fell and goals were netted. Another one glanced off one of his own side and counted. Wanderers had all the good luck and Edmonton all the bad.

The game opened with a tremendous rush that made Monday's best efforts look like a game of ping-pong in comparison. Edmonton had Miller in Phillips' place, Deeton as centre, and Vair as rover. Miller played a good game during the first half, but in the second he was not so effective. Deeton and Vair were in the game all the way through. The plucky little chap from Barrie had speed to burn and put up a star game. He stood a lot of punishment and finished strong and fresh.

About 5,000 people saw the game and the Wanderers were able to tie the score. Whitcroft did not shine in to-night's game. He played hard and was always in the game, but has a bad habit of bringing the puck out in front of his own goal. This bad habit cost his team a couple of goals. While Edmonton was beaten on the series, they have the satisfaction of knowing that they won out to-night. Had they played anything like as well on Monday night they would be champions.

PETERBOROUGH CURLERS WERE SUCCESSFUL IN 'CAYGEON

A rink of Peterborough curlers composed of the following players, Messrs. W T Hall, H Morrow, Geo. Boucher and T F Matthews, journeyed to Bobcaygeon yesterday and besides having a very enjoyable time gave a good account of themselves in the two games which they played with home rinks. In the afternoon Mr. Boucher was skipping against Mr. Will Boyd, and lost by 9 to 8 in a close game. In the evening the locals were led by Mr. Matthews and more than redeemed themselves by defeating Bobcaygeon by 16 to 8, Mr. W. Davis skipping for the latter team. The local quartette were accorded most hospitable treatment and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Edmonton is out of the running for the Stanley Cup title and the people of Pehterborough, as a whole, will be sorry to learn that the enterprise for which Fred Whitcroft has done so much has been doomed to failure. The well known Peterborough boy has been coming in for a lot of criticism, especially at the hands of the Toronto press. Not having seen the game it is impossible for local people to estimate just how true the reports concerning his playing are, but it is certain that Whitcroft has done his best for Edmonton. When in Peterborough he was instrumental in helping the locals to win several championships, and he always gave the best that was in him for the sake of his home town. He may have made mistakes in Montreal, but local fans are willing to believe that he did everything in his power to give Edmonton the championship.

BOWLING

The Examiner A.'s beat the Examiner B.'s in a postponed bowling league game last night at the P. B. C. alleys, taking three games. The feature was George Sairns' bowling, The anchor of the A team put on the first 600 score in the league race, rolling splendid games of 200, 181 and 219. Lack of space prevents the publishing of all the scores.

BE A CHARMING WOMAN

You never saw a beautiful woman who didn't have beautiful hair. The charms of a beautiful woman lie in her hair. Many women do not realise the attractions they possess because they do not give proper attention to the care of the hair.

The woman of the "400" are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other women, but because they know how to keep young by supplying vigour, lustre, and strength to the hair.

Up to a few years ago Parisian Sage could dhardly be obtained in America. But now this delightful hair restorer can be had in every town in America. Wm. Madill sells it in Peterborough for 50 cents a bottle, and he guarantees it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching scalp. Understand, Mr. Madill will give you your money back if it fails.

"SQUARE DEAL" TALKS OF COUNCIL

Refers to Some of the Actions of the Aldermen During 1908.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—On Monday next the electors of this city will have another opportunity of saying who the Aldermen shall be for the years 1909-10 and to my mind an infusion of new blood is really necessary to the extent of sixty per cent. In the early part of the year there was all sorts of fault found with our civic managers and not without cause, on account of the way they managed the affairs of the city.

A case in point, if you please—the reorganization of the Fire Department. The reorganization was badly handled and I know it. I am also aware of the fact that the aldermen who helped to put the thing through now see their mistake and would undo what they helped to do in that matter, if they could.

Then, there is the propensity the City Council of the present time have for experimenting with work—(and, at means the people's money)—and having to do their work twice over, such as paving streets at a large expense in the spring, and again tearing it up in mid-summer, for sewer purposes. It is not much wonder that the Board of Works tried to reduce the working man's wages. There had to be retrenchment some place in order to carry on this experimental street paving, and (back flow) sewer work. I think it most unfortunate that the ward system of electing councillors has been done away with in this city. However, the people have the say. If they fail to make a correct choice they not only suffer themselves, but others suffer as well. Let each elector do his simple duty on Monday next, and you will see some of the gentry who are heading for the City Hall, limping home after the votes are counted, looking as though they had been in a rear-end collision.

Yours truly,
"SQUARE DEAL."

Peterborough, Dec. 31.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN CANADIAN PACIFIC TRANSCONTINENTAL SERVICE

During the months of January and February the C. P. R. 'Imperial Limited,' will not run between Montreal and Winnipeg, or between Calgary and Vancouver. This change will not, however, affect passengers from this district to any considerable extent. The departure time of the northwest express from Toronto is unchanged from 10.15 p. m., daily, there is no change in the fast time made to Winnipeg, and for passengers to Calgary and points east, no wait in that city. Passengers for points west of Calgary and the coast will enjoy a welcome break in their long journey, arriving in Winnipeg at 10.40 p. m., and after an afternoon and evening in which to see the attractions of the western metropolis, leave for their destinations at 10.45 p. m. This opportunity to explore Winnipeg, the gateway to the Northwest, and famous for its rapid growth and prosperity, will undoubtedly be welcomed by cross-continent travellers. The change takes effect January 1st. 3d1127-4800

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I desire through the columns of your paper, to speak on behalf of our family a few words of gratitude for the kind sympathy expressed to us, through the loss of our father, who passed away on Christmas morning. Speaking for all of us and in my humble way, I return sincere thanks for all your kindness. In our hour of sorrow and bereavement it is pleasant and helpful to remember, that we have many friends who sympathize with us, and by kind words and actions endeavoured to enlighten the gloom thrust upon us. My father was a plain honest and God-fearing man, who endeavoured at all times in his humble way to carry out the Golden Rule of doing unto others as he would have them do unto him. This was his motto in life, and we trust and believe he will get his reward.

We again thank all our dear friends and assure them that they carry our best wishes for their future success, and welfare, and while we may be separated on this earth we believe that if we are true and faithful we will meet to part no more in the world above, where all is joy and gladness, and sorrow and sadness will be no more.

CANTATA AND XMAS TREE HELD IN KNOX CHURCH LAST NIGHT

The Cantata and Christmas tree, held in Knox Presbyterian Church last night, proved a great success, both financially and socially.

A tea was given to the Sunday School children from six to seven o'clock, which was well attended, the children enjoying themselves immensely.

At 7.30 the cantata commenced and was a great delight to the audience, and showed the thorough training that the young people had received. The choruses and lyrics being well selected, were very funny and pretty solos were sung by Miss C. Bartley, Miss Jessie Miller, Miss A. Carr, Miss E Bartley, Master H. Hatcher, Mr. A. Davenport and Mr. Thompson.

The cantata consisted of Misses Barr, Morrison, S. Morrison, Carr, R Carr, Killinbeck, Macgregor, E. Bartley, F. Bartley, M. Bartley, C. Bartley and P. Jackson; Messrs. A. Davenport, M. Patterson, R. Smyth, H. Carr, J. Common, H. Hatcher and H. Thompson. Those who sang as the "canned goods" were Messrs. A. Davenport, beans; H. Carr, peas; J. Common, corn; and N. Patterson, tomatoes. The "sewing circle" were Misses C. Bartley, P. Jackson, Morris, S. Morris, Macgregor, Killinbeck and Thompson.

The baseball boys were N. Patterson, J. Common, A. Davenport, H. Smyth, H. Carr H. Hatcher and H. Thompson.

Sheriff Hall, president of the Sunday School, gave a short address on the progress of the Sunday School. His books show the average attendance for the quarter to be 140, which is an increase of 49 over last year's. The total attendance now on the roll is 300. The Sunday School started six years ago with a full attendance of 26. About 200 scholars received Christmas presents from the Christmas tree, Mr. Thompson acting as Santa Claus and Mrs. Patterson Mowry as the spirit of love.

During the course of giving the presents to the children Mr. Keith was presented with a beautiful book case, and Mrs. Keith with a box of flowers.

The following address was presented by the Men's Guild:

To the Rev. H. J. Keith,

Dear Pastor,—We, the officers and members of Knox Church Men's Guild, feel that we cannot let this festive season pass without taking advantage of the occasion to express to you in some slight degree our appreciation of your untiring zeal and effort on our behalf, both spiritually and socially. The past year has been one of great profit and pleasure to the members of the Guild, and we realize you have been greatly instrumental in its success. Your interest and devotion to the work of the Guild has called for a great deal of sacrifice on your part.

We would ask you to accept this book case and also these flowers for Mrs. Keith as an expression of our esteem.

Wishing you both a Prosperous and Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the Guild.

W. C. GALLEY.
H. J. McCANNON.
A. MACKENZIE.

Mr. Keith, in his reply, stated that he had tried his best to make everything a success, and that he was not teaching the young people for material returns but for the advance of their spiritual welfare. The pastor acted as chairman during the evening.

Special mention is due Miss Charlotte English, who, with Mr. Common, accompanied the cantata, and Miss Barr, who took the role of Miss Prim, Lady Superintendent of the Academy, where the scene of the cantata was laid.

DOES YOUR SCALP ITCH?

Are Your Hairs Dropping One by One?

If your scalp itches you are doubtless suffering from dandruff. The dandruff germ is digging up your scalp in little flakes, called dandruff and sapping the life of the fair bulb. No hair preparation that is a mere hair stimulant and tonic will cure dandruff, because it won't kill the germ that causes the trouble. Newbro's Herpicide is the best scientific discovery; and it will kill the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect; kill the germ and you will have no more dandruff, falling hair or baldness.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. McDermid and Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, special agents. 3 boxes for $1.25.

Christmas Entertainment Of The Springville Presbyterian Church

The Christmas exercises in connection with the Springville Presbyterian Sunday School were held last evening, and proved a very enjoyable and successful affair. The reports presented showed that the year has been the best on record, from the standpoints of attendance, finances and study. A feature of the evening was the presentation of the cash prizes and diplomas to the pupils who have acquitted themselves creditably during the year. In the early part of the summer Mr. John McIntosh donated $5 in gold for this purpose. Mr. Hunter gave a similar amount and other members gave smaller contributions, with the result that the fund amounted to over $25.

Last night Melville Whitfield received $5 in cash and two diplomas, Mary L. Pierce $4 and two diplomas, Lillian Hooten and John Marsh $2 and two diplomas, Lizzie Sherwood $1.50 and two diplomas and Annie Brown, Vilda True, Pearl Bowles and Margaret Whitfield diplomas and smaller cash prizes.

In the primary department Beatrice Whitfield received diplomas and $2, and John and George Whitfield $1 and diplomas.

During the evening a very enjoyable programme was presented, in which the Misses Titterson and Miss Greta Lebar, of Peterborough, took part. The children of the Springville Church this year, instead of having a Christmas tree, sent a contribution to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

BUCHANAN—SMITH

The marriage of Miss Edith M. Smith, fourth daughter of Mr. William Smith, Aberdeen avenue, to Mr. James Joseph Buchanan, of Brandon, Man., and son of Mrs. Horsman, of Vancouver, B. C., was solemnized yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, at the residence of the bride's father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's church. The bride was given away by her father, entering the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by her sister, Miss Frankie Smith. The bride was assisted by the groom's sister, Miss S. Buchanan, of Vancouver, B. C., and the groom was supported by Mr. Garnet Neff, of Moosomin, Sask.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, a sumptuous wedding repast was partaken of.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan left on the 4.18 train for their future home in Brandon, Man.

BUTTERIL—DUFF

The bride, wearing a dainty princess gown of crepe de Paris over silk, with veil and orange blossoms and having for her sole ornament a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by her sister, Mrs. Andrews.

Mr. and Mrs. Butterill left on the 6.38 train for Buffalo, the bride travelling in brown broadcloth with Persian Lamb coat, and brown hat to match.

Dear Sir—I see by to-day's World that the British Empire Trust issues a statement wherein it deals lengthily with Canadian securities. A warning note is sounded regarding municipal extravagance and the view expressed is that unless greater acution is exercised in spending money which can be easily borrowed Canada may have to face a financial crisis.

The moral is that we should vote for every new councillor that offers himself as a candidate, seeing that the council for 1908 has been so extravagant. Ring out the old, sing in the new.

196 Baptist Churches Now In The Four Western Provinces

TOTAL MEMBERSHIP 11,000

The Western Baptist Convention held some time ago in Vancouver was the first gathering of representatives from the Provinces of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba.

From one of the reports the following interesting figures were obtained

There have been many changes during the year—38 pastors have left the convention, 2 have died, and 48 have come into the Convention during the last 15 months, 20 churches have been organized, the present total being 196 in all the four Provinces with as many Mission stations. Of the churches there are 60 in Manitoba 53 in Saskatchewan, 53 in Alberta and 30 in British Columbia. The baptisms have been 1150, and the total membership is about 11,000. Last year the churches raised for Missions about $20,000, this year $30,000. The total expenditure in Mission work was $21,000. This year we entered, we should not only clear off the $30,000 debt but spend $70,000 in Mission work to do anything like what we ought to do.

SPAT ON POLICE COURT FLOOR, WAS SEEN BY P. C. NEWHALL AND FINED $1

P. C. Newhall had an eye for business this morning when he apprehended Mr. Victor Lebar spitting on the floor of the court room, while the evidence in one of the cases was being heard. Mr. Lebar pleaded guilty but said that it was not tobacco as he did not use it. He admitted that the habit was a dirty one and it is likely that the action was done unconsciously. His worship stated that he would not do it in his own home. Chief Rosser said that after court every morning the floor is a disgrace and he had cautioned the policeman to keep a sharp watch for offenders. Mr. Lebar is apparently a stranger here and was well dressed. He was fined one dollar which was paid forth with.

SPECIAL DISPENSATION ALLOWS USE OF MEAT

A special dispensation from Pope Pius has been issued to all Catholic churches permitting the eating of meat to-morrow. Every Friday is a fast day, but owing to the greatness of the feast of New Year's which is one of the Holydays in the church the use of meat has been allowed. This was not know last Sunday and was therefore not announced at St. Peter's Cathedral.

The masses to-morrow will be at 6, 8, 9 and 10 o'clock, the last mass being a high mass.

THE OLD CIRCUS POSTER.

Pretentious Language With Which the Show Was Described.

The grandiloquent extravagance of language of the old time circus poster is illustrated by this reproduction, which is given verbatim:

"There will be presented a resplendent series of sublime, moral, interesting, instructive, amusing and wonderful scenes which would appear entirely the fabulous if expressed in an advertisement. They must be seen to be duly appreciated. Those great dramas will unfold in all the loveliness and beauty of enchantment, carrying the minds of the bewildered or spellbound spectators off on the gentle wings of the imagination to such pageantry as they might dream of after reading a few pages of 'Arabian Nights' Entertainments.' Words are really wanting to give adequate expression. Webster's unabridged falls most signally in language to fully portray a semblance of the reality. Zoonomy may be learned at this great college in a single evening. Here the visitor will see splendid specimens of the zygodactylous race that live upon the earth or float and poise upon the wings of gold and silver plume in the cerulean arch, and in reference to these the corps of superintendents in exactly dress will elucidate the peculiarities of each with guarded smaviloquence."

THE TWO ROMEOS.

Mrs. Siddons' Opinion of David Garrick and Spranger Barry.

David Garrick and Spranger Barry were both playing Romeo at the same time in London. Barry played it at Drury Lane on the Monday, and Garrick played it the next night at Covent Garden, and the town was divided as to which was the greater Romeo—in fact, there was quite a great excitement about it, and they acted it upon such different lines and with such marvelously different conceptions that the people argued the case as to which Shakespeare intended. The fact is that Shakespeare intended it to be acted well, and if one man's temperament suited it best to act in that way it would do for another temperament the other way.

So they asked Mrs. Siddons, who was the Juliet alternately with the same Romeo, which she considered better of the two, and she said:

"It is difficult to say. They are both wonderfully great, but I will tell you how they impress me in the balcony scene. In the balcony scene Garrick seems so eager, so intense and so full of fire and spirit that I'm afraid he'll jump on in the balcony to me, and Barry is so lovable and fascinating that I'm afraid I shall have to jump down from the balcony to him."

The Relationship.

"You say, madam," said the bespectacled lawyer to the woman in the witness box, "that the defendant is a sort of relation of yours. Will you please explain what you mean by that—just how you are related to the defendant?"

The witness beamed upon the court and replied:

"Well, it's just like this. His first wife's cousin and my second husband's first wife's aunt married brothers named Jones, and they were cousins to my mother's aunt. Then, again, his grandfather on his mother's side and my grandfather on my mother's side were second cousins, and his stepmother married my husband's stepfather after his father and my mother died, and his brother Joe and my husband's brother Harry married twin sisters. I ain't never figgered out just how close related we are, but I've always looked on 'im as a sort of cousin."

"Quite so," answered the lawyer. "Your explanations are perfectly satisfactory."

Forgetful.

An eminent painter was once asked if he thought art students did well to go to Europe to study. He said that undoubtedly the atmosphere was more artistic in Europe than anywhere else, but that Paris as a city to study and work in was overrated.

To illustrate his meaning he said that a certain rich man's son after three years in Paris wrote home to his father:

"Dear Father—I have made up my mind to set to work. Please let me know at your earliest convenience whether it was painting, architecture or music I came to Paris to study."

Humility.

It is a curious fact of human nature that humility draws forth from the world almost as much admiration as courage. As in the case of courage, it is almost impossible wholly to condemn a character in which we see it, and without it the greatest virtues leave us cold. If every good word which the Pharisee said of himself were proved true we should still dislike him. We even dislike his modern and far less offensive descendant, the prig.—London Spectator.

A Straight Tip.

Customer—Quick shave, please. Barber—Close, sir? Customer—See here, what business is it of yours whether I'm close or not? I'll tell you one thing, young man—I don't tip, if that's what you want to know.—Puck.

His Fears Realized.

"My heart is in my mouth. I am afraid to hear you answer."

"You may well be, Mr. Dollboy," retorted Ethel. "I never could marry a man whose heart was not in the right place!"

Garden Reveries.

"My eyes," exclaimed the potato, "but this is poor soil for a garden!"

"That's right," said the onion. "I don't get along worth a scent, and I'm losing strength every day."

"I'm going to leave," said the cabbage. "I'll never be able to get a head here."

"This spot isn't fit for a berrying ground," said the strawberry. "But here comes the sun, and we'll all have to cry up."—Harper's.

Why He Whistled.

Whistling is understood everywhere to signify coldness, confidence, carelessness. These may be virtues in their proper place, but that place is not the society of one's fellow creatures, whether one be acquainted with them or not.

A boy reprimanded, a servant dismissed, goes away whistling if he dares. He wishes to express contempt, and he succeeds at least in chagrining his master generally. A bobbledehoy who commits some breach of the proprieties commonly bursts into a whistle. This is to save his face, meaning no harm. But it signifies "I don't care!" which is just the reverse of the apology needed. At best it shows indifference; at worst, as the direst feel, insult and provocation.

Boswell tells a little story of whistling, illustrating the independent significance. Johnson and he were dining with the Duke of Argyll, who asked a gentleman present to fetch some curiosity from another room. The gentleman brought the wrong article, and the duke sent him back.

The exact position of this gentleman toward his host is undisclosed. However, Boswell says: "He could not refuse, but to avoid any appearance of servility he whistled as he went out of the room. On my mentioning this afterward to Dr. Johnson he said it was a nice trait of character."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

ALEX. ROSE HAS BEEN CAPTURED

IS IN JAIL IN VIRGINIA

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Identified by the scar left after an operation for appendicitis, Alexander Rose, the most-wanted of the batch of prisoners who broke out of the Toronto jail on the afternoon of July 17 last, is in custody at Huntingdon, West Virginia, under the name of John Mitchell, awaiting trial on several charges of robbery. Inspector Duncan and Detective Tipton left yesterday afternoon to bring him home as soon as possible. Although the police here have not been definitely informed as to what disposition is to be made of the charge at Huntingdon, the crown officers are going on and preparing the papers in the extradition proceedings which are to be launched. His extradition will be asked for upon three charges of robbery with violence, one being the case of Rebel Snitch, who was beaten and assaulted in Wellwood's store on Yonge street. Upon this last charge Rose was awaiting sentence by Judge Winchester when he escaped.

Word of the presence of Rose in the jail at Huntingdon reached Inspector Duncan of the Toronto Detective Department by way of Hamilton. No photograph or Bertillon measurements accompanied the communication, and, although the description fulfilled in important particulars, there was no mention of a scar made by the prisoner's knife. One of the officers offering a reward of $200 for Rose's capture was sent to the Huntingdon police to go through the preparation of the extradition papers.

Viaduct For Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Toronto is to have a four-track viaduct. An order to this effect has been given by the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, and a copy of the draft order was received by City Solicitor Chisholm on Thursday morning. He at once notified Mayor Oliver, and the matter was brought before the Board of Control, which was in session a few minutes later. While the city has asked for a six-tracked viaduct, the Railway Commissioners' decision to have the four running tracks elevated was regarded with great favor. The commissioners' decision to order the railway companies to pay two-thirds of the cost of the viaduct was received with gratification. The cost of such a viaduct is estimated at about $2,000,000 with the city's share $500,000 to $750,000.

MAYOR OLIVER RE-ELECTED

Last Year's Chief Executive Secures Largest Majority Ever Given in That City—Controller Spence and Ald. Hales Go Down to Defeat—Heavy Vote of Women Electors Rendered Abolition Bylaw.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—The reduction vote to cut off forty liquor licenses passed by a majority of 1,182 yesterday after a historic municipal battle in which a record vote was cast. Mayor Joseph Oliver was re-elected with a majority of over 19,000 votes, the largest ever secured by a mayor in this city.

Controler F. S. Spence, leader of the reduction movement and general of the campaign, was defeated in his candidature for the board of control, and with him goes Ald. James Hales.

MAYOR OLIVER.

his companion in the prohibition work.

The feature of the day was the heavy vote polled by the women, a very large number of whom were canvassed and persuaded to exercise their suffrage by the W.C.T.U. and other workers in behalf of the temperance forces.

The keenest fight after that over the bylaw was for places on the board of control. The poll was headed by G. A. Geary with 19,027 votes. The other three were: Hocken 17,286, Ward 16,782, and Harrison 14,509.

The new aldermen for 1909 are: Ward one, Ghisholm, Hilton, McMillan; ward two, Church, O'Neil, Foster; ward three, Bredin, Bengough, Maguire; ward four, McMurrich, Vaughan, Welch; ward five, Graham, Dunn, Keeler; ward six, McGhie, Graham, Adams.

The referendum on the hospital grant passed by a majority of 4,509, and the Wilton avenue bridge bylaw was defeated.

James Lindala, the Socialist candidate, who ran simply for the purpose of keeping the educational propaganda before the eyes of the electors, polled a vote of 1,500.

Attacked By Wild-Cat.

Winsted, Conn., Jan. 2.—Edward Gillette, a farmer, of Bakerville, was attacked by a large wild-cat, or catamount, which had been caught in a trap set for foxes.

He started to drag the trap and animal to his home, when the catamount got loose and attacked Gillette, jumping at his head. When the animal sprang at him a second time he killed it with an axe. The animal weighed 30 pounds.

Looted Police Station.

New York, Jan. 2.—Burglars yesterday broke into the Criminal Courts building in Centre street and completely looted the police station situated there. When the court squad of about thirty policemen reported for duty yesterday they were astonished to find their lockers ransacked, their revolvers and all other personal effects of value stolen and the entire place in the wildest confusion.

Eight Hundred and Fifty Deaths.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—The morgue returns for the year show that there were 850 violent deaths.

Twenty-three died from foul play, ten Italians were murdered, 29 suicides, 79 drowned in the St. Lawrence, 50 killed in the railways, 25 by street railways, 15 by explosions, 218 sudden deaths, 57 burned and 6 scalded to death.

Rudders For the Sea Giants.

Belfast, Ireland, Jan. 2.—The Darlington Forge Co. of Manchester has secured the contract for the 160-ton stern frame and rudder brackets of the White Star Line's new sea-giants Olympic and Titanic, as well as for the immense rudders, weighing 100 tons each.

These are the heaviest castings ever undertaken anywhere, and mark a long step forward in marine architecture.

The lower portion of each rudder-frame will be of cast steel, and the other portions of hydraulic pressed ingot steel.

MORE DESTRUCTION IS CAUSED

Tidal Wave Sa... Have Swept Straits of ...

TWO ST... MISSING

Vessels Loaded ... Have Not Arrived ... Wreck Is Feared—Lipa... Are Safe—Death List ... Three Hundred Th... Relief Work Is Pro... Quickly.

Naples, Jan. 2.—It is reported here that another tidal wave has swept through the Straits of Messina. Two steamers loaded with refugees and injured persons, that were expected in here, yesterday have not yet been sighted, and fears are entertained for their safety. It is impossible to verify his report.

Great relief was felt here when the announcement was made that the Lipari Islands, which were reported to have been destroyed, were only partially damaged from the earthquake.

Public opinion is especially concerned with regard to the safety of the King and Queen and their possible danger from aftershocks.

New Year's Day in Italy is usually the occasion of festivities and rejoicing as widespread as on Christmas. But these ceremonies and the festal spirit were wanting yesterday. Instead of rejoicings there is filled with lamentations; the flags wave at half mast and the bells of a thousand churches ring, not the Te Deum, but sad knells for requiem masses.

King Victor Emmanuel has supervised the entire work in the fallen city of Messina and has infused new courage and energy into the rescuers. Often he is surrounded by a crowd of victims, who cheer him enthusiastically and shout: "We have a king; we have a protector."

A large number of soldiers have been landed from steamers arriving at Messina and other stricken places, and all efforts are being directed towards embarking the wounded refugees who are crowding all available places. Some of these will be sent as far as Genoa.

A soothing feature of the material aid offered by all classes of people in Rome is the question of clothing and bedding which is being distributed freely by gifts to collecting residents. Reports from all parts of Italy indicate the same generous spirit. The King has placed the royal palaces at Naples and Caserta at the disposition of the injured.

The estimated number of dead in Messina, Reggio and all the towns of Calabria has now risen to 300,000.

In the list of dead and missing foreigners there are no names of Canadians.

The King and Queen of Italy continue their pious pilgrimage along what was once the beautiful and smiling eastern coast of Sicily, but which yesterday is a sepulchre of the dead, a desolated region still filled with thousands of unfortunates dying in anguish amid the ruins of their homes.

The Government has decided to concentrate its energies to removing the wounded to points where they can receive proper attention. Uninjured survivors also will be assisted from the devastated territory, and it is hoped that in this way serious epidemics can be avoided.

The survivors can be fed on board ship, for each vessel is provided with three days' rations for a full passenger list, and this leeway will give time for decision as to where the unfortunates had best ultimately be landed.

Two Royal Heroines.

This advantage of feeding, however, applies only to the survivors of Reggio and Messina. There are still scores of smaller inland towns and villages where it is impossible to send relief. Wherever it has been possible to get a message through from these localities the cry always has been for bread.

Two noble female figures stand out as guardian Angels watching over the afflicted population. They are Queen Helena and another Helena, the Duchess of Aosta.

The Queen looks far from well. She is exhausted and the terrible scenes she has witnessed have affected her strongly. She weeps frequently, and on more than one occasion she has covered the hands of some unfortunate woman with her tears. The King desired his wife ... to Rome, but this she refused ... she could not sleep from thinking of the miseries of her subjects, by remaining on the spot she feels she can do something to relieve the general misery. She has given also all of her worldly possessions, including the rings from her fingers.

The Duchess of Aosta, who still proudly signs herself a princess of France, is performing miracles of love, pity and endurance at Naples, where the wounded are arriving in great numbers.

Thousands of Helpers Needed.

Trains leaving here for the south are filled almost entirely with newspaper men, relatives of victims, or volunteers on rescue committees. These committees are composed of every nationality of Europe. Some of the volunteers do not speak a word of Italian, but they go forward simply because they have two hands with which to work. All volunteers are thankfully accepted, and there is room for thousands more.

Prof. Alfani of the Florence Observatory, predicts that the seismic activities will continue for three years to come. He recommends the enforcement of restrictive building laws in the earthquake zones of Italy.

Systematic Food Distribution.

Catania, Jan. 2.—A heavy rain continues to fall at Messina, and while it increases the sufferings of the injured and makes more difficult the work of rescue, it is quenching the fires, and having a slightly purifying effect on the air.

The distribution of food has been organized. Bakeries have been opened and slaughter-houses established, and it is hoped that by to-night no one need be without bread.

While it is not yet definitely known whether any Americans were in Messina at the time of the earthquake, it is learned that a party of twenty English-speaking persons, which may have included Americans, made their escape in the direction of Palermo.

Canada to Sicily.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—At a meeting of the Cabinet Thursday afternoon it was decided that Canada should evince its sympathy for the sufferers in the appalling disaster in Italy and Sicily in the tangible form of a national subscription of $100,000. Parliament will be asked to ratify the Government's action, but no objection is anticipated from any source to this generous and prompt step on the part of the Dominion to help alleviate the terrible disaster which has befallen a sister nation. The money will be forwarded through the British Ambassador at Rome with as little delay as possible.

Mass For 'Quake Victims.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—On Sunday morning at the Basilica, Italians will attend a requeim mass for the repose of the souls of victims of the earthquake in southern Italy. Among those who will attend will be Mgr. Sbarretti, papal delegate, himself an Italian.

For Italy's Relief.

New York, Jan. 2.—The ... Board of Trade has set out to raise $100,000.

San Francisco has so far contributed $75,720.

Boston has raised nearly $50,000.

Philadelphia has already forwarded $10,000.

Adolphus Busch of St. Louis has given $25,000.

The U. S. Red Cross have collected $110,000, of which $40,000 has been forwarded.

New York has subscribed $150,000, the Stock Exchange giving $21,000 and Italian societies $37,000.

A collection will be taken in the Catholic churches of New York tomorrow.

Mexico has collected a large sum.

Rio Janeiro bankers have given $1,600.

Monsignor Falconio, the apostolic delegate in the U. S., has issued an appeal to the church for contributions for the "vast multitude of sufferers" from the Italian earthquake.

LAST RITES OF THE CHURCH ADMINISTERED

Miraculous Escape From Death of Mme. Lirette, of Sorel, Que.

"I look upon my recovery from approaching death as a miracle and it was "Fruit-a-tives" alone that cured me. I suffered from severe womb disease for seven years, and I suffered from severe constipation, great weakness and constant pain all the time. I was treated by six different physicians without any benefit and took every medicine I heard of, but nothing gave me any relief. My suffering was so intense that for a year I was unable to get out of bed—and I became so ill that my friends did not expect me to recover and the last rites of the Church were administered to me. At this time I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and at once I began to improve. These tablets cured the constipation and relieved the dreadful womb pains. I began to improve and "Fruit-a-tives" entirely cured me. Nothing did me any good but "Fruit-a-tives." I took in all 18 boxes and I am quite as well as ever I was, entirely due to the use of this great medicine."

"Fruit-a-tives" is put up in a new 25c trial size as well as the regular 50c boxes, in order to enable everyone to try these wonderful fruit juice tablets. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not have them.

Half the hall heard him, and the speech was soon passed on to any out of hearing. A sp[illegible] cheer sputtered here and there, but most were silent. Rastatz gasped again, while Sterkoff frowned and scowled villainously. Hollbrandt whispered once more, then stood erect, shrugged his shoulders, bowed and walked back to his pretty friend. He sat down and squeezed her hand in apology. The pair broke into laughter a moment later. Baron von Hollbrandt felt that he, at least, had done his duty.

The three had drunk and drunk. Rastatz was silly, Sterkoff vicious, the giant Mistitch jovially and cruelly reckless, exalted not only by liquor but with the sense of the part he played. Suddenly from behind the glass screen rose a mighty roar:

"Long live Mistitch! Down with tyrants! Long live Captain Hercules!"

It was fuel to the flames. Mistitch drained his glass and hurled it on the floor.

"Well, who follows me?" he cried.

Half the men started [illegible]. The other half [illegible] tending current[illegible] the crowd. To [illegible] gave warning, to another [illegible]. They seemed poised on the point of a great decision. Yet what was it they were deciding? They could not tell.

Markart suddenly forgot his caution. He rushed to Mistitch, with his hands out and "For God's sake!" loud on his lips.

"You!" cried Mistitch. "By heaven, what else does your general want? What else does Matthias Stenovics want? Tell me that!"

Amid a dead silence he went out, his two henchmen after him. He and Sterkoff walked firm and true. Rastatz lurched in his gait. A thousand eyes followed their exit, and from 500 throats went up a long sigh of relief that they were gone. But what had they gone to do? The company decided that it was just as well for them, whether collectively or as individuals, not to know too much about that. Let it be hoped that the cool air outside would have a sobering effect and send them home to bed! Yet from behind the glass screen there soon arose again a busy murmur of voices, like the hum of a beehive threatened with danger.

Outside, big Mistitch had crossed the canal and come to the corner where the Street of the Fountain opens on to St. Michael's square. "What say you to a call at the Hotel de Paris, lads?" he said.

"Hist!" Sterkoff whispered. "Do you hear that step coming up the street there?"

The illuminations burned still in the square and sent a path of light down the narrow street. The three stopped and turned their heads. Sterkoff pointed. Mistitch looked and smacked his ponderous thigh.

Chapter Twelve

WHATEVER Marie Zerkovitch's feelings might be, fate had its hand on her and turned her to its uses. It was she who had directed Sophy's steps to the old house ten doors down the Street of the Fountain from St. Michael's square. It was no more than half a mile from her own villa on the south boulevard, from which the street ran to the square, and she had long known the decent old couple—German Jews—who lived and carried on their trade in the house over whose front hung the sign of the Silver Cock. The face of the building was covered with carved timbers of great age. [illegible] one door of the shop stood far back within a black and ancient porch. Behind the shop were a couple of rooms where Meyerstein and his wife lived; above it, one large room with a window which jutted far out over the narrow street. In this room, which was reached by a separate door in the left side of the porch and a crazy flight of a dozen winding stairs, lived Sophy.

By the window Sophy sat.

By the window she sat on the night of [illegible] name day, in low chair. [illegible]ture of [illegible] carrying a [illegible] specimen of her landlord's [illegible] stock—stood unemployed on the window sill. The room was dark, for the path of light from the illuminations, which made the roadway below white, threw hardly a gleam on to its somber walls, but Sophy had no need of a lamp and every need to save her money. She sat in the gloom, busy in thought, the fresh evening air breathing soft and cool on her brow from the open window.

Suddenly she raised her head. There was a wild, quick volley of cheering. It came from the Golden Lion, whose lights across the square a sideways craning of her neck enabled her to see. Then there was silence for a few minutes. Again the sound broke forth, and with it confused shoutings of a name she could not make out. Yes—what was it? Mistitch—Mistitch! That was her first hearing of the name.

Silence fell again, and she sank back into her chair. The lights, the stir, the revelry, were not for her, nor the cheers nor the shouts. A moment of reaction and lassitude came on her, a moment when the present, the actual, lapped her around with its dim, muddy flood of vulgar necessity and sordid needs. With a sob, she bowed her head to meet her hands—a sob that moaned a famine of life, of light, of love. "Go back to your scullery, Sophy Grouch!" What voice had said that? She sprang to her feet with fists clinched and whispered to the darkness, "No!"

In the street below Mistitch slapped his thigh.

Sophy pushed her hair back from her heated forehead and looked out of the window. To the right, some twenty yards away and just at the end of the street, she saw the figures of three men. In the middle was one who bulked like a young Falstaff—Falstaff with his paunch not grown. He was flanked by two lean fellows who looked small beside him. She could not see the faces plainly since the light from the square was behind them. They seemed to be standing there and looking past the sign of the Silver Cock along the street.

A measured, military footfall sounded on her left. Turning her head, she saw a young man walking, with head bent down and arms behind him. The line of light struck full on him. He was plain to see as by broadest day. He wore a costume strange to her eyes—a black sheepskin cap, a sheepskin tunic, leather breeches and high unpolished boots—a rough, plain dress. Yet a broad red ribbon crossed it, and a star glittered on the breast. The only weapon was a short, curved scimitar. It was the ancient costume of the bailiff of Volseni, the head of that clan of shepherds who pastured their flocks on the uplands. The Prince of Slavna held the venerable office and had been to court in the dress appropriate to it. He had refused to use his carriage, sending his aids-de-camp home in it, and walked now through the streets of the city which he had in charge. It was constantly his habit thus to walk. His friends praised his vigilance; his foes reviled his prowling, spying tricks.

Sophy did not know the dress, but the face she knew. It had been but lately before her dreaming eyes. She had seen it in the flesh that morning from the terrace of the Hotel de Paris.

The three came on from her right, one of the lean men hanging back, lurking a little behind. They were under her window now. The prince was but a few yards away. Suddenly he looked up, with a start—he had become aware of their approach. But before he saw them the three had melted to one. With a shrill cry of consternation—of uneasy courage oozing out—Rastatz turned and fled back to the square, heading at his top speed for the Golden Lion. In the end he was unequal to the encounter. Sterkoff, too, disappeared, but Sophy knew the meaning of that. He had slipped into the shelter of the porch. Her faculties were alert now. She would not forget where Sterkoff was! Mistitch stood alone in the center of the narrow street, his huge frame barely leaving room for a man to pass on either side.

For a moment the prince stood still, looking at the giant. Then he stepped briskly forward, and Sophy heard his clear, incisive tones cut the air:

"What extraordinary emergency has compelled you to disobey my orders, Captain Mistitch?"

"I wanted a breath of fresh air," Mistitch answered in an easy, insolent tone.

The prince looked again. He seemed even more disgusted than angry now. He thought Mistitch drunk—more drunk than in truth he was.

"Return to barracks at once and report yourself under stringent arrest. I will deal with you tomorrow."

CURE SICK HEADACHE

"vitch!" At least he was being as good as his word—he was acting up to the vaunts he had thrown out so boldly in the great hall of the Golden Lion.

"Tomorrow we shall both be cooler." He was almost up to Mistitch now. "Stand out of my way, sir!"

Mistitch did not budge. "There's room for you to pass by," he said. "I won't hurt you. But the middle of the road belongs to me tonight."

His voice seemed to grow clearer with every word. The critical encounter was sobering him. Yet with sobriety came no diminution of defiance. Doubtless he saw that he was in for the worst now, that forward was the word and retreat impossible. Probably from this moment he did not intend the prince to pass alive. Well, what he intended was the wish of many. He would not lack shelter, friends or partisans if he dared the desperate venture.

For a moment after the big man's taunt the prince stood motionless. Then he drew his scimiter. It looked a poor, weak weapon against the sword which sprang in answer from Mistitch's scabbard.

"A duel between gentlemen," the captain cried.

The prince gave a short laugh. "You shall have no such plea at the court martial," he said. "Gentlemen don't waylay one another in the streets. Stand aside!"

Mistitch laughed, and in an instant the prince sprang at him. Sophy heard the blades meet. Strong as death was the fascination for her eyes—aye, for her ears, too, for she heard the quick moving feet and the quicker breathing of a mortal combat. But she would not look—she tried not even to listen. Her eyes were for a man she could not see, her ears for a man she could not hear. She remembered the lean fellow hidden in the porch, straight under her window. She dared not call to warn the prince of him. A turn of the head, a moment of inattention, would cost either combatant his life. She took the man in the porch for her own adversary, his undoing for her share in the fight.

Very cautiously, making no sound, she took the heavy lamp—the [illegible] bronze figure of the girl—[illegible] it painfully in both her hands and poised it halfway over the window sill. Then she turned her eyes down again to watch the mouth of the porch. Her rat was in that hole! Yet suddenly the prince came into her view. He circled halfway around Mistitch, then sank on one knee. She heard him guard the captain's lunges with lightning quick movements of his nimble scimiter. He was trying the old trick they had practiced for hundreds of years at Volseni—to follow his parry with an upward ripping stroke under the adversary's sword, to strike the inner side of his forearm and cut the tendons of the wrist. This trick big Captain Mistitch, a man of the plains, did not know.

A jangle—a slither—a bellow of pain, of rage! The prince had made his stroke; the hill man of Volseni were justified of their pupil. Mistitch's big sword clattered on the flags. Facing his enemy, with his back to the porch, the prince crouched motionless on his knee, but it was death to Mistitch to try to reach the sword with his unmaimed hand.

The prince saw a bronze figure at his feet.

It was Sophy's minute. The message that had come ran fierce through all her veins. Straining to the weight, she raised the figure in her hands and leaned out of the window. Yes, a lean hand, with a long knife, a narrow head, a spare, long back, crept out of the darkness of the porch—crept silently. The body drew itself together for a fatal spring on the unconscious prince for a fatal thrust. It would be death—and to Mistitch salvation torn from the jaws of ruin.

"Surrender yourself, Captain Mistitch," said the prince.

Mistitch's eyes went by his conqueror and saw a shadow on the path beside the porch.

"I surrender, sir," he said.

"Then walk before me to the barracks." Mistitch did not turn. "At once, sir!"

"Now!" Mistitch roared.

The crouching figure sprang and with a hideous cry, fell stricken on the flags. Just below the neck, full on the spine, had crashed the virgin with the lamp. Sterkoff lay very still save that his fingers scratched the flags. Turning, the prince saw a bronze figure at his feet—a bronze figure holding a broken lamp. Looking up, he saw dimly a woman's white face at a window.

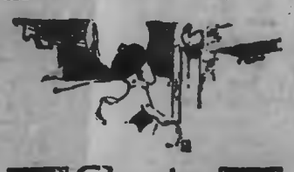
Then the street was on a sudden full of men. Rastatz had burst into the Golden Lion, all undone—nerves, courage, almost senses gone. He could stammer no more than, "They'll fight!" and could not say who. But he had gone out with Mistitch—and whom had they gone to meet?

A dozen officers were around him in an instant, crying: "Where? Where?" He broke into frightened sobs, hiding his face in his hands. It was Max von Hollbrandt who made him speak. Forgetting his pretty friend, he sprang in among the officers, caught Rastatz by the throat and put a revolver to his head. "Where? In ten seconds, where?" Terror beat terror. "The Street of the Fountain—by the Silver Cock!" the cur stammered and fell to his blubbering again.

The dozen officers and more were across the square almost before he had finished. Max von Hollbrandt, with half the now lessened company in the inn, was hot on their heels.

For that night all was at an end. Sterkoff was picked up unconscious now, [illegible] but never cringing. Mistitch was marched off to the guardroom and the surgeon's ministrations. Every soldier was ordered to quarters, the townsfolk slunk off to their homes. The street grew empty, the glare of the illuminations was quenched. But of all this Sophy saw nothing. She had sunk down in her chair by the window and lay there, save for her tumultuous breathing, still as death.

The commandant had no fear and would have his way. He stood alone now in the street, looking from the dark splash of Mistitch's blood to the virgin with her broken lamp and up to the window of the Silver Cock, whence had come salvation.



Chapter Thirteen

THE last of the transparencies died out. The dim and infrequent oil lamps alone lit up the Street of the Fountain and St. Michael's square. They reveled still down at the Hotel de Paris, whither Max von Hollbrandt and a dozen others had hurried with the news of the evening's great event. But here, on the borders of the old north quarter, all grew still—the Golden Lion empty, the townsmen to their beds, the soldiers to barracks, full of talk and fears and threats. Yet a light still burned in the round room in the keep of Suleiman's tower, and the commandant's servant still expected his royal master. Peter Vassip, a sturdy son of Volseni, had no apprehensions, but he was very sleepy, and he and the sentries were the only men awake. "One might as well be a soldier at once!" he grumbled, for the men of the hills did not esteem the regular army so high as it rated itself.

The commandant lingered in the Street of the Fountain. Sergius Stefanovitch was half a Bourbon, but it was the intellectual half. He had the strong, concentrated, rather narrow mind of a Bourbon of before the family [illegible]dence. On it his training at Vi[illegible] grafted a military pre[illegible]s a pedantry, and no little [illegible] of what [illegible]led liberty [illegible]ns called [illegible]rights. Wha[illegible]nts had a man against his country? His country was in his king, and to the king the army was his supreme instrument. So ran his public creed, his statesman's instinct. But beside the Bourbon mother was the Kravonian father, and behind him the long line of mingled and vacillating fortunes which drew descent from Stefan, lord of Praslok, and famous reiver of lowland herds. In that stock the temperament was different—indolent to excess sometimes, ardent to madness at others, moderate seldom.

And for any young man the fight in the fantastically illuminated night, the virgin with the broken lamp, a near touch of the scythe of death and a girl's white face at the window? Behind the commandant's stern wrath—nay, beside, and soon before it, for the moment dazzling his angry eyes—came the bright gleams of romance.

He knew who lodged at the sign of the Silver Cock. Marie Zerkovitch was his friend, Zerkovitch his zealous follower. The journalist was back now from the battlefields of France and was writing articles for the Patriot, the leading paper of Slavna. He was deep in the prince's confidence, and his little house on the south boulevard often received this distinguished guest. The prince had been keen to hear from Zerkovitch of the battles, from Marie of the life in Paris. With Marie's tale came the name and what she knew of the story of Sophie de Gruche. Yet always, in spite of her praises of her friend, Marie had avoided any opportunity of presenting her to the prince. Excuse on excuse she made, for his curiosity ranged around Casimir de Savres' bereaved lover. "Oh, I shall meet her some day, all the same," he had said, laughing, and Marie doubted whether her reluctance—a reluctance to herself strange—had not missed its mark, inflaming an interest which it had meant to balk. Why this strange reluctance? So far it was proved baseless. His first encounter with the lady of the red star—Casimir's poetical sobriquet had passed Marie's lips—had been supremely fortunate.

From the splash of blood to the broken virgin, from the broken virgin to the open window and the dark room behind, his restless glances sped. Then came swift, impulsive decision. He caught up the bronze figure and entered the porch. He knew Meyerstein's shop and that from it no staircase led to the upper floor. The other door was his mark, and he knocked on it, raising first with a cautious touch, then more resolutely, the old brass hand with hospitably beckoning finger which served for knocker. Then he listened for a footstep [illegible] the stairs. If she came not, the venturesome night went ungraced by its crowning adventure. He must kiss the hand that saved him before he slept.

The door opened softly. In the deep shadow of the porch, on the winding, windowless staircase of the old house, it was pitch dark. He felt a hand put in his and heard a low voice saying, "Come, monseigneur." From first to last, both in speech and in writing, she called him by that title and by none other. Without a word he followed her, picking his steps, till they reached her room. She led him to the chair by the window. The darkness was somewhat less dense there. He stood by the chair.

The EDISON PHONOGRAPH

YOUNG and old can enjoy an Edison Phonograph, but if there is any choice, it is especially the children's entertainer.

What human entertainer, what mother or nurse doesn't become tired of singing a song over and over, of telling a story again and again at the demand of a group of interested children?

The Edison Phonograph never gets tired; it will keep the children amused for hours, but an Edison Phonograph bought for the nursery pretty soon finds its way to the drawing-room because the grown-ups are not content to allow the children to have all the fun.

That is why an Edison Phonograph should be in every home. Because it entertains the whole family, it can be enjoyed by the entire family circle at once. It is just as good on popular music as it is on classic music. It is easily used. It plays for all.

Edison Amberol Records

A new Record has been made for the Edison Phonograph which plays twice as long as the old one.

All owners of Edison Phonographs can have an attachment put on their present Phonographs which will play the new Records. All new Phonographs are now made to play both the two-minute and the four-minute Records. You can have both kinds of Records, and thus have a very wide range of music. The four-minute Record is especially good for long pieces of music, too long to be played on the shorter Records, and also for dances, accompaniments to songs and things of that kind.

Your dealer has the Edison Phonograph with attachment, and he has the new Amberol Records which he will be glad to play for you.

FREE. Ask your dealer or write to us for illustrated catalogue of Edison Phonographs, also catalogue containing complete lists of Edison Records, old and new.

We Desire Good Live Dealers to sell Edison Phonographs in every town where we are not now well represented. Dealers having established stores should write at once to STUPID SHEEP.

They Are About the Most Senseless of All Animals.

A Colorado ranchman declares that no animal that walks is as big a fool as a sheep.

"We have to watch them every minute, and if vigilance is relaxed for an instant the entire flock is likely to practically commit suicide. In handling most animals some degree of self help or intelligence can be relied on to aid the owner in saving their lives, but sheep seem to set deliberately to work to kill themselves.

"If caught in a storm on the plains they will drift before the wind and die of cold and exposure rather than move a hundred yards to windward to obtain shelter in their corral. To drive sheep against the wind is absolutely impossible. I once lost over 1,000 head because I could not drive them to a corral not 200 feet away.

"In the corral they are still more foolish. If a storm comes up they all move 'down wind' until stopped by the fence. Then commences the proceeding so much dreaded by sheepmen known as 'piling.' The sheep will climb over each other's backs until they are heaped up ten feet high. Of course all those at the bottom are smothered. Not one has sense enough to seek shelter under the lee of the fence, as a horse or dog would do.

"Again, if a sheep gets into a quicksand its fate teaches nothing to those that come immediately after, but the whole flock will follow its leader to destruction. No more exasperatingly stupid animal than a sheep walks."

A CHINESE STORY.

The Noted Liar Who Had a Fairly Competent Spouse.

A noted liar once told a friend that he had at home three precious things—a bullock which could run 500 miles a day, a fowl which crowed at the beginning of each watch, day and night, and a dog that could read books. The friend intimated that he would lose no time in seeing these marvels with his own eyes. The man did not expect this, as his house was somewhat distant, so he went home and told his wife that he had got caught at last and that tomorrow the man would arrive and he would be disgraced.

"Never mind," said the spouse. "Leave that to me. It will be all right, only you must keep out of sight."

Next morning the visitor arrived and, being met by the mistress, asked where her husband was.

"He has gone to Pekin," she replied

"When will he be back?"

"In eight or nine days."

"Why, how can he be so quick?"

"He has gone off on our fast bullock and so can do it easily."

"I hear you have also a wonderful fowl," said the visitor. And, behold, as he was speaking a small cock crew.

"That's it," said the wife. "He crows at the beginning of each watch and also when a visitor arrives."

"I would also like to see the learned dog," he said.

"Ah," said she, "I am sorry; but, you see, we are very poor, and so he keeps a school in the city."—Scrap Book.

Primate of England.

Dr. Maclagan, who has resigned the exalted office of Archbishop of York owing to failing health, began his career in the Indian army, sold out after five years of military service, and entered the Church. The stipend which he draws is £10,000 a year—and he was the first Archbishop who earned his salary by visiting every parish in his immense diocese, the self-imposed task taking three years of incessant traveling. The following story has often been told by the Archbishop against himself. On one occasion he wrote to the vicar in an outlying village suggesting that he should lead his church for the purpose of giving the clergy of the district a "quiet day" for meditation and fraternal reunion. The witty vicar of this sleepy hamlet in the Wolds promptly replied: "My Dear Lord Archbishop,—Your very kind letter to hand. But what the people in this village want most in their spiritual life is not a 'quiet day' but an earthquake." Riding is, or was, a favorite diversion of Archbishop Maclagan, and in addition to this he was a good whip, and frequently drove a pair; while another recreation in which he indulged in the winter was curling on the ice. He has also a great love of birds and animals.

Tee-tee-total.

About September, 1833, Dicky Turner, the converted weaver, when delivering one of his fervid speeches in the Temperance Hotel, Preston, the cockpit where the Earls of Derby formerly fought their cocks for three centuries, in favor of the new pledge, declared with emphasis that "nothing but the tee-tee-total pledge would do." Mr. Joseph Livesey upon hearing this immediately cried out amid great cheering, "That shall be the name." The newly-coined word was taken up by the succeeding speakers and was afterward used at all the meetings held in the town and neighborhood. It was soon adopted in every part of Lancashire and was eventually accepted as the true designation of total abstainers not only in the United Kingdom, but throughout the civilized world.—London Mail.

STOP STARVING YOUR WEAK STOMACH

There Will be no More Stomach Trouble If You Will Do This.

Miserable indeed is the man or woman whose digestive system is unstrung!—who goes to the table and can not eat or what little is eaten, seems to fill them and lies like a lump of lead in the stomach, refusing to digest.

If you, dear reader, suffer this way and will put on your wraps now and get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and eat one 22-grain Triangule after your next meal you would appreciate, five minutes later, how long you suffered unnecessarily.

There will be no more indigestion—no misery in the stomach — no sour risings or Belching of Gas, no Heartburn, Flatulency or Eructations of undigested food and acid or feeling of Nausea, Fullness, Headache or other symptoms of a weakened stomach. Stomach trouble and Indigestion vanish like snow before the blazing sun.

When Diapepsin works your Stomach rests—gets itself in order. Diapepsin purifies and sweetens a sour stomach and freshens the intestines without the use of Laxatives, and what is more, it increases the gastric juices. This is what your stomach is begging for—more and better digestive juices. This is what makes you hungry and want to eat, and you can rest assured what you then eat will be taken care of properly and not left in the stomach to ferment and turn to gas and acid, and poison the breath with nauseous odours.

Get a 50-cent case from your druggist now—you ought to have Diapepsin about the house always. Should one of your family eat something which does not agree with him or her, or for a Sour Stomach or Excessive Gas, one triangule will always give immediate relief.

Not Introspective.

The minister of a large parish in a certain western diocese had for some time been much troubled by the scandalous gossip that seemed to be occupying the minds of a portion of his flock and after exercising a great amount of tact and perseverance at last succeeded in running to earth the originator of most of the settlement's society slander. The guilty one was a regular attendant at the schoolhouse services, and the minister knew that should he take him to task personally and individually he would inevitably lose a sheep, albeit a black one, so he decided to sermonize him. Accordingly a special discourse was prepared and the following Sunday afternoon literally hurled at the offending member as he sat on a desk in a corner of the schoolroom. Everybody present appeared to fully appreciate the situation and at the close of the service departed quietly and somewhat thoughtfully for home—all except the black sheep, who lingered to assist "parson" to hitch up his team and to remark: "That were a fine sermon, sir. I'll bet that hit some on 'em pretty hard!"—Bellman.

The Japanese Cook.

The Japanese are a most imitative and observant people and copy everything they see with minute fidelity. A Newport man engaged a Japanese valet, who was very attentive and satisfactory. His duties rarely took him into the kitchen, but when he had a chance of watching the cook he did so with extraordinary interest.

The cook caught a severe chill and left somewhat suddenly. The lady of the house was in despair, as she could not replace her. At last the valet announced diffidently that he thought he could cook a little, and the mistress gladly agreed to give him a trial. The first thing he started on was the potatoes. He took off his shoes and socks and put his feet in a bath of hot mustard and water. The lady wanted to know what on earth he was doing. He replied that he saw the cook do that when she was peeling the potatoes and nothing would persuade him it was not a necessary part of [illegible].—New York Times.

Some Big Nuggets.

Poseidon, the newest Australian goldfield, is producing some remarkable nuggets. One, shaped exactly like a cricket ball, was recently found there lying on the surface, the finder at first mistaking it for mushroom. And now, from the same place, comes news of a nugget of 10 ounces closely resembling a nautilus shell. This was found by an Irishman, and on the adjoining claim a Scotchman, named Mackenzie, almost simultaneously impaled a 38 ounces nugget on the point of his pick. Furthermore, a boy driving a baker's cart over the Poseidon field saw the gleam of gold in the grass. He got down and picked up a nice little nugget of four ounces.

Lots of Work in West.

Rev. J. A. Bowman, Presbyterian representative at the immigration office, returned recently to the eastern provinces from a trip west as far as Estevan. Mr. Bowman went out for the purpose of locating married couples who have recently immigrated to Canada for the winter, and was successful in placing all those he desired. The farmers in the west have nearly all had a properous season, and were prepared to employ more help this winter than usual, so it is likely employment will be found for all desiring it.

A Valuable Cargo.

News from Clayoquet, B.C., records the arrival of the sealing schooner Thomas F. Dayard, the top liner of the sealing fleet, with a catch of 923 sea otter and 606 seal skins, valued at over $30,000. She lost two of her crew in northern waters, they being swept overboard by a sea shipped when the schooner was bound to Behring Sea.

A FAMOUS REGIMENT.

The Early History of the Black Watch —Guard to Watch on the Braes.

By far the most famous of the Highland regiments is the 42nd, otherwise known as the Black Watch. The date of its origin, says a writer in Blackwood's, is uncertain. The author of "A Short History of the Black Watch," recently published, a history in which the achievements of the Royal Highlanders are set forth with a modest and business-like simplicity, declares that the regiment came into being at least as early as 1725. Mr. Andw. Ross, in the "Military History of Perthshire," gives it a far earlier birth. He dates its "historic succession" from the 3rd of August, 1667, when Charles II., issued a commission under the Great Seal to John, second Earl of Atholl, to raise and keep such a number of men as he should think fit "to be a constant guard for securing the peace in the Highlands," and "to watch on the braes."

The chief duties of these men were to suppress the drivers of cowachs, "thieves and broken men" as they were called, and to bring to justice blackmailers and blackmailed, doubtless on the sound principle that the pigeon is not much better than the rook. That they performed these duties efficiently is certain, and they may have been drawn from the same classes from which the Highland regiments were presently recruited. But their duties were not the duties of soldiers, and though a "historic succession" of a kind may be continuous, it is not easy to connect the six companies of Highlanders raised in 1725 with the bodies of men who 50 years earlier watched on the braes. Those six companies, whose sombre tartans, a stern contrast to the red coats of the regular troops, gave them the name of the Black Watch, were enrolled for the plain purpose of guarding the highlands against disaffection. Though the officers were Whigs, the gentry of Perthshire and the neighboring counties eagerly enrolled themselves, glad that they were permitted once more to bear arms. Many of the privates were gentleman-soldiers, who, to the surprise of the English "had gillies or servants to attend them in quarters, and on a march to carry their provisions, baggage, and firelocks."

AEROPLANES FOR ALL.

English Enthusiast Says They Will Cost $500 Each In Ten Years.

"In less than ten years aeroplanes will cost no more than $500," is the prediction made by Frank Hedges Butler, the well-known English balloonist, who recently returned to London from Le Mans, France, where he made an ascent in Wilbur Wright's aeroplane. Mr. Butler thus continues his glimpse into the future:

"Lighthouses on land will be erected by the trinity board. To mark the way at night lamps on aeroplanes or fliers will be used. With the smaller planes the speed will be terrific, 200 miles an hour, and the twenty-one miles across the channel will mean a few minutes. Winds at sea blow more steadily than on land, and aeroplanes can be made to float on the water and raise themselves. If such machines now can carry what is equal to three passengers there is no reason why an aeroplane should not carry more with larger planes and engines.

"The north pole, the tropical forcats of central Africa, Australia and the Sahara desert will be new fields for the explorer to glide over."

Looking Over Wheat Areas.

A prominent visitor to Canada a short time ago was ex-Provost Marshall of Maybole, Ayrshire, Scotland, who has been in the Dominion on a trip round the world. Mr. Marshall is head of the large implement firm of Alexander Jack & Sons (Limited), and is one of Scotland's best known men. He has always taken a very great interest in farming, and is ready to do all in his power to make the work easier for the farmer by producing new machinery and implements. Mr. Marshall will visit Australia, New Zealand, India, and Europe before returning to Scotland.

Students Who Collect Souvenirs.

"That the souvenir habit has taken a strong hold in university circles is witnessed by the following set of facts," says the students' paper of Toronto University, editorially. "Since the beginning of the fall term the dining-hall has so far lost twenty-four dinner knives, twenty-three small forks and four teaspoons."

Last G.T.P. Survey.

The locating of the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Edmonton and Prince Rupert has been completed. It has occupied nearly two years. Survey parties are employed in the vicinity of Fort George in central British Columbia forming the last of the big force in the field.

Earl's House as Cafe.

Dollis Hill House, Willesden, England, formerly the residence of the Earl of Aberdeen, has been acquired by the Willesden District Council for a refreshment house for the adjoining park. It was at Dollis Hill House that Mr. Gladstone stayed almost every week-end during the sitting of Parliament.

Period Pianos.

That the aesthetic sense of our people is undergoing rapid development, is shown by the demand for what are known as Period pianos. That is to say, if "My Lady" has the decorations of her drawing room done in the style of Louis XIV., XV., XVI., or in the days of the Empire, then she has a piano made to correspond. Or if she is a lover of the Antique, then she has a Chippendale or Sheraton piano to match the chairs, etc. "Dens," club rooms and bachelors' apartments, furnished with Mission furniture, likewise have Mission Pianos. The New Scale Williams Pianos are made in these Art Cases. The Williams Piano Company will submit designs and estimates free of charge to those who wish special Period Pianos not carried in stock. The reputation enjoyed by the famous New Scale Williams is a guarantee in itself that Period Pianos, made to order, will be eminently satisfactory. Many styles here. 6

THERE are many kinds of flour sold. Some are made from spring wheat and some from winter wheat.

What you ought to know is which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, grows a few inches, then gives up to the snow. When the snow melts it grows again, ripening in July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in late April or early May, and ripens in August. It matures rapidly and is therefore strong. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and containing nearly twice as much real nutriment as the winter wheat.

Royal Household Flour

is made entirely from the hard, nutritious spring wheat, carefully selected from all the wheat of this kind grown in Canada.

True Detective Stories

THE MAN WITH A LION'S HEART.

BY A. L. DRUMMOND,
Formerly Chief U. S. Secret Service.

[Copyrighted, 1908, by A. L. Drummond and A. L. Benson.]

A BIG, square jawed, keen eyed man entered the office of Elmer Washburne, chief of the United States Secret Service, in Washington late in the year 1874 and introduced himself as George Albert Mason. He declined to tell his business to anybody but the chief, and said he would speak to Mr. Washburne only behind closed doors. He was shown into an inner office.

"Chief," said he, "what would you give to get hold of Peter McCartney?"

Mr. Washburne smiled. Peter McCartney was perhaps the most wanted man of his kind in America. A few years later a Missouri sheriff might as well have been asked what he would give to get hold of Jesse James. McCartney, sought as he was on every hand, was not only hard to catch, but when trapped he had a habit of refusing to stay caught. So expert a jail breaker was he that, out of sheer humor, he once stood behind the bars in a St. Louis prison and told a chief of the Secret Service that he would call upon him at his hotel at ten o'clock that night. More than that, he kept the engagement, to the great astonishment of the chief.

"I would pay a good big reward to get Peter McCartney," replied Mr. Washburne. "But I would want to see my man first and be sure there was no mistake. Why? Can you get him?"

"Yes, I can. Appoint me a special officer and give me a man to help me and I will bring McCartney in."

The appointment was made and an operative named Duckworth was sent out with Mason to make the arrest, which was to take place in St. Louis.

Now, a word or two about McCartney. If ever there was a jack-of-all-trades in crime he was one—and he was master of all. He was a wonderfully expert counterfeiter. He had just put out an imitation of a $5 note issued by the Traders' National Bank of Chicago that baffled everybody but experts. Nor did he, like so many counterfeiters, know only part of his trade. He was a fine chemist, a good engraver of plates and a good printer.

When business became bad in the counterfeiting line Pete could turn a hand to burglary and do a job of safe blowing or house breaking in a manner that stamped him no amateur. Once he set up shop as a dentist, but at this he failed. The only peaceful pursuit at which he was ever known to prosper was as a public lecturer. There may be still living in the West some persons who will recall a shaggy bearded speaker who gave minute directions with regard to how to detect counterfeit money. Pete was the man, though on such occasions he never went under the name of McCartney. At the conclusion of each lecture it was his custom to go about town and pass counterfeit right and left. Why he did these things, unless from a spirit of dare-devilry and humor, I have never been able to figure out. All I know is that he did them. It is true that in this way he distributed a good deal of counterfeit money, but that is no explanation. There are safer and better ways of putting bad bills into circulation.

It was to trap this man that Mason and Duckworth set out from Washington on the long journey to St. Louis. Mason knew McCartney and believed he had his confidence. The plan was for Mason to discover the room in which McCartney did his work, lead Duckworth to it and make the arrest.

Several days after the pair reached St. Louis Mason reported to Duckworth that he had obtained the desired information and everything was ready to make the capture. Shortly after nightfall they set out. On the way Mason suggested that they stop in a saloon that McCartney was known to frequent. Having entered the place, Mason made an excuse to go into a back room. After waiting for him a little while Duckworth went to look him up. Mason was nowhere to be found. The door through which he passed led to a back yard that opened into an alley.

Duckworth went back to the local headquarters of the Secret Service and reported what he regarded as Mason's breach of faith. While he was talking a report came from Police Headquarters that three men, one of whom claimed to be a Secret Service official, were in a hospital, badly slashed up. Duckworth hastened to the hospital and found Mason on an operating table. Surgeons were trying to sew up a gash across his abdomen that extended almost from one side to the other.

The other two patients were Peter McCartney and a well known counterfeiter named Joe Rogers. They had been clubbed and cut until they were weak from their wounds, but the condition of neither was as serious as that of Mason.

When the trio had revived enough to talk they told their stories. McCartney declared that Mason tried to extort money from him by threatening to arrest him. He said he had a large amount of currency in his possession—which was true—and that Mason, claiming to be a Secret Service official, said he would arrest him if he did not give it up. McCartney said he did not purpose to be blackmailed and therefore drew his knife and used it. Rogers corroborated McCartney's story.

Mason told a simple story of cornered criminals who tried to murder him when he descended upon them, and he turned over $5,000 in counterfeit money that he found in their room.

There was nothing to be gained by taking the word of McCartney and Rogers, as against that of Mason, so his story was accepted as true. And, as the hospital physicians reported that McCartney and Rogers would be flat on their backs for some time, Duckworth was ordered back to Washington. He had not been home more than ten days, however, before news was received from St. Louis that McCartney and Rogers had escaped from the hospital. Mason recovered and was given $1,000 for bringing about McCartney's arrest. He gave a plausible explanation of his disappearance from the saloon the night he left Duckworth, and, of course, the fact that McCartney escaped from the hospital was not to be charged up against him.

That seemed to end the case, but it didn't. The next spring a former chief of the Secret Service reported that he could obtain a set of rolls used to make counterfeit plates provided he were given a considerable sum of money to buy them from an informer who knew where to put his hands upon them. For reasons that it is not necessary to enlarge upon here I was ordered to shadow him. I did so, and quite by accident saw a transaction that convinced Chief Washburne that the former chief was not acting honestly.

The suspected man was brought before the chief, flatly accused of trying to sell rolls that he himself had captured when he was a government official years before, and told that it was idle to try to deny the charge.

"The question now is," said the chief, "what are you willing to do to buy your liberty? What criminal do you know that you can squeal on?"

"Well," he said, "I know George Albert Mason. He has been handling some of those counterfeit Chicago fives. He will be in New York next week. If you have a man who knows Mason and whom Mason doesn't know I can show him how to make the arrest."

Mr. Washburne had heard other things about Mason since the occurrence of the stabbing affray in St. Louis and was eager to capture him. So I was ordered to accompany the former chief to New York, and David H. Crowley and William W. Kennoch were instructed to accompany me. We found the former chief living at the Park Hotel, on lower Broadway—now the Broadway Central. He had a room on the third floor and we took one on the second. Mason upon his arrival in the city was to call at the former chief's room, and we were to capture him.

When the day came to make the catch Chief Washburne came up from Washington and with the rest of us went to the room in the Park Hotel. As I was not known to Mason, I wandered around the corridors, occasionally going down to the office, waiting for him to appear. A little after noon he came to the front door, walked up the stairs and went to the former chief's room. I went to our room and told the chief and the two others of his arrival. Mason remained in the room perhaps ten minutes. When he went down stairs I followed him, with the other three a few steps behind.

After reaching the ground floor Mason started to go down stairs to the barber shop. He had descended perhaps three steps when I reached over the bannister, grabbed him by the right arm and threw my weight on him. With his left hand he tried to reach a revolver that was in his right hand coat pocket, but before he could do so Chief Washburne had his own revolver in Mason's face and the other two detectives were swinging on his left arm.

"Surrender or I'll blow your head off!" shouted the chief, as he pressed the muzzle of his gun a little closer to Mason's face.

"You'll not blow anything off! Get out of here!" shouted Mason.

The chief did not shoot nor did he get out, and the fight went on. Mason was a powerful man and it was all the four of us could do to overpower him and put the handcuffs on him. All the while we were fighting he was hurling at us a volume of profanity the like of which I have never heard from that day to this. Nothing that he could lay his tongue to seemed bad enough to call us.

As soon as we had the handcuffs on him we began to search him. One of the first things we found was an envelope. On one side was an address, but before we could read it Mason, manacled as he was, grabbed the piece of paper and bit out that part which bore a name. We had to choke him until he was black in the face before he would give it up.

The half chewed paper bore the name and New York address of Kitty Wells. Kitty is dead now and the present generation does not know her even by reputation so it may be of interest to give some facts pertaining to her.

Kitty Wells was originally a London barmaid. Charles Bullard, a noted bank burglar, took a fancy to her and married her. She obtained a divorce and was next heard of when she startled the world by marrying Juan Terry, the Cuban sugar king. Terry saw her in London, fell a quick victim to her wiles and led her to the altar. About a year later he died, leaving in his will $5,000,000 to their child, born after his death, and $1,000,000 to her. She died in 1894.

It was after Kitty's divorce from Bullard and prior to her marriage to Terry that we found an envelope bearing her name and New York address in George Albert Mason's pocket. We went to her house and asked what it meant.

"You insult me," she replied, "by asking such a question."

"We are not here to insult you," I said, "but to find out what you know about George Albert Mason."

"I know he is a fine gentleman," said she, "if that will help you any."

"Do you know that he is wanted in Rochester on a charge of counterfeiting?" I asked—which was true.

"I know nothing of the kind," she replied. "So far as I know he is a gentleman. How he makes a living is a question concerning which I have never inquired."

It was evident that if Kitty knew anything to the discredit of Mason she was not ready to tell it, so we took her to the Bleecker street office of the Secret Service, not as a prisoner, but as a witness, and then went back to search her rooms. In her bedroom was an old fashioned wooden bed with posts perhaps four inches square at the bottom and no castors. Under one of the bedposts was found $2,000 in big counterfeit bills.

Kitty was told of the discovery and asked for an explanation. She said she knew the money was there, but denied all knowledge of its spurious nature. She said Mason had given it to her to keep for him and she supposed it was genuine money. She adhered rigidly to this story, and after a week she was released.

About this time I received orders from Washington to go to Toronto and look up Mason's record in Canada. I found an amazing array of facts. First of all I learned that Mason was one of the men who forced an entrance into Secretary Seward's house the night President Lincoln was assassinated and tried to murder the Secretary of State. I don't know whether Chief Washburne knew this before I went to Canada, but I didn't, and he never told me. A man named Payne was the one who actually did the stabbing in the Seward house, but Mason was with him and for his part in the affair was sentenced to death. President Johnson commuted his sentence to twenty years' imprisonment, and, after serving a few years in the penitentiary at Columbus, Ohio, President Grant pardoned him.

I learned that prior to the assassination of President Lincoln Mason was one of the conspirators who, from their hiding place in Canada, plotted not only the assassination of the chief officers of the federal government but the burning of New York and other Northern cities.

Throughout all of these criminal proceedings Mason appeared purely as a mercenary. Born in England and reared in Canada, he had neither interest in the South nor a share in the animosity of any of its mistaken citizens. He was simply willing to kill Seward or burn New York for a financial consideration.

I also learned in Toronto that Mason had been arrested in the Dominion of Canada fifty-two times and convicted forty-eight times. His offences included almost all of the misdemeanors and minor crimes, as well as some of a serious nature. He had fought, stolen, assaulted with intent to kill, robbed in the highway, rifled houses by forcing an entrance at night and forged a few pieces of paper. Since his release from the Ohio Penitentiary he had spent most of the time in jail.

Mason was brought to trial before Commissioner Shields in New York city on a charge of having passed counterfeit money on Albert Ensor, of Rochester. He was quickly convicted, and when he was asked if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him replied by calling the Commissioner all the vile names that came to his mind. He was sentenced to serve twelve years in the penitentiary at Albany.

His life in prison surpassed anything of the kind of which I have ever read. Almost the first thing he did was to knock down all the guards within reach. A huge man, with broad, powerful shoulders, even the other prisoners suffered at his hands, and he was chained hand and foot to the stone floor of a dark cell, like an ugly animal. He had suffered this punishment for a week when the Warden, a kindly old man, ordered that he be unchained and brought upstairs to his office.

The shackles were taken from Mason's arms and legs. So stiff were his joints that he could hardly walk, but with difficulty he hobbled to the room in which sat the Warden.

"Mason, you have had a pretty hard time," began the kindly official. "Aren't you ready to behave like a man and receive the treatment that men get?"

Mason spit in the Warden's face without saying a word. He was taken back to the dark cell and chained to the floor.

A month passed by and again the Warden sent for him. Asked if he was not ready to be good Mason cursed the Warden to the extent of his vocabulary and swore that if he were let loose he would kill everybody about the place.

To make a long story short, Mason spent the entire twelve years in Albany Prison, chained to the floor. He was given a mattress to lie on, and a number of times was asked if he was not ready to obey the rules and come up into the daylight. But he refused to surrender and left the dark cell permanently only at the expiration of his term.

When he was released from prison the first thing he did was to visit me at my office in the Post Office building.

"Do you remember me?" he asked.

"Yes," said I, "you are George Albert Mason. What do you want?"

"I want to know where Washburne is. I haven't anything against you, but I am going to kill Washburne the first time I see him."

Mr. Washburne at that time had the contract for building a large reservoir in Westchester county, New York, but I told Mason I thought his old enemy was dead.

"Well," he replied, "if he isn't dead I'll kill him."

Without saying another word Mason left the office and I never heard of him again. He never molested Mr. Washburne, who is still alive.

I always thought Peter McCartney sized Miles up about right. Old Pete, who as the years crept over him came to look more and more like a German professor or a Russian admiral, finally fell into the hands of the police and served a term in prison. While in jail he heard how the man who betrayed him in St. Louis had chosen to remain chained to the floor of a dark cell rather than to promise to be good and remain in the daylight.

"That's just like Mason," said he. "He's got the courage of a lion, but the judgment of a jackass. He doesn't know enough to eat good food."

THE WEAR OF RAILROAD IRON.

MORE than one hundred thousand tons of steel is actually worn away from the surface of rails in the United States yearly. The tonnage of rails discarded as "worn out" every year is about one million, and at least ten per cent of the metal has disappeared in each case, while there has also been a change in the shape of the head, due to displacement of the steel by "flow." This loss is due to the rolling friction of the wheel on the rail. As to the wheels themselves, these lose from 17,000 to 18,000 tons of metal annually, of which the great bulk is rubbed off by the friction of the brake. The old cast iron wheels are being rapidly replaced by steel, and this will doubtless affect the wear on both wheel and rail, although the result is somewhat uncertain. It may be expected that the loss from steel wheels will be greater than that from the harder, though more brittle, cast iron. In spite of this loss, however, they may last longer, as the steel wheels will bear more wear than the iron ones before becoming unfit for use. Tests made by one of the largest railroads in the country indicate that the "life" of a steel wheel is likely to be three times as long as that of an iron one. The importance of a careful study of the conditions of wear appears from the fact that the thousands of tons of valuable metal thus dissipated by wear are not recoverable, and might as well be annihilated so far as their future use to the world is concerned.

"Ask Your Father"

Jack and Janet Go to a Restaurant for Luncheon.

BY TUDOR JENKS.

"NOW," asked Mrs. Townsend, when they were settled in their places at the restaurant table, "what shall I order for luncheon?"

"Let me see the bill of fare," Janet said, reaching for it.

"In a minute," Jack answered. "I just want to see what kinds of soup there are."

"I don't want soup," said Janet.

"Neither do I," her mother added.

"But I'd like some," Jack insisted. "Now, here's some of the mulligatawny. What's that like?"

"If you take soup we'll have to sit doing nothing while you eat yours," Janet objected. "And, besides, one portion is more than you can eat, and it will be wasted."

"It won't save it to eat it, any more than to leave it after it is paid for," was Jack's answer.

"You don't have soup usually at home," his mother remarked.

"That's why I want it. What's the use of going to a restaurant if you just eat what you get at home?"

"You're not here for amusement, but to get some food," Janet observed.

"All right," Jack agreed; "then you can just eat oatmeal with bread and butter. That'll be cheap and filling."

Janet began to look cross.

"Here," Mrs. Townsend said, "let me take the bill of fare. I will order the luncheon." After a moment, she looked up. "Suppose, Janet, you and I have some tea and fancy cakes, and for Jack, I will order—some baked chicken pie."

"I don't like chicken pie. I'd rather have mock-turtle soup and chicken salad and ice cream."

"That's too much," his mother replied, "and it's too expensive."

"Well, then," Jack grumbled, "if I can't have what I want I won't take anything."

"That's just like you!" Janet exclaimed. "You just go and spoil everything!"

"Well," Jack muttered, "I'm not going to guzzle tea and crumble dried up cake. I'd sooner take chewing gum!"

Mrs. Townsend put down the bill of fare in despair. "I do wish you wouldn't be so troublesome! I'm sure I can't suit you all without ordering a lot of things we don't want. And it is wasting money, too. All we need is a light luncheon so that you will not get too hungry before your dinner." She picked up the bill once more. "Let me see. What do you say to a nice salad with French dressing, and some rolls?"

"Don't like leaves," Jack muttered, while Janet looked equally unhappy, and asked, "Can't we have some dessert?"

"Dessert!" echoed Mrs. Townsend. "Yes, we could. Suppose we say rice pudding?"

This was the last straw. Jack went down to the depths of despair, and Janet's lower lip began to tremble.

"Well, children," their mother said, "shall I give the order?"

"I'd rather go without anything," was Jack's reply, and he turned indifferently from the table.

"So would I," Janet agreed.

"Have you ordered?" inquired a waiter, approaching briskly.

"Not yet," said Mrs. Townsend. "I'll let you know in just a moment. Come, children, what will you have?"

"You won't let us have what we want," Jack answered, coldly.

"I'm sure I don't know what to do. You suggest ridiculous things and won't say yes to anything else."

"Women don't know what men like for lunch," Jack observed grandly.

"Oh, very well," Mrs. Townsend replied. "We can't wait much longer. Your father wished us to be prompt so as to be in time for the matinee. Now he will be—— Here he comes. I'm glad. If you don't like me to order, you can just ask your father."

* * * * * *

Mr. Townsend came in briskly, smiling and gay. He made his way to the table, and greeted them affectionately. Then he noted the frost in the air.

"What's the matter?" he inquired. "Luncheon not served? Where's your waiter?"

"We couldn't decide what to have," said Mrs. Townsend. "Janet wanted some ice cream"——

"I didn't say so," Janet interrupted.

"And Jack choose mulligatawny soup"——

"Mock turtle," Jack corrected. "I only asked what mulligatawny"——

"That's neither here nor there," his father remarked, hastily consulting his watch. "And what did you want, my dear?"

"Only a cup of tea," Mrs. Townsend answered, "and some cake."

"That'll never do," her husband said, frowning and shaking his head. Then, rapping sharply on the table, he brought the waiter on the run. "Here, waiter," he said, "bring two portions roast beef, rare, with gravy, mashed potatoes, and have them served quick as you can. We're in a hurry!"

"Yes, sah," replied the waiter, and disappeared with a napkin trailing in the breeze.

"The longer you wait the less you can tell what you want. Roast beef is always in season, makes good red blood, everybody likes it, and, after all, there's nothing better. We've got just twenty minutes. Let's talk of something else."

And so they did.

SOME RUSSIAN MEDICINES.

NEWS comes from Russia of a remarkable series of frauds in the drug trade that has just been exposed in that country. The swindlers had a large factory in Odessa, with offices and a completely organized system of distribution, and probably others, as yet undiscovered, are in existence. The bottles used had labels in imitation of those employed by an eminent German firm. Bottles labelled "Xeroform" (a disinfecting compound) contained a mixture made chiefly of bricks; "sirolin" was sweetened and colored water, and other drugs were imitated with soap, lime and dyes. Quinine, phenacetine and numerous similar medicaments were all represented by common table salt. Inquiry showed that 58 per cent of all Russian drug stores that were examined sold more or less of these falsified products, although in many cases the adulterations were not so gross as those described above. The business of the Odessa factory alone is said to amount to a million dollars, and the end is not yet.

ON TIME.

By JANE LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

A slight, girlish form enveloped in a long, loose evening coat restlessly paced the broad veranda of Greymere inn.

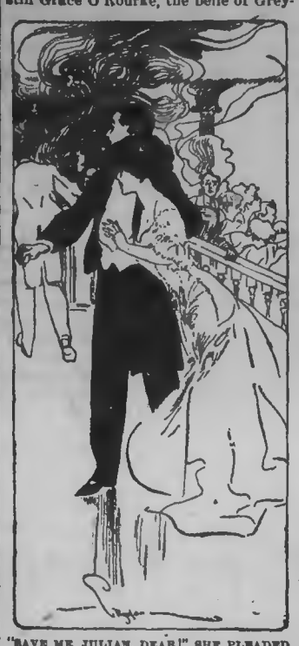
Grace O'Rourke was lovely at all times, but tonight her Irish blue eyes flashed an unusual brilliancy, which made her positively irresistible.

"Better join us," called Elizabeth Dwyer as the latter left the porch escorted by a lithe youth.

It was the night of the annual midsummer ball given to the summer guests of Pine Grove. Grace hesitated for a moment.

"Oh, Julian will be along soon, Elizabeth," she cried. "He's late, as usual, but we'll meet you at the dance later."

Other couples followed the first, but still Grace O'Rourke, the belle of Grey-



"SAVE ME, JULIAN, DEAR!" SHE PLEADED.

mere inn, paced the veranda. Finally a man's voice greeted her.

"I say, Miss O'Rourke," he suggested, "let me cut out that tardy Hawthorne, won't you? Come along to the dance with me?"

Again Grace hesitated. Down in the farthest corner of her heart she really and truly cared for Julian Hawthorne, but he was never on time for any appointment, and here was a choice opportunity to teach him a bitter lesson. Then, too, Charlie Rice was a splendid dancer. Impulsively she accepted his offer, and half an hour later found them in the midst of the summer crowd dancing and apparently oblivious of all else on earth.

The ball was at its height when Julian Hawthorne entered the room. In the doorway he leaned against the sill as if physically tired, and the lids hung heavily over his black eyes.

As Rice and Grace passed him lost in the ecstasy of a dreamy waltz his gaze followed the two closely and a satirical smile spread over his face. When the dance was over Hawthorne slowly crossed the room.

"May I have the next dance, Grace?" he asked, without seeming to notice Rice, who stood by her side.

"Do you think you could be on time to claim it?" parried Grace, with stinging sarcasm.

"I am here now, waiting," Hawthorne answered as he extended his left arm.

If men but knew the power they have over women who truly love them! There was something within Grace O'Rourke that night which told her to reject the arm he extended, but that greater something—love—made her accept it. In another moment they were whirling round and round the room.

The night was warm, and when the dance was half over they walked out into the spacious grounds surrounding the big hotel.

"I want to tell you why I was late tonight, Grace," Hawthorne began.

"But I don't want to hear," interrupted Grace. "It's always some excuse, Julian, and I'm tired of it all. If it's not the office it's the train, and if it's not the train it's something else."

"Well, then, will you let me tell you something else—something that you've never heard before, at least not from me?" he added.

"Oh, all right," agreed Grace, "only make it a short story, for I've promised the next twostep to Charlie Rice."

"It won't take long to tell you, dear." Hawthorne's voice seemed very near, and he spoke slowly and with great earnestness. "I just want to try to tell you how much I love you, Grace, how long I have loved you and that at last I am in a position to ask you to be my wife."

"As usual, my dear Julian, you are too late," announced Grace, with assumed nonchalance. "I've just promised to marry some one else."

Hawthorne lighted a cigarette and said nothing. If Grace expected a tirade about the fickleness of women she was disappointed. Hawthorne was the type of man to take defeat gracefully, but he did not fail to note the unsteadiness of Grace's step as they returned to the house nor the trembling notes in her voice when she spoke.

He loved her well enough to know her through and through. He was a man who took few chances in life, but he would have wagered that Grace O'Rourke loved him at that moment despite her cool rejection of his suit.

Hawthorne led her to Rice, who was waiting to claim his dance, and then went up to the smoking room. Long he sat and smoked in silence, when suddenly he realized that the dressing rooms were filling up with guests preparing to go home. The dance was over. A man suggested that he smelled smoke, but the idea was laughed down.

"I guess it's Hawthorne's bitter root cigar that smells like fire," sang out Charlie Rice. And the listeners all laughed in reply.

Hawthorne slipped on his light overcoat and sauntered toward the closed door that led into the hall. He opened it upon a curling cloud of smoke. At the same instant screams came from all directions. Men and women were in pandemonium. Rice was the first man downstairs, his one idea being self preservation, but above the roar of screams Julian Hawthorne's voice rang out clear and loud.

"Please keep back. Calm yourselves, and no one will be hurt."

They gave him no heed. Madly they tore ahead, fighting like maniacs. All made for the main stairway. Gowns were torn, arms were broken and ankles sprained in the effort to get out of the burning building. Once more Hawthorne raised his voice above the hum.

"I beg of you—I"— His voice stopped short, for clinging to his arm was Grace.

"Save me, Julian, dear," she pleaded.

Silently he dragged her into one of the dressing rooms and opened a large door leading to a back staircase.

"I've tried to bend them all off this way, but they would not listen. But if I can save you, darling, I will have been on time just once."

Grace gave his arm a loving little hug, which meant more to the man than all the words she could have uttered. Close to each other they descended the dark stairs which led through the servants' quarters. The rooms were deserted, and they easily reached the back door. Hawthorne turned and held Grace close for a moment. There was no time for words just then. And, standing alone in the darkness, she watched him rejoin the ranks of fire fighters.

The Readiness of Tommy.

"Tommy is such a good boy," said Mrs. Taddells to the minister as she served the pastry. "You know, Dr. Choker, that pie isn't good for little boys."

"That is very true, Mrs. Taddells," the minister assented. "When I was a boy I was not allowed to eat pastry, and all mothers must watch their children's diet very carefully."

"But I am not at all harsh with Tommy, you will understand, doctor," Mrs. Taddells went on. "Whenever I have something for dessert which Tommy cannot eat—pie, for example—I give him 5 cents to pay for his deprivation. And Tommy takes it so cheerfully, doctor. Tommy is such a dear boy, Dr. Choker."

"I am very glad to hear it, Mrs. Taddells. No, thank you. I think of eating more than a piece of pie excellent as it is. But I am truly glad to hear of Tommy's manliness and cheerfulness when deprived of pie. I suppose, Tommy," the clergyman went on, "you like pie?"

"Yessir."

"What makes you take the 5 cents so cheerfully to go without?"

"Oh, with the nickel I can get a whole pie at the grocery around the corner."

TRAPPED.

Predicaments That Caused Their Victims a Deal of Agony.

It has often been said that truth is stranger than fiction, and this is certainly true of the ridiculously improbable predicaments in which people sometimes find themselves landed.

Some time ago a restless youngster attending the service at a Cardigan chapel provided the congregation with a rare sensation. He occupied a pew close to the pulpit, and, after wriggling about in his seat, pushed his head in between two pillars of the pulpit banister.

Then he was startled to find that he could not withdraw it; and he had fixed his head in such a way that the service had to be stopped for measures to be taken for its release. This was effected only with the greatest difficulty, to the tune of the wretched youngster's loud screams.

Another curious mishap befell Mr. Charles Wailes, a Batley (Eng.) rag merchant, at the beginning of last year. He was in the act of catching hold of the chain of a crane at his warehouse, when the hook at the end of it became fixed between a signet-ring he was wearing and his finger.

At the same moment the chain began to ascend, with the result that the unfortunate rag merchant was hoisted by his finger to the top storey of his warehouse. Then the ring broke, and the finger was torn off, the owner being precipitated to the basement, many feet below.

His fall was, happily, broken by some bales of rags, which happened to be lying about, and the rag merchant was able to walk to a neighboring surgery for treatment.

A strange story was told at Penkridge Police Court only a few days ago, on the hearing of a charge of drunkenness. In his evidence, the constable said that while on duty the previous Sunday morning, a strange sound caught his ear.

He eventually found it proceeded from the churchyard, close by. On getting over the wall to investigate, he discovered a man half-way through the side of one of the old-fashioned square vaults. The victim had trapped himself as neatly as could be, for he could neither get into the vault or out. It was only after a ten minutes' hard struggle that the captive, who was drunk, could be released.

THE SUBALTERN'S RETORT.

His Frankness Moved Sir Ian Hamilton to Give Him a Better Job.

Sir Ian Hamilton, who recently unveiled the Manchester war memorial, and who has thirty-five years' military service to his credit, tells an amusing story of a little incident that happened in South Africa while he was acting as chief of staff to Lord Kitchener. He had occasion to visit rather a large depot of which a young officer was in command. Going through certain papers General Hamilton found that these were not quite in order, and at last, said rather wearily to the officer, "You know this sort of thing will not do at all. What do you suppose your brains were given you for?" "I am sure I do not know, general," was the cheerful reply. "Since I came here I have worked sixteen hours a day and more. I have acted as mule teamster, porter, van guard, supply officer, stationmaster, orderly-room clerk, typist, and a dozen other things. I think if I had not been endowed with brains I might have managed to take on two or three more jobs as well, but as it is I must admit I am somewhat handicapped." Sir Ian Hamilton was forced to laugh, and shortly after the young officer found himself attached to the general's personal staff.

Illustrated the Fact.

Sir George White, the aged British field marshal and the only non-royal person in the world possessing the grand cross of the five orders of knighthood, is noted for his self-possession. His friends declare nothing is able to disturb his equanimity.

Not long ago Sir George was delivering a public address on the subject of Military Service and Preparedness, his text being that the nation always should be prepared for unexpected dangers.

"Nations are like men," he said, "they never know what hour peril—"

In his earnestness the veteran warrior stepped too near the edge of the platform, lost his balance and fell to the floor, a distance of four or five feet. Arising without assistance and standing where he arose, he resumed:

"As I said, we never know what hour peril may be at hand. I could give no better illustration than I have just done of how suddenly danger may come upon us."

A BOY'S STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

TWICE DELIVERED FROM DEATH

HAROLD NEW, TORONTO

Mr. S. J. New of 154 Baldwin St., Toronto, says: "I can trace my son Harold's trouble to when he had the measles five years ago, from which he never really recovered. Some of the best physicians attended him, but with months of suffering he in turn contracted whooping cough, bronchitis, and then pneumonia."

"MY POOR BOY WAS REDUCED TO A SHADOW." "Month after month went by that we shall not soon forget; months of sleepless nights, fearful coughs, weakening night sweats, left my boy a mere shadow. He had no appetite, and my heart ached to see how he was wasting away. He spent one whole summer at the Lakeside Home for sick children, and came home greatly improved, but the cold winds of October took him off his feet again. The doctor advised me to send him to Muskoka, but heavy doctor's bills had depleted my financial resources and such a step seemed out of the question. Scores of friends advised the use of PSYCHINE, but I was inclined to place PSYCHINE on a par with many advertised remedies and cheap nostrums. However, my friends proved such strong advocates of it that I at last consented to try it."

"HUMAN LIPS CANNOT DESCRIBE THE CHANGE." "We tried PSYCHINE and human lips cannot describe the change that took place. No words can express the thankfulness of his mother and myself when we saw the crisis was over and realized that our boy was fighting his way back to life and health. PSYCHINE had mastered that which all the doctors' prescriptions had failed to check. Day by day Harold grew stronger and all through the winter of 1908 although continually out of doors he failed to take cold, and he put on flesh very quickly. By the spring my son was completely cured, and developed into a strong, sturdy lad."

HAROLD AGAIN FALLS A VICTIM TO DISEASE. "About last Christmas he was again attacked, this time with diphtheria; and had this dread disease very badly. After spending some time in the Isolation Hospital he returned home cured of his illness, but oh! in such a pitiable state of emaciation. The last struggle with the grim monster death had reduced him to a skeleton almost, and the boy could scarcely stand, he was so weak."

PSYCHINE AGAIN GIVES GOOD SERVICE. "Again we began to give him PSYCHINE and before one bottle had been used he showed a marked improvement. We continued the treatment, and in a very short time Harold was as strong as ever and able to go to school. We haven't any need for a doctor in our home since we started using PSYCHINE. It is certainly a wonderful remedy. Can you wonder that I am never tired of proclaiming its merits?"

"Though not in such a marked degree, I may say that my other children have been greatly benefited by this medicine. It saved my boy Harold's life without doubt, and no sufferers should despair until they have given PSYCHINE a trial."

WOMEN JOURNALISTS.

Newspaper to Advocate Their Rights a Hundred Years Ago.

One hundred years ago women first started a newspaper to advocate their rights. In 1808 it was known that Napoleon was determined to divorce Josephine, his partner of fourteen years, because she had given him no heir. A reason of state like this carried no weight in the female world, and outside the circle of courtiers all sympathy was with the wife, especially when Eugene de Beauharnais, Josephine's son by her first marriage, declared himself in the senate on the side of his stepfather and against his own mother on the question of divorce.

From the feeling thus stirred up there arose a great feminine movement. Seeing that popular opinion favored the helpless wife as against the all powerful husband, a group of young women philosophers thought the time had come for an effort for the social progress of their sex.

Their first step was to create an organ for feminist defense, and so the Athenee des Dames was born in Paris and at first flourished vigorously. The programme of these suffragists of a hundred years ago was given in a manifesto before the first number appeared.

"Must it be," it was asked, "as it has been so long, that women should be called nothing but the flowers of the human race, the charm of terrestrial eyes? Must they be flattered solely for their physical charms so as to limit their empire to their fair youth, which, alas, passes so soon? And yet, true companions to man, they aid him to cross the stormy sea of life. Can it be said that women are classed among the domestic animal pets, whose pretty little acts, the fruit of a happy animal instinct, are so captivating?"

The Athenee des Dames put in its protest against the common opinion that man is superior to woman. "If women had not been for centuries, brought up in profound ignorance and had not been persuaded by force of hearing man say that they were created to obey they would have long ago refuted this paradox," it declared. "The task of our journal will be to make known all those virtues and all those talents which the modesty of women makes them shut up in their own bosoms and which have no witnesses outside their families and the little circle of friends of each one.

"We shall make known to the public the writings of many of us who, not altogether occupied with household servitude, can rival in genius the male poets. The celebrated woman of the day will have her portrait and her biography inserted in the week's number in which she is described."

This movement, which might have cleared the way for the votes for woman agitation of today, had its days shortened by an accident. It happened that shortly after the Athenee had begun to spread the light a woman, a wigmaker by profession, named Bouhourt, aged twenty-two, was convicted of having murdered three people in order to rob them.

Thickset and well built, this young woman was noted for her habit of wearing man's clothes, and it was in man's clothes that she mounted the scaffold. The satirists and caricaturists seized on this circumstance and made the woman-man a kind of scarecrow to intimidate women from following in the ways of the Athenee, and the writers for this journal of emancipation, getting tired of being nicknamed Bouhourt, gave up contributing, and no one was found bold or persevering enough to take their place.

AN ARTISTIC ROOM.

The Prima Donna Mary Garden's Charming Boudoir.

One of the prettiest boudoirs in New York is the little drawing room in which Miss Mary Garden, the prima donna, receives her friends. This room has two windows facing south and two facing east, so that even without its golden decorations it would be a sunshiny apartment. The walls are hung with a two toned yellow paper with broad stripes. The woodwork is painted white, and the windows are hung with creamy net against the panes and with straight curtains of yellow silk that reach to the sills. The light oaken floor is strewn with rugs, all small ones, and all in rather light tones of blue and rose and yellow and green.

At one side of the room is a high backed, spacious mahogany davenport, upholstered with golden brown velvet. This is piled with pillows covered with golden silk. Most of the chairs are covered with yellow silks, and one or two have gilt frames. On the baby grand piano are tall vases of silver and crystal holding yellow roses and yellow chrysanthemums, and a great silver lamp has a pierced silver shade over one of yellow silk. A few photographs in silver frames and an etching or two in narrow frames of gold or black wood adorn the walls. The glory of this room is the mantel. It is of white paneling, simple and beautiful, with its long, straight lines and high white shelf. In the center of the shelf on a pedestal is a marble bust of a Florentine child. At either end of the shelf is a piece of oriental embroidery in blue and gold which hangs straight down to the floor without fold or fullness, the beauty of the workmanship and the charm of the color giving the final touch of artistic perfection to this lovely room.

From Limb to Limb.

Housewife—Why don't you get a job and keep it? Hobo—I'm like de little bird dat keeps flyin' from limb to limb. Housewife—G'wan, you're only a bum! How could you fly from limb to limb? Hobo—I mean de limbs o' de law, mum!

Criticism often takes from the tree caterpillars and blossoms together.—Richter.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Wives of Money Monarchs Live More Luxuriously Than Queens.

"Believe me," said the woman who thinks, "I'm a little weary of rhapsodies over the supposedly superior intelligence of the women of bygone days. Why don't those so generous of praise give modern women a chance? It is a sort of mental fashion to assume that George Eliot and George Sand and Lady Mary Wortley Montagu and Lady Blessington and others like them were peculiar to themselves and their periods; that no woman of today can hold a candle to them in any particular. I wonder if that's true. Seems to me there are dozens of women in America alone who are every bit as clever as those heroines of the past. Lady Montagu wrote delightful letters, but the art of correspondence has not passed from earth, and surely the cultured woman of today can be as sprightly. As for novelists and essayists, they flourish in abundance in this enlightened age. And when it comes to social knowledge almost any up to date hostess is far ahead of those of yore. Picture the wife of a twentieth century millionaire obliged to live as queens did in days long gone, and not so very long gone at that! Queen Caroline and Queen Anne and Queen Henrietta of England had a sad time of it when one compares their lot with that of today's rich women. Marie Antoinette had no such luxuries as thousands of wealthy matrons enjoy. Her state carriage was a lumbering affair swung on great straps, that rumbled over stones rougher than the rocky road to Dublin. If she had known the solid comfort of a really fine touring car she would have been much happier doubtless. The state barge in which she was rowed laboriously along the Seine would seem a mere scow alongside the swift motor boat in which Mme. Millionaire dashes about in these days of useful inventions. Perhaps the society woman of today sighs for royalty, but if she had to have it in the days when royalty was real she wouldn't like it half as much as being the wife of a money monarch."

The Hatpin Craze.

Just now the hatpin is no longer treated merely as a necessity, but as a most pronounced ornament. Often six or eight huge pins are worn at once, and as much care is spent on choosing them as on all the rest of the costume. The consequence is that jewelers and craftsmen are designing hatpins in every shape and form—some most elaborate and costly, some comparatively cheap and simple. Those shown above include some of the most extravagant and ornate.

A THRIFTY TOWN.

Athol's Old Financial Contract With Lyman Jennings.

By the terms of a contract entered into thirty-one years ago between Lyman Jennings, then fifty-nine years old, and the town of Athol, in Massachusetts, he gave the town $9,000 outright on its agreement to pay him interest on it at 6 per cent as long as he lived—$540 a year—and then to continue after his death to pay to his widow $180 a year and to each of his three children $120 a year, an amount equal to that which Jennings would receive yearly during his lifetime, as long as each of these four heirs might live. The results of the contract are being widely commented upon as a ruinously reckless deal by that thrifty New England town. The selectmen decided to take up with Jennings' offer after applying the figures of a life insurance mortuary table to the five proposed beneficiaries. Jennings lived thirty years instead of the fourteen and a half years that they had credited him with. The town meantime had paid out to him $16,200. His wife and one daughter now survive him, and the town is paying them together $300 a year and must continue to pay one $180 a year and the other $120 so long as each lives. In other words, it is now getting the use of $9,000 for only about 3 1-3 per cent interest. If it invested the principal properly there ought to be a good profit in this. But, supposing Jennings had put that $9,000 in a good savings bank back in 1877, he would have drawn $540 a year on it for at least fifteen years or so and after that only 5 per cent or 4 per cent or perhaps as low as 3½ per cent at times, but on an average interest of 4½ per cent for the full period he would have drawn $12,880 in all, and his widow and daughter would now be drawing 4 per cent on it, or $360 a year instead of $300, and, besides this, they, not the town, would own the $9,000. Lyman Jennings wasn't nearly as good a "figurer" as the town of Athol was, after all.—New York Commercial.

A Lucky Investment.

John Roberts of Watkins, Schuyler county, a well driller, recently purchased of Angelo Dupree, a junk dealer, an old pump for 10 cents. It was apparently of no value, but he thought there might be some parts that he could use in his business. When Mr. Roberts and his assistant took the pump to one of the wells they were drilling and started breaking it up, they were greatly surprised to see gold coins drop out of the holes they made. They at once finished the job and found $4,000, nearly all in twenty dollar gold pieces. Whom the pump belonged to at the time the money was hidden or how long it had been there is a mystery. The latest date of any of the coins was 1888. Mr. Roberts at once deposited his find in the Farmers and Merchants' bank at Watkins.—Utica (N. Y.) Press.

A Klag in a Hurry.

Before leaving for France, after his recent visit to England, King Alfonso made a call on a well known firm of jewelers in Regent street, London. After a cursory glance around the showrooms he looked at his watch and exclaimed:

"I wish to buy a few things, but am in a great hurry."

He purchased a number of sets of game bird menu holders in silver and enamel, a gold elephant charm, some handsome diamond ornaments and other pieces of jewelry, then, remarking that he had only ten minutes in which to catch his train, suddenly swept up all the articles from the counter and, without waiting for them to be put in paper, thrust them into his pockets and was gone, the visit occupying just three minutes.

Ceylon's Camphor Trees.

It is estimated that the planting of between 15,000 and 20,000 acres to camphor trees in Ceylon would develop a production of 8,000,000 pounds, which, according to most authorities, is the quantity of camphor demanded annually at present. The camphor tree naturally grows to a height of forty feet, but in Ceylon it is being kept at the more convenient height of four to five feet.

Japan's Enormous Debt.

The public debt of Japan amounted on March 31, 1908, to about $1,108,-861,875. Her population, exclusive of her inland colonies, Formosa, the Pescadoses and Sakhalin, is about 48,-000,000. The national debt, therefore, amounts to about $24 per capita, the greater part of which is owed abroad, and the cost of her civil and military establishments is enormous.

MAKING GOOD COFFEE.

Clean Pot and Fresh Boiling Water Part of the Recipe.

The secret of good coffee is an immaculately clean coffeepot, fresh boiling water and good material. It is better to pay a little more for your coffee and use less in quantity than would be necessary in the cheaper grades. The coffeepot should be thoroughly washed and scalded after every meal and coffee never allowed to stand in it. If it gets discolored put a little baking soda in it once a week or so, fill with cold water and let it come to the boiling point. Take care that the spout and strainer are perfectly cleaned. Rinse and dry thoroughly. Unlike most cooking utensils, which do better work when their newness has worn off, a coffeepot is better when new, whether made of tin, graniteware, nickel or aluminum. Many good housekeepers advocate frequent renewals from the ten cent store, discarding the old coffeepots as soon as they become discolored and strong. These are better in the end than the most expensive coffee percolator that is not kept immaculate. The time honored rule for making coffee is a tablespoonful for each person and one for the pot. Put the coffee in the clean pot, pour in a few spoonfuls of cold water to wet it, add a clean, freshly broken eggshell if you have it or a teaspoonful of the white of egg, pour on the boiling water and let it just come to the boil. Take away from the fire, give a second shake or stir the grounds down, then replace and let it come again just to the boil. Do this three times in succession, then push back on the stove to settle and clear. Some persons prefer to make the coffee by the cold water method. In this case cover the coffee with the required amount of cold water, allow it to reach the boiling point, then proceed as before. The coffee must not be allowed to boil hard, but merely reach the boiling point each time. If not perfectly clear when ready to serve pour in a tablespoonful of cold water.

THE USE OF PERFUMES.

Women of Refinement Still Use Nothing but Violet.

So many women ask what is that indescribably dainty odor which others of their sex shed around them nowadays. It's not a positive perfume, only just the most refined sweetness imaginable. It is violet, simply violet, but violet in everything, perfume, sachets, perfumed flannels for tacking in dress linings, tooth wash, hair tonics, bath tablets, everything.

This is the recipe given by a chemist for the woman who would be not only as fair as the rose, but radiate an odor equally sweet. And in spite of the fad for stronger and more powerful perfumes it is asserted that women of refinement still use nothing but violet.

But perfume alone won't yield this delightful but evanescent fragrance. A woman must take violet for her hygienic text and live up to it faithfully if she would be able to create that mysterious and delightful atmosphere of rare flowers about her.

Perfume of any sort should never be used profusely. There should be just a suspicion of the odor clinging about the garments, and this is only obtained by the use of sachets placed in the closets where gowns are hung or places where underclothes are kept. Perfumed flannel, which can be purchased in pieces to suit the customer, should be tacked within dress linings or made up with the different costumes.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Tight clothes and indigestion cause red noses.

A hot bath taken at night affords refreshing sleep.

A pinch of salt taken before meals stimulates digestion.

A raw egg swallowed will detach a fishbone in the throat.

High heeled boots are known to cause spinal complaints.

The bed linen should always be perfectly dry before sleeping on it.

A walk in the fresh air will do a common headache lots of good.

Too heavy bedclothes are often the cause of that tired feeling in the morning.

For unbroken chilblains rubbing with damp salt is one of the best remedies known.

Never eat your meals in the sickroom. It annoys the patient and is not wholesome for you.

A small onion eaten raw before retiring will often result in a restful sleep, as onions are excellent nerve tonics.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY JANUARY 2 1909

Twelve Aldermen Will be Chosen From Twenty Candidates to Man the City's Ship With Mayor Rush on the Captain's Bridge—Four School Trustees to be Elected.

THREE BY-LAWS ON SLATE

On Monday the ratepayers of Peterborough will be given their annual opportunity of selecting the men who will have in charge the city's interests on the council and on the Board of Education this year. They will also decide whether the corporation will borrow the sum of one hundred thousand five hundred dollars, to be spent on a new bridge at Smith street, the purchase of the exhibition grounds, the extension of streets and the filling in of the water front.

Of the candidates for aldermanic honours ten of them were members of last year's council, two are ex-aldermen and eight are new blood. The four members of the Board of Education whose terms have just expired and with them four other citizens are contesting for the four vacancies.

With so many out for civic honours it is expected that a large vote will be polled. The citizens are anxious to secure a strong council to carry on the city's work during 1909 and the many friends of the candidates are showing more interest than has been usually noticed in municipal elections. The by-laws have been the subject of considerable discussion, and a decided opinion has very likely been formed by this time, and will be manifested on Monday.

"WHEN A MAN'S MARRIED HIS TROUBLE BEGINS," BUT TWICE MARRIED MEANS POLICE COURT

Some men would lead us to believe that a wife brings as much trouble as is ordinarily looked for in a life time, but from Chas. Rotchford's experience there seems to be some room for doubt.

Charles is an undersized, little bit of a fellow, whom no one would turn twice to look at, and yet there is probably not another man in Peterborough who can make the boast or lay claim to the distinction that he can.

Charles is none other than a bigamist.

He admitted it is police court this morning and Magistrate Dumble reserved judgment for one week. Just what will become of Charles is not known, but it is understood that there may be a technicality which will allow him to escape.

He married Jessie Cassett in Toronto, on July 12th, 1888, but he apparently was not satisfied. Charles was probably thinking along the line of the song from the Prima Donna, "Everybody Else's Girl Looks Better to Me Than Mine." At any rate he was fickle-minded and untrue. On July 22nd, 1899, Lousia Mary Dare married Charles in the little village of Stepney, near London, Eng.

Besides the charge of bigamy the amorous Charles has appeared recently on the charge of assaulting his second wife. According to her staements Charles is not much of a success as a husband, and his tyrannical actions while under the influence of intoxicants led his wife to seek redress in court. Both sentences are hanging fire and will be announced to him next Saturday, after Magistrate Dumble has given his case due consideration.

Ferom what has been learned it is that wife No. 1 is very likely remarried.

THE EXAMINER BULLETIN SERVICE ARRANGED FOR MONDAY EVENING

The Examiner has arranged as usual for a complete service in connection with the municipal elections on Monday night and the public will no doubt as usual make this office its head quarters until the result of the fight is known. Arrangements have been made with the Peterborough Light and Power Company for the use of a stereopticon lantern in the displaying of returns and the figures will be thrown upon a screen. It has been arranged to have the returns from the different polling places as soon as the ballots are counted, so that a very quick service is guaranteed. Full information in regard to the bylaws, and Aldermanic and Board of Education race will be given.

MONEY FROM FARMS

One Man From Peterborough in His Second Year Had 7000 Bushels of Wheat Alone At Melita, Man

MR. AND MRS. WOOD RETURN

Miles stretching into miles of broad prairie lands with farm houses dotted here and there as far as the eye could reach, and which could be counted almost to one hundred, is a novelty of the west which strikes the Ontario farmer on his first visit. Mr. David Wood, Homewood avenue, who has resided in Peterborough during the past few years, returned on Thursday, after spending the last four months with his son, Mr. Wilbert F. Wood, of Melita, Man. His wife also came back with him, after spending six months with her son.

Mr. Wood, sr. is very much pleased with the west, and, particularly, Manitoba. The climate agrees with him and the weather, he states, is fine. Another fact that is very noticeable is that those who have lately acquired land are meeting with great success. Many farmers who moved from this county, are on the highroad to prosperity and one man who left here two years ago had a harvest of 7000 bushels of wheat alone this year. Mr. Wood remarked that if he were only a young man again he would not remain long in the east.

It is the request of Storey & Simpson that all accounts owing them be paid before Jan. 15, 1909 tw-26-127

WOLVES WERE MANY

Neighbourhood of Eagle Dam Serenaded by Pack on Christmas Eve Which Bayed as in Olden Days.

WERE TRACED NEXT MORNING

Christmas has come and gone here in its usual quiet manner, with the exception that a pack of wolves serenaed the settlement at Eagle Lake dam on Christmas eve, their howling being quite distinctly heard. Judging from the numerous tracks there must have been five or six of them. Mr. Alex. Hunter, son of Mr. E. B. Hunter, went out on Christmas day with his rifle to have a look at their tracks and sure enough the wolves were not far away, as a full grown one appeared crossing the track. He fired at it. The wolf then turned and came towards him, then Allie fired again and shot it dead. It measured five feet two inches long and stood two feet eight inches in hight. It was not lean but in good flesh and condition. Wolves are often poisoned but are so cunning that they are seldom shot.—Minden Echo.

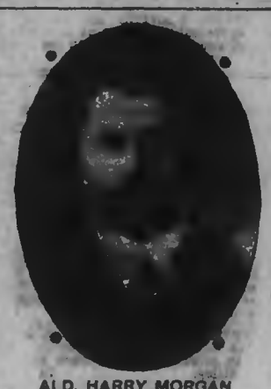
Taking Stock

—Many of the local factories are taking inventories of their stock as is customary at the first of the year. This means that for the next week there will be a considerable number out of work but after that a difference is expected.

ANTONIO CREBAR'S HOME WAS NEAR REGGIO DI CALABRIA, THE CITY OF PANIC, DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

As a Boy He Often Visited It From His Rural Home and Enjoyed the Quiet, Natural Beauty of This Famous Watering Place.

HAS RELATIVES RESIDING THERE



ALD. HARRY MORGAN,
Another Alderman who asks for re-election.

Antonio Crebar, father of V. E Crebar, proprietor of the fruit store on the south side of Charlotte street, near George street, is, as far as is known, the only Italian in the city, who has come from the neighbourhood of the recently beautiful city of Reggio di Calabria. An Examiner reporter called on him this morning and learned that when a boy he home had been in the country near Reggio and often had, with other boys, gone down to Reggio where the waters of the Mediterranean Sea and Straits of Messina circled around its regular, and delightful beach which attracted so many tourists. Mr. Crebar has many cousins and relatives living in the devastated district and whether they have met with any injury or not is, of course, not known. They are probably safe for most of them reside in suburban districts. It is about 27 years ago since Mr. Crebar left his home and it is likely that some changes have been made since then, but for the most part they would be few. He spoke of the natural beauty of Calabria around his old home and of the happiness of the people in that land which to the natives was almost a land of the lotus.

SCHOOLS TO RE-OPEN ON MONDAY NEXT

All the city schools will re-open for the spring term on Monday morning and the pupils who have been holidaying during the past two weeks are expected to be back at their desks in the morning. The Queen Alexandra school, which was closed for some time before the holidays on account of the scarlet fever epidemic in that section of the city, will reopen with the others on Monday. There are no signs of any further developments of the disease, and it is considered safe to reopen the school again.

All the schools have been thoroughly cleaned and repaired during the vacation and several have been disinfected.

The only change in the teaching staff will be in the East City school where the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Florence Coveney will be filled by Miss Mann of Peterborough.

A GOSPEL TEMPERANCE MEETING

Will be Held on Sunday Afternoon Instead of in the Evening.

The committee in charge of the Gospel Temperance meeting which has been held during the last three months on Sunday evening, beg to announce that in future the meeting will be held at 4.15 p.m.

The committee asks for the co-operation and sympathy of all the Bible Classes in the city to make these meetings a success.

The meetings will be of special interest to the young men of our city. The committee hope that all young men interested in the future welfare of the city of Peterborough will be present at the meetings from week to week

Several Enjoyable New Year's Day Parties Were Held Yesterday

The New Year was ushered in by many happy parties, both in the surrounding country. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler celebrated the seventh anniversary of their wedding yesterday. This is the seventh year that this happy day has been remembered in a very enjoyable manner. At 7.30 supper was partaken of at Hooper's palm room, Mr. Hooper catering to about thirty-five guests.

After supper a bus was ordered which conveyed them to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fowler, 586 Concession street, East City, where a very enjoyable evening was spent, those present being entertained with music and singing, the guests leaving about one o'clock, after wishing their host and hostess many joyful returns of the day and all happiness in the new year.

A New Year's and birthday party was held at Mr. Thomas Kemp's home, in Douro, where a very enjoyable time was spent, music and games being indulged in. Those present were J. Kemp and Mrs. Kemp, Otonabee; Edward Kemp and Mrs. Kemp and their son Louis, Douro; Lance Kemp and Mrs. Kemp, and Wilfrid, Lance and Pearl Kemp, William Kemp and wife and child, Etta, 548 Bethune street, city; his father and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Covency, East City; Miss Peacock, niece, and Mr. W. J. Kemp, of Sarnia, nephew. The party broke up shortly after midnight, after wishing Mr. and Mrs. Kemp a happy and prosperous New Year.

The Roller Rink Closes To-day; Big Improvements Next Year

A large number of people took advantage of the last band concert at the roller rink last night, the rink being well filled. From 8 o'clock till 9.30 skating was indulged in and at half past nine the skaters were taken off and the band played for dancing which was greatly enjoyed by those who took part in it. Next year there will be many improvements made in the rink, it will be enlarged to about twice its present size and a large automatic piano will be installed. It will have a full orchestra accompaniment and will be played by electricity. The rink will be open this afternoon and evening and will close after that, not to open until about March 15th, except for dancing, wrestling, boxing, or any other indoor amusements. Mr. Dennis and Miss Patterson intend to give exhibitions in the States during the time the rink is closed

HOW THE DAY WAS SPENT IN PETERBOROUGH

New Year's Day was spent quietly, but enjoyably in Peterborough. The weather conditions were all that could be desired by the devotees of winter sport and the indulging in those pastimes formed one of the principal items in the itinerary of the day. The New Year was ushered in by well attended watch night services in most of the city churches and in some there were services yesterday morning.

The Y.M.C.A. threw its doors open to the public during the day, the boys being invited in the morning and the general public in the afternoon. A large number took advantage of the invitation. The same was true of the Y.W.C.A., which also held a reception.

The officers of the 57th Regiment were at home to their friends in the Mess Rooms of the old armouries, while the Non. Com's. entertained the men of the regiment in the barracks street rooms.

At the curling rink the annual match between the President and Vice-President attracted a large crowd of the knights of the "stane" and the games were watched by many interested spectators, the rink being a popular place all day.

Very big crowds patronized the

Have Shipped Ten Generators From C. G. E. To Sault Ste. Marie

The last of the generators which at the steel mills about a year ago, have been turned out by the C. G. E. works for the Algoma Steel Co., of Sault St. Marie, were shipped a few days ago. There were ten altogether which were damaged in the fire. They were brought to the local shops for repairing and rewinding and the work has been going on for months. Several of the departments have been kept rather busy with the production.

Indians At Chemong Shot Eight Foxes In Big Contest

New Year's Day was spent in a novel manner by the villagers at Chemong. Thirty of the men (mostly the younger set) had a fox hunt which resolved itself into a competition between two sides, one led by Mr. Dan Whetung, Jr., and the other by the school teacher of the reserve, Mr. Alfred McCue. Mr. Whetung's 15 hunters won the contest by shooting five of the Reynard family while their opponents got only three. The losers paid for supper for the both sides at the supper given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society. Eight foxes in one afternoon is something almost undreamed of by Peterborough hunters who manage to get about one during a season.

That Will be the Extent of Injury to Property in Sicily.

Special to The Examiner.

Rome, January 2, 1909. — The property loss in the earthquake zone is now estimated at approximately one billion dollars. This represents the actual destruction of property. The loss in trade and from the abandonment of countless Italy's richest farming lands canot be estimated at the present time. One of the big items of loss is 4200 ships of various sizes. King Emanuel has ordered the sale of his Sicilian estates, worth millions of dollars, and that the proceeds be distributed among the destitute.

Presented with Umbrella.

The children who took part in the Knox church cantata on Wednesday night were trained by Mrs. Patterson-Mowry who deserves great credit for the success of the event. She was presented with a gold headed umbrella at the close of the entertainment.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS RECEIVED.

It energetic, enterprising and patriotic journalism deserves adequate reward—as far as is possible in this world—the Manitoba Free Press should have unlimited largesse showered upon it in respect of its persistent, original and even picturesque efforts to "boom" Manitoba and the Northwest, and exploit the apparently inexhaustible story of their resources. Year after year with the regularity of a collector of taxes, Christmas souvenirs come from the Free Press, with an accompanying booklet, bristling with unique information and redolent of some new form of provincial or territorial resources—reindeer pemmican from the north pole, a gray goose quill, a miniature barrel of sub-arctic flour, a bag of No. 1, hard, a pipe of peace, etc., etc. This year it is a box of Caviar from Lake Winnipeg, with an explanatory little text book, and sketch of the history of Caviar and a Cree legend of the sturgeon. Of course the booklet does not omit to sing the glories potential of Manitoba, not only of its soil but of its water; and proprietary bands are laid upon its new sea, Hudson's Bay and its wealth in whalebone blubber and fish is duly recorded. Caviar is the roe of the sturgeon prepared as a table delicacy, a sort of hors d'oeuvre, and a sort of blood relation to anchovy paste. The delicate Christmas attention of the Free Press, this year is inclosed in a little tin case and with the accompanying book, is symbolical of the neatness of the journalistic thrust of the Free Press under the fifth rib of its political adversaries. The chief merit, however, of this and similar Christmas remembrances of this living journal, is to dress in attractive garb new facts about the resources of the great west and give information which but for such annual exhibitions would largely be, like Hamlet's play, "caviare to the general." The Examiner gives the Free Press its congratulations and good wishes for what it richly deserves, a Happy New Year.

The Examiner acknowledges with thanks the receipt, from the publisher of "The Commercial Handbook of Canada,—Heaton's Annual" issued by Heaton's Agency, Toronto. As its name implies, this book of four hundred odd pages, is filled with information especially bearing upon commercial interests. Its contents include departments of "Commercial Information"—postal rates, banks and branches, insurance and trust companies, steamship and railway lines and every sort of information in demand in the transaction of all kinds of commercial business; "The Canadian Customs Tariff," the "Board of Trades Register" and "The Canadian Encyclopaedia" a mine of concise information compiled from latest official reports. In a word, Heaton's Annual is the Canadian Whitaker and contains in concise and convenient form a great store and variety of useful Canadian information. A copy of this year's edition, may be seen at the Examiner office, where the book may be obtained.

Thomas Carlyle says that the true university of these days is a collection of books.

SPELLING "REFORM."

The Globe dubs as "philistines"—that is persons deficient in culture and refinement—those who advocate the "barbarisms" represented by adherence to the time-honoured and venerated form of spelling the final syllable of "honour," favour, etc., with an "u" In another part of the same issue is found the following paragraph, under the heading, "Following the Imperial Dictionary":

> The spelling of such words as "honor" and "favor" with a "u" has been officially confirmed by the Department of Education. Dr. Seath, Superintendent of Education, yesterday stated that in the preparation of the new Public School Readers the English custom as expressed in the Imperial Dictionary, would be followed.

We have never had an embarrassing plenitude of occasion for commending the present administration of the Ontario Department of Education, but in issuing what the Globe emphatically calls "this absurd and futile order," the Department has taken an attitude of commendable conservatism. The "order" is not "absurd," though it may easily be "futile." It will be futile if those who, by virtue of position, influence and opportunity, should be able to set a wholesome example in the preservation of the purity of the English tongue in all its relations—set the example and lead the factions of literary anarchy, in the work of corrupting the noblest language of them all. The spelling of the words mentioned is the English spelling, honoured by centuries of usage by the greatest literary authorities of the world. The corrupted form of spelling, which the Globe and cognate orthographical iconoclasts seek to introduce, originated in the United States, not in the land that gave the English language its name, not in the land that, through the English language has given the world the greatest literature of all time. One would think that the greatest colonial offspring of the Motherland would be respectful enough to wait the initiative of the only country—the only authority—having a right, without the charge of impertinence, lying, to suggest and inaugurate "reforms." We derive our noblest conceptions of government, our highest conceptions of morality and honour, our highest ideals of literary, ethical and social, culture; all the best in liberal institutions and, in a word, all the essentials to the attainment and maintenance of the highest civilization from Great Britain.

Our national government gives the Mother country a trade preference and also an intellectual preference, with the object of making British literature more easily available to our Canadian people. Then, why, not exercise a preference in the matter of British orthography? No country could give Canada more hostile treatment in the matter of trade than the United States has done. Yet there are those who fawn upon our neighbours and adopt another form of hostility to what is British, in the shape of corrupted spelling. The bumptiousness that assumed to change the spelling of the English language in such words forms as "honour" and "centre" has gone a good deal further and much corrupted the English language into the most nauseating argot. The hideous slang that fouls the mouth and fairly rots the speech of Canadians is simply due to proximity to, and intercourse with, the source of this corrupt and corrupting travesty of language.

Any country, especially a young and growing country like Canada, can well take lessons from the energy, enterprise and business vivacity of our neighbours to the south of us. But there are many things, which have their origin there, to be avoided; among these are the debased coin of speech, the slang, the flippant phraseology, the disregard of correct grammatical orthoepic and orthographic forms. The cultured few are submerged by the philistines many, who have little reverence for the refinements of culture or the conventions sacred to the truly intellectual, and truly moral. In respect to many of these things we Canadians cannot throw stones at our neighbours. We fairly swim in a conversational sea of slang. We are coming to have less and less veneration and reverence for age, for our superiors in authority. We pick up and appropriate for our daily colloquial food, slang phrases and, insensibly, perhaps, the questionable moral quibbles and moral sentiments that father all, or at least most of them. Looseness of language and laxity of morals are not always strangers.

If anybody feels a call to literary reform, there is a riper and a wider field for the harvester than the arrogant assumption of authority to change centuries-sanctioned spelling at a few words. They would be better employed by trying to reform what is unquestionably bad — slang, flippant forms of speech, grammatical indifference and clipped and slovenly slurring of phrases, practised sometimes and too often, by persons of good educational acquirements. Here is a chance for reformers, a more legitimate outlet for reformatory activities, than the cry of reform where there is no reform.

By the way, where do the spelling "reformers" get their warrant for usurping the functions of a body like the Academie Francaise? We have no such organic body in relation to the English language. In conformity with the developmental character of all things British, language reform has come through the usage of the great lights of the British literary world. Custom and usage constitute our philological law. And, by the way, again, there would be no philology if the spelling reformers should have their way. There could be no philological conditions if words were deprived by phonetic spelling, approximate or complete, of their etymological character and historical and ethnic significance. Reform, or rather, change in the spelling of English words will come in a wholesome way when, by consensus of the great guild of litterateurs, it is due. In spelling reform as in many other things, festina lente is sound advice.

In words as fashions the same rule will hold,
Alike fantastic if too new or old;
Be not the first by whom the new is tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.
—Pope.

HOW THE DAY WAS SPENT IN PETERBOROUGH CITY

Brock street skating rink during the afternoon and evening. The ice was in good condition and a very enjoyable time was spent by the patrons. The Street Railway Rink and toboggan slide at Jackson Park also attracted many young people during the day.

The Auditorium Roller Rink was also a popular amusement place. There were many skating, and in the evening an enjoyable dance was held.

The Gold Lake Hunt Club had a successful turkey shoot at Jackson Park in the afternoon.

The junior O.H.A. team journeyed to Whitby and opened the O.H.A. season by losing to the Lakeshore aggregation by 7—1.

A very successful dance was held last evening in the Conservatory of Music Hall in aid of the Deep Sea Mission Fund.

The local theatres did a good holiday business in the afternoon and evening.

Eggshell Gas Mantles.

Eggshells as gas mantles is an idea from Germany. The contents are drawn or blown out, the ends are neatly cut off, and the body of the shell is fixed in position like the regular article. The light thus obtained is very good, while the new form of mantle is durable.

The New Game.

They say that there is a new game in the academic department. It is called the James game. You read a chapter of Henry James and count one for Mr. James when you can't understand a line and one for yourself when you can.—Yale Alumni Weekly.

Europe's "Sick Man."

It has been the custom to refer to the sultan of Turkey as "the sick man of Europe." It has been moved and seconded that the word "sick" be inserted in place of the word "sick." Are you ready for the question?—Buffalo Times.

The Suffragette Scored.

Probably the Suffragist who has done more to enlist recruits to the cause than any other woman is Miss Annie Kenney, the young factory girl, whose magnetic personality endears her even to crowds hostile to her views. Miss Kenney has a wonderful knack of answering the objections of her hearers, as the following little story will show. While she was speaking on her favorite topic before a mixed audience a man objected to her arguments on the ground that as man was created first he was superior to woman. "Ah," replied Miss Kenney, without a moment's hesitation, "do you know what Burns said about that? He said:

His 'prentice hand He tried on man,
And then He made the lasses, O."

After that the interrupter left hurriedly.

Thrifty.

"Well, parson, is your flock lib'ral in their 'nevolences?"

"Liberal? Well, I should say dey is not that. Why, when I asted them to sing 'Ole Hundred' dey done sung 'Ten Ninety and Nine.'"—Harper's.

Ocean Tariff Statistics.

Last year's total westbound ocean traffic from Canada was 224,000 for all ports, but up to date the figures are only 104,000. The eastbound traffic to Canada for all ports was 55,000, and already this year there is a total of 50,000. The Dominion immigration policy is held responsible for the reduction.

Ask any fair-minded doctor and he will tell you that golden seal, cubebs and oil of copaiba (contained in Pe-ru-na) are valuable remedies in the treatment of catarrhal diseases. And every honest doctor will concede that collinsonia canadensis, corydalis formosa and cedron seed (contained in Pe-ru-na) are tonic remedies of high value. With this opinion all the leading medical text books agree.

The Assistance Of The Bee

From Farm and Dairy.

"Give the bee a chance and it will literally break the boughs of your trees with the weight of fruit." Frank G. Odell of Lincoln, Neb., bee-master, who gave a series of demonstrations with 50,000 bees at the National Apple Show, in Spokane, December 7th to 12th, made the foregoing observations in the course of an interview, discussing bee-keeping, scientific agriculture and fruit growing. He said:

"The bee is the expert assistant of the horticulturist and the farmer. So indispensable are its functions in the pollination of fruits, vegetables, cereals and grasses that its activities may be said to lie at the foundation of all successful agriculture. Nature has ordained one supreme law, that of creation, the perpetuation of the race type. This law, universal in its application and absolutely identical in its form, obtains in the plant world as in the animal world. The luscious pulp of the fruit is the envelope, the package, the strong box, devised by nature to protect the seed within from injury and render it susceptible of germination so that the type may be reproduced in all its perfection.

"The bee, like other insects, effects incidental pollination of flowers in its search for nectar; but its great value to the fruit grower lies in this, that it goes to the flowers specifically to gather pollen, literally by the carload in the hairy baskets on its legs, hastening from bloom to bloom, rolling and packing and literally rioting in the golden dust, pregnant with the microscopic germs of plant life, until the golden pellets are packed away in its hair baskets, to be carried to the hive for storage as an indispensable portion of the food of its young during the winter months to come.

"It requires no expert knowledge to comprehend how perfectly the bee thus performs the office of pollination. Indeed, it is nature's chief agent in this indespensable work. No seed, no fruit, is the universal law. Here is the only insect useful in all its habits, having a fixed habitation accessible to man, dependent upon the pollen of every variety of flower as an indispensable portion of the food of its young, and going to the bloom specifically to gather the pollen, thus making possible marvelous fruit crops. Give the bee a chance and it will literally break the boughs of your trees with the weight of fruit."

To Prevent Flowers Freezing

From Farm and Dairy.

I have found a way to keep flowers perfectly secure, and no danger of their freezing on the coldest night. I have two boxes, one for my geraniums and other flowers like them, and one for my calla lilies, tuberoses, and anything I happen to have belonging to the lily family. These boxes are about two feet high with a lid fastened on with hinges, and they are large enough to hold all my flowers. I line these boxes with a dozen or more thicknesses of newspaper. Then on cold nights I take my geraniums from the windows and set the pots in one of them, leaving room in the centre of the box for a lighted lamp. I then close the lid and in the morning they are as sweet and smiling as if they had slept in a bed of down.

Of course, I am always careful to have plenty of oil in the lamp to burn all night. In the centre of the box where I keep my calla lilies, I leave room for three or four hot bricks and on them I set a bucket of warm water, shut the lid, and they will not freeze. A calla does not object at all if I put a hot brick under each pot. Indeed, they seem to like it very much, and amply reward me for my care.

You may think this is a great deal of trouble, but it is a labor of love for me. I have padded the top side of the lids of those boxes, and quilled a dark maroon-colored curtain all around them. Then during the day, while my flowers are enjoying the sunshine in the windows, the boxes are placed across the corners, and instead of being unsightly, they are an ornament to the room.

Exports Of Cheese From Canada

From Farm and Dairy.

Exports of cheese from Montreal for the season of 1908 amounted to 1,785,696 boxes, as compared with 1,973,417 boxes for the previous season, or a decrease for the past season of 187,721 boxes. When comparison is made with the season of 1906 the past season's exports show a decrease of 442,142 boxes, while they are 610,236 boxes below the exports for 1903, which was the banner year for cheese production. It will thus be seen that since 1903 there has been a decided falling-off in the cheese exports. The exports for 1907 were much the smallest for any season since that of 1901, when they amounted to only 1,791,613 boxes, but the exports for the past season have fallen below this, and are the smallest for any season since 1896, when the exports amounted to only 1,726,237 boxes.

Taking the whole range of prices paid on the country boards during the season, the average price for the season was around 12c a lb., or $9.60 a box, as compared with an average price of 11 7/16c a lb., or $9.50 a box for the previous season. The value of the season's exports from Montreal was, therefore, approximately $17,142,681, as compared with $18,747,461 for the season of 1907, or a decrease of $1,604,780. The shipments from Quebec this season were slightly in excess of those of last year, amounting to 60,202 boxes, of a value of $577,939, making the total exports of Canadian cheese up to the close of navigation 1,845,798 boxes, of the value of $17,720,620, as against total exports for 1907 of 2,031,402 boxes, of the value of $19,298,318, or a net decrease for this season of 185,504 boxes, and a decrease in returns from the season's movement of $1,577,698.

The Horse Breeders' Exhibition

From Farm and Dairy.

Great interest is being taken in The Ontario Horse Breeders' Exhibition to be held at the Union Stock Yards, West Toronto, January 13th to 15th, 1909. This is clearly shown by the large number of enquiries which are being received for Prize Lists, Entry Forms, Programs and other information regarding the Exhibition. The Prize List with the exception of one class is confined entirely to breeding horses. The principal breeds used in Ontario being given classes in the Premium List. This takes in Clydesdales, Shires, Hackneys, Standard Breds, Thoroughbreds and Ponies.

Visitors attending the Exhibition will be able to inspect the horses with a great deal of satisfaction, the horses being stabled in buildings adjacent to the Show Arena. One admission each (25 cents) will admit visitors to all parts of the show. It will not be necessary to point out the great advantages to be derived to both exhibitors, buyers and other visitors by having accommodation so that horses may be seen both in the ring and in the stalls at any time during the exhibition. The stabling will accomodate about 250 horses. The ring will be 160 ft. long and 45 ft. wide will accommodate about 250 horses. The ring will be 160 ft. long and 45ft. wide and seating accommodation will be provided for 1000 people.

Single fare passenger rates have been arranged to Toronto during the Exhibition so that the expense of going to Toronto to see the Show will be comparatively small. You will have a good time, and will also have exceptional opportunity to compare the best class of both light and heavy stallions and mares now located in the Province of Ontario.

Proper Inspection Of Meat

From Farm and Dairy.

The law requiring the inspection of meats intended for interprovincial trade in the Dominion has been rescinded for the time being as far as poultry is concerned. Until recently the railways refused to accept poultry for shipment to points outside the province of consignment unless it had been inspected according to the law which requires that all meats shipped must bear the stamp of a government inspector. It has been found impracticable to apply this rule to poultry, so a notice has been issued from the live stock department to all Canadian railways permitting them to accept such consignments without inspection.

Many merchants, not thinking the law applied to poultry, in anticipation of Christmas trade, had laid in large stocks of turkeys, geese, ducks, fowl, etc., but when they commenced to ship they found that the railways refused to carry their goods on account of the law. Had they been compelled to dispose of their stocks within their respective provinces many of them would have been at a great loss. The shipments of dressed poultry are so large and so numerous that it was found impossible to apply the law to them. The removal of the rule greatly facilitated the Christmas trade.

Importance of Good Weather

From Farm and Dairy.

A factor of predominating importance in fruit culture is the weather at blossoming time. As records given in Bulletin 269 of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva, N. Y., show, in 13 years out of the 25 between 1881 and 1905, unfavorable weather during mid-May seriously affected fruit yields. Little can be done to control such injury after fruit plantations have been established, but in deciding upon locations and varieties to be set, careful consideration should be given to weather conditions, since many factors, both general and local, influence frosts, rain-storms and winds.

The bulletin mentioned above discusses the various climatic features which make up "weather," the manner and extent of injury to fruits due to each, methods of preventing such injury and the resistance of the different species and varieties of fruit to climatic stresses. Topographic and weather records are given for 100 localities in the state; so that the prospective orchardist can study intelligently the problem of locating his plantation.

THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS BY-LAW.

To the Editor of The Examiner,—

Sir,—It is to be hoped that this bylaw will be defeated by so conclusive a majority that it will not be resurrected in any form.

Leaving the merely occasional use of the grounds out of the question, why should we sink money in an enterprise in which the farming community is equally concerned with ourselves, but which we alone, it seems, are asked to pay?

We have lately spent immense sums for school buildings, drainage, etc., we have still before us to be provided an isolation hospital and a refuge for the old and destitute now placed in the gaol. In the face of all this, will it not be well to "put on the brakes" financially, and to restrict ourselves to necessary expenditures?

Yours, etc.,
RATEPAYER.

MR. LANGFORD'S VIEWS ON BY-LAWS TO BE PRESENTED ON MONDAY

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Three by-laws for a total of over $100,000 are to be submitted to the qualified ratepayers on Monday. Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to say a few words in regard to these by-laws. For $100,000 is quite a large sum of money and would be a charge on the city of $8,000 a year for twenty years.

Individuals and councils often get careless and extravagant in the expenditure of money when it can be got easily by borrowing and do not give that careful consideration to things that they should or would, if they had to pay as they go. We will look at these by-laws separately.

First—There is one for $21,500 to purchase land for street extensions, etc. This, no doubt, is required and is a necessary outlay, on account of the growth of the city, and as a considerable part of this amount has already been expended, and we would have to pay it out of current account; therefore, it is advisable to carry this by-law.

The second by-law is for $30,000. I think very few ratepayers will vote for this by-law, as it seems absurd to think of such a thing seriously as to pay $30,000 to have the Peterborough Agricultural Fair held here for one day each year. What has the fair been worth to the municipality for the last twenty years? We must judge of the future by the past. I do not believe that this by-law was well considered by the council, or it would never have been submitted to the people. It should be voted down.

The third of these by-laws is for $49,000 to build a bridge on Smith Street. Now a bridge is wanted and should be built at once, as the bridge there at present has outlived its time, but why should we spend $49,000 for a bridge when we can build a first class highway bridge for half the money. The bridge proposed by the engineer would be built of concrete with three arches and would be a very fine looking bridge, but very expensive, as a complete wooden structure the full size and in every part the same as the finished bridge, for a mould for the concrete, would have to be constructed. This mould or form would have to be very strong to support the weight of the wet concrete and to build this in a river as deep and strong as the Otonabee is very expensive, and as this false work has to remain in place several months to allow time for the cement to set, there is a certain amount of risk of it being carried away by the floods. There are few bridges, if any, in existence, built of concrete, having several arches and over a river as deep as this. Such bridges are as yet in an experimental stage, and I think it would be unwise for us to build such a bridge, particularly when we can build one of a permanent character, that is no experiment, but a sure thing, for so much less. A steel bridge can be built for $24,000, less than half the price of the other. This bridge would be a three span steel bridge with concrete floor and pier. 18-foot roadway, two sidewalks and strong enough to carry any load. It would be much superior to the Hunter street bridge, and heavier than any in this locality. This is the style of bridge in use on the highways and railroads all over Canada. It is no experiment and in my opinion is the safest bridge to build. The saving on this bridge as compared with the one proposed would be $2,000 a year or $40,000 in the twenty years the debentures would have to run. Now, I think it would be advisable to vote this by-law down and let the council get plans for a proper bridge at Smith street, and submit another by-law for an amount to build a suitable bridge, which, I am sure, will not exceed $25,000.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
WM. LANGFORD.

P. S.—The steel bridge can be built in half the time it would require to construct the concrete bridge.

THE CITY'S FINANCES ARE DISCUSSED AGAIN

Mr. Ed. M. Elliott Presents His Views on the Subject of What Assets Are:

To the Editor of The Examiner:

It was set out in a letter in your paper a few days ago that I placed the market block and fire hall sewers, etc., in a line, when, as you will remember, I stated that some were convertible and some inconvertible, in so far as ready cash was concerned.

It is easily understood that the market block, Hilliard farm and water works plant, could all be sold readily, and sewers, sidewalks, bridges, schools, fire hall, etc., could not probably be disposed of at all; at any rate, some of them. It was also stated that a creditor would not consider the health and education of the city an asset against a money liability, when on the contrary, a creditor of the city will make just such terms with a city, as the credit of the city guarantees, and if schools, fire hall, sewers, waterworks, bridges, sidewalks, market accommodation, city hall and gravel, are all provided for, then it follows those same provisions will not have to be made and better terms can be secured from the creditor.

I fancy the writer would advance money by way of a loan to a farmer having a house and two barns and considerable drainage done, with a $1,000 already against his farm, in preference to the farmer with no house, no barns and no draining done, and $1,000 against his farm. A fair comparison to the city, only the figures are $1,000,000 in the case of the city.

I claim all are assets and that all alike are paying the interest and providing a sinking fund from the rates collected from year to year.

Although I did comprise the waterworks and sewers, in so far as such were concerned as assets, I do not want it inferred that I am finding any fault with the management of our waterworks system, but, it is contrary, the results of that management are apparent from the fact that the rates are exceptionally low compared with former years, or prior to the city controlling it, and the city is to be congratulated upon the financial abilities of the commissioners and the executive ability of their engineer and his staff. Or under different management, instead of having a $20,000 reserve fund it might easily have cost $50,000 more and have no reserve fund.

Yours respectfully,
ED. M. ELLIOTT.

"LIVE CITIZEN" WRITES

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir — To the Examiner, it's readers, and the citizens of Peterborough, a very happy New Year. The busy man or woman looks back over the week which has been so much interest to them. The great strain on the mind to make a success and as the year 1908 is at a close it reminds us that all things have an ending.

Some are satisfied with the results of their pursuits in business, some are never satisfied till the great end comes, and then we must not judge. We have received a great many gifts and blessings from Almighty God during the year for which we should be very thankful. We live in this fine country of peace and liberty.

Many have lost dear ones and ties have been broken that never can be mended. How many husbands are in sorrow for the loss of a dear and faithful wife and many widows feel the loss of a faithful husband. And many parents are grieved for the loss of children, especially those who were cut off so suddenly those who went out in the morning and ere the sun went down were hurried into eternity. Some by drowning, met a watery grave, some by railway accident, and a great number by heart failure and other fatal causes. These things speak to us and say—prepare to meet thy God. And to all bereaved we extend our sincere sympathy that we shall all meet in the sweet bye and bye.

Then we have the worry and turmoil of life's work. We all will admit that we have done many things that we should not have done, and left undone many things that we should have done. Still the day of opportunity is past. We trust with the beginning of the New Year make new resolutions and ask for forgiveness, for new strength and in the same spirit for grace to forgive one another. This was our Saviour's great request.

We have great facilities to develop in our young city, and there is nothing so important, so honourable and effective as true fellowship in caring for one another. Christ gave us the example; it was His whole training on earth. A kind word, a sympathetic look heals many wounds.

We see all the preparations for 1909. The people expect it will come sure. We are called by this new birth to get busy and look after the child's business by appointing chosen men to look after our city's interests. It is a very important act marking a ballot intelligently, to elect men of a progressive spirit of mind.

We are asked to vote on several by-laws; we should study well what we vote to do. The Smith street bridge is first; it should be built as quickly as possible. A substantial steel bridge for ordinary traffic, but unless the city is to have some profits from the Street Railway Company as an asset, why should people pay for an asset for the Street Railway? Would they not be better apart as horses would scare worse on the bridge than on the ordinary highway. Then we have the great difference of $22,000 and $49,000. The street extension by-law should carry easily.

What about the new park and exhibition grounds at the south end? This stand should be well looked into. Please just think. Can Peterborough city afford to be without a driving park; surely not. I have had no conversation with or scarcely know the gentleman that owns the grounds; never spoke to him on this question whatever. But it is for sale and will be sold. From information received I think he has been very lenient in the past, giving the use of the grounds for a very small amount. There is no better situation in Ontario, so level, so well adapted for the purpose; the main roads leading to it from all directions. If Mr. Morrow had been greedy for money as some of those who are talking about it being too dear a bargain, he would have had it cut up into lots and we would not have the privilege of owning one of the finest parks for driving and pleasure purposes in America.

Then in our New Year's resolution let us not forget to fight selfishness. The good people in the south end have a right to honest consideration. In the north and centre of the city they have all the parks and conveniences possible. Give the south end a chance and perhaps you will see some life and a toboggan slide, too. They will not be behind if they get a chance to erect buildings on the grounds, neither will the several stock associations connected with the Agricultural interests. To speak candidly, the city of Peterborough cannot afford to be without it at all. What will be the result if the by-law does not carry. It will be sold to a company or speculators and they will have to pay not $28,000, but $50,000 or more. I was greatly surprised at the Board of Trade meeting held recently. It seemed like a stock market, only they were all bears. There were no bulls at all except from an outside source. Mr. Editor, it made me serious to listen to some of the arguments set forth. Well I came to the conclusion that you could not learn everything and especially the requirements of the people by sitting in office. I would rather get out into the county and learn something new. Progression is the word. Do not be afraid all the time. We want to make our young city a good live city. It has the facilities.

A genuine railway centre in the centre of Ontario, the banner province of our great Dominion. Our navigable waters through the early completion of Trent Valley Canal. The water power is only in its infancy. The great factor is the great agricultural country we have around the city of Peterborough. The very enthusiastic farmers. We should be proud of them. Mark the development of the last 25 years. They have far beaten our cities and towns. How have they accomplished this? By studying system and work with our fail. They have a good market by raising good stock, cheese, etc. Let us help them along with ourselves by looking into the future and let Ontario and the World see that we have enterprize and we will see the greatest and best pleasure and driving park and exhibition grounds, the best asset the city would have.

I ask your pardon for so long a letter and will trust that the honest citizens of Peterborough will decide for their best interests by buying the grounds.

A LIVE CITY.

P. S.—I would like to see some of our financiers explain how much each ratepayer would pay each year per $1000 assessment on the 20 year debentures. It would frighten you, it's so small.

MESSRS. LAIDLAW & OLES' CHANGE IN BUSINESS

Mr. Oles Retires From the Firm and Mr. Laidlaw Continues the Business.

With the beginning of the New Year, the clothing business so successfully carried on during the past two years by Messrs. Laidlaw & Oles and known as the "Fashion-Craft" store on Hunter street, has undergone a change. Mr. Oles retires from the firm and Mr. A. Laidlaw continues the business in future.

This change has necessitated a general clearing sale of the balance of the stock of high class clothing and furnishings. The well known reputation of "Fashion-Craft" clothing will doubtless be a strong inducement for gentlemen to take advantage of the extra reductions offered during this sale. As the dissolution sale only last for ten days from to-day, the early lookers will have the first choice of this high grade stock. See advertisement in another column.

It is understood that Mr. Oles' retirement is occasioned by the demand of his physicians for a protracted rest, owing to the severe illness he has passed through during the summer.

A CHEAP BRIDGE AT ST. THOMAS

Correspondent Thinks This Should be of Interest to Local Ratepayers.

Editor Examiner,—

Sir,—Will you kindly re-publish the following from Toronto Saturday night. It will be of interest in view of the bylaw to be voted on on Monday in conection with the Smith street bridge:

"St. Thomas (notes the Times of that city) enjoys the distinction of having the longest single arch concrete span bridge in Canada. The bridge, known as the 'Lynhurst Bridge,' was just completed last summer and is an object of interest and admiration to all who see it. The structure was designed by Mr. James A. Bell, C. E., and the work of construction was in charge of Mr. Arch. Gillies, a graduate of the School of Practical Science, Toronto. The bridge has a clear span of 116 feet, and is about 125 feet over all. It has a clearance of 20 feet, made up of a 15-foot roadway and a four-foot sidewalk, and as the railings are each one foot in thickness, the total width of concrete is 22 feet. The total cost of the bridge was $11,500, this including contract price."

Yours, etc.,

MRS. TIMMS WON THE BIG TURKEY

The Bird at Alex. Gordon's Tipped the Scale at 17 3-4 Pounds.

Five people were successful in guessing the correct weight of the big turkey exhibited at Alex. Gordon's butcher shop last week. The bird was weighed on Thursday night by a member of the Examiner staff and was found to weigh 17¾ lbs., which was the estimate of Miss Cameron, Mrs. Minorgan, Mrs. Timms and Messrs. Skeldons and Mein. It was decided to settle the matter by chance and a small boy, Johnnie Downer was called in from the street, the names placed in a hat and the boy asked to draw out one, with the result that Mrs. Timms was the lucky person and received the turkey as a reward.

C. P. R. To Inaugurate "No Crop, No Payment" Plan For Selling Western Irrigated Lands

It is reported that the C.P.R. has in contemplation several radical changes with regard to the attracting of settlers to their irrigation lands east of Calgary. One of these is what is known as the "No crop, no payment" plan. In other words, settlers who buy this land will not be called upon to make a payment unless they get a crop. The idea has been discussed and it is probable that a definite announcement will be made in the near future.

Such a proposal could only be backed by the most absolute confidence in the district, and the ability of the land to pay for itself. Since the irrigated land in the Bow River district was first thrown open to settlers there have been good crops every year, not only on the irrigated land, but also on the land above the irrigation line. In fact they have been so good that in many cases the farmer each year has been gaining the full irrigation price. The new plan is to be offered as a special inducement with the idea of hastening settlement. It is estimated that the irrigation district is capable of supporting a population of 90,000, with a tributary urban population of 60,000 more. Such an increase in population would mean a tremendous increase in freight and passenger traffic, and would more than compensate the company for any extra expenditures which might be developed while the plan was being worked out.

In a recent interview on this subject Sir Thomas Shaughnessy said that the "crop payment" system was one which had frequently been used in the development of districts of this kind. It meant that the annual instalment of the purchase price would be governed by the crop results until the whole amount has been paid.

MAYOR RUSH REFERS TO QUESTION OF WAGES FOR MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES

To the Editor of The Examiner,—

Sir, — It has been brought to my notice, that statements are being made, and have appeared in print, that the aldermen and myself were responsible for reducing the wages of workmen employed by the city, and fault has been found with this. I refer to this, because the council serves the people, and the people have a right to know the facts. The council employs a street commissioner, who looks after the greater part of the street work, and they act on the principle, and have done so for more than one year ,that he should be given authority to employ the men, otherwise he would not be in a position to do the best for the ratepayers, and as the council has confidence in him, this authority has not been interfered with. I have not, and so far as I am aware, has any member of the council interfered with the officers of the department as to who were employed or what wages were paid to any particular employee of the department. As to the wages that have been paid, laborers have been paid from $1.50 to $1.60 per day, and in a few cases $1.75. Mechanics and more skilled men on sidewalks and other work have been paid higher wages, of course. Teams have been paid for at $3.65 per day. I believe the wages paid have been the highest current wages, as the city should not depress the scale of wages nor inflate it, but pay fair wages for the work done. The name of one man has been mentioned frequently in the current reports. I did not know the facts in this case, but am informed that he is not able to do general work, and is given work that he can do fairly well, and has been paid $1.25 per day —the only instance of wages less than $1.50 on the list—and he could not earn more in any other way, if indeed he could obtain employment elsewhere at that wage. Last winter this man met with an accident and was laid up for eight weeks, and was paid half rate, $4.50 per week, during that time. Really, I think, it will be agreed that he has not been unfairly treated. I do not like to mention a particular case, but owing to the persistent reports I feel it should not be avoided.

The mayor and aldermen are elected to transact the business of the city, in a fair, impartial and business like manner, doing no injustice to any individual or individuals, nor to the ratepayers as a whole. I believe the electors will see that this year the matter of wages referred to has been dealt with fairly and honestly, with the purpose of giving everyone fair play and serving the interests of the city.

Yours truly,

H RUSH,
Mayor.

Bal Poudre In Aid Of Labrador Medical Mission A Success

One of the most successful social events in the history of the city in aid of one of the most deserving charities, was the fourth annual At-home in aid of the Labrador Medical Mission held in the Conservatory of Music Hall on New Year's night. It took the form of bal poudre and was in every way a delightful evidence of local interest in a great work of which the noble Dr. Grenfell is the moving spirit and central figure.

The beautiful hall was in festal attire and as the brilliant assembly of about two hundred dancers, in their coiffures of the poudre period, moved in the rythmic involutions of the dance, the scene was a most striking and interesting one.

The costumes of the ladies in ordinary modern mode, but lent distinction by the powdered hair, were as a whole, beautiful and becoming, some being distinguished by especial elaborateness of elegance. The usual evening dress of the gentlemen was varied for the occasion by the adaptation of satin lapels to their coats, with, of course, powdered hair. The ball was opened by the quadrille d'honneur, which was composed of the following ladies and gentlemen: Mesdames J R Stratton, Jack Gracey, John Aylmer, Cyril Currier, John Crane, Peter Campbell, R R Hall and A H Stratton. Messrs. J R Stratton, W S Davidson, E S Clarry, D Davidson, L M Hayes, Gerald Rackham, R R Hall and Ernest Clarkson.

Supper was served at midnight by the stewarts, Messrs. E. P. Clarkson, Gerald Rackham, W. S. Davidson D. Davidson, E. S. Clarry and F. D. Kerr, responsible for satisfactory attention to the wants of the guests. To These gentlemen, to the reception committee consisting of Madames J R. Stratton, J. A. Aylmer, P. Campbell, Cyril Currier, D. Hughes-Charles and A Montizambert, and to the efficient honorary secretary, Mr. L. F. Cross, the splendid success of the function in both social and pecuniary sense is due, though it is to be mentioned that the success was only made possible by the cordial co-operation of the foremost social element of the city.

Mr. Gliddon, director of the Conservatory, contributed to the financial satisfaction of the occasion by placing the hall at the disposal of the "At Home" on greatly diminished terms.

THE CANDIDATES FROM EAST CITY

"Ashburnham" States That All the Citizens Should Vote for Aldermen Gillespie and Morgan.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As a resident of East City I am taking this 12th hour opportunity to remind the East City ratepayers that they should support their two candidates to a man. I also think that it would only be fair to our side of the river for the rest of the city to give them good support. I think that Ald. Gillespie has on all occasions shown himself possessed of good common sense and has voted intellectually on all important questions. Ald Morgan too has the interests of the whole community at heart as far as he has shown and it is for these reasons that I think the people west of the river will make no mistake in giving the aldermen another term.

Yours respectfully,
"ASHBURNHAM."

The young couple left on the west bound train for a short trip, after which they will reside in Peterborough. The best wishes of many friends go with them.—Uxbridge Journal.

BROWN—SAWERS

The home of Mr. Augusts Sawers, 298 Brock street, was the scene of a very quiet, but pretty, wedding on New Year's Day, when Miss Mary Sawers, eldest daughter of Mr. Sawers, was married to Dr. Wm. E. Brown, of Victoria Harbour. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. F J Sawers, Curate of Christ Church cathedral, Montreal. The bride and groom were unattended. They left for Toronto on the 4.38 train where they will spend a few days before proceeding to Victoria Harbour, the home of Dr .Brown, where he has a very large practise.

BOYLE—COMSTOCK

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. Aaron Comstock, Water street, at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, when his eldest daughter, Miss Sarah, was united in marriage to Capt. Robert H. Boyle, of the steamship "Paliki," of the Algoma Central Steamship Line.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Dolly Comstock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Boyle, rector of Christ Church, Chatham, and brother of the groom, assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's.

The bride and groom were unattended.

After the ceremony and happy congratulations had been bestowed upon the newly married couple, a dainty repast was partaken of.

Among the out of town guests present were the Misses Boyle, of St. Catharines, and Rev. and Mrs. Boyle, of Chatham.

Capt and Mrs. Boyle left on the 4.38 train for a trip to New York. On their return they will reside in St. Catharines.

DR. LANGFELDT HAD SUDDEN FAINTNESS

At the conclusion of the watch night services at St. Luke's church on Thursday night Rev. Dr. Langfeldt retired as usual to the vestry and was suddenly overcome by a weak spell. As he went to sat down on a chair he swooned from the weakness which he had experienced through the entire service. Although he has not been feeling well of late, he did not pay much attention to the faintness when gradually came over him during the service. It was not until in the vestry that it overpowered him and at the time caused him some alarm.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER IN THE CITY CHURCHES

All citizens are cordially invited to attend as many of these services as possible.

Regarding The Sale Of Milk

From Farm and Dairy.

The ordinance passed by the Chicago City Council relating to the sale of milk, cream and dairy products, within that city and scheduled to go into effect January 1st, is of a very sweping character. How it will be possible to enforce it is somewhat of a conundrum. Besides providing that all milk, cream, butter-milk, and ice cream offered for sale in the city must either be pasteurized or from tuberculine tested, sound animals, it further stipulates that, under penalties of confiscation, all butter and cheese sold or offered for sale or kept with the intention of selling in the City of Chicago after January 1st, 1909, must be made only from the milk of tuberculin tested, healthy animals and each package plainly stamped. A further provision is made that during the first five years of its enforcement butter and cheese made from the milk of herds not so tested may be sold, if the milk used be pasteurised. In that case the product must be stamped with the words, "Made from milk (or cream) pasteurized according to the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the City of Chicago."

Chicago receives dairy products from all parts of the Union and to enforce this ordinance will be a pretty big undertaking. If dealers co-operate with the department by refusing to handle dairy products unless within the law it might be done. But who is to see to it that Tom Smith, a butter-maker out in Minnesota, does not put the Chicago brand on butter made from milk or cream that has not been pasteurized, or who is to look after Farmer Jones, in Nebraska, and see to it that he supplies milk only from tuberculosis free cows. Though it is none of our concern, it looks at this distance as if the Chicago Health Department, to use a slang phrase, "has bitten off more than it can chew."

There is a lesson in this for the producer, however. Cities in Canada as well as the United States are beginning to wake up to the need of more drastic action being taken to insure healthy food products for their citizens. Voluntary action on the part of the producer in freeing his herds from disease would be better than being forced to doing it by the demands of the market. To eliminate tuberculosis from a herd of cows, for example, is a slow process, unless all affected animals are destroyed forthwith. But by separating the affected from non-affected animals it is possible to gradually build up healthy herds. This is being done in Denmark with gratifying success. It can be done here and it will pay cattle owners to give it some Consideration. Voluntary action in this direction on the part of cattle owners and especially owners of dairy cattle would go a long way towards removing suspicion from the mind of the city consumer and tend to counteract the movement in our larger towns and cities for more drastic action looking to compelling people, who keep cows, to show that their animals are free from this disease.

All cows supplying milk for human food should be healthy and free from disease and the cow owner should use every endeavor to eliminate all disease from his herd. But cattle owners treat this matter with more or less apathy and pay little regard to the warnings on the subject given out from time to time. This is the reason for such a sweeping ordinance as Chicago has passed. Whether it can be enforced or not, it should be a warning to producers everywhere that consumers of milk and dairy products in towns and cities are gradually waking up and are demanding a clean bill of health in the food they buy and consume, no matter of what kind it may be.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

THIEF ATTACKS CLERK.

Montreal Robber Is Only Captured After a Hard Struggle.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—A daring attempt was made Thursday afternoon to rob a jewelry store on St. Lambert Hill, when a man wearing a fur coat entered the place and knocked the clerk who came to meet him stiff with a blow from a hammer. Mr. J. Farmer of the firm of Farmer & Sons grappled with the would-be robber and a terrible struggle ensued, ending by the assailant being choked into unconsciousness. By that time the clerk had recovered his senses, and, placing a loaded gun in his hands, Mr. Farmer rushed out and called for the police. The latter came, but the assailant was still senseless, and he and the two men had to be taken to the hospital. The clerk's wound needed five stitches. Mr. Farmer has a contusion of the scalp, and the intruder, who gave his name as Oliver Patin, was in a state of collapse from the choking. He said he was hungry. He had a lone cent in his pocket.

REPULSED HOLD-UP MAN.

Cowansville Operator Has Revolver Duel With Desperado.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—A daring attempt was made at five o'clock Thursday morning to rob the C.P.R. station at Cowansville. A man appeared at the wicket with a revolver in his hand and demanded that Operator Mette hand over the cash. Ducking low, Mr. Mette grabbed for his revolver and fired at the man who stood at the wicket. The would-be robber returned the fire with two shots, which passed just above Mr. Mette's head. The agent then fired two shots in quick succession. While he did not score, the burglar apparently realized that the tables were turning against him, and he bolted for the door and disappeared in the darkness. It is understood that there was a considerable amount of cash in the office.

Sensational Silver Find.

Elk City, via Charlton, Jan. 2.—A sack of silver nuggets and slab of silver sent in here yesterday over the trail from Gowganda taken from a sensational strike on one of the properties controlled by Captain Pauley of Cobalt and his associates electrified the hundreds of prospectors who are thronging into this new silver region. Great activity prevails here and a wild stampede is looked for into Gowganda in the spring.

Captain Pauley, who is famous as the life-saving hero of Cobalt, passed through Elk City yesterday to inspect the find.

Railroad Purchased.

Pekin, Jan. 2.—Belgium yesterday relinquished the Pekin-Hankow Railroad to China following the payment of the redemption price of $30,000,000 at Paris and London last Tuesday. China will at once dispense with the foreign employes of the road, retaining only the consulting engineer. China's initial success in constructing and operating the Pekin-Kalgan Railroad has created general confidence in her ability to take over and operate other foreign-built railroads as they become redeemable.

Flew Ninety Miles.

Lemans, Jan. 2.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, beat all previous aeroplane records here Thursday afternoon with a magnificent flight that lasted for two hours and nine minutes. He covered officially a distance of 73 miles, but as a matter of fact, counting the wide curves, he made over 90 miles. Mr. Wright's feat was the more remarkable because of the intense cold.

After breaking the record, Mr. Wright went aloft again with M. Barthou as a passenger.

Car-Cleaner Killed.

London, Jan. 2.—David Paisley, car-cleaner on the Grand Trunk, met instant death at the Richmond street crossing last evening, his body being cut to pieces.

No one saw the accident, but it is thought that he was run over twice by some cars that were being shunted. Paisley was regularly a day man, but worked last night in order to let off a fellow workman, James McIntyre.

Attacked by Roughs.

Hamilton, Jan. 2.—While protecting two ladies whom he was escorting from the insults of a gang of hoodlums on New Year's Eve, Henry Buswell of 19 North Hughson street, was murderously assaulted and his chances of recovery are slight. The gang dispersed after the assault and no arrests were made.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—The G.T.P. carried two million bushels of wheat this year, according to Mr. J. E. Dalrymple, assistant freight traffic manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific, who has come down from Winnipeg to discuss next year's plans with the officials at the Grand Trunk headquarters.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

THE MIGHTY POWER OF MI-O-NA

Mi-o-na, that extraordinary and perfect stomach tonic, will relieve dyspepsia in twenty-four hours.

It will cure and is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to the readers of the Examiner to cure the most pitiful cases of dyspepsia, if taken according to directions.

Mi-ona tablets not only cure dyspepsia, but all stomach disturbances, such as vomiting of pregnancy, sea or car sickness and the stomach sickness after excessive indulgence.

Mi-o-na cures by strengthening and invigorating the flabby stomach walls and after a course of Mi-o-na treatment, constipation, if there is any, will entirely disappear.

Mrs. S. Keast, of Clarksburg, Ont., says, "A bad stomach trouble that had bothered me for years, baffled and puzzled skilled physicians, was nicely relieved by my using Mi-o-na. My trouble was on account of food not digesting but fermenting in my stomach, forming a gas that gave me untold suffering and pain and also made me weak, nervous, irritable and unable to rest. Since using Mi-ona I can go to bed at night and sleep and wake up in the morning refreshed I cannot speak too highly of Mi-o-na."

Mi-o-na is a most economical treatment, a large box of tablets only costs 50 cents at Wm. Madill's and the dyspeptic, nervous or otherwise, who does not give them a trial is losing an opportunity to regain health.

FIRE AT COLDWATER.

Barrie Man Perishes In Destruction of British Arms Hotel.

Barrie, Jan. 2.—Word was received here Thursday that Mr. W. J. Atkinson of Barrie, district manager for the Singer Sewing Machine Manufacturing Co., was burned to death in a fire which completely destroyed the British Arms Hotel and the Abbott Block at Coldwater at four o'clock Thursday morning. When found both the head and the legs had been burned off the body. Atkinson, who was about 35 years old, leaves a wife and three children. He had been a resident of Barrie for nine months.

The cause of the fire is unknown. Proprietor Colby and his family escaped in their night clothing. James Abbott, barber, and Mrs. Abbott, milliner, occupied stores in the Abbott block. The total loss is estimated at $40,000, only partially covered by insurance.

He came from San Francisco and when taken in charge by officers was penniless and half starved.

Bad Fire at Amherst, N.S.

Halifax, Jan. 2.—Yesterday afternoon one of the worst fires that has visited the business section of Amherst for some time destroyed the stock of clothing and men's furnishings of S. Coates & Co. The firemen worked for over five hours confining the blaze to one section, but damage to the extent of $1,500 to $2,000 was done to the building, and the stock was completely destroyed. Loss about $15,000.

Swept Under Ice.

Fina was hauled out in an exhausted condition.

FIRST PENSIONS PAID.

Great Britain Inaugurates Her New Scheme of Relief.

London, Jan. 2.—Postmasters throughout the United Kingdom have commenced the payment of old-age pensions, under the act of the last session of Parliament, to persons over seventy years of age. Seven hundred thousand applications for pensions have been received, of which 200,000 were disallowed, chiefly because the applicants have been in receipt of poor relief.

The act provides that every man or woman of seventy or over who has been a British subject and has resided in the United Kingdom for twenty years, and whose means do not exceed £31 10s. per annum, shall be entitled to receive a pension of from one to five shillings a week, according to the means of the pensioner. Where the yearly means of the pensioner as calculated under the act do not exceed £21, the rate of pension per week is five shillings. Where the income is between £21 and £23 10s. the pension is four shillings, where the income exceeds £23 10s. but does not exceed £26 5s. and pension is three shillings; where the income is over £26 5s. but less than £28 17s. 6d. the rate is two shillings. Where the income is over £28 17s. 6. but not over £31 10s. the rate is one shilling a week. Persons with an annual income of over £31 10s. are not entitled to pensions. Any person who has received poor relief during 1908, other than medical or surgical assistance, forfeits thereby the right to a pension.

MOOSE LOCATES HIM.

Alaskan Hunters Made Rich by Kick of Dying Animal.

Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 2.—A curious story of the way in which the kick of a dying moose uncovered a rich vein of gold comes down from Alaska. Oscar T. Nelson and two companions were the lucky hunters. They were out prospecting in the neighborhood of Fairbanks Creek when they crossed the trail of two moose, and decided to make an effort to get one of the animals. They soon started a huge bull with a spread of antler of more than seven feet. Nelson brought him down with his rifle, and when the men were cutting the carcass up they discovered that in its dying convulsions the animal had torn loose a layer of moss, exposing rich gold-bearing rock below. The men immediately staked their claim.

Hot Fight at Brantford.

Brantford, Jan. 2.—Hon. Adam Beck and J. W. Lyon addressed an enthusiastic meeting of ratepayers here last night on the power bylaw.

Lloyd Harris, M.P., and Chas. B. Heyd spoke in the interests of the Cataract Co., and some warm passages marked the discussion, which lasted until midnight.

Mr. Lyon outlined the success of municipal ownership at Guelph, and Mr. Beck dealt with the movement from a Government standpoint. A strong point was adduced when he showed the recent reduction in power prices quoted by the Cataract Co. to Brantford was the result of the Hydro-Electric scheme. The peak load factor it was stated presents no difficulty when so many municipalities are securing Government power.

Crazed by Sorrow.

New York, Jan. 2.—Grief-stricken over the death of their eighteen-year-old daughter Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gardy of West 116th street committed suicide together immediately afterwards by means of chloroform. With their arms about each other, the sorrowing parents retired to a room adjoining the one in which the body of the young woman lay, and were not disturbed for an hour in the belief that they wished to be left alone with their grief. When at last the room was entered the couple were found dead in bed, and by their side was a bottle which had contained chloroform.

Fast Train Killed Riveters.

Buffalo, Jan. 2.—A fast mail train on the New York Central bore down on a gang of riveters at work on the Broadway subway yesterday killing two of them and injuring a third. The dead are: John Baker and John Conrad, both of Pittsburg, Pa.; Louis White had four ribs broken and his spine injured. The men say the train was running at high speed although there is a sign post warning trains to slow down on account of the construction work. The working pneumatic riveters drowned the noise of the approaching train which was upon the men before they could move.

Fire In a Theatre.

Erie, Pa., Jan. 2.—A horror was narrowly averted here last night when fire broke out in the Park Theatre during a performance. The house was crowded to its capacity. A dozen or more women fainted and had to be carried from the building, but so far as learned no one was seriously hurt, owing to the ease and rapidity with which the audience was dismissed and the theatre emptied. The building was partially destroyed.

Post Criticises Trotter.

London, Jan. 2.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Morning Post devotes itself to a denial of Mr. Trotter's statements re the inadvisability of emigration to Canada, and characterizes them as an attempt to further the purely sectional interests he represents at the expense of accurate expression of the sentiments entertained by the Dominion towards immigration from the Mother Country.

Five Blocks Damaged by Fire.

Skowhegan, Me., Jan. 2.—A stubborn fire destroyed two and damaged three business blocks and burned five tenement houses on Water street, in the heart of the town, early yesterday. Two of the houses were blown up with dynamite in an effort to check the progress of the flames. Loss, $400,000.

New Buildings In London.

London, Jan. 2.—Last year's buildings worth over $800,000 have been raised in this city.

There were 55 cases of tuberculosis last year, as against 49 the year before.

The Thoroughbred.

There is an unwritten law for people who are thoroughbred—the real gentleman and the real lady—which compels them to keep their troubles, their ailments, their sorrows, their worries, their losses, to themselves. There is a fine discipline in it. It mellows the character and sweetens the life. But when these things are not borne heroically they mar the character and leave their ugly traces in the face. Their hideous forms appear in the manner and disfigure the whole life.

Learn to consume your own smoke. If you have misfortunes, pains, diseases, losses, keep them to yourself. Bury them. Those who know you have them will love you and admire you infinitely more for this suppression. A stout heart and persistent cheerfulness will be more than a match for all your troubles.

Glad of His Sympathy.

Lady Gordon quotes in her book, "Unforeseen Conclusions," a man who said, "I would rather be a month in the stokehold of a Russian man-of-war than a fortnight under the artillery of the servants' hall." She is glad to hear that at least one man does not dismiss the household troubles that a woman must bear as trifles. "In the morning encounters with the cook," she says, "the daily tussle for supremacy with the lady's maid, we are each in our way a feminine Admiral Nelson, without the reward of universal applause bestowed upon us. Quite as much courage is often needed to descend to the kitchen as down into the deep in a submarine."

Must Import Marriageable Girls.

The problem of finding wives has become a serious one in St. Petersburg. The male population exceeds the female by 124,000 in the Russian capital, and the authorities are weighing plans for importing prospective brides from the provinces. The need of wives, indeed, has led to the making of several fortunes in matrimonial agencies, heavy fees being exacted for pretty girls as wives from remote country places. The men outnumber the women in all classes in St. Petersburg, and at social affairs there are usually two men for every woman. Of course this is a truly delightful situation for the woman, but it is one that is multiplying jealousies between men and causing "affairs" with swords and pistols upon the field of honor. Social activities in St. Petersburg have been declining in interest because of the scarcity of women, whereas in all the other large cities in the empire women are much more numerous than men.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

SIMPSON FALLS INTO GOOD HANDS; WILL BE UNDER TOM ECK'S CARE IN HIS PROFESSIONAL CAREER

First Race Will be With Dorando and the Local Indian Will be Taken to New York to be Trained —Arrangements Completed.

HE SHOULD MAKE GOOD

Fred Simpson has had the way opened to him for a successful career in the running game. Thursday night, Tom Eck, of New York, the widely known trainer of athletes, especially of bicyclists and runners, visited Peterborough for the purpose of taking Simpson under his wing, and as a result of his visit the Hiawatha Indian will be handled in future by Mr. Eck, who is conceded all over America to be the most successful trainer on this continent. The contract was not signed but all arrangements were made, and Simpson will sign the agreement next week, after which he will be taken to New York and gotten into shape to go after the top notchers in the running game. The Sporting Editor of the Examiner had a long converse with the veteran trainer during his visit here, and he seemed certain that Simpson would make a success at professional running: "I have never seen him run," Mr. Eck replied in answer to a question, "but I have followed his performances, and am satisfied that he is a classy performer. His work in England showed that no man could run sixth in that Marathon against the world's best runners without having something in him." That he has not won more races is, I think, due to the fact that he has no one to give him the right judging of speed. He has lost all his races through holding back too long on the go in; I am told by Tim O'Rourke and others that he held to Coley in the Hamilton Herald race, or he would have won handily."

"What are your plans in regard to Simpson?" he was asked.

"Well, I will take him to New York next week and get him into shape, and then endeavour to match him against Dorando; I was thinking of putting him up against Corey, the Chicago long distance man, in a Marathon race in Chicago, but Dorando has gotten in there ahead of us."

Mr. Eck had Longboat in charge until four days before the race in New York with Dorando, and remarked that it was a great race between the two and the excitement was remarkable.

"How about Longboat and Shrubb?" he was asked.

"Well, if Longboat's handlers do not give him proper instructions, the Indian will find the Englishman a pretty awkward proposition. He is a wonderful runner, and if he ever gets a lap on Longboat, and he is likely to at that, it will be all off with Tom. And don't think he can't go on the route either. A man that travels nearly ten miles in an hour can cover twenty-six at a slower clip. He'll do it and never turn a hair."

"What do you think of Saturday's race in Buffalo between Longboat and Dorando?"

"The Indian will beat him again without much trouble, or my calculations are away wrong."

There is no better known man in sporting circles in America than Mr. Eck, who, by the way, is a Canadian and who played lacrosse for a Lindsay team against Peterborough many years ago. He was widely known himself as a bicycle rider, and after retiring has made a name for himself through his handling of crack cyclists. Every cyclist of any importance who has been in his charge has been either a world's or American champion, or has held a world's or American record. He brought Jimmy Michael out from France, and has had Bobby Walthour, Kiser and all the other cracks under his charge. Mr. Eck was the man who discovered Johnnie Dobler, the wonderful Chicago athlete, who established the American record for a six day go-as-you-please contest. He found Dobler working in Armour's plant, and without any training he went into a big race the week after and cleaned up. He has the best private bicycle track in America at his place at Clifton, N.Y., and always takes great interest in that form of sport, having managed the first two six day bicycling races in Madison Square Garden.

It will be seen that Simpson has fallen into the best possible hands and should make a name for himself under Tom Eck's training. The negotiations between the two parties were carried on by Mr. J. B. Hay, the proprietor of the Peterborough Bowling Academy, and Mr. Eck's work was practically completed when he arrived here. He left on the morning train yesterday to spend a vacation in his old home in Newmarket.

FRED SIMPSON,
Local Indian runner who will be handled by Tom Eck in his professional career.

FIRST O. H. A. GAME OF SEASON WITH COBOURG HERE ON MONDAY

The local hockey season will be opened on Monday night, when Cobourg will meet the juniors in a Junior O.H.A. game. In view of the fact that Monday is election day, and that there is much interest being taken in the results, it has been decided to start the game at 9 o'clock, in order to give every one a chance to see the contest. There should be a big crowd on hand to see the game and incidentally to get a line on Peterborough's juniors, the most promising aggregation of young players that have represented this city since the days of the famous Colts. There is a big surprise in store for the hockey fans on Monday night when they see the youngsters perform. A fine team of young players has been collected and they should make a splendid showing despite the fact that six out of the seven have never played O. H. A. hockey before. "They are some team" was the remark of one hockey fan who watched their practice on Thursday night. Cobourg will have to have a corner in speed stuff if they hope to beat the locals here on Monday. The boys are playing good combination, checking back well, and they have a heavy and fast defence who will make things interesting for any collection of forwards that they may be called upon to go up against.

The juniors must be supported if Peterborough is to have any hockey, and the sooner the fans realize that fact the better it will be for the game. Every lover of the game should make it a point to be on hand Monday night. They will not be disappointed in the team that has been selected to meet the visitors. The line-up of the locals will be as follows:—

Goal—Len Giroux (Rough Riders).
Point—Elmer Fox (Karnots).
Cover Point—Stan Wade (Karnots).
Rover—Charlie Ray (Strathconas).
Centre—Cyril Giroux (Rough Riders).
Right Wing—Stan Gorman (Nationals)
Left Wing—Ken Pentland (High Lifes)
Spare—D. Hillier (Knockers).

LOCAL JUNIORS LOST IN WHITBY; WERE BEATEN IN FIRST O. H. A. GAME LAST NIGHT BY 7-1 SCORE

The Peterborough Junior O.H.A. team opened the season yesterday with an O.H.A. game in Whitby, losing to the team of that town by 7 goals to 1, after a game that was pronounced by Whitby people as one of the fastest that has ever been seen there. The Peterboroughs were behind at the half, 3-1. The game was much closer than the score would indicate, in fact it took Whitby eighteen minutes to notch the first goal. They were in better shape than the visitors and that told in the end, while the size of the rink had the Peterboroughs at sea. They were unable to work together to any extent and had to depend upon individual efforts, while Whitby, on the other hand, had an effective combination. The rink is only about a third the size of Brock street and the Whitby team were thoroughly at home while the visitors suffered. The winners indulged in considerable tripping, making a dead set on Ray, and the Peterborough rover had a bad night of it, being tripped just after half time and falling upon his left elbow with the result that the arm was practically useless for the rest of the night. Despite that handicap he played a grand game, being the best man on the ice and the winners recognized the fact by going after him whenever possible. A feature of the game was the sensational playing of Len Giroux in goal for the Peterboroughs. He picked off literally a hundred shots at close and long range and the Whitby people stated that he was the best goal keeper ever seen there.

Pentland played a good game on the forward line and the defence did excellent work.

For Whitby, Blanchard on the forward line, and Waugh and Lavery on the defence were the stars.

Waghorne was to have refereed the game, but missed the train, and Smith of Whitby, who took his place, failed to penalize the home players when it was coming to them.

The teams and summary follow:—

THE TIGERS WON EASY VICTORY; DEFEATED MIDLAND BY 40 TO 10

The Tigers of the local Y.M.C.A. made a runaway race of it in their basketball game with the Unos of Midland in the "Y" Gym. last night, beating the northerners by the lop sided score of 40 points to 10, after leading at half way by 22—6. The game though one-sided was always interesting and the fairly large crowd of spectators who followed the play from the gallery, found it always interesting. There was nothing to the contest from the start but the locals. They were in, out and all over the visitors, playing superior combination and checking so closely that the boys from Eddie Gould's town never had a chance although they worked hard all the way. The Tigers got ample revenge for their defeat in Midland a short time ago when they lost by 27—18. Another game between the two will be arranged to take place in the roller rink in Midland in a short time. Jack Laing refereed last night's game satisfactorily. The teams were as follows:

Tigers.	Unos.
Forwards.
F Hall	J Scarlett
Staunton	G Ross
Centre
Wallace	J Baldwin
Backs.
R Best	A Demorest
Loomis	H Hastings

The following shows how the scoring was done:

Fred Hall, 11 baskets, 22.
Staunton, 6 baskets, 12.
Wallace, 1 basket, 2.
Best, 2 baskets, 4.

Midland—
Baldwin, 1 basket, 2.
Ross, 1 basket, 2.
Demorest, 2 baskets, 4 fouls, 2.

FRED WHITCROFT SAYS THAT WITH LUCK EDMONTON WOULD HAVE WON

Fred Whitcroft, manager of the Edmonton Hockey team, the defeated Stanley Cup challengers, arrived in the city yesterday morning and spent the day at his home, leaving last night for Ottawa, where his team meets the Senators to-night in an exhibition game. Whitty was, of course, eagerly pounced upon by the hockey fans here and was deluged with questions regarding the recent cup games. The general feeling in Peterborough was, of course, one of regret that Edmonton had lost the series, and they were eager to hear the details, in view of the contradictory reports that have appeared in the outside press. Speaking to the Examiner in regard to the games Fred said that it was the hardest kind of luck that Edmonton hadn't won out. "We had them played off their feet during the first forty minutes of the first game and had not Phillips and McNamara been hurt we would undoubtedly have won on Monday night instead of being beaten by a lead that proved big enough to hold the cup for the Wanderers.

"Miller and Deeton did not really play any better than the other pair had done the first game, but they were in better shape and went the route and that was what counted. We should have won the series with an even break in the line of luck."

"What will you do about taking the team back to the west?" he was asked.

"It depends to a great extent upon what games we secure in the east. We play to-morrow night in Ottawa and next week we will tour the Canadian league, if possible, to secure games. We have games arranged in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Winnipeg on the way home, so that the trip will not be a financial failure, as the Toronto papers have been saying.

Whitty looked to be in good shape after the two strenuous games this week, despite the hard usage which the bunch have been reported as having come through.

GRAYS WON SERIES FROM FROTENACS; THE SCHEDULE FOR NEXT WEEK

The Greys continued their winning streak on New Years Day by taking two games from the Frontenacs in their ten pin league fixture at the P.B.C., losing the third contest by a wide margin. Their two victories were well earned, but in the last game the Frontenacs took a decided brace, Hoolihan leading the way with a 214 score. The latter was high man for the day, followed by A. Rishea, of the Greys, with Lang a good third. The losers had it on the Greys on total pinnage, their large total in the last game giving them the advantage.

Owing to the holidays several games have been postponed during the last couple of weeks, but starting on Monday the teams will resume the old schedule and the postponed games will also be played off at once.

The scores follow:—

GREYS

McFadden	115	137	137—	389
Rishea	144	183	145—	472

Some Advice For Apple Pickers; Good Barrels Are An Essential

From The Canadian Dairyman.

"Apple Packing and Packages" was the subject of an address by Mr. Elmer Lick of Oshawa, at the convention of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association. He said that one of the problems of packing is to get men who are reliable and capable of doing the work. The Oshawa Co-operative Fruit Growers' Association, of which Mr. Lick is manager, is doing good work in its neighborhood in educating farmers and fruit growers in the matter of proper packing and grading. While a few years ago these operations were performed indifferently, great improvement is now noticeable.

"One can pack more apples in a better way in a fruit house than in the orchard," remarked Mr. Lick, "and the cost is about the same. An essential is to have good barrels, well nailed. The heads should be of basswood. The hoops should be driven tightly. For each liner, only five nails are necessary and two of them should be clinched. The staves should be thick. When filling, place the barrel on a level place. Have the face right, even or with smaller rows around outside. Fill evenly and have the apples, as far as possible, interspacing with each other rather than directly one on top of another. This system does not bruise the fruit so much. Rack the barrel occasionally when putting in the fruit. When packing in boxes, it is a good idea to place a wire around each one to strengthen it."

Regarding Butter Prints

From Farm and Dairy.

Whether butter should be printed direct from the churn or after it has cooled a few hours is one of the questions discussed in a recent issue of the New York Produce Review. Some correspondents favor one method and some the other. Making up the prints after the butter has been hardened in a refrigerator for some hours tends to lessen the loss of moisture and give a print with better edges and one that will wrap and handle better than prints made from the fresh butter. There are machines made now for printing butter and these make the printing of refrigerated butter comparatively easy. There is much to be said on both sides, however, and if the butter is firm and the moisture well incorporated satisfactory work can be done by printing direct from the churn. One correspondent puts the case for printing after cooling as follows:

"Packing the butter in the boxes is the same as packing into tubs, the moisture cannot escape so easily and thus is retained in the butter. Butter can be packed into tubs and set in the refrigerator to harden, then the tub stripped and the prints cut into the desired size, but this makes another loss besides the inconvenience of having a lot of odd shaped pieces left to sell either as bulk butter or to repack, which cannot be done satisfactorily when it is hard. Another thing in favor of the box print is that after the butter has become hardened one can obtain a much nicer looking print—one that has sharp edges and is true on all sides, perfect in its shape. This kind of a print can be wrapped a great deal better, easier and nicer, and makes a neater appearing package to present to the consumer, which goes a long way in building up and retaining a reputation for the creamery goods. In shipping prints locally or to eastern markets, it adds considerably to the price of the butter if upon opening up a box the dealer and purchaser both see a nice, even lot of prints, all of them folded with cream-cut and sharp points, all lying the same way either on ends or flatways. The same applies to tub butter; the appearance goes a good way with a prospective buyer.

"This cannot be obtained when the butter is printed direct from the churn, as one cannot print it unless it is in decent shape to handle. Then one cannot turn out as nice a sharp-edged print, nor will it wrap so easily as it will after being let stand in boxes to harden. Of course, with the 24-pound printers having the butter upon expanding trays, it can be set away to harden, but at the same time the butter is exposed to the conditions of the air in the refrigerator, whether good or bad."

Have any Canadian butter-makers any opinion to offer on this subject? What is the general practice in the creameries here?

About Western Feed Stuffs

From Farm and Dairy.

Little do the farmers of Ontario realize the dangers they are up against when they buy western feeding stuffs, either when ground into meal at Fort William or Port Arthur, or in the raw state. A number of the commoner weeds of the West have already found a constituency in different parts of the Eastern provinces. Those that have secured a foothold are widening their area all the time.

The field penny cress, stinkweed or French weed, as it is called is one of these weeds. Wild oats are very common in western feeding stuffs. Two years ago an agent from one of the lake cities called at the Seed Branch at Ottawa with some samples of his ground meal which had been crushed between rollers. On careful examination it was found that some of the wild oats did not seem to be very badly injured. As a matter of fact, between 30 and 40 per cent. of such half-crushed oats grew in the test made of them.

Very often flour and feed dealers in ordering flour in car-load lots have their car finished out with wheat and oat screenings to offer, in the trade as chicken feed. While most of such feed is used in the towns and villages, and which may sometimes account for the dirty vacant lots, some of it reaches country points as well. Some of the commoner weed seeds which escape the vigilant eye of the chicken find their way into stable manure, and this manure is hauled out in quantities on the farms adjacent to town or village, where the weeds spring up and grow. If allowed to go to seed as many of them are, they are distributed by the threshing mill and seed grain from these farms to other farms, and thus the nuisance is perpetuated.

Many of our own mills throughout Ontario do not grind the meal sufficiently fine to crush all the weed seeds. They even escape the digestion of our stock and are thus distributed in the stable manure. A provincial law should be framed to protect the farmers against the dangers from this source.

Work Of Agricultural Societies

From Farm and Dairy.

Some of our agricultural societies are not doing the good work they might, were there men of more energy and enthusiasm on their directorates. Now that the time for the annual meetings is approaching, members of these societies will do well to give this matter some thought.

While we believe in keeping a good man in office, still cases are numerous where presidents and other officials have held office too long. Some societies elect the same presidents and officials year after year. On the other hand there are societies that make it a rule that men shall not hold the position of president for more than one or two years. There is danger in both of these methods, inasmuch as the change may not benefit the society and in the second place it is a mistake to replace a good man with an inferior man simply because the office should go around.

Officers of societies should not feel hurt when a change is made in the directorate. As a rule, it is wise that a man should not hold the position for more than two or three years at the outside. If our agricultural societies are to do the best work of which they are capable, they must in many cases change their directorate and introduce at least a sprinkling of younger blood. With such men, provided they are of the right sort, new life and fresh enthusiasm will be brought to bear upon the work of the society.

The Shipping Of Apples

From Farm and Dairy.

Apple shippers in most importing centres are interested in the growing popularity of the bushel box for the distribution of apples in the British markets. Last year the Canadian exporters despatched large parcels of fruit in 40-pound boxes. The opposition to the handy box is giving way, for the fruiterers especially have shown a distinct preference for it against the cumbersome three-bushel barrel. Thousands of boxes of Canadian Greenings and Baldwins are disposed of. Next season the apple-box business will be increased five-fold at least.

One of the Canadian exporters interested in the new packing states that the time is not far distant when 50 per cent. of the Canadian apples shipped to the United Kingdom will arrive in 40-pound boxes. Hull buyers speak highly of the apple box, and the increasing demand and prices prove that it will be used on a more extensive scale in coming seasons. The Tasmanian, Australian and Canadian apple exporters highly favor the bushel box.—From report of Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

Hints About Tree Grafting

From Farm and Dairy.

In a short talk on grafting, at the recent convention of the Quebec Pomological Society, Mr. W. T. Macoun said that the scion and stock when grafted constitute merely a mechanical union, not an organic one. Sometimes the top will outgrow the stock because not enough sap is supplied. The peculiarity of the stock always remains. There is individuality in trees as there is in animals. Each bud on the tree is really an individual. Top-grafting increases fruitfulness. It may not increase the total amount but it will make the scions earlier in fruiting.

An illustration of individuality in trees was given by Mr. Macoun, who referred to two trees of McIntosh growing in the same orchard. A record for 10 years showed that one of them gave in that time 485 gallons of fruit and the other 197¼ gallons, making a difference of 287¼ gallons. One tree was therefore, two and one-half times better than the other. In 10 years, the difference amounted to 12 barrels, which, at $2 a barrel, means $24, or a difference of $2.40 in one year. Estimating 40 trees to the acre, this would mean a difference of $96 a year per acre. Many similar cases were cited.

The crab was recommended as a stock on account of its hardiness. Prof. W. S. Blair, of Macdonald College, said that crab stock varies; the Martha is a strong grower and makes a good stock. Prof. G. Reynaud, of La Trappe, said that he has had good success in grafting Spy on Transcendent crab. Mr. J. M. Fisk, of Abbotsford, stated that he has abandoned the crab as a stock on account of its propensity to suckering. Mr. Clark, of Massiwippi, cited cases of Spy and Newtown Pippin on Duchess stock which came through hard winter came through all right, while those grafted on Longfield, killed back. Mr. Macoun pointed out that there is no influence exerted by the stock on the hardiness of the scion. Spys have killed down to the union.

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brigsoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instruments on the Canadian market

Twenty Miles Through Rough Country In Three Hours And Then Missed The Only Train

After walking twenty miles through a rough timber country in three hours to catch the only train of the day, Dave Hartley, of pedestrian fame, arrived at the station at Nearan centre on the main line of the C.P.R., just in time to catch a glimpse of the black smoke evanescing in the northern atmosphere and to hear the dull tattoo of wheels as they rhythmically re-echoed away toward the east.

"Davie" has been showing that he is worker as well as a walker, and during the past three or four months, has been having a share in the great lumber industry in Northern Ontario. He decided to come home for Chritmas and did the distance from the camp to the station in the above mentioned time, which on level ground would be "going some."

Man killed by tree

On the way to the station Davie and another man who was going with him were hallooed by three others who could be seen in the distance to be drawing some object on a sleigh. On approaching they found that it was the body of a man who had been killed by a tree falling on him. His home was in Sudbury where he had a wife and three children. Mr. Hartley had to wait until the next day for the train to make its diurnal appearance.

IMPERIAL EVIDENCE OF RETURNING PROSPERITY

Furnished by the Operations of Our Great Financial Institutions.

Examiner Special

Toronto, Jan. 2.—The prosperity of Canadian financial institutions is of general interest and it is gratifying to learn that the year 1908, although acknowledged to have been a trying one in many lines of business, has proved to the Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada the most successful year in its history. From figures of the year's operations just made public, it is shown that the new business undertaken exceeded $4,600,000, and that the total business in force now amounts to almost $24,000,000. During the past year this progressive institution increased its assets to over $4,550,000, while its cash income for the year from premiums and interest, amounted to considerably over $1,000,000. Surplus earnings for the year, out of which dividends to policyholders are paid, have been very satisfactory and the mortality experienced was again greatly below the expected. Over 50 per cent. of the company's funds are invested in first mortgages on real estate and debentures and the rate of interest earned in 1908 was the highest in the company's experience and averaged over 6 per cent. The most noteworthy feature, however, is the fact that in spite of the large increase in new business written, the ratio of management expenses was again reduced.

Mr. W. G. Morrow, the company's able representative at Peterborough, informs us that the 1908 business of his agency was very satisfactory and aided materially in the making of so important a record by the Imperial Life during the past year.

BY-LAW LIKELY TO BE DEFEATED

This Feeling is Prevalent at the Polling Booth.

While it is difficult to get any exact information about the elections at the different sub-divisions to-day, there is a general feeling among men at the booths that the bylaws will be defeated. The opinion was also expressed that there would possibly be a larger vote polled than that of last year. There were many workers out and the livery barns report nearly all their cutters out.

The Examiner will flash the results on a canvas as soon as they are received from each polling sub-division, and a quick service will be given.

FORMER PETERBORO' MAN ARRESTED IN PITTSBURG—CONFESSES TO HAVE DONE ROBBERY AND SHOOTING

Was Arrested at Midnight on Saturday Night and broke Down Under the Cross-Questioning of the County Detectives.

HAD COME FROM PETERBORO

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—The mystery surrounding the shooting of Jacob Knoedler, at Wilcox Station, merchant, in his own store, on the night of November 24th last, has been cleared up, following the arrest of Silas H. Pearson, of Peterborough, Ont., last night, and his confession that he had wounded the merchant in an attempt to rob the store. Knoedler is still in the hospital in a serious condition. Pearson was arrested by county detectives as he alighted from a Pittsburg and Lake Erie train, in company with his wife. The couple had just returned from a visit with friends in Peterborough. For some time the county detectives had laid the shooting at the door of Pearson. Requisition papers had been made out and a detective was to start for Peterborough on Monday to bring him back. Information reached the detectives yesterday that Pearson and his wife were headed for Pittsburg, and when they stepped off the train last night they were arrested and taken to the county jail, where Pearson was sweated. At first he denied having any knowledge of the shooting. Later after he and his wife had been separated and both had told stories which in no way agreed, he confessed and signed written statement. He was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury. Mrs. Pearson will be held as a witness.

He was placed in the county jail a self-confessed criminal, five hours after his arrival in Pittsburg from Canada, accompanied by his wife. Testimony secured against him by detectives was too strong for him to resist. After the first session of grilling to which he was subjected, he was allowed an hour in which to ponder over the matter, and gave in quickly when again attacked. In his signed confession he says:—

"I hereby voluntarily state that on the night of November 24th, at 10 o'clock I entered the store of Jacob Knoedler, at Willock station, in Baldwin township, and when surprised by Mr. Knoedler shot three times, but do not know how many times I hit him. This statement is made voluntarily by the singer, Silas H Pearson."

In a lonely cottage in the country near Carrick, Pearson's booty from apparently many raids was found by detectives. He left for his home at Peterborough, Ont., shortly after the shooting of the merchant. Chief Waggoner received a tip that he was the burglar wanted only a week ago and had men watching for him since then. He was employed as a carpenter in Kelly's construction camp, building a county road near Willock Station. Mr. Knoedler, his victim, was shot in the head, cheek and breast, and is still in the Mercy Hospital, where he may die. He was shot down as he was about to close his store door at Willock. Efforts have been made to identify a dozen suspects with the crime, and four men were under arrest for a time. The testimony of Harry Coot, a former "pal," who served a term for a robbery they committed in partnership at Altoona two years ago, and admissions made by Pearson's wife made a strong case against him without other evidence.

In regard to the Pittsburg despatch it has been learned in the city to-day that it is practically certain that Silas L. Pearson is a Peterborough boy. From what was ascertained he came to Peterborough on Christmas eve, visited his father who, it is said, is Mr Frank Pearson, of the 10th line of Smith, near Buckhorn, and left Peterborough again on New Year's morning for Pittsburg. On Thursday, the 31st, he called at his grandmother's residence in the city.

Every detail strengthens the belief that the Peterborough man mentioned in the despatch is really from this locality. It was further learned from the authorities that some years ago he was arrested on two charges, one of having broken into a church and the other of stealing a bicycle. A relative of the young man admitted to-day the absence of any reasonable doubt in the matter of identity.

DRY GOODS MADE GOOD FOOD FOR FIRE ON SATURDAY NIGHT

A fire that seemed to have had its origin near a stove at the rear of the Singer Supply store on Simcoe street, at 10.30 o'clock on Saturday night, gutted the interior considerably, with the result that articles that escaped the flames were damaged by water.

The alarm was sent in from Payne's drug store, at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, by a wayfarer who chanced to be straggling by at the time.

Considerable progress had been made among the inflammable materials with which the store was stocked. The brigade made a quick run and confined the blaze to the store. The proprietor, Mr. Schwartz, had locked up for the night and gone home. The stock was a varied one, but was mostly dry goods and the loss will not probably be more than several hundred dollars. The building itself did not suffer much.

The water flowed through the barber shop next door and suddenly stopped business for the rest of the night. Nightwatchman Finnie showed considerable judgment in preventing a number of men from breaking in the door of the Singer before the brigade arrived, as the draft would likely have caused greater trouble.

MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER OF HIS BROTHER---IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Special. — To-day will determine whether Salem Assaly who murdered his brother Joseph at Hawkesbury, near here a week to-day, has to have his arms and legs which were terribly frozen, amputated. Indeed it may determine whether he lives for he is in the Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal, in a very serious condition. He was arrested here and tells a remarkable tale. After shooting his brother and also shooting in the head and wounding Mrs. Joseph Buteras, his cousin, he escaped to hide in a wood shed under a pile of wood, but not daring to come out for several hours with the result that his feet and arms were frozen and he suffered excruciating agony. He managed to get to Calumet where he bought a ticket for Montreal, but was recognized and arrested. If Assaly lives he will be taken to L'Orignal and tried for murder. The doctors say Mrs. Buteras may recover.

Hon. A. G. MacKay Denies Rumour Of His Retiring

Special to the Examiner.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 4th — (Owen Sound) Hon. A. G. MacKay denies rumour of his resignation as Liberal leader. He said to-day, "I have not thought of such a thing, unless something extraordinary happens, I mean to stay on top and do best for Party I can."

Despatches from outside points indicate big vote on local option in 91 municipalities, including repeal vote both sides well organized.

Irl Hicks Prophesied The Earthquake Just A Year Ago

It may be of interest to readers of the Examiner to know that the earthquake which devastated Southern Italy and Sicily, was predicted to within 24 hours by Irl Hicks, who is widely known as a weather forecaster. Exactly a year ago he issued a book in which he detailed things that would happen during 1908, and among them was an earthquake, which he said would occur between the 28th and 29th of December. He did not exactly locate the country that would suffer most but the gentleman who informed the Examiner, and who is himself interested in astronomy, seemed satisfied that there was more than ordinary merit to this prediction, which has become a fatal fact.

One Hundred and Twenty-five Buggi Followed the Hearse.

One hundred and twenty-five vehicles in the funeral procession of the late Wm. Brisbin, who resided north of Pontypool, near Ballyduff, made probably one of the largest seen that vicinity. Mr. Brisbin was well known through several counties and highly respected. The remains were interred in Yelverton cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Sarginson of Peterborough were amongst those present at the funeral.

FIGHT WOLVES FROM TREES

Tents Suspended and Trails Covered Animals Loose the Scent.

The Canadian Pacific Industrial and Colonization department has received advices to-day stating that as the result of the new and interesting feature introduced into wolf hunting this season no less than eight wolves have been slaughtered at the camps established under the direction of Mr. J. A. Hope in the Mississage Forest Reserve.

In order to overcome the difficulty which the scent of man operating upon the nostrils of the wolf, and this is held to be the most formidable to successful wolf-hunting — it was decided to establish camps of suspended tents these tents are attached to or suspended from the branches of trees, and they are about sixteen feet from the ground and entered by rope ladders.

The judicious use of a disinfectant on the wolf trail neutralizes the smell of the hunters as they move around the neighbourhood of the tent and lay the bait by which the wolves are lured within range of the magazine rifle fired from the tents.

Mr. Byron Brooks, with a party of hunters, is now on his way up. Wolf hunting with him, and several others of the Wolf Hunters' Club, is just as annual affair as the trout fishing. None of the wolf hunts have been barren of results, but by the new method Mr. Hope is confident of a very much larger measure of success.

The report received from the Thessalon district says that the wolves are growing bolder and settlers are being well armed with army rifles which are found to be much better for long shots than the ordinary sporting rifle.

COMPENSATION CALLED FOR.

The method of dealing with the water conservation problem in Peterborough—in the northern waters—is furnishing an example and incentive to other places. Ottawa, which is suffering keenly from water famine this year, is advocating and demanding that a similar system of retaining dams be constructed on the head and tributary waters of the Ottawa River. The Ontario Government is being asked for a grant of $1,000 for a preliminary survey of the Grand River Valley, with a view of providing retaining dams. This is a wise action. The Grand River is subject to outrageous spring freshets which do a great amount of injury over almost the whole length of its course. The benefits of reservoirs will extend beyond the prevention of spring floods. Water will be conserved and be made available for power purposes. The Toronto Star says the proposal is a most commendable one but that it does not go far enough. "Instead of one thousand dollars twenty thousand should be asked for; and instead of limiting the proposed survey to the Grand River it should be made to cover a number of other rivers in older Ontario where conditions are similar to those prevailing along the line of the Grand. There are several streams which cause disastrous floods in spring, and where by means of dams the water could be stored up for utilization as white coal. But in order to make the work of control and conservation thoroughly effective something more than dams will be found necessary. There should be as well intelligent forestry work near the sources of the streams in question and along the steep banks further on. In carrying out what is required co-operation between the Department of Works and the forestry branch of the Department of Agriculture is called for." A great area of useful administration in this connection opens before the Ontario Government as well as the Central Government and all the provincial governments. In the matter of forest preservation, which is the key note of natural control of water supply, not only in regard to precipitated moisture but of also rainfall, Quebec leads the provinces of the Dominion. According to Heaton's Annual, the area of Quebec's forest reserves is 2165474 square miles, as against Ontario's 16,300 square miles of timber reserves. The Ontario Government is under obligations to compensate the damage caused by forest removal, because it has been a great financial beneficiary. Since Confederation the province has derived a revenue of between forty and fifty millions of dollars from the exploitation of our forest wealth. This is largely represented in the splendid series of public buildings throughout the province, which would have han to be erected by means of borrowed money, had not our forests been sacrificed to provide the means. The results of this sacrifice are to be seen in the conditions of our streams and lakes to-day. The effects are felt in the Grand River every spring, in the Ottawa Valley, especially this year, and would have been similarly felt in Peterborough this year also, were it not for the splendid, though yet inadequate, system of retaining dams on our northern waters. But for these very probably every wheel in Peterborough, dependent upon water for motive power, would be idle. The Ontario and other Governments have directly created the conditions of capricious and unreliable supply of water, through forest removal and are in duty bound to provide compensatory relief.

Dr. Fernow, Professor of Forestry at Toronto Universoty, estimates the woodland area of Canada at 1,000 million acres and the area of merchantable timber at 200 million acres.

PRIZE SEED GRAIN.

One of the most attractive features of the Guelph Winter Fair this month, arounnd which one always to be found an interested crowd of farmers, was the exhibit of seed grain from the standing field crop competition displayed in two bushel sacks. This feature will be in evidence also at the Eastern Ontario live stock and poultry show to be held at Ottawa on January 18th to 22nd, whereat will be shown prize oats by members of the following agricultural Societies, which have made entry with Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, Superintendent of fairs and exhibitions, for this purpose: Alfred Carleton County, East Peterborough, Elgin, Kenyon, Otonabee, South Lanark, S. Monaghan, North and South Renfrew Verulam and Wooler. These oats will be judged by experts and the ones to which money prizes are awarded will be retained by the Department of Agriculture for experimental purposes. The rest will be sold by auction at 10 a.m. on the morning of Friday, January 22nd and no doubt, as at Guelph, many farmers will seize the opportunity of securing first class oats for the coming season. As each competitor must have 25 bushels for sale, including what he exhibits, purchasers can secure a sufficient quantity to sow a considerable acreage with this excellent seed grain. This is an opportunity which should not be overlooked.

NOT A GREAT SUCCESS.

According to the Winnipeg Free Press the experiment of Government ownership of the telephone system in Manitoba has not been the success expected. Says our contemporary:

"The city of Winnipeg is to-day, and has, for the past year, been doing business, not with a soulless corporation, but with the Manitoba Government. The amount it pays for telephones has risen in the two years from the $2,510 which horrified the Roblin-Rogers organ two years ago to $3,256.50, which is the civic estimate for the current year; although, according to the new official telephone directory, the number of civic telephones has risen only from 44 to 46.

"The city has, therefore, not profitted in the least by being enabled during the current year to do business, not with the grasping, soulless Bell Telephone Company, but with the benevolent, generous Manitoba Government, pledged to give the public "better service at half cost."

"Not only is the city paying more for its telephones than it did when dealing with the corporation, but it has lost the taxes which that corporation formerly paid to the city treasury. Last year the city paid the Bell Telephone Company something less than $3,000 for its telephones, and it received from the Bell Telephone Company about $10,000 in the form of taxes upon its plant.

"In the year 1908, the city of Winnipeg will pay the Manitoba Government over $3,000 for its telephones, and it will receive from the Manitoba Government as taxes upon its properties in the city limits, not a single, solitary cent. As Government property they are exempt from taxation."

The Manitoba Government, one would think had a splendid opportunity for demonstrating the benefits and success of public ownership and operation of a public utility. The Government in buying up the Bell Telephone interests entered a field in which there was no competition. Yet the people are as a whole paying higher prices, in addition to having paid an exorbitantly high price for the Bell franchise and equipment. The Bell Telephone operated the system on business principles which the Government of Manitoba evidently has not applied. Political influence, and civic influence are the danger elements in public ownership, which is only justified when it assumes as effective management as private ownership.

The value of the United States soil crop for 1909 is estimated at 5,000 millions of dollars worth.

IMPOTENCY OF "BLUE LAW."

The Canadian Courier in its last issue has the following half-playful comment in reference to the contravention of the election law:

Practical politicians will tell you that the greater share of the money which is spent during an election in contravention of the law, is not used for bribery in the proper sense at all. It is not so very often, they say, that men are paid to vote for one candidate when they would otherwise have voted for the other. That is a pretty risky business. The more usual thing is to "pay a man for his time"—as the phrase goes—that is, to pay him for the time he spends in going to vote for his party candidate. In most cases, he would refuse indignantly a proffered bribe to do so. But neither will he vote for his own candidate. He will simply stay at home. Not for a moment does he regard his action as immoral: no matter what the stupid law may say. He reasons it out this way. "the politicians make money out of politics; they cannot make that money unless they get my vote; it does me no good to go and vote and takes up my time; therefore it is only fair that the politicians shall drive me to the polls and indemnify me for my loss of time if they want me to go and vote for them." It may be oblique reasoning; but it is very common. The man who insists upon being driven to the poll is not very far from it.

There is something of logical reason in the reasoning of the Courier's hypothetical elector. The member of parliament is only an embodiment of a section of the electorate. Through him the electors sit in Parliament. If the electorate in this form in entitled to and receives, an indemnity of $2,500 per year for the sacrifice he makes in sitting in Parliament as a concentrated form of the electors he represents, why should he not in the looser and more dispersed form of the ordinary elector, receive consideration? If the elector in his representative form receives indemnity, then how is the indemnity of the representative-making form of elector contraindicated? Is the created to be considered greater than the creator, and should he receive favours denied to the latter?

Seriously speaking the point of the point lies in a deeper meaning, a more far reaching consideration. We have enough misdemeanours and crimes on draft without creating others. The election law, with, doubtless, the best intentions, has made it a crime to convey an elector to the polls. The corrupt act involved or assumed, is so loosely associated in the popular mind with undue or criminal influence, that its conception as such is practically impossible. If the law makes a crime of an essentially innocent action, a disregard of its more serious requirements is created and a spirit of disrespect for it as a whole is engendered. Such a feature of the election law is practically impossible of enforcement. Nothing is more demoralising than unenforced or unenforceable law. The tendency, as remarked, is to breed disrespect for all law. The election law cannot be made too effectively stringent, but it is reasonable to demand that its provisions should not be of such a character as, by their very nature, to defeat the object aimed at—purity of exercise of the franchise. Law to be respected must not contain the elements that justify contempt on the part of the people. It would take a deal of argument to convince a candidate or his political workers of any party, that he, or they, was committing an essentially corrupt act in conveying an elector to the polls, or to convince an elector that in accepting such conveyance he was participes criminis. Laws affecting any condition or interest, to insure respect, must be founded on reason and common sense, with reasonable regard to the possibility of enforcement.

The newest outbreak of Mackenzie & Mann enterprise is a new railway from Port Arthur to Sudbury. Application will be made to Parliament next session for charter and subsidy.

THE STORAGE WAREHOUSE.

It Sheds Some Side Lights Upon Life and Morals.

For a few dazzling side lights upon life and morals apply to the storage warehouse. You can find almost anything there from baby alligators to blocks of ice cream and from Teddy bears to sauerkraut. So you won't be amazed at what the institution has most recently divulged. Here you have the story:

Mrs. Q. repaired to the storage warehouse to extract her soup spoons, though it may have been aunts or uncles or popcorn or guinea pigs. At any rate, her property declined to come out. It had been tucked in by Mr. Q. Only Mr. Q. might tempt it forth. Mrs. Q. protested. She wanted her catnip or theology or safety razor, or whatever it was, and made representations with great emphasis. She moved upon the management. She stormed and wept. After long wrangling the warehouse decided it would yield up the college ice—or was it the piano?—if Mrs. Q. would swear she was still married to Mr. Q. and would send him a written statement (he was in Quebec, and I lost track of him owing to bewilderment produced by merely thinking of a storage warehouse) and make him return the statement, countersigned, to the management. This, then, is how Mrs. G. regained possession of her golf links or prayer book or sugar tongs. Well, say it was sugar tongs, though golf links would be likelier.

Pressed for an explanation, the warehouse remarked: "Have to be careful, you know—divorces, separations, affinities, you know. Minute such things start up there's a race to the storage place. Game is for each to snatch out everything first. Becomes embarrassing!"

MIXED THE SIGNS.

Sarasate and the Sandwich Men in Edinburgh.

To advertise Sarasate's performances in Edinburgh eight sandwich men were sent out, each of whom bore in front and behind him one letter of the great musician's name. They started all right, but after a time removed the boards from their shoulders to have a rest.

On resuming their labors each man shouldered the board nearest him and fell in behind the man who had formerly marched before him.

When the leader, who bore the initial "S," turned around to see if his men were ready, what he saw was "Satarasa." He knew enough to realize that something was wrong, but how to right it was more than he could tell.

After changing a man here and there he got it "Starasea." But still it didn't seem correct.

By this time the poor fellow was in a terrible state. If any of their employers' people were on the outlook and could see them, their day's wage would be stopped! He tried again and yet again, but it was no use.

And a moment later a man bearing the letter "S" before and behind was seen running toward the music hall to copy down the name from one of the posters there. And along the right side of Princeton street there walked toward the appointed rendezvous at the Mound three men who bore the strange device "A A E," while opposite them there paced along the left side gutter four others, who, if to advertise means to attract attention, succeeded well, for every one who passed looked around in wondering amazement as to what "Rats" meant.—Edinburgh Dispatch.

Good wives and mothers are as plentiful as ever, and in these days many of our smartest women read and think and meditate and lead the simple life with earnest endeavor. There are marked signs of evolution among the flower of our womanhood.

APPLES, ORANGES FIGS AND PRUNES

The God-given Cure for All Diseases of Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Skin.

Few people seem to realize how important—how absolutely necessary—it is to keep the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin in proper working order.

They wonder why they have Sallow Complexions — Indigestion — Headaches—Rheumatism — while all the time their systems are clogged and poisoned with waste tissue and indigestible food which these organs should have removed.

What they need are Fruit Juices—nature's provision for keeping the eliminating machinery of the body working right. "Fruit-a-tives" are the concentrated juices of fresh, ripe fruits, combined in such a way that their medicinal action is greatly intensified. They stimulate and regulate the action of Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, thus clearing the system of the accumulated waste and poison, purifying the blood, and banishing those distressing troubles that make life miserable.

No other remedy has ever been discovered that does this so effectively as "Fruit-a-tives." 50c. a box — 6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

SHE WAS MURDERED WITH A POKER

Agincourt Sectionman Beats Woman to Death With Poker

HE WANTED TO BE MASTER

William Blythe, an Employe of the C.P.R. After Heavy Drinking Bout Has Fight With Wife and Kills Her—Had Been Cautioned Before—Woman's Body Mass of Bruises—Two Children Left.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—Agincourt, a little village situated about 12 miles from Toronto, was the scene yesterday evening of a particularly brutal murder, the perpetrator being Walter Blythe, a section hand on the C.P.R., and the victim his wife.

Blythe, who had been drinking heavily for some time, had previously threatened his wife's life, and only a month ago County Constable William Hobbs, who yesterday effected his arrest, had to caution him.

The victim, who was only 35 years of age, presents a terrible appearance. Her body is a mass of bruises and her head is badly cut. The implement used was a common poker.

The motive is apparently a purely domestic one. Blythe, it appears, has for a long time labored under the delusion that the deceased had tried to "boss" him, and he is quoted as saying that he had fully made up his mind to be "master of his own house."

Enquiries show, however, that the prisoner is of a very morose temperament, even when out of drink, and had constantly ill-treated his wife.

The dead woman leaves behind her two children—a boy and girl—whose ages are, respectively, 6 and 2 years.

Immediately after the crime had been committed Blythe went across to a friend named Malcolm Walker, and stated that he thought he had killed his wife. He afterwards quietly submitted to arrest, being brought to the Toronto jail at an early hour this morning by Police Constable Hobbs.

The prisoner, who is a sullen-looking man of about 40 years, was not handcuffed, and appeared to be quite on friendly terms with his captor. He seemed to be in a very dazed condition. He showed signs of a recent debauch, and from what he said he had partaken very heavily of cider yesterday. Questioned as to the crime, he refused to say more than that he wanted to be master of his home.

From the appearance of the house in which the crime was committed, it would appear that the death struggle took place about six o'clock. The body was discovered lying upon a bed, and the room was upset in such a manner as to indicate that the victime had offered desperate resistance.

Blythe was last night taken before the local magistrate, John Millen, and he was remanded until Jan. 11, on the charge of the wilful murder of his wife.

Dr. Coutts, coroner, was summoned and made an investigation of the room where the woman's body lay. He will conduct the inquest to-day.

Blythe has always been considered an inoffensive neighbor and a steady workman.

Harriman Boss of 'Frisco.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—At a luncheon of the City Club yesterday Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, who prosecuted the "graft" cases in that city, declared that E. H. Harriman of New York, through his control of the Southern Pacific Railway, was responsible for the "graft" and corruption that has been found in the Golden Gate City.

With Abe Ruef and Harriman was linked the head of the United Railways Corporation of San Francisco, by Mr. Heney, "but the real boss," he said, "sits in New York and has as one of his chief agents in California W. F. Herrin, general consul of the Southern Pacific Railroad."

Funeral of Senator Bernier.

Winnipeg, Jan. 4.—With all impressive solemnity of the Roman Catholic funeral services and most marked manifestation of deepest respect by citizens of St. Boniface and prominent statesmen of Federal and Provincial Parliaments, the late Senator Thomas A. Bernier was laid to rest Saturday morning in the historic old churchyard surrounding the cathedral. The funeral was the largest which has ever taken place in the city.

Everything She Ate SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY.

HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Rossland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters. I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be so unfortunate as I was.

HAIR SLAUGHTER; KILLED BY NEGLIGENCE

Hair must have nourishment or die. If it does not have proper nourishment it will lose its vitality, grow weak and become an easy prey to the ravages of the vicious and destructive germs of dandruff.

Parisian Sage is a hair nourisher; it is the result of sincere study and experiment by one of the world's leading scientists.

It should be used regularly as a hair dressing by everyone with healthy hair, because it never fails to prevent dandruff, falling hair, or any scalp disease.

But Parisian Sage is not only a preventive it is a certain cure for dandruff; it stops itching of the scalp instantly; it makes hair grow thick and luxuriant. It is especially in demand by ladies, because it makes the hair beautiful, soft and fluffy. Wm. Madill, the druggist, sells it under a positive guarantee to do all that is claimed for it, or money back. 50 cents for a large bottle.

Rose on Way Back.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 4.—Inspector Duncan and Detective Tipton, in charge of Alex. Rose, the Toronto jail-breaker, left here yesterday for Toronto. Rose consented to go back, but Duncan was armed with full extradition papers in case they were needed. Any possible charges here against Rose of burglary have been dropped. Rose seems in good spirits. He got a letter in jail Saturday from his sister that seemed to depress him.

Shot Woman and Self.

New York, Jan. 4.—It was Arthur Korger, a boy of 20, that shot and killed Mrs. Elizabeth Orlop Wood, and then killed himself in a lonely section of Yonkers Friday night. Mrs. Wood, an attractive young woman of 20, was the childhood sweetheart of Korger, but in a moment of pique, it is stated, she eloped with and married Wood, from whom she had since separated. Both were of good families.

Woman Hugger Jailed.

Port Huron, Jan. 4.—Charles Forion, Sarnia's "Jack the Hugger," was convicted of annoying Port Huron women and sentenced to pay a fine of $57 and serve three months in jail. His wife, who was arrested at St. Clair, where she had eloped with Louis Weitsel, after her husband was arrested, has been deported to Sarnia.

Snubbed by Emperor.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Considerable comment has been aroused by the fact that Emperor William, at the New Year's reception Friday, refrained from offering his hand to Count Von Stolberg-Wernigerode, the president of the Reichstag. The incident is regarded as an intentional snub, expressive of His Majesty's resentment against the Reichstag for that body's frank criticisms of his course in the matter of the interview with him printed in The London Daily Telegraph last October.

J. W. Leonard Very Ill.

Montreal, Jan. 4.—Alarming reports have been quietly given out at the home of J. W. Leonard, assistant general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, about his condition. Mrs. Schwab Threatened.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Henry C. Schwab announced Saturday night that her monster reception scheduled for Jan. 6 would be held exactly as planned.

This announcement followed a day of excitement, during which a score of private detectives worked in vain to discover the identity of the person who, in a letter, threatened the death of the popular South Side society leader.

Mrs. Schwab has invitations out for a reception to be held Wednesday night at the Congress Hotel. Four hundred guests have been invited. The mysterious writer in his messages announced that before the guests were assembled Mrs. Schwab would be killed.

WINDOW DRAPERIES.

Old Madras Curtains Come Into Play in New Scheme.

The present style of draping the windows at the sides with narrow curtains that come only to the sill and hanging a valance of the same material over the top provides use for curtains that have seen their best days and that with the former style of draping would have to be cast aside. Old madras curtains, because of the width of the material, come into play for the purpose. If the material is forty-eight inches wide it may be cut lengthwise through the center and one width serve for both sides of the window. The top of each strip should be shirred on to a strip of tape that is long enough to cover the window casing and a little of the window, only an inch or two of the latter. They should be tacked on to the casing of the window at the top. The valance is usually from nine to twelve inches deep, according to the height of the window. Hem this at the bottom, turn in the top and lay the top side in series of inch plaits, each three in a group and the groups about four inches apart. These plaits stand out in an upright inch or inch and a half head, but at the bottom of the plaits, where the valance is tacked on to a tape, the plaits are tacked down and drawn in flat. Put a curtain pin at the back of each cluster of plaits and hang it over a ring on a small brass rod. At the ends there should be a ring outside the brackets, and the valance should have no plaits within four inches of the end on either side. This allows for an easy hanging of the valance around the bracket. The small extension gilt rods are much cheaper than the regular brass rods and answer every purpose, with balls at the ends. They cost about 35 cents each. Small rings to go with them are about 10 cents a dozen. The curtain hooks that sew to the curtain rather than pin are the most satisfactory. The fish nets come in lovely reds, greens and, indeed, all the fashionable colors. It is one of the fancies of the moment to match the wall paper with its own prevailing color in window draperies. These nets come at all prices, from less than 20 cents up.

THE NIGHT.

A tremor, a quiver,
Through her
As over the river
The dawn began,
She drew her veil
Over her eyes,
And her face grew pale,
As she watched the sun rise.
She faded, turned to a ghost, was gone,
As the morning burned
And the day came on.
With veiled, sad eye,
And face still wan,
She waited nigh
When the dusk began.
With her tears of bliss
The earth was wet,
And soothed with her kiss
When the sun was set.
And with stately pride
She sat on her throne
Of her empire wide
When the day had gone;
And her robes she spread
With their sable hem
And crowned her head
With her diadem.
And the mute Earth saw
That a queen was she,
And gazed with awe
On her majesty.

A Cordial Invitation.

George Barker, the skipper of the Grimsby (England) trawler Taurus, has received an amusing summons from the German authorities for non-payment of a fine imposed upon him for alleged illegal fishing in German territorial waters. The document reads: "You are summoned to thirty days' imprisonment on Nov. 2 in Flensburg prison. Admission into prison from 7 o'clock morning until 6 evening. Sundays and holidays until 6. This summons is to be brought with you and shown."

CHRONIC COUGH

Kingston, Ontario, Mother Tells How Her Son Was Cured of a Bad Cough and Run-down Condition By Vinol.

"My son, Edward Lennon, after taking two bottles of Vinol has been thoroughly cured of a bad cough that he had for nearly two years. He was much run down and had lost his appetite. Vinol not only cured his cough but it built him up and greatly increased his appetite. I believe Vinol to be a splendid tonic." Hannah Lennon, 149 Raglan Road, Kingston, Ontario.

This is because Vinol is a genuine tonic and body builder which contains peptonate of iron together with every one of the body-building medicinal elements of cod liver oil but without one drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol acts directly upon the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements from the food eaten to make rich, red blood, healthy flesh and muscle tissue and create strength.

Your money back if Vinol fails to benefit. McDermid & Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's Drug Store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

REV. H. R. TRUMPOUR'S SERMON

Rector Pointed Out What Lessons Were to be Learnt From the Year 1908.

There was a very large congregation at All Saints' church last night and the service was bright and hearty. As his text the rector took the words of Ps., 90; 9., and on it based a resume of the chief events of the past year, showing what lessons were to be drawn from them. It had not, he said been a year of great disasters, although, of course many terrible things had happened. Some important political events had occurred. It had witnessed for instance the emancipation of Turkey from the thraldom of an absolute despotism as shown in the granting of a constitution to the Turks; it had also witnessed the death of the puppet ruler of China and of the Dowager Empress. By her death China was released from the fetters that had bound her, and God alone knew what this would mean to the world. The hordes of China and Japan were crossing the sea and endeavouring to obtain a footing upon this continent. In the awaking of the East there was danger to the West, but this was not the only peril that 1908 had shown us. The desire for material at the expense of spiritual prosperity was being planted more firmly in the minds of the people of all classes; armaments of all nations were on the increase; there was disaffection in India; hard times had not altogether passed away; thousands upon thousands of the employed were crying for bread in the old land. But to turn to the bright side, the year just passed, had shown a steady progress towards temperance and a wonderful uplift in religion as exemplified in the Layman's Missionary Movement. In summing up, the preacher said the duty of Christians was clear; to look upon the events of 1908 as manifestations given by God for our guidance in the future, that thus by avoiding the bad and following the good we may arrive at a higher state of spiritual blessedness.

Over 600 Members Of St. Peter's T.A.S. At Communion In A Body

Largest Representation Yet Made at St. Peter's Cathedral—Words of Praise From Bishop O'Connor—The Choir From Society Sang During Mass.

AN EVIDENCE OF GROWTH

St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society to the number of six hundred or more members received Holy Communion at the eight o'clock mass at the cathedral yesterday morning.

The numerical advancement that the society has made during the past year was most strikingly manifested. It was the largest representation that the T. A. S. has probably yet had in its regular attendance at church, the greatest means by which the spiritual welfare of its members is nourished and fostered. They assembled at St. Peter's School and marched to the cathedral where they occupied all the central aisles of the nave.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor celebrated mass and was assisted at Communion by Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Father McColl. The society's choir of young men sang special hymns in a pleasing manner. The "Adeste Fideles" was sung by Mr. Harry Quinlan, assisted by the rest of the choir.

The Bishop's Address

At the conclusion of the mass His Lordship referred to the magnificent sight that had been witnessed on the very large number of the men of the parish, members of St. Peter's T. A. S., approaching Communion. He commended them for the splendid example they were showing in thus regularly attending in a body and was sure that it was a sight which not only was a pleasure to men but even to angels. Temporal benefits they were also enjoying, as was shown by the better homes which the eradication of the liquor habit was making. The bishop further stated that every member should be proud of the fact that he belonged to the society, and he urged them to ask God's grace that they would be enabled to withstand all temptations. If as sometimes happens, a member suffers the misfortune to fall away, he admonished him to return at once, renew his pledge and resolve never to fall again.

Mr. O'Rourke, who has the office of marshall, preserved a fine appearance in the march to and from the church.

Dr. O'Brien's untiring efforts are bearing good fruit, and his ambition to see the society with a membership of one thousand should be attained in the near future.

REVIEW OF THE YEAR BY WELL KNOWN FINANCIAL AUTHORITY; THE PROSPECTS ARE VERY BRIGHT

New York, Dec. 31 (Special)—The year closes with a feeling of optimism in all branches of business, and with the financial district bright and cheerful, in marked contrast to the corresponding week of last year when there were dire predictions of calamity in the business world and a haze of blue covering The Street that could be cut with a knife.

The week just closed saw a number of high prices for the year made in the stock market; New York Central on reports that E. H. Harriman was to enter the board of directors, advanced sharply; Wisconsin Central, on rumours of a change of control, perhaps the purchase of the road by the Canadian Pacific, was another; and Brunswick Dock, heretofore one of the dormant issues, displayed considerable strength on large buying orders from Holland and London. Wabash issues made still further advances as did Denver and Rio Grande, the best of the Gould group.

The average price of stocks reached a point that showed a gain of 38.31 points above the low figures of Nov. 1908. The average was 119.80. This is a phenomenal recovery, as it has come almost without a reaction. Stocks are now on an average, but 18.56 points under the highest point ever touched in January 1906. This would seem to be a recovery sufficient to discount a great deal more business improvement than has actually taken place. Stocks may continue to advance for the time being, as sentiment is a powerful factor, but those that buy at these prices may find that it will be a long time before they see a profit on their purchases. Many of the low price railroads are still good purchases for the "long pull," but they should be bought with discrimination.

Good reports come from all lines of business, so it is easy to see that the outlook for 1909 is all that it should be and if crops are good in 1909, this country will enter upon a boom that will carry prices on the stock exchange eventually to the highest point on record.

The horrible earthquake in Sicily will have but little effect upon prices as the the losses to the insurance companies will not be very great, and while wealth was destroyed it was not the wealth of the new world, and although the loss of life places the catastrophe as probably the greatest in the history of the world, it is more a loss of life than a loss of dollars.

The threat of trouble in Eastern Europe has passed and danger of war appears to be remote. A war would have been a check to business there, but a stimulus here; but wealth would have been destroyed and eventually this country would have been forced to help pay the bill, for a loss of wealth now in any country is eventually felt in some way by all countries. However, all is well that ends well, and the year ends well enough, all things considered and surely has a new year come in with promises of good things so bright as the promises that usher in 1909. May those promises bear the fruit of prosperity, and may the thousands who hungered in 1908, revel in plenty in the new year.

Chinamen Were Ready To Go With Money And Valuables

While the little blaze on Simcoe street Saturday night was still smoking and steaming and the crowd remained to see it there would be anything of importance materialize, the Chinamen in Sun Lung's laundry, a few doors farther west were all prepared to vacate their shop in an instant's warning. A reporter went in to see them and found them all with hats and overcoats on prepared for the worst. There was no danger for they were at least four doors away and a lane separates the two buildings.

The oval eyes of the Orientals had lost their almond shape and were as round and large as twenty-five cent pieces. Tom Somebody who seems to be boss of the rest of the washermen, was like the rest of them, visibly trembling.

"I'm velles much afraid," he said, and was grateful for the reassurance that the danger was very remote.

He told the reporter that he was all ready to go. In one pocket he had a bag of money, and in the other his insurance policy.

Chinamen must have keen imaginations. From their appearance they must have beheld a conflagration in it was going to sweep everything. At any rate they were not going to take any chances, although they seemed to be forgetting the long rows of laundry that were awaiting the Saturday night customers.

Labour Conditions In City For The Month Of November

Mr. J. A. Sharpe, local correspondent to the Labour Gazette, sends the following report of labour conditions in Peterborough during November:

Conditions during November have been rather quiet in most branches, with the exception of the building trades and flour and cereal mills, which were active. Skilled and unskilled labour are both largely in excess of the demand and with the closing of the lumber mills and the active season for farm labour there will probably be a considerable increase of unemployment. The firm of W. Hamilton and Company, after having been closed down for over a year is re-organizing, and is making extensive repairs to the plant for the purpose of starting up again as soon as possible. The master painters and decorators have formed an association for the bettering of conditions and have rented rooms which will be open day and evening for the transaction of business. The retail merchants have also formed a union to promote and protect their business. Transportation has been active. The banks reported a fairly good month. The American Cereal Company has been very busy, its factory running to full capacity.

Condition of Local Industries

Agriculture—Farmers had a good month, and were busy ploughing, especially towards the close of the month, when weather conditions were very favourable.

Lumbering — Operations were active.

Condition of Particular Trades

Painters, decorators and paperhangers were a little dull, but the other branches of the building trades were active. Iron moulders reported a slight improvement, but the other metal trades were quiet. Woodworkers were not very busy, printers had a fair month, as had also the clothing trades. Bakers and butchers were busy, but cigar makers and tobacco workers were dull. The transport trades were very busy. Unskilled labour was quiet.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding, or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50 cents.

IMPORTANT CHANGE IN CANADIAN PACIFIC TRANSCONTINENTAL SERVICE

During the months of January and February the C. P. R. 'Imperial Limited,' will not run between Montreal and Winnipeg, or between Calgary and Vancouver. This change will not, however, affect passengers from this district to any considerable extent. The departure time of the northwest express from Toronto is unchanged from 10.15 p. m., daily, there is no change in the fast time made to Winnipeg, and for passengers to Calgary and points east, no wait in that city. Passengers for points west of Calgary and the coast will enjoy a welcome break in their long journey, arriving in Winnipeg at 10.40 p. m., and after an afternoon and evening in which to see the attractions of the western metropolis, leave for their destinations at 10.45 p. m. This opportunity to explore Winnipeg, the gateway to the Northwest, and famous for its rapid growth and prosperity, will undoubtedly be welcomed by cross-continent travellers. The change takes effect January 1st. 3d1127-4800

MAKE THE PAVEMENT ROUGH.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—The slippery walks are a menace to the safety of the public limbs. Why are they not sanded? We have a Street Commissioner and Street Inspector, under pay, and with not too much to do in winter. Why not get them busy? We have a team of city horses idle. Why not get some device on the principle of a seed drill and sand the walks, wholesale, and make them — what they are not in their present icy condition—passable? Some cities use a "picker" something on the plan of the "picker" of the steam roller, to roughen the walks when they are icy.

Yours truly,
CREEPERS.

Music and Drama

Within a week or ten days a pack of Canadian howling wolves will be introduced into "The Wolf" company, playing at present at the Teck Theatre, Buffalo, to supplant with actual howls those now secured by the aid of a phonograph. When Eugene Walter's play of the Canadian wilderness was first produced, the howling of the wolves was secured at the New York Zoo by having a record made on the phonograph, all of which bears out a Canadian legend that when wolves howl in pack in Indian summer it means that before the moon shall rise and set again a man will die and the wolf pack will return to taste his blood. In "The Wolf" the howling of the wolves portends the death of William Macdonald, a none-too-loved character of the play. The phonograph has been most satisfactory in every way, but in keeping with the times everything must give way to actualities.

SOME THE CAUSES OF ILL-HEALTH

Late Hours, Excitement and Other Things Are Mentioned by an Authority.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. — That American women of the larger cities, through the use of drugs and intoxicants, are causing an increase of degeneracy in children, was the warning delivered by Mrs. Ophelia Amigh, head of the State Training School for Girls at Geneva, Ill., in an address to the West End Women's Club.

"America for years has furnished conditions peculiarly favourable to degeneracy," declared Mrs. Amigh. "The strenuous life of the average American citizens has many aspects bearing on degeneracy in general and vice and crime in particular. Lust for wealth, desire for social supremacy, ambition for fame, love of display, late hours, lack of rest, excitement, the consumption of alcohol—especially by women—all these factors combine to cause a distinctly American disease.

"The average woman of the fashionable set lives in a whirl of unhealthy stress and excitement. She sleeps too little and keeps her nerves constantly on the qui vive. She tipples and drugs for headaches and insomnia, due to her unhygienic mode of life. She is often a degenerate and the mother of a degenerate, if, indeed, she be a mother at all.

"This drinking among women is getting to be more common than we are willing to believe, and it is one of the greatest dangers with which we are confronted today.

"The hurry and fret of American life are turning out degenerates at a rate that will one day stagger the world.

"Ignorance and bad parentage are doing the work in many instances, and girls comparatively good are led off by bad men and worse women.

"Children who were well born and should have been well reared, find their way into the schools for delinquents, the jails, penitentiaries and insane asylums. The heredity of many of these children is appalling and their environment does the rest.

"We have received more than 1,400 girls into our school, and with few exceptions, they have been children of alcoholic inheritance. Are they to be blamed for the circumstances surrounding their young lives? Not at all.

"The number of moral imbeciles that come to us is simply appalling, and you have object lessons enough here right here in Chicago, New York and other cities. Degenrate theatricals has much to do with it."

RATTRAY ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF THEFT OF $686.12 OWING TO EVIDENCE BEING INSUFFICIENT

Magistrate Dumble Told Him That He Believed Him to be Guilty But the Prosecution Failed to Produce Proof Absolute.

RATTRAY WITHOUT MONEY

William Rattray was acquitted on the charge of having stolen $686.12 from the City Hotel during the month of September and passed from the court this morning legally discharged.

After he had heard a little lecture from Magistrate Dumble, a lecture which he listened to with an expression of "hurry up and get through with it" on his face, Rattray enquired,

"Who is going to pay my way back to Toronto, your Worship? They brought me down here and now I've got no money, how am I to get back?"

Magistrate Dumble looked almost surprised and replied, "A man that can ride from Toronto to Chicago and back without paying a fare can surely go from here to Toronto."

Rattray answered under his breath that he would get there.

Magistrate's Remarks

His Worship stated that the facts of the case must have left the conviction in any mind that the prisoner had committed the crime. The manner in which he came down from Toronto the short time he spent here, his familiarity with the hotel, his stealing away from the city at an early hour in the morning, all these things pointed to his guilt.

"But sufficient legal evidence has not been produced to fasten the guilt upon you. No money was found upon you, none was traced to you, you were not seen committing the deed, nor were any footmarks found to incriminate you. A jury or judge would give you the benefit of the insufficiency of absolute proof."

Seven Members From Lindsay At Meeting Of St. Peter's T.A.S.

Messrs. Jos. Maher and T. J. Begley Down for Ninth Anniversary—Installation of Officers and Address by a Member.

ENTHUSIASM MANIFEST

Among those in attendance at the regular meeting of St. Peter's T. A. S. yesterday afternoon, were four young men from Lindsay. They were among a party of seven who drove down after the first mass, arriving in Peterborough about one o'clock. Two of them were former local men Messrs. Jos. Maher and T. J. Begley, and the others were Messrs. Vincent Dwyer and Lorne Curtin, Joseph Gillogly, John Murphy and W. J. Callahan.

During the meeting the officers for the next six months were installed as follows:

Spiritual Adviser—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President—Mr. Nicholas Bibby.
1st Vice-President—Mr. John Deanard.
2nd Vice-President—Mr. Jos. Dufus.
Recording-Secretary — Mr. Jos. Picard, Jr.
Financial Secretary — Mr. A. Labans.
Treasurer—Mr. Jos. Primeau.
Marshall—Mr. Thomas McGinty.
Assistant Marshall — Mr. H. O'Rourke.
Guard—Mr. E. Flaherty.
Trustees—Messrs. Geo. Ahearn, P. O'Donnell, W. S. Merrell, A. Sharpe, Chas McDonald.

Dr. O'Brien duly installed them. The meeting was large and enthusiastic, a characteristic of all those that have been held during the past year. In fact the capacious hall is beginning to be inadequate for the present attendances.

During the meeting Mr. Joseph Begley gave a splendid address on temperance. Rev. Dr. O'Brien complimented the members on the large number that had attended mass in the morning.

The trustees held a subsequent meeting and elected Mr. W. S. Merrell chairman, and Mr. Arthur Sharpe, secretary. The former has just vacated the presidency of the society after six months of good service.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Senior Gymnasium Class at the Y. M. C. A. will open this evening and the boys' class to-morrow night.

The Wrestling Class will meet on Wednesday night.

The first indoor track and field competitions of the season will take place on Wednesday night, the events being the fifty yards sprint and the shot put. The competitions are arousing considerable interest among the members of the association.

This week all the gymnasium and Bible classes will be in full swing again, after the summer holidays. The Business Boys' Bible Class will be held at the usual time on Tuesday at 7 p. m., and the Collegiate and Junior School Classes will be held on Saturday.

The skating rink is in fine shape now and all boys who wish to use it can get tickets from Mr. Collings or Mr. Evans.

On New Year's morning about forty boys accepted the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. to all the boys of the city to use the gymnasium and baths. The boys spent the morning playing basket ball and other games.

After the boys had a swim they were served coffee and cake and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

MANY "WHISTLERS" ON THE RIVER

Found Seeking Fish in the Open Places.

Those who have passed open places in the river recently have been doubtless surprised at the large numbers of ducks which are known as "Whistlers." They eat fish during the winter and are found around open places where they can secure their food. They are now plump and fat and are very numerous from the lake up to Lakefield.

EXCITING RUNAWAY ON WATER STREET

Livery Team Made Lively Break for Freedom This Morning.

A local livery team caused an exciting time at an early hour this morning on Water street. Some men were returning from a visit to the country, when the horses took fright, dashing down Water street smashing the back of the front seat off and putting the paint and trimmings in great need of repair. They very considerately left what remained of the cutter at the corner of Brock and Water streets in front of Fitzgerald's premises.

The horses arrived at the barn about six o'clock, badly cut about the head and feet.

The owner would like very much to see the person who hired the vehicle. Up to the present has not shown up, and in order to avoid trouble is advised herewith to do so.

Broke Open Poor Box While Sunday School Was In Session

A daring and almost sacrilegious theft was committed on Sunday afternoon at St. Luke's Church, when some person forced open the poor box in the porch of the church, between three and four o'clock.

Sunday School was being held and the Adult Bible Class was being taught by Mr. J. J. Turner, when the act was boldly committed. It is understood that this meanest of thieves got but only a small sum, as the result of this most unholy robbery. If the offender is caught it will surely go ill with him.

THE ONLY PROFITABLE COW

I keep and milk nine or ten cows each year. About half of them are pure breds and the others are high-grades. I have used pure bred Holstein bulls for 18 years. I raise my own cows, raising two or three heifer calves every year and selling two or three cows. I have my heifers come fresh at 2 or 2 1-2 years old. I don't keep a cow older than 10 years. I send milk to a creamery; it is sent to Pittsburg, Pa., for city use. My cows figure from $60 to $83 a head per year, with their calves. I sell for veals and some to neighbours to raise. I have no silo, but I raise corn, oats and clover and Timothy hay. I buy about $15 worth of grain per cow each year and feed them some grain that I raise.

I consider the Holstein cow the only cow worth keeping for dairy purposes, as they are large, healthy and great milkers, and their calves make the best veals in the world. The Holsteins are taking the place of all other breeds here in this great dairy section of the country.

There is some complaint by Pittsburg parties that the Holstein milk is not rich enough, but the dairymen here think it is better milk than that of some other breeds, and the Jerseys are going out of the country because their owners think they are not profitable. When a Holstein cow is ready to turn off she makes the very best of beef and is easily fattened.

One thing against the Holstein is that a good many people think anything that is black is a Holstein, if it is not more than a quarter-blood and the other three-quarters just anything so it is a cow; but the nearer we get them pure bred of the right kind, the better cows they are. It's a drawback to the Holstein breed to call every grade, no matter how poor a cow she may be, a Holstein. My Holsteins average between 7,000 and 8,000 lbs. of milk a year, and there are two or three 2-year old heifers each year, which I consider good representatives of the breed.—Chas. Webb, Kinsman, Ont.

OBITUARY.

EDWARD PAKENHAM

A very well known resident of Peterborough passed away yesterday afternoon in the death of Mr. Edward Pakenham of 336 Manning avenue. The deceased who was seventy years of age had only been ill since last Tuesday from Bright's disease and the news of his death will come as a shock to his large circle of friends in Peterborough. His many good qualities had made esteemed and respected by all those with whom he had come in contact during his residence of twenty-eight years in this city. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, but had been a resident of Canada for many years.

The deceased is survived by six sons and four daughters. The sons are Messrs. Edward, of Norwood; James, of Peterborough; Walter, of Toronto; Prof. Wm. Pakenham, of the Technical School, Toronto, and Messrs. Frank and Gilbert, living at home. The daughters are Mrs. John Graydon, of Streetsville; Mrs. E. Hall, Queenston, and Miss Cora and Miss Maud, residing at home.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 336 Manning avenue, to Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. COX

Mrs. Cox, widow of the late Frederic G. Cox, of Toronto, died very suddenly from heart failure at Chicago on Saturday. Mr. Cox went Chicago on Saturday. Mrs. Cox went though she had not been in the best of health for some time, her death was quite unexpected. Deceased, prior to her marriage to the late Mr. Cox, was Miss Cosie Swan of Woodstock, Ont. Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Senior Gymnasium Class at the Y. M. C. A. will open this evening and the boys' class to-morrow night.

The Wrestling Class will meet on Wednesday night.

The first indoor track and field competitions of the season will take place on Wednesday night, the events being the fifty yards sprint and the shot put. The competitions are arousing considerable interest among the members of the association.

This week all the gymnasium and Bible classes will be in full swing again, after the summer holidays. The Business Boys' Bible Class will be held at the usual time on Tuesday at 7 p. m., and the Collegiate and Junior School Classes will be held on Saturday.

The skating rink is in fine shape now and all boys who wish to use it can get tickets from Mr. Collings or Mr. Evans.

On New Year's morning about forty boys accepted the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. to all the boys of the city to use the gymnasium and baths. The boys spent the morning playing basket ball and other games.

After the boys had a swim they were served coffee and cake and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

They guarantee satisfaction or money refunded. Do it now.

MANY "WHISTLERS" ON THE RIVER

Found Seeking Fish in the Open Places.

Those who have passed open places in the river recently have been doubtless surprised at the large number of ducks which are known as 'Whistlers." They eat fish during the winter and are found around open places where they can secure their food. They are now plump and fat and are very numerouse from the lake up to Lakefield.

EXCITING RUNAWAY ON WATER STREET

Livery Team Made Lively Break for Freedom This Morning.

A local livery team caused an exciting time at an early hour this morning, on Water street. Some men were returning from a visit to the country, when the horses took fright, dashing down Water street smashing the back of the front seat off and putting the paint and trimmings in great need of repair. They very considerately left what remained of the cutter at the corner of Brock and Water streets in front of Fitzgerald's premises.

The horses arrived at the barn about six o'clock, badly cut about the head and feet.

The owner would like very much to see the person who hired the vehicle. Up to the present has not shown up, and in order to avoid trouble is advised herewith to do so.

Full returns of the Elections will be announced from the Stage of Grand Opera House to-night, at the big Musical Melo-dramatic success, "The Cowboy Girl". 25 People in the Company. Prices-75-50-35-25-and 15c

RATTRAY ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF THEFT OF $686.12 OWING TO EVIDENCE BEING INSUFFICIENT

Magistrate Dumble Told Him That He Believed Him to be Guilty But the Prosecution Failed to Produce Proof Absolute.

RATTRAY WITHOUT MONEY

William Rattray was acquitted on the charge of having stolen $686.12 from the City Hotel during the month of September and passed from the court this morning legally discharged.

After he had heard a little lecture from Magistrate Dumble, a lecture which he listened to with an expression of "hurry up and get through with it" on his face, Rattray enquired,

"Who is going to pay my way back to Toronto, your Worship? They brought me down here and now I've got no money, how am I to get back?"

Magistrate Dumble looked almost surprised and replied, "A man that can ride from Toronto to Chicago and back without paying a fare can surely go from here to Toronto."

Rattray answered under his breath that he would get there.

Magistrate's Remarks

His Worship stated that the facts of the case must have left the conviction in any mind that the prisoner had committed the crime. The manner in which he came down from Toronto the short time he spent here, his familiarity with the hotel, his stealing away from the city at an early hour in the morning, all these things pointed to his guilt.

"But sufficient legal evidence has not been produced to fasten the guilt upon you. No money was found upon you, none was traced to you, you were not seen committing the deed, nor were any footmarks found to incriminate you. A jury or judge would give you the benefit of the insufficiency of absolute proof."

Seven Members From Lindsay At Meeting Of St. Peter's T.A.S.

Messrs. Jos. Maher and T. J. Begley Down for Ninth Anniversary—Installation of Officers and Address by a Member.

ENTHUSIASM MANIFEST

Among those in attendance at the regular meeting of St. Peter's T. A. S. yesterday afternoon, were four young men from Lindsay. They were among a party of seven who drove down after the first mass, arriving in Peterborough about one o'clock. Two of them were former local men Messrs. Jos. Maher and T. J. Begley, and the others were Messrs. Vincent Dwyer and Lorne Curtin, Joseph Gillogly, John Murphy and W. J. Callaghan.

During the meeting the officers for the next six months were installed as follows:

Spiritual Adviser—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President—Mr. Nicholas Bibby.
1st Vice-President—Mr. John Deannard.
2nd Vice-President—Mr. Jos. Daffus.
Recording-Secretary — Mr. Jos. Picard, Jr.
Financial Secretary — Mr. A. Labanc.
Treasurer—Mr. Jos. Primeau.
Marshall—Mr. Thomas McGinty.
Assistant Marshall — Mr. H. O'Rourke.
Guard—Mr. R. Flaherty.
Trustees—Messrs. Geo. Ahearn, P. O'Donnell, W. S. Merrell, A. Sharpe, Chas. McDonald.

Dr. O'Brien duly installed them. The meeting was large and enthusiastic, a characteristic of all those that have been held during the past year. In fact the capacious hall is beginning to be inadequate for the present attendances.

During the meeting Mr. Joseph Begley gave a splendid address on temperance. Rev. Dr. O'Brien complimented the members on the large number that had attended mass in the morning.

The trustees held a subsequent meeting and elected Mr. W. S. Merrell chairman, and Mr. Arthur Sharpe, secretary. The former has just vacated the presidency of the society after six months of good service.

MANY BY-LAWS COMING UP TO-DAY

Power and Liquor Issues Occupy Ontario Polls To-Day.

FORTY CONSIDERING HYDRO

Sixty-One Municipalities Are Seeking to Carry Local Option Measures and Thirty-One Are Voting on Bylaws to Repeal — One Hundred and Sixty-Five Bars Depend on Result of Balloting in Ontario.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—Power bylaws are being submitted and voted upon in a large number of western municipalities to-day and those which are in the same neighborhood are almost as interested as these which are actually voting.

The construction of a line to Windsor from Niagara interests every municipality on the way, and every farmer and tradesman within range of power will take a keen interest in the outcome of the ballot.

Among the leading points are Windsor, Sarnia, Walkerville, Sandwich, Amherstburg, Highgate, Newbury, Blenheim, Ridgetown, Bothwell, Wheatley, Cottam, Tilbury, Comber, Thamesville, Gosfield, Belle River, Mercea, Anderton, Rochester, South Colchester, Leamington, Kingsville, Wallaceburg, Dresden, Oil Springs, Petrolia, Glenoce, Chatham, Alvinston and Strathroy.

There are about 40 places altogether in which bylaws are to be voted upon, some of these further east, as at Stratford, where the question is to be laid before the people once more. The power question is also an issue in the elections at Hamilton, Brantford and Galt, and Brampton, Acton, Milton, Georgetown, Mimico, Dundas, Norwich, Tillsonburg, Aylmer, Simcoe, Waterford, Port Stanley, Elmira, St. Jacobs, Breslau, St. George, Doon, Ayr and Paris are also considering it.

One of the greatest local option fights ever fought in Ontario will be decided at the polls to-day. There are 92 municipalities in the province voting on the question, in 61 of them the proposal being to do away with existing licenses, while in 31 the vote is on the repeal of local option.

Should local option receive the requisite three-fifths majority in every case, it will mean the wiping out of 165 licenses, while in the event of every vote to repeal being carried 92 licenses will be restored. Only a majority is required for repeal, as in each of the 31 municipalities local option was carried before the amendment to the Liquor License Act became effective. St. Catharines votes to-day on license reduction.

In Kingston the petition of the Social and Moral Reform League asking for a reduction of liquor licenses in the city is now in circulation, and reports say that it is being very largely signed. The petition is to be presented to the City Council during the later part of January.

There are in Ontario 492 municipalities under liquor license, representing about 2,200 licenses. Municipalities now under local option number 194, and there are 138 municipalities in which licenses have been cut off by the commissioners.

Elkhorn, Man., Jan. 4.—Coroner Goodwin has returned from McCauley, where he was called to look into the death of Mrs. Phybers, whose end was caused by a coal oil explosion. The fire in the kitchen stove had gone low, and Mrs. Phybers took a can containing some coal oil and poured some on the smouldering fire with the result that an explosion occurred, burning the woman so severely that she died nine hours later. The oil had been purchased some time ago and had exploded in a stable lantern and then been set aside as too dangerous to use. Mrs. Phybers leaves four children, the youngest four months old.

REACTION IN CHINA.

Councillors Dismiss Viceroy Yuan Shi Kai From Office.

Pekin, Jan. 4.—An edict issued Saturday dismisses from office Yuan Shi Kai, grand councillor and commander-in-chief of the forces. The reason given for this action is that he has rheumatism of the leg. The edict orders Yuan Shi Kai to vacate all his offices and to return to his home, adding: "Thus our clemency towards him is manifested."

A second edict appoints Na Tung, comptroller of customs and ex-governor of Pekin, grand councillor, presumably in Yuan Shi Kai's place.

The members of the diplomatic corps at Pekin are well nigh thunderstruck at the sudden dismissal of Yuan Shi Kai. The step is believed to be the outcome of a Manchu plot and there are indications that the Japanese representatives alone had any inkling of what was on foot.

There is nothing to indicate that the dismissal of Yuan Shi Kai means danger to foreigners, but the good fame of China's management of the crisis following the demise of the Emperor and the Dowager Empress, and the appointment of a successor, has been swept away by this vindicative act, which will astonish and arouse the outside world.

There are grave apprehensions here of revolutionary outbreaks in such centres as Canton and some of the most conservative diplomats already are suggesting the return of foreign troops to the lines of communication between Pekin and Tientsin.

It is not exaggeration to say that the foreigners of Pekin are overcome with astonishment at this evidence of China's capacity to take such a reactionary step.

JAPS MURDERED.

Chinese Villagers Kill Shipwrecked Sailors and Rob Bodies.

Tokio, Jan. 4.—News was brought by the steamer Monteagle, which arrived yesterday from the Orient, that some survivors of the lost Japanese steamers Ginsei Maru and Nagato Maru, wrecked near Chefoo, reached the shore, but were murdered by the Chinese inhabitants of the coast villages, who also mutilated corpses.

The dead list of the two disasters total 750, and as fast as the bodies were washed ashore they were not only stripped of their clothing and robbed of money and valuables found on them, but even teeth were pulled out to get the gold fillings, and fingers were cut off for the sake of the rings.

Among those lost were many laborers returning from Manchuria with their season's savings, and a number of merchants who had been to Antung to purchase wild silk cocoons, produced north of the Yalu and carried yearly to Chefoo to be reeled and spun. One Chinese seaman alone survived, he hiding himself away from the murderous coast people.

Suicide at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Kal Hilmer, a draughtsman in the city engineer's department, committed suicide Saturday afternoon by shooting himself through the head with a 38-calibre revolver.

Two shots were discharged from the weapon, but only one struck him. He left the city around one o'clock, going to the vicinity of the golf links, getting off the car there and ending his life, though why is not known yet. He was probably 35 to 40 years old. He leaves a wife and two children, and had been in the city's service several years. It is alleged that he had been drinking and he had not been at work for several days.

U. S. Fleet at Suez.

Suez, Jan. 4.—The United States Atlantic battleship fleet is two days ahead of its schedule, and yesterday completed the next to the longest run of its world-girdling cruise, arriving at 8.15 yesterday morning from Colombo, a distance of 3,440 knots. The fleet sailed from Colombo Dec. 20. The loss of a seaman from the battleship Illinois, who fell overboard and was drowned, as previously reported, was the only accident to mar the voyage from Colombo.

She Receives Blow From Panic-Stricken Patient.

THEIR MAJESTIES RETURN

King and Queen of Italy Realize That Their Work in the Ruins Is Ended —Bitter Warfare Is Carried on Between Police and Robbers, In Which Many Are Shot — The Ghouls Are Hard at Work.

Rome, Jan. 4.—The King and Queen stole into the capital yesterday afternoon, but news of their arrival spread quickly, and crowds gathered outside the Quirinal cheered till King Victor Emmanuel appeared on the balcony of the palace to bow his thanks. Their Majesties have created a new and strong bond between themselves and their subjects. Prior to their departure from Calabria the King telegraphed the Premier saying that fresh troops were arriving, all relief services were being gradually organized and the situation was improving. After visiting the districts most affected, and in view of the fact that order had been everywhere restored, while, moreover, the number of rescues was diminishing, he was leaving for Rome.

Queen Helena Injured.

Queen Helena was not greatly injured in the hospital panic which she endeavored to check. She was only bruised. When the panic, which was caused by a renewed shock, broke out, everybody, in a paroxysm of terror, made a mad rush for the doors of the hospital amid cries of "Flee! flee! another earthquake! the building is falling!" The Queen commanded silence and called on the panic-stricken patients to keep their places. Some obeyed, but others, mad with fear, tried to rush out. It was one of these latter who struck the Queen so violently on the breast that she almost fainted in the arms of one of her ladies. As soon as she recovered she resumed work. The King, when he heard of the accident, hurried to the hospital and endeavored to persuade her to leave, but without avail. Even when returning on one of the men-of-war from Messina the Queen's labors were not over, for there were injured aboard whom she attended with her own hands. Only one thing the Queen was not allowed to do. This was to visit certain streets of Messina where the sights were too horrible.

The Queen not only displayed coolness in the face of danger, but put to practical use the training she got a couple of years ago, when she and many other Roman ladies went through a course of nursing and first aid to the injured.

Work of the Ghouls.

Premier Giolitti confirms the King's statement that the local authorities now have the situation well in hand. It was necessary to proclaim martial law as affording the only means of dealing effectively with the pillagers and marauders, one of whom was discovered with notes to the value of 100,000 lire in his possession. For two days the scum population, however, were in command, and both dead and dying suffered at their hands. Several of them were shot at sight by rescue parties. It was only on the arrival of troops from the outside that the bandits, who even so late as Friday night engaged in a pitched battle with sailors and customs officers. One man was shot in the act of tearing the rings off the finger of a dying woman, and stories of incendiarism are also current, in which human ghouls are stated to have set fire to the ruins in which the victims they had despoiled were still alive.

Farmer Gored to Death.

Danbury, Conn., Jan. 4.—James Reynolds, a wealthy and prominent farmer, was gored to death by a bull in a field on his farm in the town of Danbury yesterday.

The body, terribly torn and mangled, with the face crushed in, was found by his son, Theodore, yesterday afternoon lying face downwards in one corner of the field, while all about were evidences that a fierce struggle had taken place. The medical examiner expressed the opinion that the animal after killing the farmer, had trampled on the body and tossed it about. Mr. Reynolds was 63 years of age.

Boy Drowned In Lake.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—Allan Gardener, nine years of age, East Toronto, was drowned in the lake at the foot of Birch avenue Saturday afternoon.

The little fellow had been playing with his cousin on the ice crust on the beach. He fell in and the other children rushed off to give the alarm.

The bell in the fire hall on Spruce avenue was rung and the firemen went to the scene with pike poles, but were unable to recover the body.

Elevator Burned.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—In a raging gale last evening the fire department waged a winning fight against a fire which did $200,000 damage and threatened several saw mills and other industries located in the immediate neighborhood. The wheat elevator of the Vancouver Milling Co. was totally destroyed. The blaze was confined to the main elevator, the packing plant a few feet away being saved.

CROOK CAPTURED.

Man Is Charged In North Bay With Assault and Robbery.

North Bay, Jan. 4.—Maurice Ryan, a crook, who made his headquarters at North Bay for some time, but disappeared two months ago, was captured yesterday at Haileybury. He was recognised from descriptive circulars sent out some time ago by Detective Greer.

The prisoner was brought to North Bay yesterday to stand trial on a charge of robbing a young man from Nova Scotia. Ryan is accused of decoying the victim about one mile from town in a buggy and throwing him from the vehicle after beating him to unconsciousness, and robbing him of a large sum of money.

Ryan took refuge in the Cobalt district, and has managed to elude the police since. He is looked upon as a dangerous character, and will likely have to face other serious charges. He is a brother of Joseph Ryan, whose body was found near North Bay recently with strong evidence of murder and robbery having been committed. This case is being investigated by the provincial detective department and startling developments are expected shortly.

POISON IN CHOCOLATES.

Owen Sound Woman Faces a Serious Charge In Police Court.

Owen Sound, Jan. 4.—A case of a most serious nature was heard in the Police Court Wednesday, when a woman was charged with administering noxious drugs—in other words, poisoning.

The story is that the woman had an irritant drug in her possession, and had given some, concealed in chocolate drops, to a couple of small boys, telling them to give the candies to some one if they wanted to have some fun. It is said she also gave them a small package of the drug. They fed the candies to another boy, with the result that he went clean out of his head and was with difficulty kept from injuring other members of the family. It was not until the following day that the effects passed off. Evidence in the case was heard behind closed doors, and the prisoner was remanded for a week.

KIDNEY DISEASE

COMES ON QUIETLY.

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body and yet people are troubled with some kidney Complaint, but do not suspect it. It may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or supressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble.

Miss Albertha B. Clarke, Stony Creek, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros. Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brignoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instruments on the Canadian market.

MANY BY-LAWS COMING UP TO-DAY

Power and Liquor Issues Occupy Ontario Polls To-Day.

FORTY CONSIDERING HYDRO

Sixty-One Municipalities Are Seeking to Carry Local Option Measures and Thirty-One Are Voting on Bylaws to Repeal — One Hundred and Sixty-Five Bars Depend on Result of Balloting in Ontario.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—Power bylaws are being submitted and voted upon in a large number of western municipalities to-day and those which are in the same neighborhood are almost as interested as these which are actually voting.

The construction of a line to Windsor from Niagara interests every municipality on the way, and ever farmer and tradesman within range of power will take a keen interest in the outcome of the ballot.

Among the leading points are Windsor, Sarnia, Walkerville, Sandwich, Amherstburg, Highgate, Newbury, Blenheim, Ridgetown, Bothwell, Wheatley, Cottam, Tilbury, Comber, Thamesville, Gosfield, Belle River, Mercea, Anderton, Rochester, South Colchester, Leamington, Kingsville, Wallaceburg, Dresden, Oil Springs, Petrolia, Glencoe, Chatham, Alvinston and Strathroy.

There are about 40 places altogether in which bylaws are to be voted upon, some of these further east, as at Stratford, where the question is to be laid before the people once more. The power question is also an issue in the elections at Hamilton, Brantford and Galt, and Brampton, Acton, Milton, Georgetown, Mimico, Dundas, Norwich, Tillsonburg, Aylmer, Simcoe, Waterford, Port Stanley, Elmira, St. Jacobs, Breslau, St. George, Doon, Ayr and Paris are also considering it.

One of the greatest local option fights ever fought in Ontario will be decided at the polls to-day. There are 92 municipalities in the province voting on the question, in 61 of them the proposal being to do away with existing licenses, while in 31 the vote is on the repeal of local option.

Mrs. Gauthier and her child escaped practically unhurt. Donlon is a porter at the station.

Two Deaths in One Family.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Their two children dying within a few hours of each other on New Year's Day, enshrouded the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Williamson, 246 Frank street, in gloom. One child, William R., aged three years, died from the effects of diphtheria, while his seven-year-old sister, Denysa E.'s death occurred a few hours later, resulting from typhoid fever.

Reserve For Veterans.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—A deputation of the Imperial South African Veterans' Association was received by Hon. Frank Oliver on Saturday. He promised to lay their proposals before the Cabinet.

The proposition is to form a military reserve of upwards of 5,000 soldiers of imperial veterans for a period of ten years free of cost to the Government.

THEIR MAJESTIES RETURN

King and Queen of Italy Realize That Their Work in the Ruins is Ended —Bitter Warfare is Carried on Between Police and Robbers, in Which Many Are Shot — The Ghouls Are Hard at Work.

Rome, Jan. 4.—The King and Queen stole into the capital yesterday afternoon, but news of their arrival spread quickly, and crowds gathered outside the Quirinal cheered till King Victor Emmanuel appeared on the balcony of the palace to bow his thanks. Their Majesties have created a new and strong bond between themselves and their subjects. Prior to their departure from Calabria the King telegraphed the Premier saying that fresh troops were arriving, all relief services were being gradually organized and the situation was improving. After visiting the districts most affected, and in view of the fact that order had been everywhere restored, while, moreover, the number of rescues was diminishing, he was leaving for Rome.

Queen Helena Injured.

Queen Helena was not greatly injured in the hospital panic which she endeavored to check. She was only bruised. When the panic, which was caused by a renewed shock, broke out, everybody, in a paroxysm of terror, made a mad rush for the doors of the hospital amid cries of "Flee! flee! another earthquake! the building is falling!" The Queen commanded silence and called on the panic-stricken patients to keep their places. Some obeyed, but others, mad with fear, tried to rush out. It was one of these latter who struck the Queen so violently on the breast that she almost fainted in the arms of one of her ladies. As soon as she recovered she resumed work. The King, when he heard of the accident, hurried to the hospital and endeavored to persuade her to leave, but without avail. Even when returning on one of the men-of-war from Messina the Queen's labors were not over, for there were injured aboard whom she attended with her own hands. Only one thing the Queen was not allowed to do. This was to visit certain streets of Messina where the sights were too horrible.

The Queen not only displayed coolness in the face of danger, but put to practical use the training she got a couple of years ago, when she and many other Roman ladies went through a course of nursing and first aid to the injured.

Work of the Ghouls.

Premier Giolitti confirms the King's statement that the local authorities now have the situation well in hand. It was necessary to proclaim martial law as affording the only means of dealing effectively with the pillagers and marauders, one of whom was discovered with notes to the value of 100,000 lire in his possession. For two days the scum population, however, were in command, and both dead and dying suffered at their hands. Several of them were shot at sight by rescue parties. It was only on the arrival of troops from the outside that the bandits, who even so late as Friday night engaged in a pitched battle with sailors and customs officers. One man was shot in the act of tearing the rings off the finger of a dying woman, and stories of incendiarism are also current, in which human ghouls are stated to have set fire to the ruins in which the victims they had despoiled were still alive.

Farmer Gored to Death.

Danbury, Conn., Jan. 4.—James Reynolds, a wealthy and prominent farmer, was gored to death by a bull in a field on his farm in the town of Danbury yesterday.

The body, terribly torn and mangled, with the face crushed in, was found by his son, Theodore, yesterday afternoon lying face downwards in one corner of the field, while all about were evidences that a fierce struggle had taken place. The medical examiner expressed the opinion that the animal after killing the farmer, had trampled on the body and tossed it about. Mr. Reynolds was 63 years of age.

Boy Drowned In Lake.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—Allan Gardener, nine years of age, East Toronto, was drowned in the lake at the foot of Birch avenue Saturday afternoon.

The little fellow had been playing with his cousin on the ice crust on the beach. He fell in and the other children rushed off to give the alarm.

The bell in the fire hall on Spruce avenue was rung and the firemen went to the scene with pike poles, but were unable to recover the body.

Elevator Burned.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—In a raging gale last evening the fire department waged a winning fight against a fire which did $300,000 damage and threatened several saw mills and other industries located in the immediate neighborhood. The wheat elevator of the Vancouver Milling Co. was totally destroyed. The blaze was confined to the main elevator, the packing plant a few feet away being saved.

Boycott Threatened.

Vancouver, Jan. 4.—A boycott against British goods is threatened at Hong Kong, owing to the severity of the Hong Kong Government in attempting to stop the boycott against Japanese goods by Chinese of the colony.

The Viceroy of Canton has forbidden emigration to Mexico.

Ask For Arbitration.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—There is a dispute between the board of railway telegraphers and the Michigan Centr. Railway and the telegraphers has applied to the Labor Department for arbitration.

CROOK CAPTURED.

Man Is Charged In North Bay With Assault and Robbery.

North Bay, Jan. 4.—Maurice Ryan, a crook, who made his headquarters at North Bay for some time, but disappeared two months ago, was captured yesterday at Haileybury. He was recognized from descriptive circulars sent out some time ago by Detective Greer.

The prisoner was brought to North Bay yesterday to stand trial on a charge of robbing a young man from Nova Scotia. Ryan is accused of decoying the victim about one mile from town in a buggy and throwing him from the vehicle after beating him to unconsciousness, and robbing him of a large sum of money.

Ryan took refuge in the Cobalt district, and has managed to elude the police since. He is looked upon as a dangerous character, and will likely have to face other serious charges. He is a brother of Joseph Ryan, whose body was found near North Bay recently with strong evidence of murder and robbery having been committed. This case is being investigated by the provincial detective department and startling developments are expected shortly.

POISON IN CHOCOLATES.

Owen Sound Woman Faces a Serious Charge In Police Court.

Owen Sound, Jan. 4.—A case of a most serious nature was heard in the Police Court Wednesday, when a woman was charged with administering noxious drugs—in other words, poisoning.

The story is that the woman had an irritant drug in her possession, and had given some, concealed in chocolate drops, to a couple of small boys, telling them to give the candies to some one if they wanted to have some fun. It is said she also gave them a small package of the drug. They fed the candies to another boy, with the result that he went clean out of his head and was with difficulty kept from injuring other members of the family. It was not until the following day that the effects passed off. Evidence in the case was heard behind closed doors, and the prisoner was remanded for a week.

TORONTO MAN CAUGHT.

Jail-Breaker Jones Is Captured In Virginia With Rose.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—It has developed that another of the septette has been captured, namely, Wm. D. Jones, alias Williams, who was at the time of the "delivery" being retained along with Budd Copeland for breaking jail in Newcastle, Pa.

With the capture of Rose and Jones, this makes four of the septette who broke jail last July who have been heard of.

Only three, however, are in custody, Churchill, who was caught in Texas, having been let go. The others still at large are Ed. Lee, Clark and Copeland.

KIDNEY DISEASE

COMES ON QUIETLY.

Perhaps no organs work harder than the kidneys to serve the general health of the body and yet people are troubled with some kidney complaint, but do not suspect it may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backache, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or supressed urination, burning sensation when urinating etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble.

Miss Albertha B. Clarke, Stony Creek, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros. Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brignoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instruments on the Canadian market.

RUNNING ATHLETICS HOCKEY

O.H.A. SEASON OPENS HERE TO-NIGHT; COBOURG JUNIORS TO MEET LOCALS

The local O. H. A. hockey season will be ushered in to-night when the fast Cobourg juniors will cross sticks with the local junior O. H. A. seven in what gives promise of being a most exciting and interesting game. Good ice will be available and as the teams are in fine condition a struggle should be of the dizzy long nature all the way. The visitors are said to have a fast outfit having given Port Hope a hard battle on their own ice on New Year's night, and they expect to win here to-night without any trouble. If the reports from the Lakefront count for anything. Those who have seen the local juniors in action however, say that the visitors are in for the surprise of their lives. The locals must not be judged upon the fact that they were defeated in Whitby. There they were playing under the disadvantage of being together for the first time, playing on a sheet of ice that did not come near approaching the size of the rink they had been practising on, with a home referee who did not know the game and with their captain disabled with the game half over. They will be a different bunch to-night and the visitors will find themselves up against a pretty awkward proposition when they clash with Captain Ray's aggregation.

The latter's arm is in good shape again, and so will he on the line up to-night in his old position at rover while there will be a change on the forward line that should prove beneficial. Biffy Short, who played for the Kamots last year will be at right wing and he should round out the forward line nicely. The rest of the team will be the same as at Whitby and the seven will line up as follows

Goal — Leo Gireoux
Point — Wade
Cover Point — Fox
Rover — Ray
Centre — C. Gireoux
Right Wing — Short

It is likely that Geo. Lynch will referee the contest which will not start until 8.30 in order to give the fans a chance to hear the election returns before coming to the rink. However for those who come earlier there will be lots doing as the Mercantile League will open to-night when a game will be played between 6 and 8 o'clock. The intermediates will then practise for half an hour in preparation for their game with Cobourg to-morrow, after which the junior game will be called.

The one price of admission will be in vogue for the whole evening so that the real dyed in the wool fan will have something to see, beginning at 7 o'clock.

The juniors should be encouraged if there is to be any hockey in Peterborough and there should be a big crowd on hand for the opening contest of the season. It will be well worth seeing as the teams look to be evenly matched.

THE INTERMEDIATES TO PRACTISE

Team Will be Picked for To-morrow O.H.A. Game in Cobourg.

The local hockey season will open with a bang this week, when there will be two O.H.A. games in the junior series, as well as the opening games in the Mercantile League, Church League and Junior and Senior City Leagues. That should provide enough hockey to suit the most exacting fan.

The T.A.S. had a big practice on Saturday night, juniors and seniors turning out in large numbers. The Abstainers will have to be watched in both leagues, as they have collected a big squad of first-class material.

The Strathcona City League Team will practise to-morrow night in preparation for their first game of the City League season on Thursday night with the Belmonts. The High Commissioners have about rounded into shape, and a good work-out to-morrow night will fit them for the opening.

The first games in the City League will be played on Thursday night, the T.A.S. and the West Ends clashing in the first game and the Belmonts and Strathconas being the contesting teams in the second match. The George street team and the Otonabees will meet in the first game of the Junior League which will be played as a curtain raiser to the senior fixtures, so that there will be three games for the one price of admission.

Port Hope Juniors will play the locals here on Wednesday night. It should be one of the tit-bits of the local hockey season.

There will not be an Intermediate O. H. A. game here until a week from next Friday, when Belleville, Peterborough's old rivals, will play here.

All intermediate O.H.A. players in the city, and all candidates for the team are asked to be out to practice to-night, at 8 o'clock sharp. The team to go to Cobourg to-morrow for the first game of the season will be picked after to-night's practice, so that it is important that there should be a full turn-out of all those intending to play the game this season. The management expects every candidate to be on hand for a half hour's work-out. The team will leave on the 11.45 train for Cobourg. Most of the players are in good shape and they should open the season with a victory over the Lakeshore bunch, although the latter are apt to prove pretty tough on their own ice.

Full returns of the Elections will be announced from the stage of Grand Opera House to-night, at the big Musical Melo-dramatic Success "The Cowboy Girl". 25 People in the Company. Prices-7b-50-35-25 and 15c

BROWNIES WIN TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES ON THEIR EASTERN TRIP

The Brownies basketball team of the local Y.M.C.A. returned yesterday morning from their eastern trip, bringing with them a record of two wins and one loss and the story of a very enjoyable tour. The Brownies were defeated on the first game of the trip by the Montreal Central Y.M.C.A. team by 51—36, but they played together in the remaining games and defeated the Fairmount Y.M.C.A. team of Montreal by 34—28 on New Year's Day, and Ottawa senior team on Saturday night on their own floor by 58—42. The Ottawa game was a hard fought one. The homesters were ahead by 24-16 at half time, but the Brownies came strong on end and had the Ottawa faded in the second half, playing rings around them.

A Montreal despatch says of the first game:—

The Central Y.M.C.A. five ended up the old year in great style by defeating the fast Brownie team of the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. on New Year's eve. At half time Central Y lead by 31 to 15, and at the call of time had the big end of the score, 51 to 28. The boys of the big M and triangle played up to the form that had been expected of them although yet early in the season. With a little more practice they will undoubtedly give Montrealers something new in fast basketball.

The Peterborough boys have a good team, but were unfortunate in not being able to get their best team to come and play in Montreal. They had with them Tommy Miller, formerly of the Toronto Central Y team, who played a great game, at centre, getting in some sensational shots. Bond and Cressman also played a good game.

For Central Y, Bell Hurd at centre, was certainly on the job, getting 22 points chalked up to his credit.

Hugh Copland, the same steady, cool, and great scoring artist, was the hardest worker on the floor, and as he played with two badly injured fingers, all the more credit is due him. Millar was there as usual, and probably shows a bigger improvement than most of the other players of last year's team.

Chas. Yuill on the defence end was also very much on the job, holding his man, who only had two baskets chalked up to him, intercepting cleverly and doing some good passing.

John Armour, who has always played on the home end of the teams he has played with, is probably the surprise of the season, filling in as a defence player and is certainly making good.

THE EXAMINER "A" TEAM CLIMBS; TOOK THREE FROM LOCK WORKS

The Examiner A team won three straight games in the ten pin league at the P. B. C. on Saturday night and thereby gained such an advantageous position in the race for the silverware that the Bankers, who have maintained the leadership ever since the opening of the league must take three games from the Iroquois to night to stay at the top of the percentage ladder.

Geo. Cairns was again high man for the Examiner, putting up a 517 total and a high single of 223, which is only 13 pins below the record held by Martin. LaPlante was easily the pick of the Lock Works contingent.

A double header is schedule for to-night and the Iroquois will figure in both contests. In the first game the Indians will take on the Lock Works and in the second they will endeavour to wrest the leadership from the bankers in a game postponed from last week.

The scores on Saturday were—

THE TEAM COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Arrangements Made by the Peterboro Hockey Club for This Week's Games

The executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club met on Saturday night and made arrangements for the games to be held this week. President Dr. MacPherson was in the chair and others were present—G. G. Graham, vice president; H. M. Glover, secretary and C. A. Barnes, assistant secretary. Details in connection with the first intermediate game in Cobourg to-morrow night were decided and a team committee composed of Messrs. Graham, Barber and Glover was appointed to pick the junior and intermediate line ups in future.

It was decided to wait upon the executive of the junior city league to endeavour to arrange the constitution so as to allow junior city league players to play junior O. H. A. hockey without losing their city league standing. Some difficulty has been experienced in getting junior material owing to the fact that some of the young players were afraid of being suspended by the Junior League if they played O. H. A. hockey. It is felt that a rule such as exists in the Senior City League which allows players to play in the intermediate O. H. A. without affecting their standing, would prove feasible in the junior league. At any rate the officers of the latter will be asked to consider the proposition.

HOCKEY

Lester Patrick confirmed the report that the Ottawa professionals had endeavoured to sign him up for the season. Seen in the Edmonton dressing room after the game, Patrick stated that Dave Mulligan, of the Ottawa executive, had endeavoured to come to terms with him Tuesday afternoon. "I would not play hockey in the east again this season for $2,000," said Patrick. "I have come to the conclusion that there are more important things in the world."

The first series of scheduled games to be played this year, will begin on Tuesday evening, January 5th, at 7.45 o'clock. The following skips and their teams will start the long list of games to be played before the ice leaves us:

Ice No. 1—J. H. Connell vs. C. N. Brown.
Ice No. 2—Dr. McCulloch vs. W. G. Morrow.
Ice No. 3—Brightman vs. W. G. Ferguson.
Ice No. 4—R. Hicks vs. Dr. Gregg.
Ice No. 5—S. T. Medd vs. H. A. Morrow.
Ice No. 6—R. Neill vs. Davidson.
Ice No. 7—E. B. Clegg vs. F. Matthews.

Each rink must have at least three of its own men.

There were only two games played in the rink on Saturday night, and resulted as follows:

S. T. Medd, skip, 8; Cameron, skip, 11.

W. M. Lang, skip, 15; McIntyre, skip, 10.

BASKET-BALL.

The Star says of the Fairmount game Peterborough basketball team defeated Fairmount Y.M.C.A. last night by 34 to 20 in a game that provided keen interest for a large gathering. T. Miller starred for the visitors, while Jack McCuaig and Cobb did the best work for Fairmount. The teams were:—

RUGBY

A Hamilton despatch, speaking of next year's Tiger team, says Craig, of Dundas, the fastest wing man in the Intermediate ranks of last year, will likely take up his residence in the Ambitious City and turn out with the yellow and black.

RUNNING.

Alfred Shrubb, the English professional, who is to race Longboat soon, defeated a relay team of two men, Frank Kanaly and Bert Sullivan, both of Boston, in a six-mile race on New Year's day. Shrubb's time was 31 minutes 42 3-5 seconds.

MAYORAL CUSTOMS.

Many English Municipalities Have Quaint Induction Ceremonies.

Some quaint customs are observed in connection with the induction into office of the new occupant of the mayoral chair. The Mayor of Lincoln, England, is duly elected by the placing upon his finger of an ancient ring, which his predecessors have worn for centuries. This ring possesses a curious power, for when the mayor sends it to any school within the city the schoolmaster is bound to give his pupils a holiday for the day. A similar custom prevails at Chichester, an ancient turquoise ring being used in this case. The chief magistrate of Chichester is also armed with a gold-mounted malacca cane. At York both the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress are equipped with silver-mounted oak staves, which have marked their authority for centuries. Moreover, the Lady Mayoress enjoys the distinction of being the only lady in the land provided with a chain of office by the Corporation.

She is also entitled to retain the prefix "Lady" for the remainder of her life. There is a local rhyme which says:

The Mayor is a lord for year and a day,
But his wife is a lady for ever and aye.

A Brightlingsea, a limb of the Cinque Ports, the ceremony attaching to the election of mayor has taken place in the parish church belfry from time immemorial. The retiring Mayor of Bournemouth, on investing his successor with the civic regalia, confirms him into office with an old-time loving kiss. A similar salutation awaits the incoming Mayor of Hanley. A "striking" ceremony marks the expiration of the Grantham Mayor's tenure of office. The robe is stripped off him, the chain is taken from about his neck, and with a small wooden hammer the Town Clerk taps the ex-Mayor on the head in token of the demise of his authority. The Mayor of Dunstable has to submit to a somewhat similar ceremony. Immediately after his election the chief magistrate, aldermen, and councillors, headed by a brass band, proceed to the nearest point of the boundary, which happens to be the middle of a ploughed field. Here a huge crowd surrounds a post. The bellman clangs his bell for order, the charter of the borough is read, and the mayor is then seized by stalwart arms, lifted and "bumped" vigorously on the top of the post. This process is repeated at every point of the boundary, so that when the ceremony is concluded the mayor has every reason to remember exactly where the borders of his jurisdiction cease.

Directly after electing the new mayor at High Wycombe, the members of the town council adjourn to the borough office of weights and measures, where the new occupant of the mayoral chair, and each alderman and councillor, is publicly weighed, and these records form one of the treasures stored in the municipal archives.

The Lord Mayor of Birmingham is required to pose before the photographer immediately after his election, and a copy, together with a few biographical details, is placed in an album containing portraits of all the gentlemen who have occupied seats on the council, and this finds a place in the municipal library.

A Sarcastic Judge.

Three of the main characteristics of Sir James Charles Mathew, ex-Lord Justice of Appeal, who has just died, were his capacity for dealing with cases in the shortest possible time, often quite upsetting the calculations of some of the slow-coaches of the law, his determined opposition to the use of the "cat" and the piling up of heavy sentences for repeated trifling offences, and his sarcasm. His fameus dictum, "Truth will out, even in an affidavit," will not be readily forgotten. Under examination on one occasion before Sir James was a money-lender. The man had been charging usurious interest, and among other things he had sold some sporting property to a young man he had fleeced. He was asked why he had this property; he replied prudently that he was a sportsman and loved shooting. "Pigeons!" queried the judge.

When the Clock Stopped.

London's famous clock Big Ben has been stopped three times by snow freezing on the hands and jamming them. A curious episode in its history took place in December, 1861, just before the Prince Consort died, when, owing to the failure of an experimental piece of apparatus, the clock struck 100 or more strokes without stopping. People who were unware of the cause, according to the "Captain," saw in the occurrence an omen of the great loss which shortly afterwards befell the nation. Another sensational prank was played by the clock on April 9, 1896, when it stopped while Mr. Gladstone was making his famous speech in favor of Home Rule for Ireland. This was taken by some as an augury that the bill would not pass, and as regards the event the prophets were justified, though the cause of the trouble was easily traced to a want of lubrication.

"For Men Must Work."

The Government of Papua have decided to inculcate habits of industry among the male portion of the population, who are proverbially indolent.

In future, every male native between certain prescribed ages shall, if called upon, work for one month in every year, without pay, for the Government. If he refuses, or in any way fails to comply with the regulations, he is liable to be imprisoned with hard labor for any period up to but not exceeding six months.

The Diplomat.

"We have imported a few directoire gowns," announced the conservative merchant. "Only the more daring will wear these advanced garments, but we are ready to supply them."

And about three of the gowns were sold.

"We have received a large importation of directoire gowns," announced his rival. "Only the prettiest women can wear them to advantage."

The next day all the women in town bought one of the rival.—Chicago Post.

To be Abolished

—It is learned that beginning with the New Year, the chartered Banks will abandon their policy of computing interest on saving bank accounts four times a year, and will inaugurate instead a system of adding interest semi-annually. It is understood the change is under the direction of the Dominion Government and in the interests of the Government savings banks which were suffering somewhat from the claims made by the four times a year announcements of the chartered banks.

THE COLLEGE COURSE.

Learning, Like Vaccination, Does Not "Take" on Every One.

In an article on "Shall the Girl Go to College?" Annette Austin writes in Smith's:

"Too much value cannot be accorded to a college course for girls who are capable of taking it. Unfortunately, however, college, like vaccination, does not 'take' on everybody.

"Here it might be well to consider the advisability of sending a girl who desires to fit herself primarily for a housewife to a school of domestic science. 'Why,' asks a mother, 'if my girl does not intend to work for her living and if she really needs practical experience in housekeeping, should she not go directly to a school of domestic science, where she gets speedily and in concrete form the latest methods of cooking, house furnishing and caring for children?'

"If you are truly convinced that the best way to prepare for a vocation is to learn the details of its practice in a detached form, entirely away from all other related facts in life, by all means send your girl to a domestic science school as soon as possible. But a course in domestic science without the preliminary mental discipline of at least two years in college is a very poor investment for the future.

"To go through the forms of mixing so many ounces of flour and so many cups of butter to make a pound of cake, to bind up the broken finger of a wooden manikin and to practice laying a table for a model luncheon for six is not learning to be a housewife. It is merely putting in a studing of surface details on a foundation of mind.

"Still, if your girl is delicate and unable physically and mentally to survive the more strenuous discipline of college it would be better to send her to a school where her mind will not be too severely taxed. It would be more humane to have her dabble delightedly in fancy desserts than to let her suffer in the name of physics and philosophy."

BILLIKEN STATUES.

The Smiling God of Things as They Ought to Be.

It is useless to try to explain the popularity of Billiken. You can buy him for from 25 cents to $10. He is now on the bookcase, over the desk, on the bureau and in the travelling bag.

He rivals the popularity of the jig-saw puzzle. When you are not patching puzzles you are buying or borrowing a new Billiken. The statues are now loaned for a hundred years at a penny a year. This is the new fad. This includes Billiken's throne and also the luck he brings.

The first pennies must be righteously paid or your luck is gone. You mustn't give Billiken to anybody. You must loan him at interest. So all the girls are doing this as the fad of the year.

If a Billiken is sold it is by a hard hearted, money grabbing shop. After this Billiken is owned or loaned. Billiken, you know, is the god of things as they should be. He will help you to see things right and give you the power to do them.

One of his best mottoes is, "Grin and begin to win."

If anybody can keep from grinning when gazing upon the grin of Billiken one must have a sour soul indeed!

PICTURE ROMANCE.

A Rubens Said to Have Been Bought for $1.75 at Islington Market.

It is seldom that a month passes without the finding of an alleged masterpiece by some artist of the fifteenth or sixteenth century. The already long list has just been added to under most romantic circumstances.

While walking through the Caledonian market recently the attention of a connoisseur was attracted to a dingy-looking picture hanging on an odd-and-end dealer's stall. A few just discernible splashes of color suggested that something might be hidden beneath the grime. But the attractiveness of the picture was certainly not added to by a notice across the canvas, written boldly in chalk, "by Petit Paul Rubens."

After some haggling, the canvas changed hands for the modest sum of three half-crowns, and when taken taken home was subjected to a certain amount of cleaning. The result convinced the purchaser that he had indeed found a treasure, and the picture is now to be sent to Paris to be restored.

The painting was seen at Woodhead recently by a newspaper man. It represents a turbaned potentate sitting, surrounded by armored courtiers and a hooded priest, giving audience to a beggar man, who is apparently, after the manner of the times, reciting some droll story to earn the largesse he ask. The picture, generally speaking, is in fair condition, though the canvas has been backed two or three times.

The finder is a fortunate man. Some few years ago he bought for a mere nothing what is perhaps the most life-like portrait of George Washington extant. Copies were accepted by the American Congress, and an illuminated scroll was presented to the donor from both Houses of the Senate.

It is stated that the present "find" is the original of an engraving by Vosterman, some copies of which are known to exist. The likelihood of its being genuine is enhanced by the fact that the faces of the models employed strongly resemble those used in Rubens's well-known picture, "The Descent from the Cross."

DEAD MAN CAME TO LIFE.

Misreading of Cable Leads to Mourning For Wrong Individual.

Ealing, England, was thrown into a rare flutter of excitement recently by the receipt of the following cable:

"Contradict the announcement of the death of George. In good health."

The message was from the headquarters of the Universities Mission to Central Africa, and related to Mr. Frank George, an architect, who had been mourned as dead for two months.

Mr George is at a place near Likoma, in West Africa, building a cathedral for the mission. His mother, sister, and five brothers live at Ealing.

The mistake has a very simple explanation. On Sept. 11 Dr. Trower, the Bishop of Nyassaland, who is in England, received a cable from Rusapoen, Queensland, reading: "George died yesterday."

Confusing Australia with Africa, he immediately acquainted Mrs. George with the news of her son's death.

It was not till the receipt of the telegram quoted above that the bishop re-read the cable and decided that it referred to his own brother George, whom he had not seen for thirty years.

Mr. Frank George had been the subject of obituary appreciations in several papers, and the family received over 200 messages of condolence.

Learned Men Honored.

The Royal Society's medals have this year been adjudicated by the president and council as follows: The Copley medal to Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, on the ground of the great value of his numerous contributions to natural history and of the part he took in working out the theory of the origin of species by natural selection. The Rumford medal to Prof. H. A. Lorents, on the ground of his investigations in optical and electrical science. A royal medal to Prof. Jno. Milne, on the ground of his pre-eminent services in the modern development of seismological science. A royal medal to Dr. Hy. Head, on the ground of his researches on the relations between the visceral and somatic nerves and on the functions of the different nerves. The Davy medal to Prof. W. A. Tilden, on the ground of his discoveries in chemistry, especially on the Terpenes and on atomic heats. The Darwin medal to Prof. August Weissman, on the ground of his eminent services in support of the doctrine of evolution by means of natural selection. The Hughes medal to Prof. Eugen Goldstein, on the ground of his discoveries on the nature of electric discharge in rarefied gases.

Lady Randolph Churchill Tattooed.

Mrs. George Cornwallis West (formerly Lady Randolph Churchill), whose Reminiscences constitute one of the most interesting and notable books of the season, is one of the comparatively few society ladies who can boast of having been tattooed. Some years ago, when she was travelling in India, the idea of being tattooed was suggested to her by noticing the process on a sailor at the hands of a British soldier. She had the artist brought before her and then asked for some designs. He suggested a snake holding its tail in its mouth —the emblem of eternity. Lady Randolph liked it, and afterwards had this design tattooed round her arm above the wrist. It is generally hidden by a bracelet if not covered by the sleeve.

Canceling the Obligation.

"You have saved my life!" said the old man whom the tramp had saved from drowning. "As a reward you may have my daughter there."

The life saver glanced at the daughter, then bent again over the old man.

"What are you doing?" asked the perplexed father.

"Going to drop you in again." —Judge.

Obviate EYE Trouble

The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co., and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

East City's Two Representatives Head the Polls, Ald. Gillespie Getting the Highest Vote—Large Crowd Turned Out to Get the Returns—Examiner Gave Rapid and Satisfactory Service.

THE COUNCIL FOR 1909

The election of a new City Council and the partial election of a new Board of Education have resulted in some surprises—changes, which are, for many reasons to be regretted. Members of experience—and experience is the touch stone of efficiency, other things being equal—have been unsuccessful. Alderman Elliott was was a member of last year's Council and gave intelligent and efficient service, which indicated the wisdom of a renewal of his term. Mr. Neill also had experience and showed a business capacity which should not have made his re-election undesirable. But, possibly, influence apart from merit, from past service, or capacity for future service, operated adversely. The people have decided and the people "have the say." Among the other unsuccessful candidates there was material for good aldermen, but here again the will of the people was paramount. The new Council should give a good account of itself. All the new members with two exceptions were either members of last year's Council or had previous experience, and Messrs. Duffus and Metheral should make effective representatives. The new Council as a whole has the ability and knowledge of its work that should ensure a successful year of civic administration. As to the by-laws that were so mercilessly extinguished, there was a great difference of opinion regarding the Smith street bridge by-law calling for $49,000. There was difference of opinion as to the matter of material—cement or steel. Those who favoured cement, regarded the large employment of local labour its construction would call for as a reason for adopting that material, provided its cost was not extravagantly in excess of steel. Both labour and cement would be applied locally, whereas the construction of a steel bridge would give employment to workingmen of Hamilton or Montreal only. In regard to the exhibition grounds by-law, the opinion was largely held that the sum demanded was in excess of the value of the land. In the matter of the street extension by-law, the ratepayers did not show the best of judgment in defeating it. The money the by-law was intended to provide, has been practically expended and debentures were to be issued to spread the payment over an extended period. Now the by-law will have to be re-submitted and passed, or the amount it called for—$21,500—will have to to added to this year's tax roll, if the requirements of the law are complied with.

One of the predominating features of the elections of 1909 and that which roused the interest of the throng of citizens who gathered in front of the Examiner office to await the returns was the closeness of the totals to each other. As often seen in an account of a hockey or baseball match the result as to who would head the list and even those who would be elected was in doubt until the last sub-division was heard from.

For a time there were four or five of the candidates so close that a majority from one booth would put one man on top and then a falling off in the next had another candidate on top of the pile. It was a merry canter all the way. The proceedings during the day were marked by quietness although here and there it was noted that some of the candidates were working hard in their own interests. It was not until the field, bunched up close together, were well on towards the finish that the enthusiasm became marked. Ald. Bullen had the largest vote at one time; Ald. Phelan at another was ahead; Ald Morgan took the lead but was overtaken by Ald. Gillespie. The latter held it for a long time and then lost for awhile to Ald. Morgan, but another majority for the former gave him the first position again and he maintained it until the last.

A Large Crowd

The Examiner had promised a rapid service of returns and a large crowd of citizens were onn hand who almost blocked the street. The returns came rather slowly at first, slower than other years on account of the large number of candidates. When they were received, however, the excitment started and a look down the totals will show that there was a close run for practically every place. Ald. Gillespie's tenure of first place seemed to meet universal approval and he was a popular winner.

The Changes

Eight of last year's council will sit on the board during 1909. Ald Torrey and Ald. Johnston did not trust themselves for re-election. Ald. Neill and Ald. Elliott, were not among the first twelve, but their places will be taken by two ex-aldermen, R. Hicks and Geo Duncan. Jos. Duffus and Jos. Metheral are the new members.

New Men In County Council; Personnel Is Much Changed

The Poultry Show In Full Swing; Many Fine Birds Have Arrived

The Peterborough Poultry show in the Market Hall is in full swing to-day, and the spacious hall is nearly filled with coops from which the clarion call of the feathered inmates is heard repeatedly during the day. Over eight hundred birds have arrived and some remarkably fine specimens are shown, the exhibit being well worth a visit even to those who have no particular interest in poultry, while the expert will find much to interest himself in. The directors and management had their hands full this morning in finding room for the birds as they came in.

Every one in Peterborough should make it a point to attend the show to-night, to-morrow or Thursday. It is well worth seeing and those behind the movement deserve the support of the citizens.

To-morrow Miss Mary Yates, the lecturer from the department, will give an address and demonstrations on the best methods of killing and dressing poultry. Chairs have been arranged in the north end of the building and no doubt a big crowd will take advantage of the opportunity to hear Miss Yates, who is well known as a lecturer and demonstrator in the poultry line.

The show will be open this evening and a big crowd is expected.

ANOTHER SHOCK IS EXPERIENCED

Walls of Ruined Messina are Shaken Down.

Examiner Special.

Catania, Jan. 5.—A message from Messina to-day tells of additional horrors caused by new earthquake shocks. One severe shock was followed by four others of lesser violence, shaking down the crumbling walls of the ruined city and fanning the smouldering flames. The refugees and rescuers were alike thrown into a panic and terrible scenes were enacted before the soldiery could control the mobs. The new shocks have caused hundreds of additional deaths. The British flagship Exmouth was caught in a sudden current that came with the earthquake and was swept two miles out to sea. Dozens of tottering buildings are still falling, but the relief work is now well organized and is proceeding with dispatch. The most dangerous debris is being cleared rapidly and great quantities of provisions are arriving and are being distributed.

On Adam's Peak, in Ceylon, at about 7,000 feet above sea level, there is a large flat stone, on which is the imprint of the human foot. Mohammedans believe this to be the print that Adam first stepped on after being exiled from the Garden of Eden. Almost all the best of the gardens of the world are within close proximity to this spot, as is the Eliya district, where tea is grown.

CANADIAN WINTER.

A great many journals and persons are much concerned over the proposal to hold a winter carnival at Montreal this year. The railways join the objectors claiming that their traffic profits will be reduced. It is argued that the emphasizing of the glacial features of our winter will supplement the cold chill which Kipling's "Lady of the Snows," gives our climate. It is a fact that Canada has positive winter weather and it is not a misfortune either. We of the native and acclimated know that our winter enjoyments are as delightful in their place and time as those of summer. Nature also after taking a winter visit, works with renewed vigour when the warmer weather comes. Taking it all in all Canada has a climate the most delightful and healthful in the world, the intense cold that comes at intervals is not the terror to outsiders that it is usually held to be. It is a fact that natives of the British Isles for the first few winters do not feel the cold as much as they do after they have become acclimatised. There are men in jail today for the offence of making a misrepresentation in business —gaining money on the strength of assurances that did not tally with the facts. As a nation we can't afford to follow this example. It seems to be the best policy to deal honestly with our weather conditions. In the west where the winter is admittedly severe, that very severity is the cause of fertility. The ice formed deep under the soil, and melting during the warm weather of summer sends up a streaming moisture that directly reaches the roots of the growing wheat and other grains, independently of rain-fall which is deficient on account of the general treelessness of the country. We can't deceive Europeans, even if we wanted to do so in regard to our climate and our weather. If they come to us knowing the conditions they are the very people we want; they have the pluck and courage (to) make their way. But if we bring them into Canada under false ideas as to the conditions they will meet, they will be discontented and make undesirable citizens. We have had experience of, and troubles with, a class of immigrants who came to Canada under the delusion that a living was to be got without work. Delusions will exist without our adding to them by presenting our weather conditions (under any) but the real aspects. Will it not be best, in the long run, to be honest with the people whom we desire to add to the citizenship of Canada?

The old proverb that honesty is the best policy has not lost its power any more than its logical sequence, honesty is the best practice.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

The week of prayer for many years observed as at this season all over the Christian world, it's local observance began last night by an encouraging service in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. To-night the service will be held in St. Andrew's Church and the general theme of the week "The Supremacy of Christ," will be specialised and localised, being The Supremacy of Christ in Business Life." This branch of the general subject has an important significance. Coming in the wake of the recent demonstration of the share of laymen in religious movements, men will be in a receptive or sympathetic mood. If our belief in the verities of religion goes beyond a formal mental assent, religion is a reality, but only where its obligations are practically regarded. Cynics may say that religion and business success are incompatible, but is stands to reason that business success won by any diregard of what religion teaches is unworthily won; as the religion that cannot be applied to and interwoven with the business and activities of every-day life does not bear the stamp of the divine hall mark. It is an immense impertinence to gather and send money to convert the heathen to the gospel faith, if we who are in the light neglect its most rudimentary teaching and essence, as summed up in the golden rule: if in our business relations to the public and our employees by giving the one indifferent or questionable value, or working the others would do unto us. The question unto others as we would that others unduly long hours we fail to do unto others as we would that others should do unto us. The questions, involved in their consideration tions, involved in their consideration will be touched upon by the speaker to-night, and it is hoped will bear fruit. The soldier's sword kept rusting in its sheath is no more a type of usefulness than the religion of a man kept locked in his heart or brought no further than the lips—that does not find its way to his hands in doing the every-day work of our every-day life.

(I.A.N.F. goes with "Week of Prayer"

No man can show a more convincing reason of the faith that is in him than can by showing it forth in the actions and relations of his daily life.

ATTENDING CONVENTION AT PRESCOTT

Ald. Gillespie Left This Afternoon for Dairymen's Meetings.

Ald. George A. Gillespie left this morning for Montreal en route to Prescott, where he will attend the meetings of the thirty-second annual Convention of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, which is being held in Prescott, on January 6th, 7th and 8th. The most influential and progressive dairymen of the province will give addresses upon important questions dealing with the business.

Ald. Gillespie will return on Saturday.

LOCAL MAN FALLS FROM BOX CAR

Ambrose Dorris Was Hurt While Switching at Campbellford.

While switching in the yard at Campbellford yesterday, shortly after twelve o'clock, Ambrose Doris, a Peterborough man, was rather seriously hurt. He was standing on top of a box car, giving signals to the engine men, when in some manner he slipped and fell to the ground, a drop of about fourteen feet. His face was badly cut and bruised, but no further injuries were sustained. The Dan Spence ambulance met the train on its arrival here at four o'clock, and conveyed him to the Nicholls Hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

Mr. Doris has only been employed as a brakeman by the Grand Trunk Railway a short time.

Most housewives judge the purity of a flour by its whiteness. White somehow signifies purity. But while pure flours are always white, white flours are not always pure.

Royal Household Flour

is the whitest flour that is milled. It is also the purest. You may think the flour you are using is about as white as flour can be. Yet if you place it beside Royal Household Flour it will look yellow by comparison. Ask your grocer for Royal Household, and make sure that he understands that you mean it.

Kaiser Economizing.

Berlin, Jan. 5.—It is reported in court circles that the Emperor has issue instructions to the officers of the household for greater economy. The Emperor intends to travel less and live in a simpler manner this year. The reports that the Emperor desires to sell some of his castles is confirmed. The Emperor has fifty-two provincial residences, some of which he has never even visited. The projected economics are undertaken because recent events have rendered this an inopportune time to ask the Prussian Parliament for an increase in the allowances to the Emperor as King of Prussia. The empire itself makes no grants for the maintenance of the Emperor and his family.

Autos May Now Cross.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 5.—An order was received yesterday by the Canadian customs officials raising the embargo on automobiles crossing the bridges into the Dominion from the United States, which have been excluded for the past two months on account of the foot and mouth disease.

This will greatly affect trade between the two cities for the better, and merchants on both sides of the river will now be able to deliver goods by auto in the two cities. Automobiles are the only vehicles now permitted to enter, and the first went over the upper bridge ten minutes after the order was received.

"Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold."

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop a cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

Mrs. A. Elles, Innisfail, Alta., writes: "Last spring I had Typhoid fever and Bronchitis, which left me with a terrible cough. I tried doctor's medicine but got no relief until my husband got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before I had finished it my cough was cured. My husband also uses it whenever he has a cough. I would not be without it."

ROSE BROUGHT BACK.

Toronto Jail-Breaker Says He Expects a Life Sentence.

Toronto, Jan. 5.—Alexander Rose is once more in Toronto Jail. He arrived in the city last night, having been brought from Huntington, W. Va., where he was serving a term of twenty-seven days for carrying a dirk knife.

He says that the look in the jail corridor which was the first step in the escape was picked by a key found in the cell, which was left by a previous prisoner. He says that he, with Jones, who is now in Newcastle, Pa., having been arrested in Williamson, W. Va., and Clarke cleared from the jail at 2.30 o'clock and struck for Little York on a King street car.

That night they rode blind baggage to Blackwater Junction, and thence on to Peterboro. Then in a like manner they made Montreal on Sunday afternoon. They stayed there a few hours, and afterwards proceeded to Boston, having lost Clarke in a chase by the police in Montreal.

A few days later they returned to Montreal, thence to North Bay, where they worked a week and came down to Allandale and Georgetown to Guelph, and thence on to Sarnia and across the line to Port Huron, Detroit and Toledo, and on to Columbus, O., Portsmouth, and Huntingdon.

After Rose's arrest, Jones, who, with Rose, had committed a number of burglaries at Huntington, went on to Williamson, where he was employed as a waiter in a Y.M.C.A. until arrested and brought to Huntington, just as Rose was being taken away.

While in jail at Huntington, Rose made an attempt to escape, and had got through one door when discovered.

Rose says that he expects a life sentence.

FATHER GOES CRAZY.

Man Living Near Guelph Attempts to Cut His Throat.

Guelph, Jan. 5.—Richard Forhan, a resident of the York road, just beyond Guelph's city limits, caused a good deal of excitement Sunday afternoon in the vicinity of his home.

He is the father of a large family, principally young girls. Sunday the girls stopped some passers-by, stating that their father had a razor and was going to cut his throat. The man was walking harriedly across a field near his home, with three of his daughters hanging on his arms and crying to him to give them his razor, stating that they would not leave him till he did.

Ald. George Penford and Thomas Hewer and some other well-known citizens who happened to be driving past, were accosted by the man's frightened children, and some of them helped them to dissuade Forhan from his intention.

TO STOP IMPURE BOOKS.

Anglicans of Ottawa Would Curb Its Importation.

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—A deputation of the Anglican Association of Ottawa, consisting of Rev. Canon Kittson, Rev. A. W. MacKay, Rev. J. M. Snowdon, Rev. J. F. Gorman, and Col. Irwin, waited upon the Minister of Customs yesterday and asked that he give instructions that the law governing the importation of immoral and suggestive literature should be better enforced. Incidentally, the problem of how to prevent production in Canada of plays with immoral tendencies was also discussed.

Mr. Paterson promised that he would take action requested so far as literature in question is concerned. The law regarding theatrical posters is already being enforced, and has been responsible for non-appearance on Canadian billboards of worst features of sensational lithographs.

Censorship of plays is not a matter which could in any way come under the surveillance of the Customs Department. That is a matter which must be left to local authorities of cities in which such plays are produced, and to a great extent to newspapers in warning their readers against plays which have a malevolent influence.

Yuan Shi Kai Dismissal.

Pekin, Jan. 5.—Two days have passed since the dismissal from office of Yuan Shi Kai, the great Chinese statesman, who was a member of the grand counsil, and it is still impossible to determine the future course of the Chinese Government or its inner composition. The palace continues an enigma.

An edict issued yesterday relieves Na Tung, successor to Yuan Shi Kai, of some of his minor duties for the purpose of enabling him to discharge his new responsibilities. But the developments are not sufficient to disclose the administration's plan, and it is believed that if any plan exists knowledge of it is confined to only two persons in addition to the prince regent.

Wolfe's Birthday.

London, Jan. 5.—Wolfe's birthday was celebrated at his birthplace, Westerham, on Saturday, when Beckles Willson said many of thes present had very little idea how great was the fame of Westerham, but if any Westerham man went into the backwoods of Canada, he would have a great reception. Another speaker said Wolfe was one of the greatest of Englishmen, and who had effected by a single daring stroke more perhaps in the way of future results than any other national hero.

Two Burn to Death.

Coldwater, Jan. 5.—Two brothers, Wm. and Louis Warriner, aged 19 and 22, respectively, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a log camp in the Township of Matchedash.

The young men were cutting wood in the vicinity and boarding themselves. On Thursday night they went to a farm house for milk and left again about ten o'clock for their camp. This was the last seen of them alive.

Will Defy Whirlpool.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 5.—Percy Webber, chemist, working in Niagara Falls, N.Y., said last night he would brave the turbulent waters of the whirlpool in a canoe which he is constructing. The features of the canoe will be an air tank which will buoy the canoe up, and special steering apparatus which he says will enable him to successfully pass through the rocky whirlpool.

T. J. HAINS TESTIFIES.

Murderer's Brother Describes Slaying of Annis.

Flushing, N.Y., Jan. 5.—Taking the stand in his own defence, Thornton Jenkins Hains, for over four hours yesterday related with a wealth of detail the story of the shooting of William E. Annis and of the conjugal troubles of Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., that counsel asserts caused the mental unbalancing of the army officer and led to the killing of the publisher on sight. When court adjourned last night Hains direct examination had not been concluded and he will likely be on the witness stand all to-day.

Thornton Hains told his story in snappy, crisp sentences, that fell from his lips as soon as his counsel had completed his interrogation. He showed no signs of nervousness and at time during the trial illustrated his brother's expressions and appearance when speaking of his wife's conduct, with dramatic inflection of voice and facial expression.

The defendant declared that when he went to Bayside to look at real estate on Aug. 15 he had no idea that his brother was armed, and that he did not know that Annis was at the yacht club. He told the jury that all the shots had been fired by Capt. Hains before he rushed to the float to protect his brother from John Tonning, the boatman, and the club members, whom, he said, he thought would harm the captain. Thornton Hains denied that he pointed a revolver at Mrs. Annis. The defendant stated that he had no idea how many shots Capt. Hains had fired, and when Charles Roberts, a club member, picked up the revolver, and the muzzle of the weapon pointed at him, he drew his own gun and told Roberts not to shoot.

District Attorney Darrin said he would probably take all day to-day to cross-examine the defendant.

Dauphin School Fire.

Winnipeg, Jan. 5.—Dauphin No. 1 school, which contained four rooms of public school and four of collegiate, was burned down yesterday morning. The fire started from the furnace, and owing to the extreme cold the brigade was hampered, but the citizens lent aid.

The children, 500 in number, however, had been splendidly drilled, and carried through the fire drill exercise with precision that all of the rooms were emptied in a few minutes. The loss is $12,000, and insurance $8,000.

French Elections.

Paris, Jan. 5.—The results of the the French elections yesterday for members of the Chamber of Deputies show that the Radicals and Radical-Socialists have made net gains of 15 seats. The Socialist-Independents gained two and the Conservatives one seat, while the Progressists lost 18. The election has been a victory for the Government and particularly for the Radicals.

Twenty-four deputies, including Mm. Ribot, Maujan and Baubin, were elected to the Senate.

Sir Hugh Graham's Gift.

Montreal, Jan. 5.—The announcement is made that the donor of $10,000 to the children's memorial hospital is Sir Hugh Graham. Funds subscribed amount to $27,000, which is enough to complete the building under construction.

Sixteen British Tars Drowned.

Sydney, N.S.W., Jan. 5.—The pinnance of the British cruiser Encounter was sunk in a collision with a collier here yesterday. Sixteen of the sailors were drowned.

U.S. Anti-Gambling Laws.

Albany, Jan. 5.—Newspapers will be prohibited from publishing betting odds on horse races if a bill to be introduced by Senator Agnew of New York becomes law.

MUSIC OF A HIGH CLASS AT THE ROYAL THEATRE

Sterling Old English Ballads Splendidly Sung at the Royal Theatre.

On Saturday the music loving public were highly delighted by a revival of the old time tuneful English ballads, sung at the Royal Theatre, a welcome change from the lighter music perhaps more catchy of captivating for the moment. Such music does not last nor, either in music or words, touch so deeply as the more robustly melodious and enduring music of the grand old English ballads, especially as they are sung by Mr. Beveridge Miller, the celebrated tenor robusto, of Detroit, now singing with great acceptance and success at the Royal Theatre. On Saturday Mr. Miller sang in splendid voice, and with unquestionable artistic taste several of these spl ndid ballads, splendidly illustrated by appropriate coloured slides. As his magnificent voice, vibrant but always musical, filled the theatre and brought home the tender and lovely sentiments of these ballads, tears filled many eyes in the crowded audience. In his selections which are so pleasant a change from the lighter and more meretricious forms of music, which enjoy so large a vogue these days, Mr. Miller caters to musical people in a manner which will make the Royal Theatre a popular resort during his week's engagement.

Presentation By Girls' Guild To Member Leaving Peterboro'

Miss Cotton of the Girls' Guild of All Saint's Church Remembered —Address Read by Miss Clara Cairns.

WAS A VALUABLE MEMBER

The Girls' Guild of All Saints Church met last night to bid farewell to one of its members, Miss Cotton, who is leaving Peterborough and thus severing her connections with All Saints Church and the Girls' Guild, has taken a prominent part in its activities and will be greatly missed by her former associates and co-workers in the Guild.

The affair was pleasantly carried out, but like all others of this kind, was marked by an undercurrent of pathos which arises from the parting of good friends.

Miss Maggie Duggan presented Miss Cotton with a beautiful pin and the following address was read by Miss Clara Cairns:—

All Saints Church,
Peterborough,
Jan. 4th, 1909

Dear Miss Cotton:—

It was with extreme regret that the members of the Girls' Guild and the Sunday School learned of your intention to leave Peterborough, though it was to enable you to take up the work with the sick, to which you felt called. During the four years you have been with us, you have been a most diligent and devoted worker in All Saints Church, and an example and inspiration to the rest of us. We ask you to accept this pin as a token of our thanks to you for all you have done, and assure you that you carry away the esteem and love of all the church workers with whom you have come in contact. We shall do our utmost to see that the work you did as President of the Girls' Guild, and as teacher of the Senior Girls' Bible Class will be continued. Our prayers will go with you that God will bless "your goings out and your comings in," and lead you into ways of pleasantness. We wish you every contentment in your new work and every prosperity in life, and hope the remembrances you carry away with you from All Saints will in some measure be a help to you in days of sunshine or of clouds if such should come.

THE IMPERIAL OPERA COMING

Harry Girard, baritone of the Imperial Opera Company, which comes to the Grand Opera House, Saturday, matinee and evening, January 9th, never received a musical education and yet he is an expert organ player and a composer, who within the last two years has attracted considerable attention.

Born in Seattle, Wash., he ran away from home when ten years of age and obtained employment on a vessel sailing for Japan. During loafing spells on the boat he entertained the crew by playing on the accordeon, at which he had become an adept while at home. So pleased with the music was the captain that he summoned young Girard to his room and compelled him to sing and play for him, during the hours that the boy was supposed to be at work. The lad became a great favorite with the master and the entire crew, and when they again landed in this country they gave him a purse and sent him home.

Young Girard then devoted all his spare time to music, and although he never took any lessons, he became proficient in playing the organ. Before long he secured a position as organist in a big church in Seattle, and his playing and singing soon became a feature of the regular service. Then he drifted to Minneapolis, where he played and sang in a church, and a year afterward went to Chicago in the same capacity. Next he returned to his home in Seattle, and by this time he had grown to be an expert on the organ. His playing and singing attracted the attention of John Cort, the Klaw & Erlander of the west, who gave him his first real opportunity. Up to this time Girard had written several songs that became popular in the west. Cort engaged him to set "The Alaskan," recommended him to the late Augustin Daly, and the latter gave him a minor part in one of his productions. So rapid was his progress that within a year he began to play leads, and when "Sun Toy" was produced Mr. Daly gave him an important role.

After that he sang big parts with stars, and in large productions. He was in the Daly Company that presented "Sun Toy" at the Euclid Avenue Opera House here, a number of years ago. His last appearance in Cleveland was as leading man with Lulu Glaser in "Dolly Varden."

John Cort, who first brought him before the public, was the first to give him his real opportunity. When he accepted the book of "The Alaskan," written by a Seattle newspaper man, he engaged Girard to write the score. In the west where the production made a great hit last season, the critics highly praised the music, the song entitled "The Totem Pole," becoming one of the year's musical successes. His work as composer gained for him much praise, and the result was that several Broadway managers sought his services. Charles Dillingham has him under contract to write the music for the play in which Frank Daniels will star this fall, and for another production which will be made later in the season.

Not only is Girard a good composer but he also is an excellent singer and actor.

PRESCRIPTION DISPENSARY IN WARNE'S DRUG STORE

Mr. S. N. Ridley, a Careful Expert Pharmacist, in Charge—Fresh Drugs and Chemicals in Full Supply.

As will be observed by the new sign over the store, the Warne Drug Company, Limited, George street, have added a new prescription department to their patent medicine business, and the former is now legally entitled to enjoy all the privileges of a fully equipped drug store. This step has been in contemplation for some time, and, with the formation of the newly incorporated company it had been arranged that a prescription counter would be added at the beginning of the new year.

The new dispensary is in charge of Mr Silas Noble Ridley, recently of St Tomas, whose diploma from the Ontario College of Pharmacy, decorates the store. Mr Ridley also enjoys the advantage of a full course in the St. Louis College of Pharmacy, U. S., where he studied chemistry, pharmacy and other branches of the drug and prescription business.

In Warne's Drug Store, with its new equipment, is now in a position to carry on the drug business in all its allied branches. The prescription desk is close to the main counters, so that no unnecessary delays will be experienced. The compounding of prescriptions is a case of filling the physician's formula to the letter, and with an experienced pharmacist Warne Company should do it accurately and expeditiously.

It will be of interest in sporting circles to learn that Mr. Ridley is a well known lacrosse player and was manager of the St. Thomas O. H. A., previous to coming to Peterborough.

A TREAT IN STORE FOR PETERBORO THEATRE-GOERS

There is no musical organization in America to-day which can boast of a genuine all-star cast, such as the Imperial Opera Company is bringing to Peterborough, next Saturday, January 9th, after a phenomenal run of four and a half months at the Royal Alexandra Theatre in Toronto. The business was so great during their appearance in that city that the versatile singers were enabled to present practically every comic opera success of the New York and London stages. Of these tuneful were none so popular as "San Toy," and for this reason the piece was chosen for the appearance here. Bright and sparkling with its Oriental setting and fascinating rinkle of Chinese music, San Toy has proven to be one of the master-pieces in light opera. It is brim full of humorous situations and with sayings and sentiments some song hits which arouse enthusiasm in any audience.

In the company are Harry Girard, the clever baritone, who composed the comic opera "Alaska," which was the rage in the west last season and J. Clarence Harvey, who was the idol of the Toronto audiences and one of the cleverest comedians of today. Other well known principals in the company are Miss Agnes Caine-Brown, soprano; Laura Butler, mezzo-soprano; Allan Mostyn, W. H. Pringle and one of the prettiest choruses ever seen in light opera. Mr. Girard began his musical career as an organist and choir master, and later became the composer of a number of sacred songs. Born in Seattle, Wash., he ran away from home when ten years old and obtained employment on a vessel sailing for Japan. During the lonfing spells on the boat he entertained the crew on the accordeon, and so pleased was the captain that he summoned the youngster to his room and compelled him to sing and play for him during the hours that the boy was supposed to be at work. At the end of the voyage the captain gave the lad a purse and sent him home. With this start it did not take Harry Girard long to work himself into the field of music, and since that time he has steadily risen until he now occupies one of the leading positions amongst opera singers in America.

J. Clarence Harvey, the clever comedian of the Imperial Opera Company, who plays the part of Li Ti in San Toy, follows James T. Powers in the role. Mr. Harvey has a manner all his own which makes him a strong favourite.

Miss Agnes Caine-Brown, the prima donna, is appearing in light opera during a temporary rest from the more strenuous field of Metropolitan Grand Opera. She has a soprano voice, rich in feeling and of tumberous quality, which lends itself greatly to classic souls. Light opera is like a holiday picnic for Miss Brown, who scored an instant success in Toronto.

Mr. Allan Mostyn, who is a comedian as well as an excellent basso singer, played the role of Yen-How, the old mandarin with the six little wives, in the original company under Mr. Powers and it has been one of his most successful roles.

With such an interesting and amusing opera as San Toy such a company cannot but make a signal success all over the country. It has been one of the most successful of the Toronto presentations and needless to say will make its appearance here an event of the theatrical season.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

They guarantee satisfaction or money refunded. Do it now.

CIVIC FAIR PLAY IN REPRESENTATION

The Electors at Large Apparently Desire That the Fifth Ward Should Have Representation.

The large vote given Adams, Gillespie and Morgan in yesterday's election while not understood on personal or representative grounds was in part another explanation and one creditable to the spirit of harmony and fair play that animates the electors of the city. There is still a latent or sub-latent feeling or undifined consciousness that East City or what was formerly Ashburnham is still a sort of undefinitely separate section of the city. That this feeling is not merely across the river is shown by the very large vote given Messrs Gillespie and Morgan by the electors of the ward in which they reside and the liberal vote they received in other parts of the city shows that there is existent a spirit of fair play and a desire that the newest ward of the city should have due representation in the council of Peterborough.

First appearance in Peterborough of "Imperial Scots" Concert Company, in Conservatory Music Hall, Monday evening, January, 11th. The company is direct from Scotland and appearing only in the larger cities.

TEMPERANCE MEETING ON SUNDAY

It Will be Made a Rallying Point for all the Bible Classes of City.

The weekly Gospel Temperance meetings that have been conducted for some time in the "Crystal" have been changed from 8.15 o'clock in the evening to 4.15 in the afternoon. The first of the afternoon meetings was held on Sunday last and was well attended considering the weather conditions. The speaker was Rev. J. G. Potter, who gave a short but earnest and very impressive address on total abstinence as a Christian duty taking as the basis of his remarks, Paul's declaration that he would neither eat meat nor do any other act by which his brother might be made to stumble. Miss Manning sang a couple of solos in a very pleasing manner, and in this was contributed much to the success of the meeting.

Next Sunday it is proposed to make the meeting a rallying point for all the Bible Classes of the city. One representative from each will give a three minute address and Dr. Hassard of the Y. M. C. A. will also address the meeting. The choir will be occupied by Dr. Middleton and it is expected that an orchestra will be present to provide music.

ALMOST SENSATIONAL

There is General Surprise at the Great Number of Persons in Peterboro' Who Praise Booth's Kidney Pills.

It's but a short time since the first box of Booth's Kidney Pills came to Peterborough.

What a work this stranger has accomplished. Dozens of residents benefitted and cured of lame, weak and aching backs, urinary and kidney troubles. It is remarkable; the reason for it is Booth's Kidney Pills are a new blend of vegetable ingredients having a peculiar action on the kidney tissue that brings quick help.

Mrs. M. J. Cook, No. 494 Aylmer street, Peterborough, Ont., says: "I always find quick relief in Booth's Kidney Pills. They strengthen and relieve my back of a dull, heavy pain, which settles in the small of it and extends into my shoulders. For years I had suffered with these symptoms of kidney trouble and could find no relief. I would have frequent spells of dizziness and headaches. I was restless and weak, and would often awake more tired than on going to bed. I had never found relief for these painful and weakening symptoms of kidney trouble until I used Booth's Kidney Pills, procured at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy. I have had little trouble since as I use Booth's Kidney Pills occasionally and they keep me in the best of health."

AMERICA VOTES RELIEF TO SUFFERERS

Congress Makes Handsome Gift of $800,000 to Sufferers.

HEROISM OF RUSSIAN TARS

Gallant Sailors Brave Death to Rescue Victims From Ruins In Messina—Correspondent Describes Scenes in Earthquake Stricken City—Sicilians Refuse to Leave Homes When Asked by Authorities.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Bountiful provision for the earthquake sufferers of Italy was made by the Congress yesterday by unanimous vote. In the House there was vigorous hand-clapping as the bill carrying the appropriation was sent on its way. The munificent sum of $800,000 was granted almost immediately after the reception in both Houses of a message from the President calling attention to the calamity and the pressing need for aid for the stricken people of a sister nation.

President Roosevelt will sign the bill, making it effective, probably today.

No aid so generous was ever extended to a stricken people by this Government before. The legislators anticipating the President's message, and filled with a sympathetic desire to lend their votes to any proposition which would bring relief, were early in their seats and prepared to take immediate action.

The American National Red Cross has collected over $330,000.

Russians' Gallant Aid.

Messina, Jan. 5.—Praises of the Russians are on every lip. They hesitated before no danger, digging under tottering walls or entering the unsafest shells when asked to do so by some frantic woman who had not lost all hope that husband or child was still alive.

Here and there the correspondent encountered salvage parties digging at the instance of some distracted woman who imagined she heard a voice, but usually there was no answer to the pathetic call. One party was trying to dig out a girl whose crying could be heard plainly, but as the correspondent watched there was a sudden cave-in and thereafter silence.

In many places bloated and decomposing arms and legs protruded from heaps of masonry and plaster.

Curious Quake Freaks.

Curious freaks of the earthquake were to be observed. Standing walls had fallen out, exposing one tier of rooms above another, in which nothing seemed to have been disturbed. Pictures hung straight on the walls, dishes were on the tables and vases and flowers on mantles. One place two buzzards, their beaks full of carrion, were sunning themselves on a window ledge over the dead body of a woman whose wealth of black hair covered her face and shoulders. Dogs and cats were killed by the soldiers whenever caught feeding on the dead. The buildings that best resisted the shock were those of the old palace, and now the prefecture, and the archbishop's palace where ten of the inmates lost their lives.

Although the air in Messina is heavy with the stench with putrifying bodies, several groups of Sicilians sit camped out in the cleared places of the city and obstinately refuse the invitation of the authorities to move away. The survivors of the disaster are so tired and worn out that they are quite incapable of describing their experiences lucidly, but the accounts of all agree that the devastation was accomplished in less than one minute.

May Succeed Senator Bernier.

Ottawa, Jan. 5.—A recent visitor to the city has been Horace Chevrier, ex-M.P.P., who left for Toronto Sunday. Mr. Chevrier's name is being mentioned in connection with the vacancy in the Upper House, caused by the death of Senator Bernier. The names of J. E. Cyr, ex-M.P. for Provencher, recently appointed an immigration officer in France, is also being mentioned in the same connection.

Blizzard In West.

Winnipeg, Jan. 5.—A fierce snowstorm, which is paralyzing street car and other traffic, is raging and the weather is unusually cold for such a blizzard. The thermometer is standing at 18 degrees below zero.

MANY BY-LAWS WERE VOTED ON

Twenty Places to Take Hydro Power—Three Reject It.

FORTY-FIVE BARS MUST GO

Temperance Fight Throughout Ontario Results In New Bylaws In Twenty Municipalities, Sustained Local Option In 17 and Defeat In 23 Public Power Was Big Victory Throughout the Province.

Toronto, Jan. 5.—In 20 municipalities yesterday, including Stratford, where the Hydro-Electric power bylaw was resubmitted, the Beck cheap Niagara power policy was adopted by majorities varying from the unanimous voice of Windsor to less emphatic but not less conclusive verdicts elsewhere.

The only defeats recorded are at Thamesville and Kingsville, places which do not affect the scheme as a whole.

The main result of the voting yesterday is to settle the question, as Hon. Adam Beck states, of building a power transmission line to Windsor.

The Windsor division, from London westwards, now includes Glencoe, Bothwell, Chatham and Dresden, which is off the main line; Amherstburg, Elmira, Leamington, Ridgetown, Essex, Norwich, Sandwich, Tilbury, Comber, West Lorne, Port Stanley and Windsor, which will also soon be joined by Walkerville.

Brantford, on the Guelph division, is associated with Kingsville and Thamesville in rejecting the power policy.

The London division is complete now, with the addition of Tillsonburg to London, St. Thomas, Ingersoll and Woodstock.

The Guelph division is practically complete, as Brantford can be economically sidetracked in transmitting power to Preston, Hespeler, Guelph, Waterloo, Berlin, New Hamburg, Stratford and St. Mary's.

Carried—Amherstburg, majority six; Bothwell, large majority; Chatham, majority 468; Comber, 84 to 7; Dresden, —; Dundas, large majority; Elmira, 240 to 23; Essex, 326 to 35; Glencoe, —; Leamington, almost unanimous; Norwich, large majority; Port Stanley, —; Ridgetown, large majority; Sandwich, —; Simcoe, —; Stratford, majority 100; Tilbury, 164 to 17; Tillsonburg, majority 255; West Lorne, 171 to 18; Windsor, unanimously.

Defeated—Brantford, increased expenditure bylaw; Kingsville, by 26 votes; Thamesville, small majority.

One of the most general campaigns under the Ontario local option law was held throughout the province yesterday. Ninety bylaws were submitted.

Definite returns from sixty-one municipalities showed that local option had carried in 20 places with 45 licenses. It was sustained against repeal votes in 17, and defeated in 23 places. In ten of these there was a majority for the bylaw, but not the necessary three-fifths.

The most notable contest was that at Owen Sound, both sides regarding it as the key to the situation. The bylaw carried three years ago by a majority of 476. The effort to secure its repeal yesterday cut down the previous majority to 193. As the repeal votes are on a simple majority local option was sustained.

At Woodstock local option was defeated most emphatically. Every ward went against it. There were 847 votes for and 1,050 against, a majority against of 203.

Carried 26—Tweed, Bowmanville, Wellington, Havelock, Boone Township, Wyoming, Iroquois, Seneca Township, Sydney Township, Thurlow Township, Yonge, Ashfield, Athens, Caradoc, Escott, Hillier, Middleton Township, Orillia Township.

Sustained 17—Owen Sound, Markham Township, Stouffville, Southampton, Pickering, Amabel, Gainsboro, Hepworth, Tara, Whitechurch, Beamsville, Vaughan, Richmond Hill, Grimsby, North Oxford, Euphemia, Hope, Peel Township, Thornbury.

Reduction 2—St. Catharines and Smith's Falls.

Repealed—Courtright.

Hamilton, Jan. 5.—The people of Hamilton have declared in favor of joining the Hydro-Electric power project. Yesterday they elected a Hydro-Electric mayor and 12 aldermen to support him, the council, counting the mayor, standing 13 to 9 in favor of the Hydro-Electric project.

London, Jan. 5.—The Sunday Observer thinks Lord Milner found imperial sentiment weakening in Canada and arrested its decline.

Roosevelt and Congress.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 5.—President Roosevelt yesterday transmitted to the House of Representatives a special message in reply to a resolution adopted by the House some weeks ago, calling upon the President for data relative to his reference in his annual message to the attitude of the House in refusing to make an appropriation to be used in secret service work for the various Government departments.

The President says he made no reflections on Congress, as was complained, nor did he intend to, as he has not only always deprecated but vigorously resented, the practice of indiscriminate attack upon Congress.

Wife Returned to Find Him Dead.

Temagami Station, Ont., Jan. 5.—Joe Turner of Temagami was found by his wife dead at about four o'clock on Saturday morning. A 30.30 rifle lay by his side and from appearances it would seem was premeditated suicide.

The deceased was a son of John Turner, who keeps a boarding-house at Bear Island, well known to tourists. He leaves a wife and six children. A dance was held on New Year's Day at his father's house, and the deceased and his wife returned to their home just before daybreak, he then asked his wife to go back again and bring a sleigh he had left. On her return he was dead.

Riots In India.

Calcutta, Jan. 5.—The prohibition by the police in deference to Hindu feelings of Mohammedan sacrifices of cows Sunday led to serious riots at Titteghur, just outside Calcutta.

Troops were summoned, from Barrackpur to quell the trouble and were compelled to fire upon the rioters, several of whom were killed and sixty seriously injured. Two hundred arrests were made.

Thaw Trial Echo.

White Plains, N.Y., Jan. 5.—Counsel for Mrs. Wm. Thaw, Harry Thaw's mother, obtained from Supreme Court Justice Tompkins yesterday a writ of habeas corpus compelling the Matteawan Asylum authorities to produce Harry Thaw before that justice at Nyack next Saturday. Mrs. Thaw's contention is that Thaw is not a criminal, having been acquitted by a jury, and that he is now sane.

Banker Shoots Himself.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 5.—Henry C. Potter, Jr., of this city, vice-president of the People's State Savings Bank of this city, committed suicide at his home yesterday.

Mr. Potter had been suffering from nervous prostration for some time.

Mr. Potter killed himself with a revolver.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried doctor's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely cured and would recommend them to all similarly affected."

PETERBORO' JUNIORS WIN FIRST HOME GAME BY DEFEATING COBOURG 10-6 IN GREAT EXHIBITION OF HOCKEY

Local Youngsters Made a Run-Away Fight of it in the Second Half and Won Under Wraps—Crowd Was Delighted With Team

SOME PROMISING MATERIAL

The Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team showed their mettle last night, when they romped away from the Cobourg juniors in an O. H. A. fixture at the Brock street rink, with a 10—6 score, after a game that was, considering the soft ice, a grand exhibition of fast hockey all the way. Cobourg were in the lead twice in the first half, and when the teams left the ice for the breathing spell, they were on even terms, with two goals each and the result decidedly uncertain, as the play had been even from the start. The homesters were there with the lid off the ginger jar in the second half, however, and ran away from the visitors with eight counters, while the best the red and white sweatered aggregation could collect was four. After the half the visitors never looked dangerous, as they faded away, while the local kids, on the other hand, grew stronger as the game progressed and had it all over the septette from the Lakeshore, smothering up their forward line so that they had no chance to break away, while, on the other hand, the Peterboroughs were working loose from their checks and getting in close with the puck, so that scores were bound to come.

The Cobourg team were not the only surprised people in the rink, as the fairly large crowd of fans who were present were astonished to find that such a strong junior seven had been collected to represent Peterborough, and their delight can be imagined as they watched the contest. It was a well satisfied crowd that left the rink at the conclusion of the game, and it is safe to say that the juniors are sure of big attendances at their remaining home games. The fans are satisfied that the team is a speedy, clever collection of youngsters, who are able to hold their own with any of the junior sevens in the district, and who are due to make a great bid for the championship of the district at least. The team is in every way worthy of support, and their fine showing last night went a long way in getting the proper kind of encouragement for them.

The ice was soft and sticky, but despite that fact the teams dished out hockey of the fastest and most exciting kind. The heavy going made stickhandling and combination difficult matters, but there was plenty of both just the same, and don't think those teams didn't work for every ounce that was in them all the way. The pace was fast all through, and at times the rapidity with which the puck travelled from one end to the other had the fans standing up in their seats. Both teams worked hard and neither seemed to know the meaning of let up, and it was hammer and tongs all the way to the finish, with the players going at top speed. Considering that it was the first game of the season and that the ice was in anything but good shape for fast hockey, the match was really a grand exhibition, and the crowd thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it.

The locals had something on the visitors at every point. The defence was stronger and more aggressive, while the forward line played better combination and took more advantage of their opportunities, getting the rubber in close for their shots, while the visitors tried to beat Giroux from outside the defence. They succeeded several times, but did not get close enough to win, while, on the other hand, the locals were making their shots tell. The Peterborough forward line had it on the visitors too in checking back covering up their checks and coming back fast to help out their defence, while Cobourg either couldn't or wouldn't check back.

Peterborough's team is surprisingly strong and will take a lot of beating before the season is over. They are fast, heavy and aggressive, and with a little more practice will be a truly formidable combination. In Leo Giroux they have a splendid goal keeper. He is cool and quick and last night some of his saves at close range were marvellous. Several times when the Cobourg forwards had eluded the defence, he beat them off by quick work, and his clever stopping brought him round after round of applause. Wade at point played a grand game last night, especially in the second half. He checked well and in the last period made some sensational rushes from his position, the length of the rink, a la Lester Patrick, and two of these rushes resulted in scores. He seemed to be thoroughly at home in the heavy going and did grand work throughout. Fox, at cover, was always in his place, and his checking and relieving were effective at all times, the visitors finding him a stumbling block all the way.

Charlie Ray, the captain and rover of the team, was the star of the seven and was easily the fastest man on the ice, despite the fact that he was handicapped by the injury he received in Whitby. He played brilliant hockey all the way, his dazzling rushes and clever stick handling, coupled with his speed, making it almost impossible for Cobourg to stop him when he got going, and he succeeded in slamming in no less than six goals. He had the feature play of the night in the second half, when getting the puck at his own goal he dashed through the Cobourg forward line, passed to Pentland as the cover-point was reached, and then receiving the puck again from the wing man, eluded Niles and scored. Cyril Giroux at centre played an aggressive and decidedly useful game. He was always in his place, camping out in front of the nets and figured prominently in the scoring, while his checking back and work generally was of a superior nature. Ken Pentland was always working at left wing and made many dashes along the boards that made things awkward for the visitors' defence. On the other wing Billy Shortt, who was gotten out at the last moment, emphatically made good. He is a nice stick handler and fast skater and has a pretty shot from the boards that would give any goal keeper trouble.

Cobourg has a fast and well balanced team, and they did not give up without the hardest kind of a fight. Their forward line is fast, while the defence is strong and reliable. Gliddon, at left wing, was undoubtedly their star. He has a fine turn of speed, carried the puck nicely, while he possesses a wicked shot that counted in the scoring last night. Clarence Doheny, who will be remembered as the star goal keeper of the St. Michael's College team last season, was at rover for the visitors, and played a fine game, while Pratt in centre also distinguished himself. Guy, at cover, was an awkward man to beat and had a wrist shot that was speedy and accurate. He was of no assistance to his forward line, however, and failed to feed them at all. Reynolds in goal made some nice saves.

Geo. Lynch handled the bell to the satisfaction of both teams. His duties were light as the game, though closely contested, was not rough. The teams were as follows:

Peterborough.	Cobourg.
Goal.
Giroux	Reynolds
Point.
Wade	Niles
Cover.
Fox	Guy
Rover.
Ray	Doheney
Centre.
C. Giroux	Pratt
Right Wing.
Shortt	Crowther
Left Wing.
Pentland	Gliddon

It was 8.52 when play commenced. The pace was hot from the start and the visitors had a little better of the play at the go in. They made several lively attacks upon the local goal, and Giroux was called upon to show his ability in turning off several hot shots from Gliddon's stick. The local forwards had several chances, but failed to get working together when nearing the nets and opportunities were lost. Finally, after seven minutes of hard up and down the ice playing, Doheny and Gliddon carried the puck from centre through the Peterborough defence, and the ex-St. Mike's goal keeper beat Giroux with a hot shot at close range.

Cobourg, 1; Peterborough, 0.

Gliddon was ruled off for tripping Ray, and while he was on the boards the locals made good use of their opportunities. Shortt and Ray broke away together from centre and Shortt bored one at Reynolds' chest, which the Cobourg goal keeper handled neatly. Ray was there with a timely swipe and slammed it in on the rebound in four minutes.

Cobourg, 1; Peterborough, 1.

The visitors took the lead again shortly after. Guy took a chance on a long shot from centre, and the puck went into the nets off Wade, giving the visitors the lead. Time four minutes.

Peterborough, 1; Cobourg, 2.

Niles was penalized for tripping Shortt, and was not back on the ice long before Wade ambled down in his territory long enough to have a mixup with the Cobourg point and was relegated to the side lines. It took ten minutes of hard playing for Peterborough to tie the score, Ray doing the trick on a pass from Pentland.

Peterborough, 2; Cobourg, 2.

Half time was called a few minutes later.

Peterborough took the lead early in the second half and were never headed afterwards. Ray broke away and with the assistance of a pass from Pentland carried the rubber in for a pretty score in one minute.

Peterborough, 3; Cobourg, 2.

Cobourg rallied and for a long period the play was hard and exciting, with the locals having the best of it, but seemingly unable to score. Finally, after eleven minutes' play, Shortt slipped up the boards and beat Reynolds with a pretty shot from the wing.

Peterborough, 4; Cobourg, 2.

Doheney was hurt and the play was delayed for a moment. When it was resumed the pace was even faster, and the excitement was intense, getting even greater when Gliddon scored on a long shot from near centre, putting Cobourg again within reaching distance of the lead. Time seven minutes.

Peterborough, 4; Cobourg, 3.

Peterborough, however, began to draw away from the visitors. Ray broke loose with a nice rush and scored in three minutes on a pass from Pentland, going the length of the rink for the tally.

Peterborough, 5; Cobourg, 3.

Another was added in two minutes. Wade got away from the shadow of his own goal and carried the rubber through the whole Cobough team. His shot was wide but Giroux was there to shove the puck past Reynolds.

Peterborough, 6; Cobourg, 3.

A minute after Wade duplicated the play rushing the length of the rink, and Giroux followed suit by scoring.

Peterborough, 7; Cobourg, 3.

It only took Cobourg half a minute to get that one back. The forwards got away together and Gliddon tallied on a neat shot from the wing.

Peterborough, 7; Cobourg, 4.

Peterborough rushed and Ray hoved one past Reynolds from the crimmage that followed, in one minute.

Peterborough, 8; Cobourg, 4.

It just took Ray thirty seconds to gallop through the opposing team for one of the neatest goals of the night.

Peterborough, 9; Cobourg, 4.

Thirty seconds later Shortt passed to Giroux in centre and the latter made the score.

Peterborough, 10; Cobourg, 4.

Fox and Gliddon were benched for scrapping, and while they were off Doheney increased Cobourg's score by a neat rush in three minutes.

Peterborough, 10; Cobourg, 5.

Wade was banished for tripping, and while he was off Guy scored the last goal of the game on a long shot.

Peterborough, 10; Cobourg, 6.

The summary follows:

1—Cobourg; Doheney, 7 min.
2—Peterborough; Ray, 4 min.
3—Cobourg; Guy, 4 min.
4—Peterborough; Ray, 10 min.

Half time—

5—Peterborough; Ray, 1 min.
6—Peterborough; Shortt, 11 min.
7—Cobourg; Gliddon, 7 min.
8—Peterborough; Ray, 3 min.
9—Peterborough; Giroux, 2 min.
10—Peterborough; Giroux, 1 min.
11—Cobourg; Gliddon, 30 secs.
12—Peterborough; Ray, 1 min.
13—Peterborough; Ray, 30 secs.
14—Peterborough; Giroux, 40 secs.
15—Cobourg; Doheney, 3 min.
16—Cobourg, Guy, 2 min.

Penalties first half—Gliddon, Niles, Wade.

Second half—Fox, Gliddon, Wade.

HOCKEY

One of the best games of the local hockey season should be seen to-morrow night when the fast Port Hope juniors will clash with the local kids in a junior O.H.A. fixture that should provide the fastest kind of hockey. The locals proved by their splendid playing against Cobourg last night that they are a clever bunch of young hockey players who are well worth the support of the citizens. They will have a hard task before them tomorrow night in beating Port Hope who oput the Indian sign on the Cobourg aggregation by a score of 9—4 on New Year's night, and who expect to beat the locals here tomorrow night. The weather man has promised good ice in which case the fans will see a contest that they will remember for some time as the locals excel in fast going, especially the forward line who were handicapped to some extent by the sticky ice. The locals are confident of beating the speedy Lakeshore bunch to-morrow night although they realize that the visitors are a good team. There is great interest being taken in the juniors this year and the fans who saw last night's game will be there to a man tomorrow night realizing that they will get hockey from the drop of the hat. The Peterborough team will be the same as defeated Cobourg last night, and it looks good enough for any combination that the visitors can send along.

There should be a big crowd on hand to encourage the juniors.

Bro. E. W. Elcome was presented with a past president's jewel, a handsome emblematic token for good service to the S. O. E. It was inscribed as follows: "Presented to Brother E. W. Elcome, P. P., by Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, for service rendered 1908." The installing officer made the presentation.

The Lodge Trustees were also remembered. Bro. H. Long was presented with a gold ring and Bro. D. Curtis with a gold pin, both emblematic of the S. O. E. Brother S. A. Oke made the presentations.

Bro. Stephen Coveney received a jewel of merit also presented by Bro. Oke. Mr. Coveney has held the position for 21 years and his good service was encouraged in the address accompanying the presentation.

The whole evening was a very pleasant surprise for everybody. It was decided to hold an anniversary banquet on Thursday, Jan. 21st. This will be to commemorate the 25th anniversary of Lansdowne Lodge's inception.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLE

Readily Relieved by Mixture Which Any One Can Prepare at Home.

SIMPLE RECIPE GIVEN

Here is a prescription that anyone can mix at home. Any good prescription pharmacy can supply the ingredients named at little cost; being composed of vegetable extracts, it is harmless and inexpensive. Best of all it does its work well, relieving even the worst forms of bladder trouble, frequent urination, backache, kidney complaint, and by its direct action upon the eliminative tissue of the kidneys makes those most vital organs rid the system of waste matter and uric acid which causes rheumatism.

Here it is; try it if you suffer. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Former sufferers often state that one week's use shows curative results in nearly every instance, and such symptoms as lame back, frequent desire to urinate, pain in bladder and even chronic rheumatism are generally relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

COMMISSIONER TO BE WELCOMED

Ottawa People Confer Honour Upon Mr. Wm. Hutchinson To-day.

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Jan. 5—Mr. William Hutchinson, ex-C. P. Canadian Exhibition Commissioner, who has been away for four years will reach Ottawa to-day and the general feeling is that this Ottawan, who has looked after the interests of Canada so ably in connection with international exhibitions held at Buffalo and St Louis, and in Japan, Italy, Ireland, and elsewhere should be welcomed back to the capital. Mayor elect Hopewell suggested this morning that he would like to have as many of the citizens as possible turn out and welcome Mr Hutchinson when he reaches the Union Station at 11.45. He is so well known here, and has always gone out of his way to such an extent to advance the interests of Ottawa and Canada generally that it is felt his homecoming should be recognized in some way. Members of the council will drive to the station and then escort Mr. Hutchinson to his home.

PEARSON IS SAID TO HAVE POSED AS BIBLE AGENT IN THE DAY TIME WHILE HE WAS A BURGLAR AT NIGHT

Much Jewellery Found in His Room in Altoona, and He is Suspected of Having Written Black Hand Letters.

WIFE IS ALMOST PENNILESS

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 5—Left almost penniless, Mrs. Silas H. Pearson, is now being cared for by County Detective George W. Murren, who caused her husband's arrest on the charge of shooting Jacob Knoedler of Wilkock. Knoedler was shot while his store was being robbed November 21. Mrs Pearson, after the arrest of her husband upon their arrival in the city from Peterborough, Canada, where they had spent the holiday with Pearson's mother, was taken to Detective Murren's home, where Mrs. Murren has volunteered to keep her until her husband's friends in Canada can come to her aid.

An affecting scene occurred at the jail this morning when Pearson was taken out of the prison by Detective Murren, who took him to Wilkock, where Knoedler will this afternoon attempt to identify him as the man who shot him. Mrs Pearson had waited for several hours to see her husband and wept when she bade him farewell. Pearson seemed relieved when told by Detective Murren that his wife would be well cared for until her friends came to her assistance.

Detective Robert J. McIntosh was taken to Altoona to get the goods which Pearson is said to have confessed he stole in company with William H. Coates, December 8, 1906. Coates, who has since reformed, served a sentence in the Huntingdon Reformatory for that burglary but Pearson was never arrested. In the latter's rooms in Altoona, the detectives found several hundred dollars' worth of clothing and underwear, watches, bolts, knives, spoons, etc. He is alleged to have stolen at night in Altoona and posed as a Bible agent in the day time. He shipped most of his alleged plunder to Canada. Altho the black hand letter received by Frank Knoedler, a brother of the injured man which read "you will be next. We know when you go out at night" and which was decorated freely with cross bones, daggers, and black hands, is said to be in exactly the same printed handwriting as found on an agents' order book belonging to Pearson, he denies having written it, and Chief George H. Waggoner said this morning that he will not prosecute on this charge.

The detectives found dynamite nitroglycerine and several burglars tools in a trunk of Pearson's together with a box filled with gold wedding rings. It is thought the jewellery was stolen recently in Mckeesport. These were located in a Pittsburg rooming house.

HOME FROM THE WEST AFTER TEN YEARS IN SASKATCHEWAN

Mr. and Mrs. E. McIlmoyle and child o' Glen Ewen, Sask. formerly o' Smith, are home on a visit to Mr McIlmoyles parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McIlmoyle, Selwyn. Mr. McIlmoyle has been in the West for ten years, and has been engaged in a general business. He speaks in the highest terms of the future possibilities of the Saskatchewan country. He says many people from Peterborough have gone into that country and are doing well, who were not so prosperous in older Ontario. Some people from Peterborough County have materially bettered their positions by the change of climate and conditions. The immigration is rapidly going into the new country, and as the country is filling up land is rapidly rising in value.

The crops in southern Saskatchewan last season were excellent and prices were good. The accounts that were carried over for the season of 1907 are being more than paid with the crops of 1908, and the farmers have good balances to their credit.

The crops in southern Saskatchewan last season were excellent and the farmers' interests are being well looked after. They fully appreciate that it is the farmer who is making that country. Railways are being built everywhere, and the government system of telephone is meeting with great popularity.

Mr. McIlmoyle expects to spend the hard months of winter in Ontario and will return to the West in the early spring. Mr. McIlmoyles friends are pleased to see him and glad to realize that his expectations of the West are being fully realized.

Arrested For Horse Stealing While Asleep In Local Hotel

Quietly and peacefully dozing in an arm chair in a sitting room of one of the local hotels last night, William Fanning, of Dartford, was rudely disturbed from his pleasant dreams by the hand of the law falling on his shoulders. P. C. Newhall and P. C. Meagher effected his arrest shortly after nine o'clock.

It was learned that Fanning decamped from a farm house near Campbellford on Monday night with the farmer's horse and buggy. He arrived in Peterborough yesterday sometime, and it is understood endeavoured to sell the outfit in the city. In this he was not successful as the horse was found in the hotel stables. Fanning appeared to be quite young, and is a stranger in Peterborough. When he was arrested a reporter, who happened to be near, heard him protest rather vigorously demanding, "What they were taking him for." Shortly afterwards the facts were presented to him and he acknowledged that they were correct.

Accident to Mr. A. B. Northey on Saturday—Knee Painfully Injured.

A serious accident occurred on the farm of Mr. A. B. Northey on Saturday last in which Mr. Northey was painfully injured while engaged with his son, Albert, in taking out rafters with a horse and chain. They were taking a rafter around a corner when it became caught between some small stumps and the brush with the result that the chain became twisted in the grab hook slipping through so that the rafter flew back with tremendous force, striking Mr. Northey on the knee and bruising the member severely. He drove to Lakefield where Dr. Baker attended to his injuries. He will be confined to his bed for some time as a result of the accident.

LOCAL POULTRY SHOW COMPARES FAVOURABLY WITH GUELPH ONE, SAYS JUDGE BENNETT OF TORONTO

Many People See the Exhibit in the Market Hall—600 Birds are on View and a Great Showing is Made.

A BIG CROWD IS EXPECTED

That the Peterborough Poultry Association has scored a remarkable success in its first show now being held in the Market Hall is the verdict of every one of the many people who have visited the building since the show opened yesterday morning. Nearly every one of the 325 coops provided by the management is filled and over 600 fine birds are on exhibition, making the collection one that is well worth seeing. There is a splendid showing in many lines, especially in the Black Minorca class in which there is a grand exhibit.

The judge, Mr. J. E. Bennett, of Toronto, started in this morning on the work of judging and expects to have the awards completed sometime this afternoon. He is delighted with the show and stated after looking over the hall that the event compared most favourably with the poultry show in Guelph. The number of birds was not as great, but the quality was as good and he stated that he had never seen better arrangements made for the accommodation and showing of the birds, and for the show generally. Mr. Bennett is undoubtedly the most widely known and clever judge in Ontario. Such high praise coming from such an authority is indeed most gratifying to the directors who have worked so faithfully to make the event a success.

A large crowd inspected the show last night and were delighted with what they had seen and this morning there was a good attendance. This afternoon and to-night big crowds are looked for.

Husband Left His Wife In Police Station Over Night; He Returned To The Hotel

Woman is 76 Years of Age—Her Husband Works Every Day But Says He Cannot Pay for Her Maintenance in the Home—Has One Son and Two Daughters.

SPENT THE NIGHT IN CELL

Last night about ten o'clock an elderly man and his wife entered the police station. About twenty minutes later the husband was seen coming out alone. This morning it was learned that the little old woman spent the long hours of the night in a cell on the bare, hard board which was provided for vags, lawbreakers and criminals.

Connected with this affair, which would almost escape casual notice, is a story that touches the human side of every nature. The denouement came this morning, when the husband appeared in court against his wife on some nominal charge, and Magistrate Dumble found himself called upon to decide what was to be done with the woman. He was very loth to sending her to jail, but this course seemed to be the only one open to him. He asked the husband what his wages were, and learned that the man was receiving $8.00 a week. Mr. Dumble suggested that he could pay for his wife's maintenance in the Protestant Home, but the husband demurred. He had to pay four dollars a week at a hotel for his own board, and by the time he clothed himself and met insurance and other expenses, the eight dollars were gone. His Worship informed him that he could make sufficient provision if he really wanted to, and he would very likely be compelled to do so. At any rate the woman was remanded for a week and will spend that time in the COUNTY JAIL.

The woman was sitting in a chair in the police station this morning. She was small and her seventy-six years manifested themselves by countless lines on her face and by the white hairs that partially hid themselves beneath her bonnet.

Her hands gave evidence of long years of toil and labour in housework.

Refused to Kiss him

The husband had been plainly told what his actions bespoke him to do. Chief Rozzel had added a few words to what the magistrate had said. There were only two others in the room. The husband had started to walk to the door, to return to his work, (his wife going to jail), when he stopped, came back to where she was sitting and bent down to kiss her. She thought he was going to whisper something to her, but when she suddenly divined his intention she turned abruptly away, and put up her hand to make sure that she would prevent him. She was heard to say something under her voice, which only showed contempt for the man.

Such is the story. The magistrate again pointed out the necessity for some place for homeless women and had there been an institution of that kind the woman would not have been forced to spend last night's long weary hours in the dark, uninviting cell at the police station.

The husband, in his own behalf, stated that his wife gave him much trouble in one way and another. Besides the husband there is a son and two daughters, all of whom are married. What the magistrate said about the neglect of their mother was not exactly a compliment.

Mr. Dan Whetung's Horse Broke Through The Ice At Chemong

Mr. Dan Whetung the veteran driver of the Chemong stage, came within an ace of losing his team of horses this morning while crossing the lake. He had left the usual route across and was travelling at a fair rate. It was this fact that Dan says prevented a serious loss. One of the horses broke through the ice but was kept from getting into the water by the other animal dragging it along. The ice was only about four inches thick at that place.

Fire In Ennismore Damages Property To The Extent Of $500

Mr Michael Crough's farm in Ennismore, was the scene of a disastrous fire between three and four o'clock yesterday morning, when the combined stable and driving shed were destroyed by a blaze, the origin of which is a mystery. There was no fire around the building, which was situated one hundred yards away from the other barn. A party had been held at the residence of Mr. John Young, Mr. Crough's neighbour, and some of the guests noticing the blaze drove over and awoke Mr. Crough, but it was too late to do anything to save the building and its contents. A team of horses were in the structure and they, with twenty-five hundredweight of hay and some farm implements, were destroyed. Mr. Crough estimates his loss at $500, and there is no insurance. He is at a loss to account for the blaze.

"Oh! Joe! Why did you do it?" Scene from "Paid in Full," which appears here at the Grand next Monday, January 11th, coming here direct from Princess Theatre, Toronto, where it is playing all this week.

MRS. PEARSON HAS LEFT FOR HER HOME

Examiner Special

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Silas A. Pearson has left for her home in Peterborough, enough money having been subscribed by the county detectives who placed her husband in custody, to send her back to Canada. The chief detective is reported to have said that Pearson is of unsound mind and the Peterborough man's defence is that the evil was in him. He has begged the authorities to give him a swift trial as he cannot bear the suspense.

FOR CHARITYS SAKE.

With the lessons of love taught by the softened aura that marks the Christmastide saturating mind and heart, it is natural that the spirit of charity should be in livelier evidence than perhaps at any other season of the year. This makes the date chosen for the birthday celebration of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society an appropriate one. The proceeds of the concert to be given under the auspices of St. Peter's T. A. S. on Friday evening next, to mark its ninth anniversary, are to be devoted to charitable purposes, a circumstance which indicates a hearty public co-operation. A concert of this kind is no new exercise of the functions of the society, though it may take a new form. It is essentially charitable in its character, for greater love cannot be shown in secular or semi-secular activities than the work of saving men and homes from the evil effects of intemperance. In this respect, having regard to the higher meaning of charity, St. Peter's T. A. S. is a charitable organization, and no form of charity is foreign to its objects and achievements. In the promotion of live temperance reform the society has done a noble work, which has been noted with approval and admiration and emulation by those interested in moral improvement outside the Christian pale that surrounds the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE.

The west is deeply interested in the transportation problem. It realizes that every increased facility for getting its crop to the market increases the value of the products of the soil. The Hudson Bay route is regarded as important in this regard. The Edmonton Bulletin comes to the defence of this route, which its enemies say loses prestige from the fact of a wreck having recently occurred in its waters. The Bulletin says that the loss of the Hudson Bay Company's vessel Stork in James Bay will doubtless be seized upon by the opponents of the Hudson Bay route to illustrate the perils of navigation in the northern waters and to discredit the project for the opening of the Hudson Bay route to Britain. Such was the use made of a former wreck a few years ago, and there is every reason to suppose the present misfortune will be twisted into the same service. There is nothing in the circumstances to warrant such moralizing. The accident occurred not in the Hudson Straits nor the Hudson Bay, nor on or near any part of the route travelled by ships en route from Churchill to the Atlantic. It occurred in James Bay quite as far from Churchill as from Montreal. From the fact of the accident it would be in every respect as proper to argue the impracticability of the St. Lawrence route as the danger of the Hudson Bay route. If crack modern, steel-built liners, manned by the most skilful living navigators and bristling with search-lights, occasionally land on a mud bank in the St. Lawrence, where we have spent fortunes dredging and placing buoys and lights, what significance is to be attached to the fact that a trading tub gets stranded once in many years on a sand-bar in James Bay. Considering that the whole extent of the shore line of the northern waters has as yet not a lighthouse nor a buoy, the wonder is that any vessel obliged to skirt those shores and thread its way into the narrow and unmarked channels, ever escapes. The loss of the Stork offers no more evidence on the practicability or safety of the Hudson Bay route than on the possibility of sailing the St. Lawrence or the Great Lakes.

It is assumed that the Ontario Legislature will meet in the first week in February.

CANADA POSTOFFICE SERVICE.

It is highly creditable to the administration of the Postoffice Department that while the needs of a period of rapid expansion have been met, the result of the past year's operations has been a handsome surplus of over a million dollars. There has been an increase of 446 in the number of postoffices, 546 in the number of postal note offices, 129 in the number of money order offices, and 41 in the number of savings bank offices. The most remarkable increase was in the mileage of mail carriage, that by railways increasing 656 miles, while the total increase in mail routes by railway, water, and ordinary land carriage was 1,129,779 miles. The year's increase in the total number of letters and postal cards mailed is estimated at close on thirty-five millions. This expansion has been accompanied by many important improvements in the service. Free delivery has been put in operation in Peterborough, Guelph, Berlin, Stratford, Windsor, and St. Catharines in the Province, also in Sherbrooke, St. Hyacinthe, Three Rivers, Charlottetown, Brandon, Calgary, and Edmonton. The daily newspaper rate between Canada and the United States was reduced to one cent a pound. Among the improvements effected was the introduction of the international reply coupon system, whereby the sender of a letter to any other country which has adopted the system can make provision for prepaying postage on a reply.

The expansions and improvements of the year have necessitated an increase of $578,442 in the total expenditure, but the revenues have so fully responded that the year's surplus is $1,101,826. This favourable result justifies a still more progressive policy, and that has already taken form in the system of rural mail delivery experimentally introduced since the close of the past fiscal year.—Toronto Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The rumour is denied that Mr. Cawthra Mulock, of Toronto, is to be made a Senator. Toronto is already well represented in the Senate, and it is probable that the new Senator from Ontario will be selected from the northern or northwestern part of the province.

The Globe points out that many electors, when they get behind the screen at a polling booth, do not know how many aldermen they are to vote for, and suggests that the ballot should contain such information plainly printed. Another hint might be given the municipal election authorities. When we have three by-laws to vote upon, as was the case on Monday, the object of the by-law might be printed in bold type to easily catch the eye instead of being concealed in fine print expressed in confusing legal language.

HAWKING MACHINES.

Catarrh Sufferers Are Nothing But Hawking, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

It is possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform are being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from catarrh when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a pleasant, medicated, and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes and crusts in the nose in a few days.

Mrs. H. W. Wilson, of Johnson, street, Wallaceburg, Ont., says: "Yes, we are great friends of Hyomei for the reason that Mr. Wilson has had catarrh for several years and tried several remedies and doctors, but nothing has relieved the trouble like Hyomei. His trouble is from pains across the eyes and a burning or huskiness in the throat. Sometimes much difficulty in breathing, the glands in his eyes and nose swollen and the disease made him literally sick all over. He cannot say enough in praise of Hyomei, and there is nothing that can give better relief to catarrh than this remedy, which we heartily recommend."

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents each. Wm. Madill sells it and guarantees it to do exactly as advertised.

Hyomei also cures asthma, bronchitis, coughs, colds, and infant's croup.

PARK ST. CHURCH LITERARY EVENING

The literary evening at the Park St. Baptist Church was one of the most enjoyable of its kind given this season. The main feature of the evening was an address on "A Trip to the Holy Land," given by Mr. T. F. Matthews. Mr. Matthews gave a very graphic description of that interesting country, and all felt indebted to him for his kindness. Miss Ethel Hill, and a male quartette, consisting of Messrs Green, Miller, Davison, Tranter, also assisted in adding pleasure to the occasion. There was a large crowd present. The next address will be given by Mr. Ed. Elcome on "Happy Homes and How to Make Them," on the evening of February 1st, 1909.

MANY AGED PEOPLE

Endorse Vinol as the Best Body Builder and Strength Creator Any Old Person Can Take.

"At 75 years of age I became so run-down and weak that I was discouraged. I had taken many different tonics and medicines which were prescribed for me without gaining in strength. A friend advised me to try Vinol, saying that it was a cod liver and iron medicine sold on a positive guarantee to benefit or money refunded. I decided to do so and I am glad to say that it built me up wonderfully. I gained in strength until I felt like a new man. I consider Vinol the best tonic in the world for elderly people." Jacob Young, Norristown, Pa.

This is another instance which demonstrates the remarkable power of Vinol to create strength and build up health for old people after all other means have failed.

As we have yet to learn of an old person who has ever taken Vinol and has not been benefited by it we unhesitatingly say to any feeble old person in this town, come and get a bottle of Vinol and try it. If it does you no good we will return your money. We make this offer to show our faith. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough.

PRISONERS HAVE BEEN RELEASED

Castro's Political Prisoners Are Freed From Cells.

TWO CHAINED IN DUNGEON

Twenty-Seven Are All Who Remain of Despot's Enemies of Whom Droves Were Sent to Jail—Pathetic Scenes When Gaunt, Haggard Men Met Their Families Again — They Were Starved by the Jailers.

New York, Jan. 6.—Fuller details of the release of more than a score of Castro's political prisoners and the tales of treatment received in dungeons of Fort San Carlos, on an island off Maracaibo, were brought here yesterday by passengers who arrived on the steamer Secular.

The prisoners, 27 in number, were men of the best families in Venezuela. They were all that remained of the droves of prisoners that had been sent to the fort for political reasons by Castro during his term of power. Their deliverance came because of Castro's overthrow.

The prisoners, when they came aboard the steamer at Maracaibo, were well-dressed and shaved, but they were cadaverous and weak. Many could not walk. They said they had been systematically starved, the allowance for their keep presumably going into the pockets of their keepers or others in the Government employ. They subsisted on fish caught off the shore and cooked by themselves, as well as they could, and they had no tidings of their own families until released. The steamer's passengers were full of pity for the poor fellows, many of whom could not walk even a few steps without pain. Two, who were inseparable on the steamer, told of having been chained to the same post for months so closely together that the fetters ate into their flesh and pained them terribly when they attempted to move.

There were tearful scenes when the forlorn-looking prisoners were met by their families and friends. Gen. Bello, who had charge of Fort San Carlos and of the prisoners, was also a passenger on the steamer from Maracaibo to La Guaira. He is described as a bony, grizzled man of 50, and, according to the passengers, has a somewhat brutal appearance. He, perforce, had to go with his own prisoners. Several military-looking men accompanied him, ostensibly as a guard against violence from his former captives, but it was suspected that they were to see that he went nowhere but to Caracas. Bello enjoyed himself about the decks of the steamer and professed confidence that his actions as governor of San Carlos would not only be endorsed but commended at Caracas.

ICE FAMINE FEARED.

Montreal Promoters May Have None For Their Palace.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—The railway companies, having adhered to their determination not to aid the carnival, the promoters have signed the following:

"Although the railway companies represented in the Eastern Canadian Passenger Association have decided not to subscribe to the fund of the winter carnival, it will take more than this circumstance to prevent the plans of the carnival committee from being carried out.

"The people want a carnival, and they want an ice palace above everything else, and if there is any ice they will see one on Feb. 20. We have been completing our plans for the ice palace, and we shall instruct the contractor to go ahead and build the structure as soon as there is ice.

"The thing that is bothering us most now, is the lack of material with which to build our palace, and the possibility of an ice famine.

"Wouldn't it be curious if, after all, the cry about our winter there should not be sufficient cold weather to make enough ice to build the crystal fort or palace without manufacturing artificial ice. We have had winters here too warm for a healthy ice palace to stand."

Ontario May Contribute.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—A proposal to vote a contribution for the benefit of the sufferers by the Italian earthquake was before the Ontario Cabinet yesterday. Consideration was postponed until to-morrow for the purpose of receiving further information.

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

ITCHING RASH CURED.

Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."

SORES ON FACE.

Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, as I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

LIFE TERM FOR ROSE.

Toronto Criminal Gets Limit For His Various Crimes.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—Alexander Rose, the daring criminal and jail-breaker, was yesterday sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Winchester.

He received sentence in a dazed manner and sank into the dock as the judge uttered the dread committal. Except for the sound of the judge's voice addressing the prisoner a death-like silence pervaded the court room, and at the conclusion of the severe sentence all eyes were directed towards Rose, who almost immediately went off into a faint.

It was about twenty minutes after four o'clock, on the retirement of a jury in another case, when Rose was led into the dock by Constables Stewart and Brown. There he sat with bowed head to await his sentence.

County Crown Attorney Drayton then addressed his honor, asking that judgment be passed upon the prisoner on the two charges of wounding with intent, on which he had pleaded guilty. The crimes for which he will have to pay the penalty were assaults on May I on Ethel Skitch in Wellwood's store, and on Allan G. Duncan in a store at the corner of John and Adelaide streets. The third charge, that of breaking jail, Mr. Drayton did not press.

Judge's Interrogation.

"Rose, have you anything to say for yourself," said the judge as the prisoner rose to his feet.

Mr. Curry, in appealing for mercy, addressed his honor, in which he drew attention to the fact that the prisoner had been subject to epileptic fits and also uncontrollable fits of cruelty. He believed there was a great deal of irresponsibility in Rose's character and make up, but he knew, to successfully raise the insanity plea he would have to prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that the prisoner did not know what he was doing when he committed the crimes.

HINDUS WRECK MOSQUE.

Riots In India Necessitate Interference of Troops.

Calcutta, Jan. 6.—The religious riots between Mohammedans and Hindus, have taken a more serious turn again, requiring the intervention of British troops yesterday at Titaghur, who fired on the Hindu mob.

The Hindus had resumed the attacks of two previous days on the mosque at Titaghur because the Mohammedans had sacrificed cows.

The Hindus destroyed the sacred furniture in the mosque and partially demolished the walls. Inflamed Mohammedans gathered to the defence of the mosque and were subsequently surrounded by a military cordon, which formed a barrier between the Mohammedans and the Hindu rioters, who assaulted the military in an endeavor to come to close quarters with the Mohammedans.

The troops fired on the zealots, killing and wounding a number of them.

Isolated combats between Hindus and Mohammedans are taking place throughout the disturbed district.

Mohammedans from more remote quarters are making their way to Titaghur to revenge the Hindu insults to their faith.

Titaghur is a small city about 125 miles to the north of Calcutta.

Two Workmen Hurt.

Guelph, Jan. 6.—Early yesterday morning, while one of the immense furnaces of the Page-Hersey Iron & Tube Co. was being torn down, the big structure of brick and mortar, about 18 feet high, suddenly collapsed. Two of the workmen, an Italian, Turoni, and Valentine Beliskie, were crushed against the wall by the mass of hot bricks and mortar, one being covered to the neck and the other half way up his body.

One had a broken leg and both were terribly cut and bruised by the bricks, which, being hot, had burned the flesh. They will likely recover.

Marine Officials Suspended.

Halifax, Jan. 6.—As a result of the Marine enquiry at Quebec, the agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department at Halifax, has received instructions to suspend C. T. Schmidt, boiler inspector; Chief Engineer Stuart of the steamer Aberdeen, and Assistant Engineer Leech of the same steamer, which is now at Halifax. Wm. Sutherland has been appointed chief engineer pro tem, and John Beaulands of the dockyard staff appointed second engineer.

London, Jan. 6.—The German-Canadian Economical Association, a body of influential Germans formed for the promotion of better trade relations between Germany and Canada, invited Mr. Fielding to visit Berlin as their guest and accept a public banquet. He has been obliged to decline.

Melba to Sing In Naples.

New York, Jan. 6.—Mme. Melba the operatic star, will give a performance at the San Carlo Opera, Naples, on Jan. 31, for the benefit of the 'quake sufferers. She arrives at Naples on the morning of Jan. 31 and sails for Australia at midnight, direct-ly after the performance.

DESTRUCTION JUST AS WAS REPORTED

War Correspondent Describes Terrible Scenes in Italy

WORSE THAN PORT ARTHUR

William Maxwell of London Daily Mail Says All the Artillery in the World in Six Months Could Not Do So Much Damage—Strange Tales Are Told by Survivors —Queen's Sewing Circle.

London, Jan. 6.—Despatches from special correspondents ordered to the devastated districts in Italy confirm the worst reports. William Maxwell, war correspondent of The Daily Mail, in the course of a long telegram, dated at Messina on Friday, which reached London only yesterday, says:

"The Chinese cities of Port Arthur after bombardment by sea and land was not so ruined. A six months' cannonade by all the artillery in the world would not produce the results of ten seconds of nature's wrath."

In a despatch dated at Reggio on Monday Maxwell says: "Here destruction is complete. More than half of the population still lies buried in the ruins. The mephitic odor of the dead is everywhere. San Giovanni, opposite Messina, must have the same epitaph."

It is impossible to enumerate the number of relief committees of all kinds, each with a practical object. Queen Helena, perhaps the most useful worker of all, has had heavy furniture removed from three big rooms in the royal palace, putting in tables, machines and forty or fifty work baskets and chairs, and nothing else. Here ladies of the oldest aristocracy and working women and girls are gathered together in friendly intimacy, cutting out and sewing as though their lives depended on the finishing.

During the sewing in the royal workroom many strange stories are told about the earthquake. The little princesses were particularly interested in following the tale of an old woman, looking to be about a hundred years old, who refused to leave the ruins without her little treasure, and who was so obstinate that she had to be left to her fate. Another strange story was that of a number of sailors who heard a queer noise under the ruins, evidently something human. So they dug on, to find a woman and a child in a little shed which had resisted the shock and fall of the debris. They were found along with a cow which yielded enough milk to keep them both alive. At last all got so weak that they couldn't lift their heads, but all were alive when rescued, having given warmth the one to the other. Several children taken from the ruins in the first days when the hunger was not so pressing cried and kicked until their favorite dolls or toys were found. One youngster was found still clasping a teddy-bear in his arms.

Descriptions received yesterday from Messina and Reggio indicate that, although the situation is in some respects better, fresh complications have arisen. Typhoid fever has broken out at Messina. The lack of pure water and the increasing pollution of the air cause the physicians in charge of the Red Cross work to fear a terrible epidemic.

MILITIA PEW RENT.

Government Will Pay $2.50 Per Man After This.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Militia orders contain an announcement of interest to the clergy. It is a notification that when the attendance of troops at services of any denomination is considered by officers commanding at a station to be necessary, clergymen may on recommendation of that officer, be paid at the rate of $2.50 per annum for each officer, non-commissioned officer and man of the permanent force professing himself a member of the denomination to which the clergyman belongs. This rate shall be in full payment of necessary new accommodation, and in consideration of the discharge of all clerical duties. The order applies to both Protestant and Roman Catholic clergy.

Another order provides that in future helmets will not be issued to rural corps, except to such corps as are already in possession of them.

Notice is given that the Glengarry Highlanders, an infantry regiment organized during Lord Dundonald's time, has gone out of existence.

CASE OF BRONCHIAL CATARRH PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MR. J. C. HERVUS PELLETIER

Bronchial Catarrh Unless Stopped Often Spreads To The Lungs, Causing Catarrh of Lungs.

J. C. Hervus Pelletier, Dep't de l'Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"The Peruna is particularly efficacious in the cure of catarrhal affections of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is in consequence the remedy most appreciated here in Ottawa. Six bottles cured me this winter of bronchitis. I am completely restored and I owe thanks to the Peruna. I have recommended this remedy to a large number of my friends afflicted with the same trouble, and they have verified my good opinion of this valuable remedy."

CATARRH of the bronchial tubes often very quickly becomes catarrh of the lungs. Catarrh of the lungs makes the patient an easy victim to the germs that cause tuberculosis. Sound lungs protect themselves against disease germs.

Peruna has acquired a lasting reputation in relieving catarrh of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. This should prevent the tubercular bacilli from gaining any foothold in the lungs, and saves the patient from the inevitable result.

Mr. Wickliffe R. Smith, Editor of The Potlatch Herald, formerly Principal of the Schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes:

"For some time I suffered with catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes. I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief.

"Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, made me sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me. I shall be glad to recommend it to those suffering with catarrh."

ELECTED OFFICERS FOR PRESENT YEAR

At Annual Meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the George street Methodist Church held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon, when the reports of the various committees were presented.

Everything shows a year of progress and considerable work has been done. The officers for 1909 were elected as follows—

Pres.—Mrs. A. W. Greenman.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. S. R. Armstrong
2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. Geo Elliott
Sec.—Mrs. B. Shortly.
Treas.—Mrs. F. Mason.

Mrs. Jas. Stubbs was elected head visitor to assist the pastor and oversee the visiting committee.

Another progressive year is looked forward to and much good work should be accomplished.

WATER GAUGE BURST.

C. P. R. Fireman Badly Scalded.

C. P. R. fireman, Geo. H. Duffus, who lives in Robertson street, Fort William, while on his engine near Westford happened a nasty accident. The water gauge of the locomotive burst and scalded the whole left side of his face and head terribly.

"It so happened," said Duffus to our representative, "that I had a box of Zam-Buk in my pocket, which I used for a sore on my lip, and when I had recovered from the first shock of the accident, I produced the balm and had it applied freely to the scalded parts. At the same I applied it I was suffering acute agony, but within a wonderfully short time Zam-Buk gave me ease. I was able to continue my journey, and upon reaching home I obtained more Zam-Buk and continued the treatment. It acted wonderfully well, and in a few days had the wound nicely healing. I don't know anything so fine as a healer of burns, scalds, cuts and similar injuries which workers are so liable to; and in my opinion a box of Zam-Buk should be kept handy in every worker's home."

There is something different and superior about Zam-Buk. Time and again workers in all branches of trade have proved its vast superiority over the advertised ointments and salves of the day. No doubt the fact that Zam-Buk is made entirely from herbal essences and extracts, while ordinary ointments contain more or less animal fats and oils, goes a long way to explain Zam-Buk's superiority. However this may be, the fact remains that in four continents to which it has been introduced within ten years it has become the leading household balm.

For burns, cuts, scalds, eczema, piles, ulcers, ring-worm, itch, sciatica, bad leg, festering sores, chapped places, cold sores frost bites and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is beyond doubt a most marvellous cure.

Druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box and the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, will mail a box, post free, upon receipt of price, to any of our readers who may have difficulty in obtaining a supply of the genuine Zam-Buk from their local stores.

Pictures for Schools

Dr. Morrison stated that he had been considering a plan which might result in the securing of suitable pictures for adorning the rooms of the schools and the Collegiate. He believed that there were in many homes in Peterborough pictures which the owners would gladly give as a trust for this purpose. They were probably stored away and not in use but would be suitable for the local schools.

Mr. Dumble also spoke of obtaining chalk copies of some of the best works of famous artists. He felt that the only way to cultivate an artistic taste among pupils was to place before them copies of standard works which they would unconsciously learn to appreciate. These matters will be discussed later when some action will probably be taken.

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO FEEL "DOPEY"

—to have headaches—an easily-tired body—a stuffy-feeling brain—even for part of the time. There are too many keen alert men and women, always at their best, to give much chance of success to one thus handicapped.

These things are the direct results of a sluggish liver—constipated bowels—dry skin — overworked kidneys — in short, of a body whose sewers are clogged.

Nothing opens up these outlets of the waste, and clears the system of poison so gently, yet so effectively, as "Fruit-a-tives." "Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes combined—by a process that greatly increases their medicinal value—with valuable tonics and internal antiseptics, and made into tablets.

Take one or two "Fruit-a-tives" every night, eat plenty of ripe fruit, and see how quickly your brain clears and headaches leave you. 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

JOURNEYMEN BARBERS BANQUET
BOSSES AND APPRENTICES AT ANNUAL AFFAIR ON MONDAY

Enjoyable Time Spent Around the Festive Board When Good Will Was Renewed and the Old Sympathies Strengthened.

THE TOASTS AND SPEECHES

The eighth annual banquet of the local Journeymen Barbers' Union, No. 402, was held on Monday in Hooper's parlours at 9.30 o'clock p. m., when the election returns had been received, sufficient to indicate the winners. The bosses and apprentices were the guests of the journeyman, who proved themselves capital hosts. The affair was thoroughly enjoyed by the thirty-five members of the union and their friends who assembled around the festive board.

The banquet itself was all that could be desired. The good things were "trimmed," according to the regulations of the union, and more than satisfied the wants of the union man.

Toast List

The toast list which followed brought the bosses and men closer together, and under sympathetic conditions. Mr. Harry Gainey accepted the duties of toast master in an entertaining manner. The toasts duly honoured were as follows:

"The King," which was honoured in the usual manner.

"The International Union," proposed by Mr. E. Hooey, responded to by Mr George Brosseau and Mr. Harry Gainey.

"The Bosses," proposed by Mr. H. Gainey, responded by Mr. Jos. Lewis, and Mr. H. Wilson.

"The Journeymen Barbers' Union," proposed by Mr. Ed. Wright, responded to by Mr. Geo. Campbell and Geo Hall.

"The Apprentices," proposed by Mr. Alb. Lewis and responded to by several apprentices.

The toast of the "Ladies," was honoured in the prettiest compliments of the evening.

Benefits of the Union

One of the most important addresses of the evening was that given by Mr Jas. Lewis, in response to the toast of the bosses. He referred to the many benefits that the barbers now enjoyed as a result of the union in Peterborough. Better prices are being received and the hours have been appreciably shortened. The trade has been raised from the drudgery of long hours to a fair day's work. Mr. Lewis spoke strongly in favour of the union, which, he hoped, to see grow in Peterborough.

SUPREMACY OF CHRIST IN BUSINESS; LIFE SUBJECT AT TWO MEETINGS

Week of Prayer Services Was Continued at Mark Street and St. Andrew's Last Evening.

INSPIRING ADDRESSES GIVEN

It is gratifying to all concerned to note the large congregations that meet night after night. There were two such services last night, but this did not prevent a large congregation assembling in St .Andrew's Church. Rev. Mr. Manning was in the chair. Special prayers were offered for those who are in charge of the great financial institutions and loan companies, for merchants, traders and toilers.

Rev. Canon Davidson gave the address of the evening, based on Matt. VII., 12, and Matt V., 20. It was exceedingly practical and pithy. The questions at issue were Religion and Business. Business he defined as that with which we are busy, that part of our work for which we receive remuneration. It therefore covers a large part of life, and Religion has a very large share in which to exert its influence.

Religion he defined as union with God, and no one can come into touch with God without having a desire to apply what they learned of God to their own life.

He likened men's lives to houses, some one story, some two. Many men are satisfied with one story — the every day activities with a smattering of morality. Many others put up a mere skeleton of daily duties for the first story, but make a very great pretence when it comes to the second story of religious life. What we want is first story principles applied to every day life.

In emphasizing the life of Christ we must not omit the fundamental principles of the Ten Commandments. Life is righteousness — right relation to God and to men. We, for this evening must look to the second. We need common honesty. Let us look to ourselves, not concluding that we are honest, others are not. Hobbes y is a common trait. We should avoid bringing temptationt o others. The public, by demanding something for nothing, lead those behind the counter to attempt to deceive them. Pay for what you get. Be more honest, Be more truthful. Be prompt. The happiness and welfare of many people are in the hands of the public. Pay your accounts, and if living beyond your means, be honest enough to change.

Be honest also with time. Keeping the Sabbath Day yourselves give others a chance to keep it. The correction of present conditions of late shopping on Saturday and its results on Sunday, lie at the doors of the citizens of Peterborough. We deprive many of part of their Sunday. The present co-operation of the business men as exemplified in the druggists of this city is a matter for congratulation. Let the public co-operate with them.

The meeting to-night is in the George street Methodist church. The subject is "The Supremacy of Jesus in the Home."

Mark St. Service

The following in connection with the services at Mark street has been forwarded to the Examiner;

Those who were present in Mark street church last night will not soon forget the earnest and forceful addresses delivered.

Rev. Mr. Riddiford, the speaker for the evening, amply demonstrated the fact that he, at least, was "quite, at home, away from home."

Selecting two suitable texts he spoke for something like half an hour on "The Supremacy of Christ in Business Life." Being a comparative stranger in town, and quite unbiassed, I had a choice between two meetings, both with one object, and choose the lesser of the two on the sound (?) Scotch principle that "guid gear gangs in wee buik." Nor was I disappointed; seldom have I listened to an address with more interest and, I humbly trust, with more profit, than I did last night.

I feel sure that every one present, including Mr. Riddiford himself, would have been glad if old Father Time could have been persuaded to stay his hand for half an hour or so; but, no; the hands of the clock went all too rapidly round to 9.15, reminding us of Tennyson's lines on "The Brook"—"Men may come and men may go, but I go on for ever."

I pen these lines in no idle mood but rather with the express purpose of showing a stranger's appreciation of your town's admirable Christian testimony.

The principle implied in the intercommunion of the various denominations of the Christian church is one that is dear to the heart of every right thinking follower of Him who said, "One is your Father, even God, and all ye are brethren."

If you have the slightest interest in the things that pertain to life and Godliness you should make a point of attending as many of the remaining meetings as you possibly can; they will help you, of that I am certain, for none of us is so good but that we could very well be a little better, if we just knew how.

Mr. Riddiford has the happy knack of blending humor with pathos and consequently the interest never flagged for a moment.—

The Twenty-fifth Anniversary Of The "Golden Lion" In Business

Twenty-five years in business is the proud record of Mr. Robt. Fair, the head of Robert Fair & Company, the well known George street dry goods firm. The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the business was reached some months ago, but Mr. Fair decided to postpone the celebration of the event with the customary sale until the first of this year. Now that the holiday rush is over, however, arrangements have been made to commemorate the event with a big sale, commencing on Monday next. Prices in white wear and other goods will be ruthlessly slaughtered and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the big firm promises to be one that the housewives of Peterborough will long remember, because of the bargains that will be available.

Mr Fair, when interviewed by the Examiner yesterday in connection with the history of the Golden Lion store in Peterborough, remarked that there had been great changes since he first started in Peterborough, not only in the business itself but in the city. Since his coming here Peterborough has more than doubled in size, and there were many changes of importance. The Golden Lion store had kept pace with the growth of the city and as the population of the latter increased the floor space of the store became greater. In the early days only a small ground floor and part of the second story was used, whereas now all four floors and basement are called into service. The staff employed, of course, has increased with the store until at the present time there is a veritable regiment of efficient, capable and courteous employees, who are ever ready to give prompt attention to the requirements of the customers.

Mr Fair has endeavoured to live up to the motto he had adopted in connection with his business, "the store where the goods always seem a little better at the same price than elsewhere," and the conducting of the business on lines which makes that motto possible has resulted in the phenomenal success of the Golden Lion establishment.

No doubt a very large number of Peterborough people, as well as Mr. Fair's friends in the surrounding district, will take part in the celebration of the anniversary by attending the big sale, which commences next week and which promises to surpass anything in this line that the firm has ever put on in their long career in Peterborough.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

If you have trouble with your eyes and are discouraged, consult the Tate-Taylor Optical Company's Trained Optician.

SELVIN AND COMPANY AT ROYAL THEATRE

Last night the Royal Theatre was again crowded to the doors at every performance. The new picture of the day that seemed to meet with most general approval was "Hunting the Whale." This film was secured at enormous expense by Pathe Freres of Paris, who sent an expert photographer on a special voyage with a whaling vessel to the South Pacific Ocean. In the picture one sees the giant of ocean speeds, as though from board ship. A whale is sighted, harpooned, brought alongside the ship, and then, when towed to land, cut up and the oil and whalebone removed.

The Selvin Co., in their very clever magician acts, elicited great applause from the audience. The disappearing scene, when a lady, from one moment in a velvet covered cabinet, and the next minute in the centre of the audience is one of the cleverest pieces of legerdemain ever produced on the Canadian stage. Prof. Selvin's slight of hand work is also particularly good.

Mr. Beveridge Miller rendered that fine old Scotch ballad "Annie Laurie" in his usual effective style.

PETERBORO' LADIES VISIT IN HAMILTON

Renew Friendships Formed Last Spring On European Tour.

Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Miss L. Davidson and Miss Morrow left to-day for Hamilton, where they are enjoying a pleasant re-union with friends whom they met on their extended tour through Europe and Asia last spring. They will likely be away until the end of the week.

The Farmers' Institute Meetings Are Proving Very Successful

That our farms are not producing the yields they ought was the burden of the address delivered by Mr. E. W. Kitchen, of Lovering, Ont., in his afternoon address before the supplementary meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, held at Stewart's Union Hall yesterday. He accounted for the decreased yields by the leaf soil and fibre, which were characteristic of our land when first cleared, having become almost wholly gone in many sections. "The first crops upon virgin soil were always the best and most easily obtained: in the early days we could grow anything," he said. "There was no trouble then about noxious weeds and crop failures. It is quite different now since the leaf soil has been lost."

Dairying in Peterboro County

The dairy cow and some results of the work carried on by the Cow Testing Associations, was dealt with by Mr. Ubas. C. Nixon, editor of the Farm and Dairy. He pointed out that we have more good cows than we ever suspected. The trouble is that we do not feed them up to their capacity. Many of the cows in Peterborough county are milked but for six months of the year. There is thus six months left in which we have to board the cows, and for which we get no returns. There is no reason why the dairy cows in Peterborough country could not be milked for ten months in the year as is being done in many sections of other parts of Ontario. Where dairying is carried on throughout the whole year, and where a proper system of feeding is followed, the average production of cows is more than double what it is where cows are milked for but five or six months an allowed to go dry the remainder of the year.

Conditions in New Brunswick

"What little the farmers of New Brunswick know, they have learned from you good people up here in Ontario," said Mr. C. F. Alward, a farmer from New Brunswick, who also addressed the meeting. "They have this advantage, however, and you must be careful lest they ship ahead of you in the long run in dairying, for they are only adopting the best of what you have to give them, and are leaving those things which are undesirable with you."

A large audience, which taxed the seating capacity of the hall, turned out to hear the speakers in the evening. Mr. Kitchen gave an address on our homes for our boys. Mr. Nixon addressed the audience on "Home Improvement and Agricultural Education." Mr. Alward dealt with the question of "Seed Selection," handling it in a way which was of great interest and of value to all. The speeches were interspersed with musical selections by Messrs. Devell and Hambridge. Miss Devell accompanied them most acceptably on the organ. Great credit is due to the energy and enthusiasm of the secretary of the institute, Mr. Wm. Collins, and to the genial president, Mr Telford, for the success of the meeting.

HAS BEEN CALLED GREAT IMPERIALIST

Henniker Heaton Pays Tribute to Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux.

IS SURE OF CHEAP CABLES

Englishman Is Confident of Postmaster-General's Ability to Carry Through the Project — Australia Will Join All-Red Route Conference and Will Support Penny Cable Scheme Financially.

London, Jan. 6.—At Melbourne the prospects of the consummation of the all-red route have been greatly improved by the conference yesterday between Dr. Coulter and Mr. Fisher, the Federal Premier, with Mr. Thomas, the Postmaster-General.

It is expected the latter will agree that Australia shall be represented at the proposed meeting of officials representing all the Governments interested to work out the details of the scheme. Mr. Coulter reported that the British and New Zealand Ministeries will adopt a favorable attitude. Mr. Thomas personally supports the scheme cordially and the conference will be resumed on the thirteenth.

Shown an Ottawa message to the effect that the Canadian and British Governments are considering a scheme for the establishment at a near date of two pence per word cablegrams, Mr. Henniker Heaton said Mr. Lemieux was a great imperialist.

"His presence here this winter gave an impetus to the movement for penny-a-word cables impossible of attainment otherwise. He left with the statement that he was quite satisfied regarding the results of his negotiations and that it would come. He would be back in the spring to conclude them in what he hoped would be a satisfactory manner.

"I am perfectly certain Mr. Lemieux will adopt one of two courses. He will either propose to the cable companies to reduce their rates so as to place cabling within the means of the mass of the people or in the event of their declining to meet him he will propose to construct with the aid of the British Government and the Governments of Australasia state-owned cable or cables capable of carrying from ten to twenty million words a year at a cost of two pence per word.

The moment Parliament meets Sir Edward Sassoon, who is chairman of the telegraph committee of the Commons, will summon a meeting in support of Mr. Lemieux. There is every reason to believe we shall have the support of Mr. Lloyd-George. Meanwhile I may say Mr. Lemieux has the strongest assurances of financial support from Australia."

Deal With Turkey.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The British Government, it is learned, has reached an understanding with the Turkish Government whereby the Sultan, as head of the Mohammedan faith shall use the influence of the priesthood in India to support the British rule there in return for active British diplomatic support in the Turkish controversy with European powers.

The Mohammedans of India number 62,000,000, and the loyalty is a powerful element in the growing disturbances.

Welcomed Home.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—When William Hutchinson, commissioner of Dominion exhibitions returned to Ottawa yesterday after an absence of four years in Europe, he was formally welcomed by Mayor Hopewell on behalf of the city, and by Peter Whelan on behalf of the Board of Trade. Mr. Hutchinson represented the capital in Parliament from 1896 to 1900, and was at one time president of the Canadian Central Exhibition Association.

Boy Let Go.

Omemee, Jan. 6.—F. D. Moore, K.C., county police magistrate, passed sentence on the youth who burned the barn of T. B. Leadly, Omemee, about two weeks ago. He was allowed to go on suspended sentence covering a period of two years.

To Stop Sunday Shows.

Montreal, Jan. 6.—The Lord's Day Alliance is planning to take steps to close all the Sunday shows in Montreal, which are now very numerous.

WHY AM I ILL?

HOW TO TELL.

Does every cold affect your back, and cause a feeling of chilliness, followed by disturbance of the kidney action.

Does the use of spirits, tea or beer excite the kidneys? Are you easily worried and annoyed over trifles? Are the feet and hands cold? Circulation bad? Do the feet and legs swell? Is there puffiness under the eyes? Do you have rheumatism, poor eyesight, headaches and backaches? Is there gravel or any unnatural action of the kidneys?

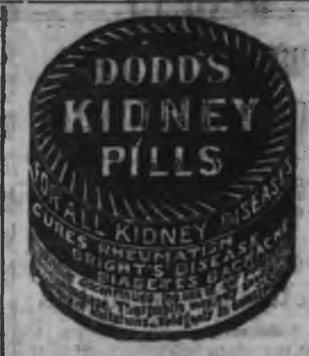
If you have any of the above symptoms your kidneys are either weak or diseased, and these symptoms are warnings of more serious troubles to follow; Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Dropsy.

Whatever you do, whatever you think your disease is, look well to your kidneys at the first sign of anything wrong. Give them just the aid they require in Doan's Kidney Pills, the Great Quaker Kidney Medicine, and see how well and fit you feel after even a few doses.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co. Limited, Toronto.

In ordering specify "Doan's."



INCRIMINATES ROGERS.

Krasenko Creates Sensation In Lennox Murder Trial.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6.—A dramatic situation developed in the trial of Thos. Hicks yesterday morning when one Krasenko, convicted highwayman, swore that the revolver found under the body of Eccles Lennox, was in his possession the night before the murder and that he had given it to Roger, chief witness against the accused, in the C.P.R. yards.

Krasenko reinforced his evidence by identifying Rogers and Cooper, selecting them from a group of twenty persons.

It was a highly sensational situation, as it was apparent it was the climax of the defence and calculated to acquit Hicks if the effect of the evidence was not destroyed.

The fact that Krasenko has occupied the same cell with the accused since his arrest is a complicating factor.

The crown will introduce some evidence calculated to prove that Krasenko was not in the C.P.R. yards when he says he gave Rogers the revolver. Hicks has steadily maintained that the gun with which Lennox was killed was not his property.

The crown said at noon that no order for the arrest of Rogers had been made. The fact that Rogers had testified in the case is no bar to his arrest and prosecution, though the evidence he has given cannot be used against him in that case.

MORE BARS CUT OFF.

Six New Local Option Majorities Reported as Result of Vote.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—In addition to the 18 municipalities from which adequate local option majorities were reported on Monday night the following have been heard from: Kenonebec, Wollston, Limerick, Juder and Cashel and Effried.

There are still ten townships to hear from, where the bylaw was submitted for the first time. Three repeal contests were reported where the bylaw was sustained, viz., McNab, Colling wood and Mountain Townships.

Two township repeal contests are still to be heard from. They are Grimsby North and Osnabruck.

Orillia Township, which was reported carried for local option on Monday night, is eight votes short of the necessary three-fifths majority. The total vote was 496 for to 342 against.

The local option bylaw was defeated in Howland and Morris Townships.

The result up to date is:

Temperance gains—Licenses cut off by local option, 49; licenses cut off by reduction, 9; total 58; bylaws carried, 22; local option sustained, 22; total, 44.

Temperance losses — Majorities against, 4; bylaws repealed, 2; failed to secure 3-5 majority, 20; total, 26.

To Fix Up Hotels.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—W. K. Snider, who has been provincial Conservative organizer for some years, has been asked by the Government to take charge of the work of establishing a standard for the hotels of the province in the matters of fire escapes, sanitation, bedding and accommodation generally.

Representations have been made by the Commercial Travelers' Association and others and the question has been under consideration for some time. It is believed that about a year will be necessary to cover the work fairly and to establish such standards that further special effort will be unnecessary.

St. John Asylum Scorched.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 6.—Fire which broke out in the boiler room of the provincial lunatic asylum last evening destroyed the nurses' ward, kitchen and laundry of that institution.

None of the patients were injured, although a panic prevailed amongst the 500 inmates and at first it was said over a score had been burned to death.

The loss will amount to $25,000, partially covered by insurance.

The heating apparatus of the entire institution was made useless.

Revolution In China.

Amoy, China, Jan. 6.—A revolutionary outbreak is reported in Manchuria near Mukden. No cause has been assigned.

One thousand mutinous soldiers took the field. Official reports say that in an engagement on Sunday between Government troops and the insurgents the latter were repulsed.

Native reports, however, declare that the Government troops were driven back with a loss of 60 killed.

Doctors Blame Husband.

Agincourt, Jan. 6.—Dr. Silverthorne and Dr. Chutterwick of Toronto conducted the post-mortem examination on the body of the murdered woman, Mrs. Blythe, at the Blythe house yesterday.

The conclusion arrived at is said to have been that Mrs. Blythe's death was due to shock consequent upon the terrible injuries inflicted by her husband, a C.P.R. sectionman, on Sunday night.

Sexton Dies In Grave.

Branchville, N.J., Jan. 6.—With a shovel clutched tightly in his hands, Edward Course, sexton of Hallville Christian Church, was found at the bottom of a grave which he had been preparing. The funeral was approaching the cemetery when the clergyman noticed that the grave had not been dug fully. The procession was halted and the body found.

Heard Her Death Sentence

To obtain temporary relief when suffering is a great boon, but to be permanently cured and restored to health after being assured that one has not a year to live, is an experience that cannot fail to bring joy to any heart. Yet this is what Mrs. A. E. Ternan, of Norwich, Ont., says PSYCHINE accomplished in her case.

Writing on August 11th, 1908, she says: "It is ten years since I took PSYCHINE, and I have not taken ten dollars' worth of medicine since. I should not have lived out the year had it not been for PSYCHINE. I am now in excellent health." Can any testimony be stronger than this?

If you are feeling worn out and run down, try PSYCHINE. You will be surprised at the result. PSYCHINE thoroughly builds up the system, and imparts new life and vigor.

The greatest of tonics, PSYCHINE, restores the throat, lungs, heart, stomach, digestive and blood-making organs to perform their proper functions. The only specific known that will cure chronic weakness, catarrh and decline. Sold at all druggists and stores. 50c. and $1. Send for a free sample to Dr. T. A. PORT HOPE JUNIORS HERE TO-NIGHT; GREAT ICE READY FOR THE BIG GAME; BIG CROWD WILL BE ON HAND

There shou'd be a record crowd at Brock street rink to-night when the Port Hope Junior O H A team will try conclusions with Peterborough's bunch of clever youngsters in what should prove to be a splendid exhibition of hockey. The locals by defeating Cobourg decisively on Monday showed themselves a team of some class and the fans here have been discussing their showing ever since realizing that a very promising team has been collected. A great sheet of ice is available for to-night and as the homesters revel in fast going the conditions will suit them thoroughly and they look for a victory over the Lakeshore seven to-night. Port Hope however must not be over looked. They have as usual a fast aggregation of juniors and they defeated Cobourg last week just as badly as Peterborough did on Monday night so that he teams on their previous games look to be about equal. The people who saw the locals perform in their first game here have no doubt of the result if the kids play anything like the same brand of hockey

To-night's game should be a thrilling hard fought battle between two evenly matched evenly weighted and well trained teams and with the fans we it may be depended upon to have no dull moments. Every fan in Peterborough shou'd make it a point to attend to-night's game if he really wants to support hockey in this city.

Goal—Len Giroux
Point—Wade
Cover point—Fox
Rover—Ray, Capt.
Centre—Cyril Giroux
Right Wing—Short

THE CITY LEAGUE OPENS TO-MORROW WITH THREE GAMES ON THE BILL

The City League will open its season schedule to-morrow night with a double header preceeded by the first game in the Junior City League. With three games on the list there should be a grand evening's sport and no doubt a big crowd will be on hand for the opening as the City League grandd of hockey has grown very popular with the fans.

The first Senior game to-morrow will bring together the T A S and the West Ends, the latter a new team in the league this season and as far as can be judged from the practices of the two teams a lively battle should be the result. The Abstainers have collected a strong seven, Derocher in goal; Quinlan at point; and Crough cover point will likely constitute the defence while for the forward line Quigley, formerly of Lakefield; Cyril Giroux of the Junior O H A team, Tom Kelly and other good men are available. The red and black outfit look strong on paper and will take a lot of beating. The West Ends are the youngest team in the league but should make things lively as they have corralled three members of the Junior O H A team. They will have Halpin in goal; Wade of the Juniors at point; Pentland of the Juniors likely at cover while for the forward line they have Short who played right wing for the Peterboroughs on Monday night; Gus Rose of the Otonabees last year, E. Kidd J McNinch and several other fast young players.

The other new team in the league the Belmonts, will make their debut in the second game when they go up against the twice champion Strathconas. It should prove a contest well worth seeing. The Belmonts are reported as having a fast seven which includes Myers, Rose, and Thornton of last year's High Lifes, Bobby Hall Waram of the Rough Riders Ecclestone and other good men. The Hitch Commissioners have the same line up as went through the season last year without a defeat with the exception of Jack Seymour who played for the Strath's champion team of two years ago, figuring on the forward line.

Geo. Lynch the efficient and popular referee of the league for several seasons past will handle the bell in both games, the first commencing at 8 o'clock sharp.

The Junior League will open with a game between George street and the Otonabees. The juniors coming together at 9.45. The one price of admission provides for seeing the three games.

WHITCROFT IS STILL IN FAVOUR WITH FANS

Edmonton Will Challenge for the Stanley Cup Again Next Year.

Large crowds turned out to hear the result of the second game between Edmonton and the Montreal Wanderers for the Stanley Cup and great was the joy of the Edmonton hockey fans over the success of Edmonton. Their pleasure was somewhat dampened, however, by the fact that the team did not win the cup. General regret was expressed that they had not played the same team on Monday as on Wednesday night, when the results might have been somewhat different. The citizens generally are loud in their praise of the work of the team. Decton and Miller are the idols of the town, while Patrick Lindsay and Whitcroft are also high in the regard of the public. Vair also played a good game. The public are rather disappointed in the work of Pitrie and McNamara. Had the executive signed Harry Smith and Joe Hall instead of McNamara and Phillips, the cup would probably now have been speeding westward.

The announcement of the executive that they would challenge again for the Stanley cup is evidently a very popular move, as the majority of the citizens think with a season's practice together the team have a good chance of winning out. There is little doubt but that they can win in the western hockey league this winter and by the end of the hockey season will be again ready to go after the Wanderers for the hockey championship of Canada.

BOWLING

The Ten Pin League race at the P.B.C. grows closer and closer daily and the teams are all fighting with renewed vigour for every game they can get. Yesterday three fixtures were played and as a result a considerable change has been effected in the race. The Bankers, for example, by losing a game to the Iroquois, dropped back several points and allowed Examiner A to tie them for the leadership. The Iroquois had earlier in the evening, taken two from the Lock Works, and are now safely ensconced in fourth place, while the Pacifics, by taking two from the Frontenacs, are now in strong third:—

Montreal Star:—On Arena ice, Saturday, the intermediate game between Montreal and Shamrocks, in the C. A. H. L. series, degenerated into a farce through the strict ruling of Referee Cooper Smeaton, who handed out stiff sentences on the slightest swerving from the rules. Shamrocks won by 12 goals to 4. The scoring would have been closer but for the pronounced penalties.

The wholesale ruling off resulted in some peculiar situations on the ice. At one time there were two Montreal players, K. Kelly and the goaler, Cormack, fighting it out against three Shamrocks, Nicol, McDonald, and Baker, the last named being the goalkeeper. The two goalkeepers and McDonald and Mulcair, of Shamrocks, were the only players not crowded into the timekeeper's box at one time or another.

The referee meted out the stiff penalties in order to prevent a recurrence of the fracas of the previous week, when the Arena authorities stepped in and ordered the teams to cut out rough hockey.

RUNNING.

Percy Smallwood, the champion long-distance runner of Wales, who defeated Tom Longboat in a ten-mile race some weeks ago, and who is scheduled to run a Marathon race with Dorando Pietri in St. Louis on January 11, is brimming over with confidence of beating the vanquisher of Johnny Hayes. He should beat the Italian, and has written Manager Smith of the Riverdale arena offering to run Alfred Shrubb 15 miles or the Marathon distance here January 15. Shrubb is willing to run either Fred Meadows at 5 miles or George Adams or Smallwood at 10 miles, but does not want to go beyond. The chances are that Smallwood will agree to 10 miles.

"If Dorando does not run any faster than he did in his race with Longboat," said Smallwood, "I'll beat him within the twenty-three-mile mark. If he does run faster, I'll beat him anyway. The Italian is a slow finisher, and I am sure that I will be able to pull up on the last few miles."

Tom Eck has signed Fred Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, and will train and manage him in professioinal races. Simpson may be one of Shrubb's opponents in the coming relay at New York.

Eck may add Esau Noah, the Moraviantown Indian, to the stable which he is forming. If Noah is up to expectations, and he is making a trial for Eck's benefit, Tom should have a good pair, as Simpson, rightly handled, is better than Dorando and a few more of them.

A WORD ABOUT THE IMPERIAL OPERA CO.

The most undeniable proof of the strength and merit of the Imperial Opera Company which visits Peterborough next Saturday matinee and night was its phenomenal run of four and a half months at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto. It is a well known fact that Toronto gets the best there is in musical attractions direct from New York, and when the Imperials contracted to play their extensive repertoire in that city the cast of practically all stars was necessary to hold its own against the regular road companies. Owing to the early date of the opening of the company many well known artists of high standing were obtainable, among them J. Clarance Harvey, the eccentric comedian of "Country Girl" and "San Toy" fame; Harry Girard, the well known lyric baritone and composer; Agnes Cair-Brown, who made her name as a Grand Opera Singer in New York; Violet Colby and Hallen Mortyn. It is needless to say that such a cast supplemented by a chorus of most attractive young ladies, the success of the Imperial Opera Company in Toronto was instantaneous. For the tour through the province the cast remains unchanged and the original scenic productions used at the Royal Alexandra Theatre are assured.

Estimate Of Expenses For Schools Has Been Prepared

Increase is Asked for and is Explained by Large Increase in the Number of Teachers and the Salaries Which Have Become Higher in Late Years---People Getting Better Value for Their Money.

At the Board of Education meeting last night one of the most important matters discussed was the estimates for the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools for 1909.

Mr. L. M. Hayes in speaking of the estimates stated that the overdraft of $5,398.00 was due to engaging new teachers and the general increase in the salary schedule which was necessary in order to retain the efficiency of the staff and to secure new teachers of the highest standard.

Including the overdraft from last year of $5,400 with an additional expenditure of $4,700 increase in the salary schedule of $700 for the science department, the board would require $11,460 more this year than last.

Better Schools

In regards to the estimates for the public schools, Mr. Hill pointed out that the $700 for domestic science department would all be paid back at the rate of $200 per year. Then there are to-day a sufficient number of teachers and the scholars will be given justice as was not possible in the past on account of the crowded condition of the rooms. Now more rooms are available and consequently more teachers have been engaged and their salaries along with the increased salary schedule make up the greater estimate this year than last. On the other hand the Board's grant from the Ontario Government this year would be greater. There are now some 20 first-class teachers engaged and the grant anyway will likely be increased by the Government.

On motion of Mr. Dumble it was decided that the finance committee of the board should wait on the council for the purpose of securing $3,000 by debenture as their expense has already been incurred and cannot be fairly placed as an expenditure for this year.

The following are the amounts prepared by the finance committee and read by Mr. L. M. Hayes:

WEDDING BELLS

SHARPE-HARRISON

Examiner Special.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Harrison, Keene, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, December 30th, at 11 a.m., when their only daughter, Mabel, was married to Mr. Torrance B. Sharpe, of the Bank of Ottawa, Winnipeg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. D. Harrison under a floral arch. The bride looked lovely in her handsome gown of liberty satin with trimmings of duchess lace and seed pearls. Her veil was arranged over a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss. Miller, of Calgary, who wore a beautiful gown of pink figured silk voile and carried a large bouquet of pink roses. Little Aileen Steele, cousin of the bride, made a very sweet little flower girl, dressed in white and carried a basket of sweet peas. Mr. Philip Boyd, of Toronto, attended the groom. Miss Campbell, of Peterborough, played Lohengrin Wedding March as the bridal party entered the room.

After receiving the congratulations of their friends an elaborate wedding breakfast was served in the dining room (which was decorated in the Xmas colours) to 23 guests. The usual toasts were proposed and responded to. The bride's going-away gown was of taupe broadcloth with velvet and braiding with hat to match. They left on the afternoon train for Montreal and other points and will spend two weeks in the east before going to their home in Winnipeg.

SOCIALIST GRIBBLE MAKES LURID SPEECH TO TORONTO WORKERS YESTERDAY

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Standing ankle-deep in the mud of Bayside Park, a crowd of a thousand unemployed workingmen, called together and led by a little band of Socialists, passed a resolution calling on the City Council to give them the use of a hall, preferably the St. Lawrence arena, in which they could meet every day to discuss the unemployed problem.

A committee was deputed to wait on the city fathers with the request.

The Socialist speakers certainly used "a lot of language" to the workless crowd at this morning's meeting.

Wilfrid Gribble handed out the lurid language.

"Fools," he called his hearers.

"I don't love you; no, why should I? You're a beautiful lot to be loved. You have intelligence, but no sense."

Most of the crowd took this in good humour, but there were a few murmurs of dissent.

The Martyrs.

"If you don't like this you know what you can do," came back Mr. Gribble. "We Socialists have talked to you for years—we have been arrested for you, we have paid fines for you, we have suffered for you, and still you won't help yourselves. Some of us will have to go to prison and some of us may have to die before it's over, but we're with you because we belong to you, not because we love you."

Crowd—"Hear! Hear!"

"But it goes hard with me to have to stand here in three or four inches of mud when we want to hold a meeting. You men built these great buildings—" waving his hand in the direction of the Custom House and the factories and warehouses—"you built these railways, you built the big halls in this city, but when you want to meet you can't have one of them." (Applause.)

Not Jobs, But Rights.

A red-headed Scot broke in here with some complaint about the rate of wages paid in this country.

The orator promptly called him down.

It was not jobs they were after—it was their right. Wealth should not be all in the hands of the few. Those who produced it should have it.

"Last winter you went to the City Hall in a straggling mob. Don't do it again. Go marching four abreast when you go in to the City Hall or the Parliament Buildings again. Organize, drill, discipline, so that when you go they will say to themselves, 'These men come now with empty hands, but some day they may come with arms in their hands.' (Cheers.)

"They say there is a beautiful home on high. Let us hope there is, for we certainly haven't it here. We are sure of nothing after this life—you men are getting nearer the grave every moment. Are you going to drag out all the rest of your lives as you have been doing? Or do you want to live as men should?"

It will be remembered that Organizer Gribble visited Peterborough a few weeks ago and spoke in the interests of Socialism.

Hordes Of Moslems Rush To Tigahur; Troops Trying To Head Them Off

Examiner Special

Calcuta, Jan. 6.—Hordes of Moslems are rushing to Tigahur to avenge the insult. British troops and constabulary are trying to head them off and a bloody encounter is expected. An uprising of Hindus may be the consequence.

Amoy Channel, Jan. 6.—Reports received here to-day from the districts in Manchuria affected by the recent revolutionary outbreak, say the movement troops have burned seven villages and that the insurgents are on the defensive.

Catania, Jan. 6.—With the exception of troops Reggio is practically evacuated to-day, and the complete evacuation of Messina has been ordered for the end of the week.

THE WISE PRODUCER EXPLAINS THE REASON

Why did we buy "Paid in Full" when all the other managers in New York rejected it? That is a question that has been put to me many times since Eugene Walter's play has registered a success.'

L. A. Wagenhals, senior member of the firm of Wagenhals and Kemper, answered the question of a New York newspaper man as he puffed vigorously at a pipe. Mr. Wagenhals is a forceful, nervous man who smokes continually and speaks with decision.

"The first appeal the play made to me when I read it was its intense reality. It was what newspaper men call 'a human interest story.' Its characters were living, breathing, erring, everyday people, and its plot was a reflection of life in any American city. For instance, there are thousands of men like Joseph Brooks, the sneaking, anarchistic, ineffectual, disappointed cad, who lacks the ability to rise above his $15 a week position, and steals from his employer because he can't increase his revenue honestly. He is simply a by-product of our civilization, a useless being, who believes the world owes him a living. There are many of this type walking the streets of New York and the big cities; there are scores of them in your offices and business houses, watching the clock and giving as grudgingly of their paltry services as possible, then complaining because they don't get along.

"Paid in Full" impressed Mr. Kemper and me because it seemed to touch the main moral issues in American life to-day from the standpoint of the average man. Its theme is the Eighth Commandment, 'Thou shalt not steal'—and the subject is treated realistically and with almost brutal strength. Mr. Walter does not mince words, and does not strain after literary elegance. He simply tells a plain everyday story in the vernacular of the period, and his argument hits home with the weight of a sledge hammer. It did not make any difference to us that the play has been refused by Charles Frohman and David Belasco, or by Cosse Payton and Mrs. Spooner, and all the managers in between. We thought we saw its strength, and within 24 hours after Mr. Walter read it to us he had his contract and, what was more important to him, a tidy sum in advance royalty, which enabled him to move from his bench in Hyde Park to a comfortable hotel.

One great recommendation of the play recognizable even in its manuscript form was that it contained a new idea and treated of a very life subject. There is no more vital issue to-day than that of socialism. Most plays that deal with the topic at all portray the capitalist as a greedy, unscrupulous villain, but Mr. Walter sees the subject in a new light. The capitalist is made a grutt, but tender-hearted individual, while the employe is shown as an incompetent, soured by his inability to keep in the race with his fellows, and accepting dishonesty and disgrace off his own wife as welcome alternatives to hard work.

When Mr. Kemper and I read 'Paid in Full,' we realized that its author was a man with a message. He has already received an eager hearing in both New York and Chicago, and I believe other cities will be equally ready to listen to him.'

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros. Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brignoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instrumenrs on the Canadian market

OTTAWA MAN IS BURNED TO DEATH

Wm. Kellock, B.A., Meets Horrible Fate at Weyburn, Sask.

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Word has reached here that William Kellock, B.A., who has relatives here was burned to death at Weyburn, Sask., on Christmas Eve. He was seated in his house reading when the building took fire and though every effort was made to get him out they were unavailing. One hand was almost burnt off and his head and face were horribly charred. A sad feature is that the announcement reached a brother, the Rev. J. M. Kellock, at Elgin, Manitoba, when the latter was at Christmas entertainment, in the act of taking the part of Santa Claus. The body was interred at Spencerville, Ontario. The deceased was a graduate of Queen's and has built up a splendid practice at Weyburn. He left a father and mother, at Kinmear's Mills, Quebec, and several sisters and brothers. He was a member of the I.O.O.F.

Another Bad Fire In Ennismore To-day.

W. H. Crough's Property Damaged by Blaze—Barns and Stables Were Destroyed.

Word was received this afternoon of another fire in Ennismore. The barns and stables belonging to Mr. Wm J. Crough were destroyed, together with the machinery and the summer's products of the fields, which were stored in them. Mr. Crough and his wife, it was learned, had gone for the day on a visit to relatives, and only the young people were left to fight the fire. The stock was taken out safely, but everything else was lost. The origin of the blaze could not be ascertained.

It was only two days ago that a similar misfortune befell Mr. H. F. Crough, a cousin of Mr. Wm. J. Crough.

RUSHING WORK ON NEW WING AT OTTAWA

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Though work on the new wing to the House of Commons is being rushed, it is doubtful if it will be ready for the 20th inst., when Parliament opens. Every effort is being made to get it in shape in time.

At Washington before the Ways and Means Committee of the 60th Congress of the United States, "Salada" Tea was spoken of as the "King of Teas." 107

WITH THE IMPERIAL OPERA CO.

Miss Violet Colby, the mezzo-soprano of the Imperial Opera Company, which appears in Peterborough at the Grand on Saturday, matinee and evening, played one of the leading roles in "San Toy" in the Coliseum at Cleveland, before appearing with the Imperial Opera Company at Toronto, at the Royal Alexandra Theatre. She has been a member of a number of big New York musical successes, and has the reputation of being, not only one of the prettiest, but also one of the best dressed women on the stage. Miss Colby's gowns created quite a sensation in Toronto, many of them being recent importations from Paris. In "San Toy" Miss Colby will wear a number of the prettiest creations.

No More Red Blankets Now For The French River Indians

Ninety-seven North Bay Aborigines Will Share Among Them Over One Million Dollars---Sell Timber to Government----Richer Than Longboat.

NORTH BAY, January 4. — As the result of a sale of pine timber lands on the French River, ninety-seven Indians will share among them over a million dollars. The limits were put up by berths at auction in Ottawa by a Government agent recently, acting for the Indians, to eager lumber merchants who have been casting jealous eyes on the red man's treasure for years.

In exact figures the sale totalled $871,000, but the timber dues will swell this amount till it passes the million dollar mark.

Ten per cent. was paid in cash and the happy redskins have already had the pleasure of dividing over $80,000 among them. The balance invested so as to yield even the minimum rate of interest, will give the little tribe an annual income of over $30,000, or $300 each. This means $3000 for a family of ten, which is not an unusual size.

END OF LONG STRUGGLE

The transaction ends a long and bitter controversy among the members of the tribe, which is composed of five families; the Dokis, Restoules, Kessos, Metagams and Ennewichs.

For years old Chief Michael Dokis made a pathetic effort to preserve the hunting grounds of his ancestors from the rapacious inroads of the white man. In spite of his iron rule he could not secure unanimity in his policy of conservatism. The Restoules were its bitter opponents.

In February, 1907, Michael Dokis died. Before his decease he called his son and heir, Alexander Dokis, to his bedside and made him swear that he would never agree with the Restoules to sell the precious timber, where in years gone by, he, too, chased the fleet-footed denizens of the forest in company with departed braves.

After the death of the grim old chief, the smouldering opposition broke out again. The new ruler could not stem the tide of modern Indian thought. The Restoules carried the day, and gave notice in a grand pow-wow that the land of the great pines was for sale.

Old Michael Dokis must have turned in his grave. For years he had unsuccessfully tried to expel the Restoules because they had white blood, but they had stubbornly remained to share the Government bounty. And now the commercial instincts of the white blood have triumphed over aboriginal conservatism.

A SHREWD INDIAN

The Indian agent who transacted the business, narrates an incident to show that the native Indian has not lost his original diplomatic talents, which were the admiration and despair of the explorers.

When the surrender papers were all ready to sign, and the Indian agent, with great relief, saw the end of the long and tiresome pow-wows and bickering, a brave rushed excitedly into the council hall, threw a mouthful of guttural Indian vowels at the astonished official, and expressed the fervid desire that proceedings be stayed. Without any explanation the Indian dashed madly back to his cabin, and another hour dragged slowly by, punctuated by the sending of several messages for the absent brave, whose signature was essential to complete the surrender document. Finally the missing one made his appearance and calmly affixed his mark to the paper while the exasperated Indian agent read a new version of the Riot Act to him-for his tardiness. Then was vouched the simple explanation: "New papoose come; Indian wait." For a new Indian had been born into the world; and would now share in the division of the spoils, which the axe of the white man would bring to the wigwam. If the surrender papers had been completed before the baby arrived the family would have been short one share of the proceeds of the sale of the pine.

MISS YATES' LECTURE AT LOCAL POULTRY SHOW WAS INSTRUCTIVE

Clever Demonstrator From the Institutes' Branch of the Department of Agriculture Pleased Big Crowd.

THE KILLING AND DRESSING

At the demonstration, given in the Market Hall last night, under the auspices of the Peterborough Poultry and Pet Stock Association, a great many useful facts were shown to a large audience who flocked to see it.

Miss Yates, the Government Lecturer, who is on the Staff of the Department of Agriculture, was the demonstrator. She is an English woman, and received her professional training at Reading University, after which she received an appointment on the staff of Studley Agricultural College, Warwickshire, as poultry instructor. She is the only lady who has ever managed the Utility Poultry Club "Egg Laying Competition," having held the office for two years in succession. Coming to this country three years ago, she has lectured before a number of poultry associations and has taken this subject up at a great many Farmers' Institute, and Women's Institute meetings.

Miss Yates stated that the Canadian eggs are the best that are shipped to England and that our poultry is tht very wost. France having the bulk of that extensive trade.

She pointed out the necessity of not feeding the birds for about 24 hours before killing, if this was done there was a poisonous gas escaping from the entrails which made the meat almost useless and therefore there was no sale for it.

The best method of taking the bones from the chicken was demonstrated and showed the great advantage of doing this, both for the seller and for the consumer, especially for a person giving a large dinner party. When the flesh was rolled and stuffed it presented a far daintier appearance than the whole chicken. She also showed how to kill a chicken for the best results, killing a large bird to demonstrate this. There was no cut or anything like that, the blood flowing into a large cavity which forms from the way that the neck is broken.

How to string a bird to make it look nicer and also to make it steady on the plate for carving was also shown, and a great many questions were asked after the lecture was over showing in this way, how greatly it was appreciated.

Miss Yates remarked that she was a great advocate of the selling on the market of poultry and eggs by weight and not by the bird and dozen. This has been talked a great deal about and would be a great advantage to the buyer as he would get all that he paid for. A large chart was pinned to the curtain which showed the different breeds of birds that are the best for laying and setting, and those which made the best table birds.

A receipt was given for a savoury dressing for chickens. The following is enough to stuff two large birds: 8 ounces crumbs, 4 tablespoonfuls chopped parsley, 4 tablespoonfuls herbs, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, 4 whole eggs, 2 dessertspoonfuls salt, 1 dessertspoonful pepper, 2 tablespoonfuls of chopped bacon and lean can also be added.

The chairman was Mr. Jas. Hastie, who gave a short introductory address at the beginning of the evening, which proved very interesting.

All present reaped many useful points for their home kitchens, a great many making notes for future reference.

At the end a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Yates for her instructive address.

Girl Has Been Arrested In Toronto On Charge Of Theft

P. C. Meagher was sent to Toronto this morning to take into custody Bessie Mott, the young domestic, who disappeared from the home of Rev. Riddiford on Christmas Day, with, it is claimed, about seven dollars, for the theft of which she has been arrested.

It will be remembered that Rev. Mr. Riddiford and his wife went out to dinner that day, leaving their child under the care of this girl. She left town on the noon G. T. R. train and when Mr. Riddiford and his wife returned about three o'clock in the afternoon they found the baby alone in the house, and she had been in this state for three or four hours. When the affair was turned over to the police it was not long before a telegram was received from Toronto by Chief Bozzel stating that the girl had been apprehended.

She had been engaged only a week and before that had come from Toronto.

PRAYER MEETINGS TO BE HELD THIS EVENING

Large attendances are expected at the special prayer meetings this evening, which will be held at Knox Presbyterian and Murray street Baptist Churches. The subject of the addresses will be "The Supremacy of Christ in Social Life." The attendances have been very good and it is hoped that during the rest of the week they will be noticeably larger.

AN ADVANCE MOVEMENT.

Hon Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, shows, according to Mr. Henniker Heaton, the resourcefulness of Mahomet—if cheaper cable rates wont come to him he will "go in" for a cable of his own. That is, according to Mr. Heaton, if the cable companies will not meet Mr. Lemieux's proposal for a very substantial reduction of rates, Mr. Lemieux will have constructed, with the aid of the British Government and the Government of Australia, a state-owned oceanic cable line, or lines, capable of carrying ten or twenty million words a year, at a cost of two pence a word. One of the most potent, if not the most powerful, agencies of trade development and popular unification is facility of intercourse, through the lowest possible postal and telegraphic rates, and effective and cheap transportation. Hon. Mr. Lemieux is doing more for the unification and consolidation of the Empire than all the jingoists, who preach big armaments on sea and land. The cheapened postal rates, together with the aim of cheaper cable rates, are the thin edge of the wedge that will open up the way to an All-Red Route, whose influence is binding together and developing the resources of the several units of the Empire, will be greater than any other conceivable agency. We have the sentiment of unity and co-operation now. What we need is to have this materialized in the interests of trade expansion and its associated benefits and advantages.

Although, in accordance with the policy of the Liberal Government of Canada, the increase in expenditure of the post office department, amounted to $578,442 last year, there is still a surplus of $1,101,826.

THE LEMIEUX ACT.

Thanks largely to the Lemieux Act, the number of serious trade disputes has been growing less in Canada, and the New Year dawns of a Dominion almost free from industrial warfare. In November, according to the latest returns, one days lost as a result of trade disputes amounted to 5,715 as compared with 19,583 in November, 1907. The Lemieux Act is not without honour in its own country; but its prestige is perhaps even greater abroad. Public men in many countries have been impressed with its admirable provisions. In a recent address President Eliot, of Harvard University, dwelling on the good will between employers and employees says both seem willing to abandon the weapon which enables them to strike the sudden blows—the lockout or the strike. "Just here," he added, "is where public opinion may be brought to play in our own country. Canada has shown the way to the prevention of the most pernicious and injurious industrial strife. Public opinion must be brought to the adoption of the same method in our own country."—Hamilton Herald.

ELECTORAL FIGURES.

The Ottawa Free Press drops into a statistical mood and compiles the following figures, which it calls "election curiosities," and anomolies of our system of representation.

"The official figures of the voting in the Federal general elections on October 26, reveal certain very remarkable anomalies of our system of representation.

"The total popular Liberal vote, as compiled by the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, was 571,556, and the total popular Conservative vote was 542,985, a Liberal majority of 31,671, so that a change of less than sixteen thousand votes would have altered the result entirely.

"Take the vote in the provinces and analyze it, and you will find some remarkable contrasts. In Ontario the Conservative vote was 236,919, and the Liberal vote 241,824. But the Conservatives elected 43 members, while the Liberals only elected 37. Thus, while the Conservatives had only 51 per cent. of the votes they have nearly 57 per cent. of the seats, while the Liberals with 49 per cent. of the votes were only able to win 43 per cent. of the seats.

"In Quebec the disparity is the other way. The Liberals polled 158,396 votes, and the Conservatives 129,364, but the Liberals won 54 seats, while the Conservatives only captured 11. In other words, the Liberals took 83 per cent. of the seats with 55 per cent. of the vote while the Conservatives, although polling 45 per cent. of the vote, only won 17 per cent. of the seats.

"In Manitoba the Conservatives won eight out of the ten seats. The Conservative vote was 34,599 and that of the Liberals 28,196. So that the Conservatives, while polling only 55 per cent. of the vote, won 80 per cent. of the seats, and the Liberals, although polling 45 per cent. of the vote, only won 20 per cent. of the constituencies.

"Nova Scotia elected 12 Liberals and 6 Conservatives, but the Liberals polled 48,434 votes (50 per cent.) and won 66 per cent. of the seats while the Conservatives polled 47,515 (very nearly 50 per cent.) and only got 34 per cent. of the seats.

"New Brunswick affords another curious contrast. The Liberal vote was 40,716 and the Conservative vote 34,945, and the former elected 11 and the latter only two members. So that 54 per cent. of the vote elected over 84 per cent. of the members, and 46 per cent. of the vote was only able to win 16 per cent. of the seats.

"The figures of the other provinces will, when complete, show the same striking contrast."

These figures can hardly be regarded as "election curiosities." They are expected results of a majority system of representation. They would have some significance if the parties voted by provinces and the vote polled by either party was divided by the number of constituencies, and the party representatives apportioned accordingly. Such evident disparities are inevitable where the party balance of constituencies is very uneven. One riding, with a 2,000 registered vote, may give a candidate of one party a thousand majority, while another with a similar voting power, may give a candidate of the opposite party a majority of one. In these cases the popular majority does not count—under our system, one riding is as really and effectively represented in Parliament as the other. In effect the vote in either case becomes unanimous and the member elected represents the whole body of the electorate; and if he is faithful to his obligations he will make no distinction, he is bound to serve and protect the interests of all, irrespective of consideration of the fact that they voted for him or against him.

It will not be the fault of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, if there is not a five cent cable rate between Canada and Great Britain before long.

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

BIG STORM TAKES PLACE AT ST. JOHN

New Brunswick Devastated by Worst in Her History.

TRAFFIC AT A STANDSTILL

Telegraph and Telephone Lines Are Down and Several Bridges Are Under Water — Wind Carries Away Signal Tower and Steamer in Harbor Collides With Bridge—Wrecks Are Feared on Bay.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 7.—All traffic on C.P.R. lines in this province is at a standstill, and all branch lines are out of commission. Some Intercolonial bridges are three feet under water and enormous damage to private property is the result of the worst rain and wind storm in the history of New Brunswick, which raged from midnight until noon yesterday.

The wind at Point Lapreaux, near St. John, at times reached a velocity of nearly a hundred miles per hour and the seas of the Bay of Fundy were running mountains high. Several ocean liners ready to leave St. John yesterday morning remained securely tide to wharves and harbor shipping is at a standstill. Every tug owned here has been busy all day in frantic efforts to help vessels anchored in harbor.

Shortly before noon the large Italian steel bark Merioneth, tied to Government Pier with fifteen huge hawsers, ripped, broke away and drifted across the harbor to the I.C.R. trestle bridge, with which she collided with terrific force, bending her plates and carrying away the upper structure of the bridge. Tugs were incapable of holding her against the gale. Some of her sails were torn from the yards and left in shreds. Several schooners broke away and were damaged.

It is feared many wrecks took place along the treacherous Bay of Fundy and Maine coast. The steamers Montezuma, Bengorehead and Manchester Trader are being held here until the storm abates.

The telegraph and telephone wires all over the province are down.

At the height of the gale the signal tower and apparatus on the customs house was carried away and several pedestrians narrowly escaped being struck. Plate glass windows and chimneys all over the city were demolished.

Haymarket Square, a low part of the city, is under water two feet and people are leaving their houses in delivery wagons.

All C.P.R. trains for to-day are cancelled, as near Welsford, a few miles above here, a washout seven miles long occurred. It is hoped the water across the I.C.R. tracks near Sussex will subside to allow trains to pass to-day. Auxiliary trains have been sent out from here to effect a pass.

In Moncton and Fredericton cellars and whole streets were flooded and people are very uneasy.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Mrs. Elgar Coville of Syracuse, N.Y., aged 75, who lived alone, was burned to death.

Twenty-two sentences of death for crimes committed in 1908 are announced from St. Petersburg.

E. H. Harriman has decided to build a railway line from the main line of the Southern Pacific into the Republic of Mexico.

Of 615 deaths in St. John, N.B., during 1908 reported by the Board of Health, tuberculosis in its various forms was responsible for 118.

Sam Duck of Grand Valley was tried before Magistrates Richardson, Tate and McClelland and convicted and fined $40 for selling ordinary butter as creamery.

"I have taken Scott's Emulsion for six weeks and have found it a wonderful remedy. Before I took the Emulsion I had no appetite; was weak; had lost nearly fifty pounds of flesh, and now I eat well and am gaining every day. I find Scott's Emulsion to be very easily digested and a good food for all weak people."—FLORENCE BLEEKER, No. 1 Myrtle Avenue, Bridgeton, N. J.

This is only one of thousands of cases where has given an appetite. It's so easily digested that it doesn't tax the digestive organs and they rest; yet the body is wonderfully nourished and built up. The digestion is improved—then ordinary food is sufficient.

Growing boys and girls, who need so much food to keep them well and strong, and also growing, should be given a bottle of SCOTT'S EMULSION every few weeks. It does wonders for them. It prevents their getting run down and spindly. Nothing does them so much good.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the offerings this morning were 600 cattle 200 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs and 125 calves. Considering that this was practically a holiday for the butchers, the attendance was very fair at the above market, and, as the supply of cattle was not excessive, for which the demand was fairly good, as all the buyers present seemed to want a few to see them over the balance of the week, a firmer feeling prevailed in the market and much better prices were realized than on Monday for the same class of stock. There was also some demand from local exporters, and they bid 4¾c for the best Ontario steers offered, which figure holders would not accept, and later they sold them at as high as $4.75 to $4.80 per 100 lbs. Good cows were in demand and brought $3.87½ per 100 pounds, while common cattle sold all the way from 2c to 3½c per pound. A weaker feeling has developed in the market for sheep, and prices are lower. The demand was fair, and sales of choice lots were made at 3¼c to 4c per pound. Lambs were firm under a good demand and a small supply, and all the offerings met with a ready sale at 5½c to 6c per pound. A fair trade was done in calves at prices ranging from $2.50 to $6 each. The undertone to the market for hogs continues strong, and prices have scored a further advance of 25c per 100 pounds. This is due to the small supplies coming forward on account of the somewhat scarcity thereout the country, and the prospects are that prices will go still higher in the near future. The demand from packers is good, and sales of selected lots were made at $7 to $7.25 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Judge Wright Threatened.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 7.—"I have not been measured for my shroud yet, nor can I say I am afraid to go home in the dark," commented Justice Daniel Wright yesterday when asked about the hundreds of threatening letters sent to him by persons who were displeased over his recent decision sentencing the labor leaders.

THE NEW BISHOP HAS BEEN INSTALLED

Dr. John C. Farthing Assumes Bishopric of Montreal.

THE ARCHBISHOP OFFICIATES

Imposing Ceremony at Which Large Gathering of Prelates From All Over the Country Are Present Attends Consecration of Successor to the Late Bishop Carmichael — No Disturbance Takes Place.

Montreal, Jan. 7.—The Very Rev. John Cragg Farthing, D.D., was consecrated in Christ Church Cathedral yesterday morning, the Feast of the Epiphany, fifth bishop of the Diocese of Montreal, according to the exalted order and solemn ceremonials that have been the delight and usage of the Church of England for centuries.

The solemn rite of consecration was performed by Archbishop Sweatman, Primate of all Canada, his grace being assisted by Bishop Dunn of Quebec, Bishop Reeve of Toronto, Bishop Dumoulin of Niagara, Bishop Mills of Ontario, Bishop Williams of Huron, Bishop Worrall of Nova Scotia, Bishop Cadman of Maine, while there were also in attendance Dean Evans, Archdeacon Norton, Canon Ellegood and a number of visiting clergymen.

The procession of bishops and clergy entered the cathedral through the vestry door. First came the main body of clergy, followed by Dean Evans as head of the diocese up to the time of the consecration of the bishop-elect. Then came members of the vested choir, and next the dignitaries, archdeacons, rural deans and canons, followed by the bishops and their chaplains, among whom came the bishop-elect and the primate. Proceeding down the aisle leading from the vestry, the chancel choir sang the processional hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

Any possibility of a disturbance, such as has been threatened by anonymous representatives of the so-called Protestant movement, was obviated by the absolutely Low Church nature of the proceedings.

An interesting feature of the ceremony was the presence of Bishop Farthing's aged father. About two hundred clergy were present, and not only the chancel but a large block of seats in the nave were filled by them.

Montreal Family Nearly Suffocated.

Montreal, Jan. 7.—A woman, two girls and a little boy were at 1.15 o'clock yesterday morning carried by firemen down a fire escape from the fourth story of the Sun Life annex building, corner of St. Alexis and Hospital streets. The rescued family was that of James Marsh, the caretaker. Marsh and the four members of his family were not aroused until after the firemen arrived.

They might have been suffocated before being rescued had not Marsh, who tried to get to the fire escape, but found the smoke too thick, thought of closing the fire doors leading to the stairway.

The damage to the building was not heavy.

More Protection Unnecessary.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—It is understood that Mr. Costello of customs service, who was named a commissioner to make a report on British and Canadian woollens industries, has reported that the Canadian woollen industry does not require more protection.

All that is required to enable Canadian mills to hold their own with those of Yorkshire is modern equipment and improved methods such as is to be found in English mills.

Owing to the absence in Europe of Mr. Fielding, who is chiefly responsible for tariff matters, the report is not likely to be made public till after the sessions opens, when it will be presented to Parliament.

Murdered His Mother.

New York, Jan. 7.—Paul C. Finn, 23 years of age, surrendered yesterday, saying he had killed his mother, Mary A. Finn, 57 years of age, in their home in East New York. There were a dozen knife wounds in her body. When he went home Tuesday night he said his mother reproached him for being intoxicated.

Thirty-Four Drown.

Odessa, Jan. 7.—The Russian steamer Swiatoslav, with a crew of 38, collided near Novosiask with the Greek steamer Poseidon yesterday. The Swiatoslav sank within three minutes. Four of her crew managed to get aboard the Poseidon and were saved.

Brooms to Be Dearer.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 7.—A general advance in brooms of 50 cents a dozen and the products of broom corn, owing to the shortage in the crop, will be made, according to members of the Association of Broom Manufacturers.

RE-PEOPLING 'QUAKE AREA.

Special Legislation to Be Passed by Italian Parliament.

Rome, Jan. 7.—Every hour now sees progress in the bringing order into the earthquake district and system into the work of relief. The instructions of the Government to Lieut.-General Francesco Mazza, commander of the province, are in the direction of removing temporarily all the living in the destroyed cities and towns, so that they may be cared for in a sanitary manner. The Italian War Department is sending large quantities of field equipment for use in bivouacking in the open.

The re-population will be through survivors proving their rights to property under special enactments which Parliament will be asked by the Cabinet to pass in the extraordinary sittings called for Friday and Saturday. A measure is in course of preparation for asking Parliament to meet the immense expenditures caused by the earthquake by increasing the tax on buildings, so as to augment the income by $980,000.

Dogs Menace to 'Quake Sufferers.

Messina, Jan. 7.—Dogs now constitute one of the dangers to the earthquake refugees.

These animals, starving and often rabid through lack of water, gnaw the corpses like hyenas and frequently attack the refugees themselves.

The dogs are being shot on sight.

Two Millions From U.S.

New York, Jan. 7.—The money contributed by the Governmnet of the United States, state Governments and individual Americans for relief in Italy amounts to over $2,000,000, and is still flowing into various funds. New York City's contribution reached a total of $345,000.

EPIDEMIC OF RABIES.

Dogs Are Being Shot on Sight In Pennsylvania Towns.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 7.—A quarantine to last 100 days has been placed over Springboro, Connesatville, Meadville, Brookville, Lineaville and other small towns in Crawford and adjoining counties because of the prevalence of hydrophobia in the western part of the state and the presence of dogs said to be affected with rabies.

Dogs are being shot on the streets as they are seen, and every precaution is being taken by the residents of the community to prevent the disease from spreading more than it already has. One death has already occurred, and the little Pasteur Institute at Pittsburg is overcrowded with sixteen dangerous patients, and about twenty are waiting to come in.

More than one hundred persons in the dog infected counties have been bitten in the last ten days, and more than five hundred dogs in three counties have been killed. It is said that many persons are developing rabies through having kissed one who was affected.

Mrs. Maybrick to Marry.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 7.—Mrs. Florence Maybrick, the American who was convicted in England of poisoning her husband, and sentenced to life imprisonment, and whose release on ticket-of-leave was secured by the women of the United States, is soon to be married to Charles L. Wagner of Chicago.

Mrs. Maybrick has been lecturing under the auspices of a bureau. Wagner, the secretary, fell in love and asked her to become his wife. She is said to have refused several times, saying she was afraid her past might prove an injury to Wagner.

Recently, by a Virginia court decision, Mrs. Maybrick and her mother, the Baroness de Roques, were awarded the title to a large tract of land in Kentucky, valued at $2,500,000.

No Dividend.

New York, Jan. 7.—Announcement was made yesterday that the decision of the directors of the Dominion Power & Transmission Co. to suspend payment of dividends is attributable to the general business depression, together with the fact that the threat of competition of the hydro-electric commission has had an inimical effect upon the sales of the company's securities.

Another factor has been the Brantford & Hamilton Railway, which has cost several hundred thousand dollars more than originally estimated. The directors feel that sales of additional stock at reasonable figures at present are impossible and the only method available for the company's purposes is to use earnings.

Loans Beacon to Italy.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—The Marine Signal Co. has loaned a portable lighthouse beacon to the Italian Government for Messina.

COLD KILLS THE GERM.

List. Perry Says There are no Bald Heads in the Arctic Region.

The people who come back from the Klondyke testify to the fact that no native bald heads are there. The evidence is that the cold climate kills the germ that eats the hair off at the roots. Lieut. Perry, who went to the Arctic Regions, gives the same evidence. Newbro's Herpicide has the same effect as the cold climate. It kills the germ that eats off the hair at the roots and the hair grows again. Herpicide is the first hair remedy built upon the principle of destroying the germ that eats the hair off. Its phenomenal sale demonstrates the correctness of the scalp germ theory.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two Sizes 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, Special Agents.

REMINISCENCES OF INTERESTING TIMES

Journal Recounting Early Events in Lakefield.

Through the kindness of the owners, to whom they have descended by hereditary right, we are enabled to present to our readers extracts from manuscripts dealing with the early days of Lakefield.

As is well known, Lakefield owes its inception in great measure to the efforts of Col. S. Strickland, who, in the middle of last century, gathered around him many young Englishmen, in what was then virgin forest. By an expenditure of money, coupled with their own physical efforts, they cleared the farms and built the splendid homesteads which to-day greet the eye of the visitor to that beautiful village. The Englishmen, in their youthful ardour, for they were little more than boys, started a manuscript journal dealing with the doings on the different clearings, and also wrote ambitious editorials on foreign and domestic politics. The original intention seems to have been to produce this journal once a week, but that there were sad lapses in the good intentions of the Editors is evidenced by the fact that large hiatuses occur throughout the four years (18-5-1859) with which these papers deal.

Many residents of Peterborough as well as of Lakefield, will doubtless be pleased to read these records, which will bring to their minds memories of many old friends of bygone days.

The first extracts from the "Katchewanooka Herald," as the production was called, will appear in next Saturday's issue.

Annual Meeting Of The Cold Springs Sunday School Held

Reports Were Presented Last Night —Past Year Has Been One of Progress.

FINANCIAL REPORT IS READ

The annual meeting of Cold Springs Union Sunday School, Otonabee, was held last night in the Sunday School room.

Miss Bennett, superintendent, presided, Mr. Alex. Long acted as secretary.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed.

The report of the secretary-treasurer was read by Miss Bennett in the absence of Miss Julia Gillespie.

In representing to you our annual report we must acknowledge God's great goodness towards us as a school. Our work goes steadily on with unabated enthusiasm.

There is on our roll nine teachers with an average attendance of 63 scholars with an average of 43. Total teachers and scholars 72, with a total average 50, including visitors 55. Our average is less than that of last year, but this can be accounted for when we remember the many stormy Sundays of last winter with their almost impassable roads, when the attendance sometimes went as low as 14. But in spite of storm and roads no Sunday passed without our holding our regular session, there always being enough of teachers and scholars who braved the storm and roads to enable us to do so, and they were amply repaid for it.

Our class collections amounted to $82.96, an average of $1.67 per Sunday. Owing to unfavourable weather our anniversary Sunday was not the success it has been in other years and of course, materially lessened our collections. From a financial standpoint the year has been a successful one. Our total receipts amounted to $225.60; of this amount $82.75 has been paid over to the building committee, almost double the amount we promised to raise. There is still in the treasury a balance of $28.52. The building committee also report a small balance.

Our Home Class Department, under the superintendency of Miss Welch, is certainly doing effective work, as is evidenced by a number of its members becoming regular attendants at the regular sessions of the school. It is self-supporting.

Of the spiritual results of the work eternity alone will tell. Ours is the sowing of the seed—the harvest is in the Master's hand.

As a school we owe a deep debt of gratitude to the young men of our school who have given so freely of their time to aid in completing our hall and, also to the entire neighbourhood, who have given so liberally of their means to aid in reducing the debt thereon, but most of all should we return thanks to our Heavenly Father, who has so abundantly blessed us and owned our work.

JULIA GILLESPIE,
Secretary.
(per L. B.)

The report of the hall committee was read by the chairman, Mr. J. Pammett, showing a total expenditure for the year of $9.99.

The chairman of the building committee, C. F. Kitney, reported that the work was almost completed. In round numbers $1,200.00 had been spent. $825.00 has already been raised leaving a debt of $375.00.

This was very encouraging as the school had but $40.00 in the treasury to commence with, as all has been done within the last two years.

The chairman took this opportunity of thanking all those who have helped in the work, as over half of the labour has been given.

This was followed by the election of officers. Mr. Bertram Bennett ably filling the chair: Miss L. Bennett, superintendent; Mr. C. F. Kitney, assistant-superintendent: Miss Julia Gillespie, secretary-treasurer; Mr. J. Pammett, assistant-secretary-treasurer; Miss Stinten, organist; Miss Kitney, assistant-organist; Mr. A. Long Miss M. Waldie, librarians; Miss Welch, Home Class secretary; Mr. Fred Kitney, Mr. A. Holden, auditors; Mr. J. Pammett, Mr. C. F. Kitney, hall committee.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Annual Meeting Of Cordage Company Was Held Yesterday

A large and representative meeting of the shareholders of Canadian Cordage & Manufacturing Company, Limited, was held yesterday afternoon at the office of the company, 25 Aylmer street. The directors submitted the financial statement of the company and the auditors's report thereon to the shareholders.

The financial year of the company which has just been brought to a close was an exceedingly trying year for manufacturers throughout Canada to withstand the great financial depression. The lumbering and shipping trades were particularly affected by this depression which resulted in a substantial curtailment of the volume of the company's sale of rope and lath-yarn, although at the same time there was an increase in their twine sales.

Owing to the financial depression which resulted in the depreciation in value of the heavy stock which the company had on hand in the beginning of October last a substantial loss was made. The fibre market substantially dropped from $40.00 to $66.00 per ton which practically made it impossible for any manufacturer to make a profit, and the shareholders can congratulate themselves that this loss was overcome during this last season's operations.

The directors regretted that there were no available profits with which to pay a dividend upon the common stock, but since the first of the season the company has been running substantially to its full capacity and better results are anticipated in the future.

The report of the directors to the shareholders further stated that there are upwards of 4,500 shareholders interested in this company living in different parts of Canada, the vast majority of whom are unable to attend the annual meetings of the company and hear the reports and explanations made by the directors to the shareholders from time to time. Owing to the fact that the company has been unable to pay a dividend from a variety of causes since the year 1905, many of the shareholders have written later from time to time to the directors and officers of the company unfairly and unjustly charging that the shareholders are not getting their share of the gross profits earned.

In view of these statements the directors themselves deemed it expedient in the interests of the company to recommend to the shareholders that a resolution be adopted at this meeting authorizing Mr. F. R. Morris, chartered accountant, to make a full investigation into the affairs and management of the company in respect to its gross profits from the time the company commenced business to the present time with a view of satisfying the shareholders that all the profits of the company have been fairly accounted for.

On motion of Mr. H. W. Wilcox, of Whitby, seconded by Mr. Robert M. Thurston, of Winnipeg, it was moved in amendment to the directors' motion that the investigation be confined to the last two years, being the date when Mr. Adam Hall, the former president of the company resigned from the presidency of the company, and this amendment to the directors' motion was carried.

The following were elected directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. H. W. Wilcox, R. R. Hall, J. C. Groendyke, James S. Latimer, and John A. Bennett.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were appointed: Mr. R. R. Hall, president; Mr. J. C. Groendyke, managing director, and Mr. E. B. Fowler, secretary.

ENLIGHTENED SELF INTEREST IN BUSINESS

Seed Business of D. M. Ferry Company is a Conspicuous Example of Self-Interest Wisely Consulted.

There is one motive behind all business dealings, the mainspring of all business transactions. People buy and sell with one fundamental object — the hope of gain. It is a matter of self-interest pure and simple and doubtless will remain so to the end of the chapter. The difference in merchants lies in the fact that this self-interest may be brutal and unprincipled with the result that it is short-sighted and considers only temporary gain or that, on the other hand, it may be controlled by the highest aims and be rewarded by permanent success.

In the United States one of the most conspicuous examples of self-interest wisely consulted is the seed business of D. M. Ferry & Co. We do not know how it would be possible better to serve the purchasing public than by their method of supplying annually every local dealer in the country with seeds fresh put up and then at the end of the season removing from the retailer all stocks left on hand, thus preventing the possibility of unfit seeds being carried over for another spring. By regarding primarily the interests of their purchaser, D. M. Ferry & Co. have grown to be the largest seed house in the world. This success has necessitated systematic organization and made it possible not only to specialize but to have the best physical equipment in America.

Learn more about reliable seeds by writing to D. M. Ferry & Co., Windsor, Ont., for their 1909 Seed Annual which is sent free on request.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir—That police court case reported in yesterday's Examiner seems to me very unsatisfactory. Is it possible that in this city of churches, and charitable institutions and Women's Associations such a matter should be allowed to pass without being taken up. A man earning $8 a week and spending $4 for board and comfortable lodging at a hotel and allowing his aged wife to beg or to jail as a vagrant. Why it is abominable. Why is this man's name suppressed? And why is he not put in jail for non-support? Many a family in Peterborough are living on less than $4 a week.

Let the clergy and the public take this matter up. If they don't it's a disgrace to our city.

Yours truly,
W. J. C.

Note—In this case there seems to be some explanation required. Inquiry reveals the fact that the elderly woman in question is herself somewhat to blame, if she is responsible. It appears that her children do their best to provide for her and look after her wants, but that she will not stop with any of them, but she leaves a comfortable shelter to roam the streets. The children, at least are not to blame for any lack of care or affection. The responsibility of the husband is a matter for the authorities as indeed the whole situation seems to be.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER SERVICES WERE CONTINUED LAST NIGHT

Supremacy of Christ in Home Life Was the Topic of Meeting at George Street Methodist Church

REV. MR. POTTER'S ADDRESS

The third of the series of the week of prayer services was held in the George Street Methodist Church last night and was very largely attended.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour, rector of All Saint's church presided.

During the evening Miss Carrie Reesor sang a solo, "I am Delighted in Him."

Rev. J. G. Potter was the speaker of the evening and his subject was "The Supremacy of Christ in the Home Life." He based his remarks on Ephes 6-6 "As the servant of Christ doing the will of God from the heart." He referred to the custom among the Greeks who had an image of deity in the halls of the town houses. The Romans' custom was the daily worship and the Jewish custom of the morning and evening sacrifice. He referred to it as the greatest privilege of the Christian life to give Christ the supreme place in teh home life.

The words of John Hall were quoted—"Make the God of Bethal yours and let your household go out in life under the influence of truth linked with every endearing memory and every sweet association of home, making it to them a type and prophecy of heaven."

Rev. Mr. Potter strongly emphasized the value of the family alter, and the fidelity of the parents with the children in the family pew; the faithful witness of the Christian life in the home and the daily example especially of the father to the boys of the family.

The enemies of the home were referred to, including envy, worldliness, hidden sin and drunkenness. He scored the liquor traffic as one of the worst enemies to home purity, and called upon Christians to do all they could to lessen the evils.

Training vs. Long Service

In every business we see the long service man asking the trained one for advice.

Although the optician may claim he has had from fifteen to twenty-five years experience in the optical business, that is no proof that he is a trained man.

In the past seven months we have not had one dissatisfied patient. This is a pretty good record considering the large number we have fitted with glasses and the many who could not get relief elsewhere.

PATTERSON—In Toronto, Jan. 1909, the wife of Mr. D. A. Patterson, of a daughter.

Farmers' Institute Meetings Were Held In Smith Township Yesterday

Profitable Addresses Were Given by the Speakers Sent Out by the Department.

THE ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

The second of the supplementary meetnigs of the Farmers' Institute of West Peterborough, was held at the fourth line of Smith hall yesterday afternoon and evening. They were two splendid gatherings, excellent addresses being delivered at each, by Messrs. Alward, of Havelock, New Brunswick, and Kitchen, of Lovering, Ontario.

Mr. John Telford, president of the Institute, opened the afternoon proceedings. He said that they had two speakers who would give them some valuable information along the lines of agriculture, and that he would not take up the time with any remarks.

Mr. Alward

Mr. Alward, of Havelock, N.B., gave a splendid address on "Summer and Winter Care of Dairy Cows." In beginning he said that he was always pleased to meet farmers and talk on farm subjects. He was a dairyman, but whatever the dairymen of New Brunswick had learned along the lines of dairying it was from the farmers of Ontario. They had one advantage over Ontario, however. They had benefitted from the mistakes Ontario had made. He did not pretend to know the conditions here and intended to speak on the underlying principles which were as applicable to Ontario as New Brunswick.

Farming was largely the interest of Ontario. In New Brunswick it was different. A great many people down there engage in lumbering and fishing and farming compared with these industries was badly neglected. New Brunswick young men thought that greater wages were to be derived from working in the bush and it would be almost impossible to get any attendance at a Farmers' Institute meeting. But within the last few years the lumber interests had decreased and the people saw that they must turn themselves to their farms. Dairying had taken a firm stand and now it was the chief interest of the farmers. It had spread and in Sussex County, a dairying school had been established. It was found that it was the main source of financial success.

The farmers were now an independent people and their independence was attributed to the dairying industry.

In the real cheese districts of Ontario they were running their factories eight months in the year. They opened with fodder cheese and closed with fodder cheese, and the speaker believed that this was a great injury. He thought that the dairying industry should be run the year round. twenty cows, he should have about twelve of them to freshen in the fall. Of course the cows should have two months' rest, but if a farmer owned There was more benefit derived from cows freshening in the fall than in the spring. He believed that if they would experiment they would come to the same conclusion as he had.

He said that cows were usually turned out to pasture about the 15th of May. The grass is usually very moist then, and until it gets better developed they should be given additional fodder. June grass cannot be excelled as food for cows, but the speaker said that while June grass was the best, it did not last through the season. He thought that dairy cows were the best means the farmers had to keep up the fertility of the soil. Making butter did not take the fertility out of the soil like cheese making, as the fat in butter was not a fertilizer. It was important that farmers keep up the fertility of the soil. By experiment it has been found that the same amount of feed expended in keeping will bring only half the returns of the same amount expended in dairying. It is a business proposition and farmers ought to exercise more business tact.

If a cow is allowed to go down in its flow of milk by not giving sufficient food, a farmer will find it a very difficult task to get them back to their standard flow. A cow, he thought, was like a machine, and should be kept working. It does not pay to winter a cow poorly and put it out in the spring expecting to do a good summer's work.

Some will say that there was no profit in feeding up a cow, but the speaker said that it was from giving a cow plenty of food that profit was derived. He thought that farmers should grow plenty of oats and peas for cow feed. One acre of land would yield enough oats or peas to feed a cow for six weeks.

In New Brunswick, the farmers grew all the feed for their cows Owing to the high price of grain in winter, this was necessary, if anything was to be made. They grew roots, buckwheat, barley, corn, oats and and peas. It was not profitable to farmer to have to buy feed. Oil cake balanced with other foods made splendid food for cows.

Mr. Kitchen

Mr. Kitchen, of Lovering, Ont., dealt with the subject of "The hog and its profit to the farmer." He began by stating that now there was a great drop in the number of pigs that the farmers were keeping. However, they felt that they should keep a certain number. In his township he (Mr. Kitchen) believe there was a Berkshire to two Yorkshire. They were all the improved hog. They were all the improved Yorkshire. He believed that it was not for the whey and refuse from the kitchen to feed the pigs the farmers would not keep them. Simcoe County is being great for lumber, pork is being great for lumber, pork was in much demand by the lumber camps. He believed that the best way to feed pigs well. He had a convenience to feed pigs well. He had a convenience pasture and runways from the pig pen. Then give them the run of the house. But he found that to keep them through the winter it did not pay. He kept them well fed in fall until he thought they were ready for the market. Some fed their hogs sulky. He found that the best to have clover pastures for them to run on. So far as the hog was concerned it was hard to convince farmers that there was any money in them. But the dealers were demanding them. But the dealers were demanding them and some farmers were taking it upon themselves to raise Berkshire hogs, but the cry was Yorkshire was what they wanted. The price of hogs had greatly decreased.

Mr. A. H. Campbell, cheesemaker at Central Smith, said that he had had eleven pigs, starting to feed them at seven weeks and in less than six months he sold them at a profit of five dollars per hog.

This concluded the meeting for the afternoon.

Evening Meeting

Many more attended in the evening than in the afternoon, and a very interesting meeting was held. The chair was taken by the president, Mr. G. Telford, who, after a few introductory remarks, introduced the speakers of the evening.

Mr. E. W. Kitchen, before commencing his subject, "Poultry," expressed his pleasure at seeing such a fine gathering, especially such a large number of women, and briefly referred to the benefits derived from Women's Institutes.

Of late years, he said, that he had retired from the arduous tasks of the farm and devoted his time to the raising of chickens. He commenced in this way. He had thirty-two chickens and a few turkeys. He got the grain out of the granary and gave to the granary, as it were, a cent a pound for grain. He charged the usual twelve cents a dozen eggs. Plymouth Rocks were his favourite hens, raisin, one hundred and fifty in one summer. The feed he gave them was principally wheat. He built his own hen coops, and puts from four to six in each coop. Later he killed the fowl and sold them to a Toronto firm. They had cost him in the neighbourhood of $62, and his profit was over $138. He remarked that he had gone into poultry raising extensively, but was afraid, however, that this branch of the farming industry was being greatly neglected.

In answer to a question as to what he fed hens for winter eggs, the speaker replied that he gave them grain, kitchen scraps and plenty of skim milk. He did not keep a stove in his hen house. He did not believe in keeping hen houses too warm.

Vice-President Speaks

Mr. John Garbutt, Vice-President of the Farmers' Institute, was called upon for a few remarks. He had been much impressed with the addresses he had heard, and spoke in complimentary terms of the visiting delegates.

Reeve Scott

Reeve Scott, of Smith also spoke a few words, expressing his pleasure at being present. He had not previously taken much interest in Farmers' Institute meetings, but after attending the one at Ennismore he was so interested that he had decided to attend the one in Smith.

Deputy Reeve Graham then sang a solo, which was much appreciated.

Mr. Alward

Mr. Alward's evening subject was "Work Among the Boys, and Co-operation." He began by stating that he would be glad if somebody would solve the question, "How it was that there was not more congeniality among farmers, the same as there existed in other callings?"

He had travelled considerably, and he was always struck with the unsociable relations between farmers, and farmers were not so independent as they thought, he added. He pointed out that a merchant asked a certain price for a piece of goods, but a farmer always said, "What will you give me?" for his produce. He believed that farmers should work co-operatively. Young people should realise the dignity of their occupation as farmers. The farmers were the most independent people and the young men and women on farms should hold up their calling and never be ashamed of it. The speaker remarked that he would much rather have his sons on the farm than behind the counter. "They wouldn't have to work so hard behind the plough.

Mr Alward referred briefly to poultry raising. He said that there was much money in it, remarking that eggs at St. John's, N. B., last Saturday sold at fifty-five cents. Speaking again of co-operation, the speaker thought that on the farm the father and son should co-operate. Boys should not be allowed to leave the farms to follow a business or a profession. They should be encouraged to remain on the farm, and should be allowed to have some financial interest in it. The boy should be consulted as to what was to be done, and should not be worked like a machine. He urged the boys not to be too anxious to go to the city. They were better on the farm.

Mr. Alward next spoke along the line of dairying co-operation stating that the makers and patrons should co-operate to obtain the best results.

Befor closing a vote of thanks to the speakers of the day was moved by Deputy Reeve Graham and seconded by Mr. McGregor, and unanimously carried.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Poultry Association Directors Are Deserving Of Credit For Great Success Of The Show

The directors and members of the Peterborough Poultry Association are to be congratulated upon the success that has attended the first annual show under their auspices which concludes to-night. The affair has been a remarkable success throughout. Over 600 birds were shown, the quality being remarkably good, and the attendance throughout has been most encouraging. The directors have worked energetically, and with the one idea of furthering the interest of the show and they must surely be satisfied with the results attained. The citizens who visited the show during the past two days have been loud in their praises of the excellence of the exhibits while the exhibitors on the other hand had nothing but good words to say of the arrangements and the way in which they have been treated by the management.

Sixty-nine different classes of poultry have been exhibited, the biggest showing being made in the minorcas, light and dark brahmas and orpingtons, while there are splendid exhibits of plymouth rocks, wyandottes, Rhode Island reds and hamburgs. Indian and exhibition games are well-represented, and there are some splendid guinea fowl, pigeons, geese and turkeys in the show.

Among the special exhibits that attracted attention from the crowds that thronged the hall last night were the display by R. Wescott, McDonnel street, city, of a dozen black minorca eggs weighing 36 1-2 ounces to the dozen, while a dozen buff orpington eggs shown weigh but 23 ounces.

Mr. John Matheson, Manning avenue, had an exhibit of a pair of dressed buff orpingtons, spring chickens, which weighed 23 pounds.

Too much credit cannot be given the officers and members of the Association for the manner in which they have worked for the success of the enterprise. Since the forming of the Association they have been energetic and eager to do all they could and it was this spirit that made such a success of the first show.

The officers of the Association are as follows:

Pres.—Jas. Baptie.
1st Vice-Pres.—Geo. Paxman.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Harry Lush.
Treasurer—Jos. Kelly.
Secretary—C. J. Hicks.
Directors—J. T. C. Lang, E. H. White, E. C. Sergiley, Jas. O'Shea, R. Gardiner, S. Bickle, R. Robson, R. Kidd.

Secretary Hicks and Superintendent Paxman were the busiest men in the hall yesterday.

A BRACE OF ARTISTS COMING TO THE CITY

Peterborough may expect a visit this season from two great artists from Europe, under the management of Miss Maude Bradley, who has heretofore brought the best of musical attractions to the city, including the Watkin-Mills Company, Harold Jarvis—on many occasions—Alys Bateman and Parlovits, etc. Everything that Miss Bradley brings may be counted as in the premier class. The artists to be expected in Peterborough are Otto Meyer, violinist, and Alexander Russell, pianist. Both have studied under the foremost masters in Europe and have appeared with conspicuous success in the leading centres on the continent and in the United States. Of course, announcement of their appearance in Peterborough will be duly given and the public may with excellent reason look forward to a genuine musical treat.

WAS IN BED FOR THREE MONTHS.

PEOPLE SAID SHE HAD CONSUMPTION.

Read how Mrs. T. G. Buck, Bracebridge, Ont., was cured (and also her little boy) by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

She writes: "I thought I would write and let you know the benefit I have received through the use of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A few years ago I was so badly troubled with my lungs people said I had Consumption and that I would not live through the Fall. I had two doctors attending me and they were very much alarmed about me. I was in bed three months and when I got up I could not walk, so had to go on my hands and knees for three weeks, and my limbs seemed of no use to me. I gave up all hopes of ever getting better when I happened to see in B.B.B. Almanac that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup was good for weak lungs. I thought I would try a bottle and by the time I had used it I was a lot better, so got more and it made a complete cure. My little boy was also troubled with weak lungs and it cured him. I keep it in the house all the time and would not be without it for anything."

Price 25 cents at all dealers. Beware of imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Ask for it and insist on getting the original. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark.

CLERGYMAN SLAIN BY UNKNOWN MAN

Michigan Town Is Scene of Mysterious and Revolting Crime.

PARTS OF BODY IN STOVES

Rev. John J. Carmichael, Who Was Not Believed to Have an Enemy In the World, Is Murdered by Unknown and Body Chopped to Pieces In His Church—Made Hard Struggle For His Life.

Detroit, Jan. 7.—The dismembered body of Rev. John J. Carmichael, a Methodist minister, was found yesterday partially consumed by fire in the two heating stoves of one of his three churches near Columbus, in the southwestern part of St. Clair County.

Identification of the dead clergyman was made by Orville Lindsay, who was sent to the church by Mrs. Carmichael, who had been in great distress since her husband failed to return home as expected Tuesday evening.

Clues to the murderer and his motive were difficult to obtain. There is a rumor that a strange man left a train at Hickey late Tuesday and was directed to the Columbus Church, and there are other rumors indicating that two men were implicated in the crimes.

The fact that several coins were found in the clothing of the dead man and in the ashes in the stove precluded the theory of robbery, and at the time of his death it was not known that the murdered minister had an enemy in the world.

Rev. Mr. Carmichael had been in Michigan about ten years and for two years had been pastor of the three churches at Columbus, Adair and China. With his wife and three children he resided at Adair. Leaving home Tuesday morning he told Mrs. Carmichael that he was going to Columbus to arrange for a series of revival meetings there.

The church floor, the pews and even the communion table were daubed with blood and fragments of bloody clothing were scattered all around. Evidently the clergyman, who was 56 years old and of athletic build, had made a terrific struggle for his life.

The authorities on their arrival at the church found parts of the dismembered body in the two stoves respectively at the front and rear, and discovered in one stove the head of what was apparently a new hatchet, the handle of which had been burned off.

A dirk was also found in the church and it is believed that the dirk served for the murder, while the hatchet was used to cut the body to pieces.

The minister's horse was found yesterday tied to a tree in the village of Pine River, his overcoat being discovered in the buggy. Pine River is a small village near Thornton, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway and fully twenty miles from the scene of the murder.

WATER AND ELECTRICITY.

Quebec Man Is Nearly Electrocuted In Michigan.

Windsor, Jan. 7.—Fred Menhennick of St. Johns, Que., visiting his brother in Hastings, Mich., narrowly escaped electrocution while examining a burst water pipe on Tuesday. Carrying an electric coil lamp in his hand, Menhennick stepped into a puddle of water on the cellar floor, thus completing the circuit. Instantly his body became rigid as stone, and he was powerless to move a muscle or cry out. He stood for nearly half an hour in this position while all the time the electricity coursed through his body. Finally, losing consciousness, he fell to the ground. The lamp was torn from his hand and the circuit disconnected. His hands were terribly burned, but the shock to his system is the most serious result. Doctors say he will recover.

TWO RELIEF PARTIES LOST.

Surveyors Bring Sensational Story From Fort Churchill.

Winnipeg, Jan. 7.—Bringing with them a tale of terrible suffering, R. D. Fry of Hudson Bay Railway survey, and E. Morrier and Frank Peters of the Dominion survey, Ottawa, arrived yesterday from Hudson Bay, by snowshoe and dog sleigh, having made the trip in 5 days, bringing their full equipment.

They were employed in laying out the townsite of Fort Churchill, Canada's new ocean port on the Northern Sea.

They brought with them a sensational report of the loss of a party sent out by Major Moody, R.N.M.P., in search of Inspector Peltier and his party of Eskimos, who have been missing some time. A year ago an officer named Caldwell, from the Geological Department at Ottawa, was sent on a survey in the north country, and never was heard of again. Last spring Inspector Peltier was despatched with a search party from Chesterfield Inlet, and was to wait at Fullerton till Aug. 1, but, the party and boat were never seen again. The third party, consisting of Sergeant-Corporal Reeves and three Eskimos, were sent out Nov. 22, but nothing was heard from them and it is believed they, too, were lost. A fourth party will be sent out later.

DAIRYMEN IN SESSION.

Decrease In Ontario's Cheese Exports Comes Up For Discussion.

Prescott, Jan. 7.—The first session of the thirty-second annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association was held yesterday morning.

J. R. Dargavel, M.P.P., stated that the most regrettable feature in connection with the dairy industry in Eastern Ontario was the vast reduction in cheese exports during 1908, although the butter exports had increased to some extent; this was due directly to the shortage of feed in the spring and the prolonged drought during the summer.

He further stated that the Canadian Government should institute a system of inspection of factories and farms as to sanitary conditions, such as is carried on in Great Britain.

Senator Derbyshire praised the work of the Dairymen's Association in the production of a marked improvement emphasized the importance of more intensive methods of farming. Every farm should produce sufficient for the needs of the live stock, yet Grenville County alone had to import more than $500,000 worth of feed last year.

29 Sustained Local Option.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—The 31 local option repeal contests have all been heard from. They show that local option was sustained in 29 places and repealed in t o. They were Courtright and Hepworth.

The number of licenses which would have been cut off but for the operation of the three-fifths majority clause would have been 118 instead of 58.

A proposition is under consideration in temperance circles for a deputation, exclusively from the 29 places where the bylaw was lost through the three-fifths requirement, to wait on Hon. W. J. Hanna, to request its repeal and to protest against licenses in their municipalities.

Beaten by Hired Man.

Brandon, Man. Jan. 7.—Mrs. Hunter Cooper, wife of a well-known farmer near Bradwardine, lies at the point of death from injuries received at the hands of a hired man, Harry Scarr, aged 18, an Englishman, who attacked her Tuesday afternoon as she was driving home, beating her over the head with a hammer, fracturing her skull.

He then went into Bradwardine, told the husband what he had done and gave himself up.

Standard Oil to Get New Trial.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The Supreme Court, having refused to review the Appellate Court's reversal of Judge Landis' fine of $29,240,000 against the Standard Oil Co., Judge Landis was asked yesterday to set a new date for the retrial of the case.

Judge Landis informed the district attorney that he would not hear the second trial of the case, but that he would transfer it to some other judge to be determined upon later.

A Schoolbook Enquiry.

Regina, Sask., Jan. 7.—The Legislature met yesterday afternoon.

Attorney-General Turgeon gave notice that he will move for the appointment of a special committee, composed of Messrs. Bole, Bradshaw, Sheppard, Smith and Golds, to investigate Mr. Haultain's insinuations regarding the awarding of school book contracts.

C. P. R. Conciliation Board.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Judge Fortin of Montreal has been appointed chairman of the board of conciliation and investigation, which was commissioned under the Lemieux Act to enquire into a dispute between the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. and the locomotive engineers.

Frontenac Hotel to Open.

Kingston, Jan. 7.—The big Frontenac Hotel will be re-opened May 1, and run on the European plan. An arcade will connect the Frontenac with the British-American Hotel and both are to be run by W. Telfer.

Cold Snap Is Here.

Toronto, Jan. 7.—The cold wave has arrived. Although it was only nine above zero in Toronto yesterday, western towns had a touch of real weather, the following temperatures being reported to the metereological office:

Calgary, 28 below; Edmonton, 32; Battleford, 34; Regina, 51; Prince Albert, 42; Moose Jaw, 42; Qu'Appelle, 42; Winnipeg, 40; Port Arthur, 30. The following registered above zero: London, 17; Toronto, 9; Ottawa, 2; Montreal, 10; Quebec, 10; St. John, 42; Halifax, 34.

Kansas City, 8 below; Milwaukee, 15; Omaha, Neb., 13; Chicago, 9.

Hope For Patrick Yet?

New York, Jan. 7.—Learning that Charles F. Jones, former valet of William Marsh Rice, is dying in Texas and that he had a statement to make in connection with the case of Albert T. Patrick, now serving a life sentence in Sing Sing for the murder of Rice, John T. Milliken, a wealthy brother-in-law of Patrick, has started for Texas. It was Jones' confession which convicted Patrick. He has fought steadily in the courts for freedom.

Spring Has Come.

South Norwalk, Conn., Jan. 7.—Theodore Smith, dean of the north fishermen, reports that eels are coming out of the mud, and with frost fish, are biting at the hook as in summer days. Weather students reports the appearance of angle worms, sure harbingers of the vernal awakening.

Misread Regulations.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—Officials of the Department of Agriculture say there is nothing in the existing quarantine regulations to prevent the importation of hides and skins from the United States. A provision in the regulation provides that skins that are not those of remnants are exempt.

The protest, which fur dealers of New York City have made to the State Department at Washington against the Canadian regulation, it is said, must be based on misconception of purport of regulations.

Moving Picture Merger.

New York, Jan. 7.—A $15,000,000 merger, according to an announcement, will end a moving picture war that has been in progress for many months. It is planned to do away with the sale outright of films which hereafter can only be rented. Within thirty days the number of moving pictures places will likely be reduced to about one-half.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 7.—John W. Gates, in a letter to Speaker Cannon, declares that iron, coal and lumber should be put on the free tariff list, and that a cut of 50 per cent. in the steel schedule would not affect the manufacturers of iron and steel in this country.

"WOMEN!"
"Are You Nervous?"

The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be placated till a remedy such as

MILBURN'S

come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.

Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."

Price, 50 cents a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PORT HOPE JUNIORS BEAT LOCALS LAST NIGHT BY ONE GOAL AFTER HARD FOUGHT FAST EXHIBITION

Lake Shore Bunch Won the O.H.A. Fixture by 6-5, Leading at the Half by 4-1 – Nixon the Star.

THE LOCALS STRONG FINISH

Beaten one goal, after the hardest kind of an up-hill fight, the local Junior O. H. A. team had to yield a 6—5 victory to the husky Junior septette from Port Hope in the O. H. A. fixture at the Brock street rink last night, after a game that was fought out until the last second of play. The Lakeshore bunch showed early speed and won the game before the locals found themselves, and although the Petes made a valiant effort they were never quite able to overcome the lead, try as they might and they did try too. At half time the Hopers were in the lead by 4—1, and looked to have the game on ice. They had the better of the play during the first period, when the locals seemed rather at sea, and at the half the result did not seem much in doubt. There was a remarkable change in the situation in the second half, however, the Peterboroughs coming back with a dash and vim that had the visitors fighting with their backs to the wall all the way through, and they were lucky to get away with the big end of the score. All the rabbit's feet that were going were hung around the necks of the winners, as on the play during the second half the locals were plenty good enough to win. They had no luck, however, and several times when the tying score looked certain something happened to prevent the goal. With a few minutes to play Charlie Ray got clear through the defence and was working in on goal for what looked a certain score when he was tripped and a golden chance was gone.

Port Hope had it on the locals in size, especially on the defence, and they used their weight to advantage, while the whole team checks hard, in fact, their close checking was one of the features of their play.

They kept hammering away at the local forwards, covering them closely, so that it was only in spots that they were enabled to break away. Some one must have tipped Ray off to them, as they watched him closely all the way, two men generally giving him their attention, so that the local rover, work as he might, had few opportunities to get loose.

In everything but checking the Petes were every bit as good as the visitors. They played as good combination, were just as fast and handled the puck as well, if not better, but luck was not with them, while the visitors had several scores that were of a fluky nature.

It was a hard, close game all the way, with both teams working at top pressure. The ice could not have been improved upon and both seems to take kindly to the fast going with the result that the play never lagged from start to finish, especially in the second half, when Wade, Ray and Short were responsible for some of the prettiest rushes seen on the local rink this season. Wade was a star for the visitors and the large crowd present found cause to cheer him many times through the game. He was somewhat in the centre of a disappointment. It was remarkably checking hockey, and when the Petes got rough they were detected, they must in fairness be said, but the referee satisfied with their performance, realizing that a little rock might have turned the tide of victory in another direction.

It was simply a case of too much Nixon for the Port Hope local team to contend with. The lanky youth played the visitors was about fifty per cent. of their team last night. Aided by some fine all round individual exhibitions on the part of his forwards, Nixon made scores of jaunts down Peterborough territory, and when he was going it seemed impossible to stop him. He was responsible for the majority of the visitors' goals, and although he had not a finished style of hockey, he is the style of kind of hockey, to whom Port Hope people pay the most is decidedly effective. With Record in goal, Lowthian and Brown and Nixon on point, the Lake Shore team have a defence that is remarkably hard to circumvent, and their back division is by far the strongest part of the team. On the forward line they have two fine players in Brown and McMillan, both of whom are fast and clever stick handlers. Cooper in short trials, but was conspicuous for fouling off-side.

Peterborough failed to get going in the first half, seemingly being unable to break away from their checks, and their efforts were of no consequence. In the second half they were with a few exceptions on improving and were responsible for some combination with the result that they had the visitors ill through the second half. Charlie Ray, however, was the only forward to score, but he checked hard and those will the way finished may have the opposition to settle that he did in Monday's game, although it was he played grand hockey. Cyril Giroux was always prominent, especially in the second half, and his work was responsible for several of the goals. The sturdy little centre never let up for a moment, although he was knocked out once, and had his foot badly slashed on another occasion. Shortt was good all the way, and Pentland worked hard and long shout, his playing the second half being one of the features.

The chief fault with the defence was that they did not use their weight enough. A good body check would have cut Nixon's wanderings short but the local back division played the puck invariably. With the exception of that error in judgment they played good hockey, especially Wade, whose rushes relieved the pressure on many occasions. Len Giroux played his usual reliable game between the posts.

Referee Moron, of Toronto, handled the game and his chief characteristic in addition to his general unfitness for his position, was his inability to keep out of the way. His work could easily have been improved upon, although he was evidently endeavoring to be impartial.

The teams lined up as follows:

	PETERBOROUGH
	L. Giroux
	Wade
	Fox
	Ray
Short	C. Giroux	Pentland
Stephenson	McMillan	Dow
	Brown
	Lowthian
	Nixon
	Record
	PORT HOPE

The Play

Port Hope had all the best of the play at the start. It was fast, hard hockey from the go-in with both teams working for all they were in them. The visitors were checking closely and giving the locals little chance to get away. Port Hope made several dangerous advances, Lowthian at last taking the first goal in four minutes on a shot from the side.

Port Hope 1; Peterborough 0

Wade slashed Nixon and was sent away for two minutes. Port Hope tried hard to score while he was off but the Petes held them out for five minutes when Nixon got loose on one of his dashes down the ice and a pass to Lowthian resulted in another goal on a good heave from the side.

Port Hope 2; Peterborough 0.

Peterborough began to find themselves a little better and during the next period the play was practically even with first one and then the other goal in danger. Ray and Short got right through but Record poked off the shot. In doing so however he dropped to his knees and the force gave him a minute on the face. While he was off the locals made a most determined assault on the Port Hope citadel and although several shots were stopped by the other defence men Pentland finally lifted one into the net in eight minutes.

Port Hope 2; Peterborough 1.

Ray got sentence for tripping but the Petes managed to hold their own with the visitors while he was off. Nixon made several dangerous rushes from his position at point and finally after six minutes fast hockey he slipped one past Giroux.

Port Hope 3; Peterborough 1.

The visitors were having the better of the play although the Peterboroughs were not letting up any. Brown and McMillan got away together and the former scored in four minutes.

Port Hope 4; Peterborough 1

Wade was again penalized and half time was called with him still on the fence.

Dow, the little right wing of the visitors, was sent away early in the second half for tripping. The Petes showed much better form after the rest and started right in after the visitors. They invaded their territory time after time but couldn't beat the defence, until after eight minutes of the period were gone Pentland passed from the corner out in front to Giroux who scored easily.

Port Hope 4; Peterborough 2.

The excitement was growing to fever heat at this stage and three minutes afterwards when Wade got away for a long rush which resulted in Giroux scoring from the scrimmage that followed, the cheering could be heard for a block.

Port Hope 4; Peterborough 3.

It was too close to be comfortable for the boys from Reynoldsville and they worked hard to increase their lead. Nixon finally accomplished the trick with a neat rush in three minutes.

Port Hope 5; Peterborough 3.

Peterborough were having the best of the play nevertheless and the next goal went to the locals. Short shot from the boards the puck rebounding off the point to the local right wing who again lanced one at the goal. Record stopped it but Short followed in his shot and scored on the rebound. Time 4 minutes.

Port Hope 5; Peterborough 4.

Port Hope scored the next goal in a lucky manner. Brown got away for a good rush and as he neared the goal, Giroux ran out to clear but Brown struck the puck as he dropped and the rubber rolled between the goal keeper's feet as he was attempting to clear.

Port Hope 6; Peterborough 4.

The last goal of the game went to Peterborough in one minute. An off side resulted in a face off near the Port Hope goal and Giroux slammed it in from the draw.

Port Hope 6; Peterborough 5.

The Petes worked hard to catch up before time was called but were unable.

The Summary

1 Port Hope—Lowthian, 4 min.

THE CITY LEAGUE OPENS TO-NIGHT; THREE GAMES ARE SCHEDULED FOR THE OPENING OF 1909 SEASON

Lightning fast ice is promised for the opening of the City League to-night, and there is every reason to expect that a big crowd will be in attendance for the first games of what promises to be one of the most successful seasons in the history of the organization. The opening bill is a splendid one, bringing out all four of the local teams in the League and some great hockey should be the result, as all the teams look stronger than last year's aggregations. This year the Junior City League will serve to provide curtain raisers for the senior organization, the latter not taking up the usual double header will be preceded by a junior game commencing at 6:30 o'clock, while the first senior game will be called at 8 o'clock.

The E.A.S. and West Ends will have the honour of opening the season, and will play the first game of the double header. There is much speculation among the fans as to the result of this contest, as both teams will have a number of new men on the line-up. The Abstainers will have the advantage in weight and experience, but the boys from the shadow of Jackson Park have a lively collection of juniors, three of which played for Peterborough against Port Hope last night, and they cannot be overlooked in figuring out the probable winner. It should be a hard battle all the way.

The West Ends will have the following lineup:—

Goal — Halpin.
Point — Wade.
Cover — C. Dobson.
Rover — A. Rose.
Centre — McNair.
Right Wing — Short.
Left Wing — Pentland.

The Belmonts and Strathconas will furnish the opening game in the second half which promises to be of a hard fought nature all the way. The Belmonts have a big squad of players out at practice last night, and they will be about the heaviest aggregation ever seen in the city. The Straths are doped to win but the Belmonts may spring a surprise to-night, and in any event the game will be well worth seeing. The complete teams will have their regular positions filled. Most of the men were out last night and are in the best of shape for the opening.

The Straths will line up as follows:
Goal — Wilson.
Point — Dobson.
Cover — Dustv.
Rover — Ray.
Centre — Long.
Right Wing — Seymour.

The Belmonts will line up the following team:—
Goal — Davidson.
Point — Myers.
Cover — Ecclestone.
Rover — Clarke.
Centre — Wilson.
Right Wing — W. Waram.

George Lynch will handle the ball in both senior games to-night.

The junior game between the Otonabees and George street, which precedes the double header will be well worth seeing. Both teams are in good shape and some lively hockey should be the result.

BOWLING

The Examiner A team strengthened their hold on second place in the ten pin league series at the P. B. C. last night by taking two games from the boys, who won the first contest of the series and then dropped the remainder to their opponents. Both teams showed poor form in the opening game, but the second uncovered an improved brand of bowling and the Exam had to go their best all the way to win. In the third game the tailenders gave the newspaper trio another scare and looked like winners all through, until the last three frames, when Cairns and Glover ran into a series of strikes that carried their team to the front with a rush, and enabled them to win out by a safe margin.

Cairns was again high man for the winners, while McFadden piled up the largest total for the losers, with Perry a good second.

The individual competition announced some time ago for the handsome punch bowl will be started next week and those intending to enter should hand in their names at once. The competition will be conducted on a handicap basis and will run for some weeks.

The scores last night follow:

Examiner A
Lacheur	92	188	123—	403
Glover	107	112	184—	403
Cairns	139	189	196—	524
	338	489	503—1330
Greys
McFadden	120	144	162—	426
R. Perry	105	144	136—	385
N. Perry	132	152	132—	416
	259	440	430—1227

BOXING.

New York, Jan. 7.—Los Angeles sportsmen are confident that Jeffries will soon decide to fight again. They say the big fellow is talking fight in confidence with his friends, and that the latter are advising him to make a match with Jack Johnson. It is a fact that Jeffries has just severed his relations with the boxing club in Los Angeles, which bears his name, and gives as a reason that he is tired of acting as a promoter to glove contests. It is also said that the boilermaker has signed a contract to appear in boxing exhibitions at a San Francisco theatre at a salary of $3,000 for one week, and that he will put in ten days at training to prepare himself for this stunt. Furthermore, it is reported that Jeffries is seriously thinking of making an exhibition tour of the United States, which may mean that before he begins such a trip he will be signed for a match with Johnson.

SPORTING COMMENT.

Abe Attell has agreed to fight Jim Driscoll, the English and Australian featherweight champion, in a six-round bout at Philadelphia. It is thought that Attell is stalling for the reason that Driscoll has declared he will not meet Attell at less than twenty rounds.

Arrangements have been concluded whereby the Pilgrim football team, which visited the United States three years ago, will make another tour of that country in October and November next. The team will play fifteen games in New York, Philadelphia, Fall River, St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and other places.

Sam Langford, the Boston middleweight, who is unable to secure matches with either Ketchell or Al Kaufman, will go to England, where he says he will meet Johnson on Feb. 22 in a thirty-round bout before the National Sporting Club, of London. Langford insists that the champion will return in time for it.

Jack O'Brien, of Philadelphia, last night defeated three men in two rounds at the West Club. The men he defeated were Fred Cooley, of San Francisco; Jack Reed, of Toledo, O., and Jack Cooper, of Columbus, O.

Dr. Roller, the Seattle athlete, who was matched to fight Kaufman recently, has declared the battle off and gives as a reason that he can get a better division of the purse in his own town than in Los Angeles.

Battling Nelson, the lightweight champion, is thinking of taking a trip to Australia.

Phil Brock, the Cleveland lightweight, has agreed to box Young Corbett at New Orleans on January 14.

Manager Ganzel, of the Rochester team of the Eastern League, announced that he has secured Outfielder Anderson from Pittsburg, Catcher Beville, and Thirdbaseman Rodgers of Middletown. All of these deals were for cash.

Catcher Frank Roth, of Milwaukee, has been procured by Clark Griffiths, of Cincinnati. Catcher Hostetter, of St. Louis, goes to the same club.

Charles Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National League club, announces that he has signed James Sebring, the player who was re-instated by the Commission on Monday.

OBITUARY.

MRS. HENRY BEST

This morning at an early hour the sad death of Mrs. Best, wife of ex-Mayor Best, took place at the family residence, 103 Lock street. Mrs. Best was fifty-seven years old, having been born in Otonabee in the year 1851, she was married thirty-four years ago to Mr. Henry Best, who is well known and respected as a citizen, and who occupied the position as mayor of this city.

Mrs. Best has been ill for some time, but since the new year her condition of health has been gradually growing a great deal worse, until death resulted this morning. She is survived by her sorrowing husband, two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Manning, of Peterborough, and Miss Bertha, at home. Five brothers, John Fife, of Tacoma, Wash.; Alexander and Thomas Fife, of Reeche, North Dakota; David Fife, of Emmetsburg, Iowa, and Hugh, of Otonabee, survive her, as well as two sisters Mrs. Joseph Lisle, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. C. THE IMPERIAL OPERA COMPANY COMING

There is no musical organization in America to-day which can boast of a genuine all-star cast, such as the Imperial Opera Company is bringing to Peterborough after a phenomenal run of four and a half months at the Royal Alexandra Theatre in Toronto. The business was so great on their appearance in that city that the versatile singers were enabled to present practically every comic opera success of the New York and London stages. Of these there were none so popular as "San Toy" and for this reason the piece was chosen for the appearance here. Bright and sparkling with its oriental setting and fascinating tinkle of Chinese music San Toy has proven to be one of the master-pieces of light opera. It is brim-full of humorous situations and witty sayings and contains some song hits that arouse enthusiasm in any audience.

In the company are Harry Girard the clever baritone, who composed the comic opera "Alaska" which was the rage in the west last season and J. Clarence Harvey who was the idol of the Toronto audiences and one of the cleverest comedians of to-day. Other well known principals in the company are Miss Agnes Caine-Brown soprano, Laura Butler, mezzo-soprano Allen Mostyn W. H. Pringle and one of the prettiest choruses ever seen in light opera. Mr. Girard began his musical career as an organist and choir master, and later became the composer of a number of sacred songs Born in Seattle, Wash., he ran away from home when ten years old and obtained employment on a vessel sailing for Japan. During the loafing spells on the boat he entertained the crew on the accordeon and so pleased was the captain that he summoned the youngster to his room and compelled him to sing and play for him during the hours that the boy was supposed to be at work At the end of the voyage the captain gave the lad a purse and sent him home. With this start it did not take Harry Girard long to work himself into the field of music and since that time he has steadily risen until he now occupies one of the leading positions amongst opera singers in America.

J. Clarence Harvey the clever comedian of the Imperial Opera Company who plays the part of Li in San Toy follows James T. Powers in the role. Mr. Harvey has a manner all his own which makes him a strong favourite.

Miss Agnes Caine-Brown the prima donna is appearing in light opera during a temporary rest from the more strenuous field of Metropolitan Grand Opera. She has a soprano voice, rich in feeling and of timberous quality, which lends itself greatly to classic songs. Light opera is like a holiday picnic for Miss Brown, who scored an instant success in Toronto.

Mr. Halian Mostyn who is a comedian as well as an excellent basso singer played the role of Yen-How the old Mandarin with the six little wives in the original company under Mr. Powers and it has been one of his most successful roles.

With such an interesting and amusing opera as San Toy such a company cannot but make a signal success all over the country. It has been one of the most successful of the Toronto presentations and needless to say will make its appearance here an event of the theatrical season.

SAID HE WAS AFRAID HE WOULD BE HARMED

Elton York Wanted John Murphy Bound Over to Keep the Peace.

Elton York failed to substantiate his case this morning at the police court, and as a result John Murphy, Smith street, was not bound over to keep the peace. York stated that the defendant had threatened to "kick his head off" if he ever went up near Smith street again. York feared that he might receive bodily harm at Murphy's hands, and wanted him bound over to keep the peace.

The facts bearing upon the relations between the two parties are more than appear on the surface. Mr. Murphy identified York as one of two men whom he had seen on several occasions acting suspiciously, apparently window-peeping, and had even seen him at his own (Murphy's) house, but could not catch him.

York stated in rebuttal that on the night referred to he had been working and could not have been there. His Worship dismissed the case, remarking that if York did not want to get into trouble he should keep away from the vicinity mentioned.

ABOUT THE HAINES BROS. PIANO

IT IS NOW nearly 60 years since the creation of the first Haines Bros. Piano in New York by Napoleon J. Haines. Though leaving no great wealth to his sons, at his death, Mr. Haines, Senior, left the more valuable heritage of a good reputation, made so by the artistic merit of the Piano which bears his name.

The Haines Bros Piano is famous wherever music is cultivated as an art—the most celebrated artists of modern times adorn with their names the honour roll of those who have written of and spoken of the beauty of the Haines Bros. Piano. Patti, Nilsson, Kellog, Campanini, Strakosch, Abbott, Galassi, Brignoli—are a few only of those whose autograph letters are among the cherished possessions of the present Haines Bros. family.

For over 40 years the Nordheimer Co. sold the Haines Bros. Pianos to the best clientelle in Canada. Lately, however, the customs duty has been so high as to render their importation almost prohibitive. To meet this condition the Haines Bros. Co., have now a factory of their own in Canada where the Pianos are made from original scales, patterns, etc., and offered to the people at strictly New York prices.

The Haines Bros. Pianos are now for sale by The City Music Co., 326 George Street, Peterborough, who will be pleased to quote prices and terms to customers seeking the very finest instrumens on the Canadian market

PETERBORO' NEWS IN THE "CANADIAN MUTE"

Doings of Local Young Men Who Studied at the Belleville Institute.

The Peterborough correspondent to The Canadian Mute, the paper published at the Belleville Institute, has the following news from this section :—

Mr. N. Kirk, ex-pupil of your school, who has been away from our midst quite a long time, has returned home in robust health from where he worked for a Haliburton firm.

Mr. E. Lawson has a lucrative position at The Times printing establishment.

Our friend, Mr. Wm. Hayes, who has been working for the Canadian General Electric Co. for a couple of years, has accepted a high wage job in Chicago. It is safe to say he will be much admired across in Uncle Sam's domain.

During the busy summer, Mr. Daniel Sheehan has been busily engaged with the City Corporation and now he is enjoying a good rest for the winter season with a purseful of money.

Miss Gertie Pilling spent a pleasant visit in Keene, lately, renewing old acquaintances.

Through the recent issue of The Canadian Mute, we were pained to learn of the sad news of Mrs. McClelland's demise. We desire to express our profound sympathy to our friend, Mr. McClelland, in his sad bereavement.

Owing to the slack times at the printing business recently, Mr. Wm. O'Rourke has resumed the duties at the Daily Review in the news department.

Mr. J. E. Crough and Fred Terrill are progressing towards being expert mechanics in the near future, for they are fortunately working steadily all the year around.

Master Gerald O'Brien, of your school, spent Christmas holidays with his parents.

Our Irish comical, Daniel Sheehan, is contemplating taking a few weeks holidays in Rochester, the guest of his brother.

Mr. F. Terrell has gone to Toronto to spend Christmas under the parental roof.

Our athletes, Fred Terrell and Jack Crough were recipients the other day, the former of a pair of gold cuff links, donated by R. R. Hall, M.P., and the latter of a gold ring, donated by the Peterborough Athletic Club.

The Peterborough deaf friends join hand-in-hand with the officers of the Institution and the readers of The Canadian Mute in saying thus: "A joyful Christmas and prosperous New Year."—W. H.

Obviate EYE Trouble

The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co., and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

THE WIRING WILL HAVE TO BE IMPROVED IN THE LOCAL SCHOOLS

The schools in the city are being affected by the demands of the insurance companies regarding the electric wiring. Mr. Ackerman stated at the Board of Education meeting last night that he had learned that there would have to be considerable changing to the wiring of some of the schools in order that they could pass the inspection that is being made in the city.

ROUGH AUTOMOBILE TRIP FROM TORONTO

Messrs. H. H. Hodgson and C. Hodgson, who arrived in the city on Monday morning, had rather a rough journey from Toronto the night before. They left Toronto at half-past five Sunday night in a large 40-horse power automobile, made by the McLaughlin and Buick Company, rented by them to demonstrate the vitality of the tires made by the Hoop Spring Cushion Tire Company, Limited, which they represent. They arrived at Oshawa at 7.10 p.m., staying to see the sights for one hour; leaving there they proceeded to Port Hope, arriving there about 10.30. The roads thither were very bad and they would have been rather badly shaken up if they had had ordinary wind tires. They left Port Hope at 11.05 that same night, and it was there that their troubles began. The roads were extremely soft and sticky and not knowing the road they continually lost their way, having to rouse a farmer out of his bed at every cross road. They however arrived here at half past six o'clock on Monday, and put up at the Snowden House, having been seven and a half hours coming a distance of 34 miles. They intend to return on Saturday to Toronto, and it is to be hoped that they do not have the same experiences.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

DEATH OF AN OLD CHANDOS RESIDENT

Mr. Daniel Whitmore Was One of the Pioneers of This County.

Examiner Special.

Chandos, Jan. 6.—There passed away on Wednesday morning, December 30th, 1908, at his home in Chandos, one of the pioneer settlers of this section, in the person of Mr. Daniel Whitmore, Sr., at the age of sixty-one years. Mr. Whitmore spent his younger days in what was then commonly called Western Canada, in the neighbourhood of Mount Forest, where some forty years ago he married Effie, daughter of the late Mr. Neil McFee, who with a large family survive him. He moved here about thirty-five or forty years ago, settling on lots 11 nad 12, in the 2nd concession of the Township of Chandos, where he lived up to the time of his death with the exception of about one year, some thirty-two years ago, when he removed to his former home, returning, however, he has lived here since.

His illness covered a period of three years or more, though in the warm weather he was able to move about more or less. With the cold weather each year he seemed to get weaker. He was subject to weak or fainting spells at longer or shorter intervals. He had one of those on Christmas day, but rallied and seemed to be better, though very weak, until Tuesday night about twelve o'clock, when he went to sleep and woke no more on earth, passing quietly into the deeper sleep about 6.25 Wednesday morning.

The deceased belonged to the Christian Church and was a Liberal in politics, a God-fearing and upright man, a kind friend and good neighbour, and was generally and sincerely respected by all who knew him.

He is mourned by his wife and a large family, Joseph, Archie, Neil, Daniel, Jr., of Chandos; Dillman, of Campbellford, Elijah, of Coe Hill; Mrs. J. C. Gamble, of Toronto; Mrs. Norman Wilson, of Burleigh; Mrs. Jas. Casson, of Chandos; Samuel, Frederick and Misses Dora and Violet at home, who, with his brothers and sister, have the sincere sympathy of all the community in their affliction.

One daughter, Mary A., predeceased him about four years ago. The others were all home for the funeral, which took place on Friday, New Year's Day, when he was laid in the Christian burial ground by six of his sons.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. E. J. Gould.

A War Correspondent

SAVED BY ZAM-BUK!

BLOOD-POISONING AFTER A SCRATCH CAUSED 31 ULCERS

WHEN our Canadian troops were fighting the Boers in South Africa, we read reports of their various engagements from the pen of the famous war correspondent, Mr. Frank Scudamore. Mr. Scudamore is well known for his exposures of the Armenian Atrocities, and his vivid word-pictures during the wars of Turkey and the Soudan campaigns, prior to his writings during the Boer War. He has passed unscathed through twenty-nine battles, but came near meeting death at home through a mere scratch! Zam-Buk, the great herbal balm, saved him; and in gratitude, and the hope that his experience may lead others to a means of relief in time of suffering, he tells how Zam-Buk released him from the terrible agonies of blood-poisoning. Every scratch you receive, every cut you sustain, every sore, every open wound, every skin-disease is liable to turn to blood-poisoning. The air is full of poison germs, which, falling on to sores and wounds, may set up festering and blood-poisoning. How important then that Zam-Buk (which is science's latest and best protector against blood-poisoning, as well as the finest healer) should be kept handy in every home!

Mr. Scudamore writes:—"I have experienced the extraordinary benefits which come from the use of Zam-Buk, and desire not to keep the knowledge thereof to myself, but to make it known to any others who may be suffering as I suffered.

"Some time ago, after escaping the dangers to which one is exposed in the hazardous trade of war, I fell a victim to an evil—the evil of blood-poisoning—just as deadly in peace at home. The blood-poisoning started owing to the poisonous dye in some underclothing penetrating a small scratch or sore. I was treated by doctors in the usual way and told to hope for the best, but the inflammation, pain and swelling did not appear to be relieved by their treatment. Ulcers broke out on my foot and limbs, and for some time it was quite impossible for me to put my foot to the ground or get about.

"On my left leg, below the knee, I had seventeen deep holes, into any one of which I could have put my thumb, while I had no fewer than fourteen similar ulcers on the right leg.

"Worn out with pain and lack of sleep, I yielded in despair at last to the advice of a friend that I should try Zam-Buk, of which my friend gave the highest accounts. I applied this herbal balm to the sores and ulcers, changing the dressings frequently. For a week I persevered with the Zam-Buk treatment, leaving off all else. At the end of that time the pain and inflammation had gone, and the skin, which had before so obstinately refused to heal, was now growing beautifully. I persevered with the treatment, and the benefit increased, until in the end the blood-poisoning was cured, the ulcers cleansed and healed, and new healthy skin covered the previously diseased places.

"What impressed me most about Zam-Buk was the immediate relief it gave from the burning pain. It seemed to bring ease immediately it was put on, and then the cleansing and healing process went on painlessly.

"Yours faithfully,

Frank Scudamore

LOTTIE'S BARGAIN.

By EDNA BLEEKMAN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Perhaps it was because Wisner was the proprietor of the only dry goods store in Undervale that Lottie Vincent was attracted to him, perhaps because Lottie was an inveterate bargain hunter, and propinquity is a powerful aid of Cupid.

It is a matter open to argument and not worth the arguing. The main point at issue is the fact that Lottie was attracted and that Sidney Wisner repaid that regard with interest.

Undervale had reached that stage of growth when the "general store" had commenced to resolve itself into its various component parts, not to be reunited until at some far distant day, when the department store repeated the original shopkeeping on a larger scale and again one could purchase dress goods and salt fish, groceries and harness under one roof.

It was Wisner who had seen that the time was ripe, and the Boston store was the result. He rented one of the rooms in the new Benson block and with new stock and fixtures gave the place the aspect of a city establishment. Undervale was delighted with the change, none more so than Lottie.

She was a born bargain fiend, and as her parents were wealthy she had the money to gratify her passion, with the result that from the first she had been Wisner's best customer.

Even after the business reached a point where he was able to put on two clerks he made it a point to wait upon her himself.

Lottie delighted in her personally conducted shopping tours, and from visiting in the store Wisner passed to visits to her home.

Wisner also began to watch his bank account grow. From the first his store had prospered, and he determined that when his profit and loss account showed a fair balance on the proper side he would put his fate to the test.

Homer Vincent was president of the bank and trust company, and Wisner wanted to be able to make a good showing when he went to ask for Lottie's hand, though he could not hope to equal the Vincent fortune.

He had not long to wait, for the new store prospered mightily, and the time soon came when Wisner began to rehearse the speech he should make to Lottie's father when he should first have spoken to Lottie.

It was a simple matter to prepare his speech for the elder Vincent. He said it over until he believed that he must repeat it in his sleep. The trouble now was to speak to Lottie.

He knew that Lottie would not be won by the simple suggestion that they get married. When the Clemmons Comedy company played their semiannual engagement at the rink Wisner shut up shop and took Lottie to the performance every evening for the week. Lottie's keen appreciation of the romantic leading man dashed his hopes.

He never could hope to make love like Ralph Rascovar of the Clemmons company, and that was the model Lottie most admired. He had a vague idea of taking a course in a dramatic school, but he could not spare the time from his business, so he contended himself with studying the methods of the leading men of the tenth rate companies that visited Undervale, and the more he studied the more hopeless he grew.

Leading men were tall and slender and had dark, romantic eyes. Wisner was short and inclined to plumpness, and his eyes were shrewd and gray. He could not loll over the back of a sofa and look into Lottie's eyes as she raised her timid orbs to his.

That was all right on the stage, but Lottie's gaze was disconcertingly frank at times, and, anyhow, he would have to stand on a footstool to gain the proper height, and he was positive that at the critical moment he would fall off and spoil it all.

Lottie herself was just a shade too rounded in her curves to be called willowy, and she, too, was below the medium height.

Taken by the large, it seemed an impossible task, and the advent of each theatrical company seemed to set a higher standard by which his feeble efforts were to be judged.

Hubert Bonnington was the last straw. Lottie came away from the performance of "Won by a Vendetta" declaring that after having seen Bonnington all other lovemaking would seem tame and flat by comparison.

Wisner went home to spend a sleepless night with despair for company, and not until the dawn broke did there come a ray of hope. The company was playing not forty miles away on Saturday.

He might get Bonnington to let him come over and take some lessons. He went to the store to see that it was opened, and then he hurried to the station to catch the company when they should come over from the hotel.

Bonnington was one of the first to arrive on the station platform, and Wisner made an immediate attack. Around the corner of the depot he poured out the story of his troubles, and, to his credit, Bonnington did not laugh.

"My dear boy," he said kindly, "if you're the right man and she's the right girl you don't need to study lovemaking. It's never that way in real life. You watch a chance and take her off her guard. Then do and say what ever comes into your mind, and she's yours.

"You could study for years, and you'd forget everything that you had learned when it came to a showdown. They wouldn't stand for real proposals on the stage, and the reason we make love so well is that we don't care for the girl. [illegible] our attention to the lovemaking.

"When the right time comes you'll know it, and you won't get down on your knees and say 'Be mine, be mine!' You'll just scatter her in, and it's all over before you realize it."

Bonnington accepted the cigars that Wisner thrust upon him, and Wisner went back to the store happy in the possession of expert opinion. He puzzled over the comment through the day, and when Lottie came in to see about some dress lining he gazed hungrily at the flushed face and wondered when the right time would come.

Apparently it was not the right time yet, for Lottie left the store with a bundle under her arm, and his nearest approach to sentiment had been to cut the price of the lining 2 cents a yard.

He thought of a dozen clever speeches he might have made, but not until she had gone.

He was still thinking them over as he dressed the window that evening. Wisner made a point of frequent changes in the display, and every Friday evening he fastened a canvas screen outside the plate glass and changed the dressing, running out many times to observe the effect before he pulled down the inner curtains and took down the screen, content that the Saturday shoppers would be attracted by his display.

He had just commenced to dress the window after removing the old stock when one corner of the screen was lifted and Lottie's smiling face was seen through the glass.

Wisner smiled and nodded in reply to her greeting, and he was about to beckon her to wait until he could join her on the sidewalk when his hand struck the stool on which rested the new price tags. He caught up the top one and pinned it on his coat, striking an attitude in imitation of the dummy forms.

Lottie laughed at the sign, which read, "A Real Bargain at the Price," and the end of the screen dropped. For one awful moment Wisner thought that she had been disgusted by the clownish appeal.

He could not know that even eyes that are gray and unromantic can tell their story of love. Lottie had read their plea, and a moment later Wisner heard the store door open and close again, and a moment later Lottie's face appeared at the door to the window.

"I think I'll take that bargain, Sidney," she said as her cheeks were dyed a deeper red. "You can wrap it up, and I'll take it home with me—to talk to father."

The bargain sprang from the window, but it was half an hour before it wrapped itself up—in its overcoat—and was taken home to talk to Homer Vincent.

"I thought you couldn't resist a bargain," he jubilated as they hurried along the street.

Lottie gave the strong arm a little hug. "You'd be dear at any price," she cooed.

He Got the Prize.

At a church function each person was required to wear conspicuously upon his or her clothing some pictorial or other device that should represent in "rebus" form the title of any well known book, and all the others were to guess at the book intended.

"Paradise Lost," represented by a card upon which five dice had been pasted, and from which two had evidently dropped or been removed, was easily guessed. "Hard Times" was no puzzle. Neither was it hard to recognize "A Pair of Blue Eyes," "Innocents Abroad," "Vanity Fair" nor "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in spite of the pictorial disguises.

One of the guests, however, had a poser. Attached to one of the buttons of his coat was a card bearing simply the inscription, "Ter."

Every one at last gave it up and asked for the solution.

"Why, that's easy," he said. "It means 'A Tale of Two Cities,' Manchester and Leicester. Last syllables—tall, in fact—of both. See?"

"That's not fair!" said the others. "It's the last syllable of Chester, Lancaster, Gloucester, Chichester and Exeter. We protest!"

"Well," he said, "I won't insist. Try this one."

He turned the card over. It was inscribed on the other side with these three letters, "Ans."

After a severe mental struggle everybody gave this up also.

"That ought not to puzzle you," he said. "It's 'The Last of the Mohicans.'"

He got the prize.

Knew the Kind.

"It used to be, when a lady insisted on keeping her husband awake nights to tell him how much better her family was than his family and some other chastening truths, that the policeman took her off, and she was either fined or ducked as a common scold."

"And, pray, what did they do with the uncommon ones? Surely in those days, as in ours, some displayed more talent than others."

"They probably knew better than to monkey with the uncommon ones. Man is a bright creature who learns by experience."

Woman's World

MARGARETTA DREXEL.

Society Girl Who Adorns Her Boudoir With Marriage Proposals.

Framing the written proposals of marriage from one's admirers and using them as ornaments for one's boudoir is the latest fad among the young buds of British society.

Originated by an American girl, the idea has taken strong hold, and it has England's titled gallants by the ears, for many of these fortune seeking noblemen have obeyed literally the old time motto, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, try again."

Margaretta Drexel, the beautiful young daughter of Anthony J. Drexel and wife of New York, who has amazed English society by going heart-whole through two London seasons, waited upon by a virtual train of courtiers, started the fad. A score or more such proposals decorate her bedroom walls.

And the amusing part of it all is that a comparison of notes as a result of the new idea shows that some of the peers have been working overtime in their efforts to capture some one of the many debutantes well endowed with this world's goods.

Miss Drexel's career in London society has been brilliant enough to satisfy the utmost desires of the most ambitious. Both the king and the queen commented upon her loveliness when she was presented at Buckingham palace two years ago, and ever since she has had peers of every degree constantly in her train of admirers. Scarcely a week passes that rumor does not have her engaged to this or that one. The latest victim is Lord Dalmeny, heir to the earldom of Rosebery.

No picture gives an adequate idea of the young girl's loveliness because of its ever varying expression. Her coloring, one of her great charms, is lost in a photograph. It has been the dream of Shannon and Sargent to paint her, but the willful beauty has not yet found time for the sittings.

Her charm of manner tells more than her actual beauty. In a room you will see her surrounded by a dozen or more men, while other girls of her age will be talking to each other. Yet no one accuses her of being a flirt. She never tries to outrival her sex, and for all her success she is extremely popular.

She is much of an idealist, and it would not be surprising if in the end she made a romantic marriage. So devoted to her are her parents that they would hardly make objection to her choice if it entailed her happiness.

What a Woman Can Do!

Abolish unnecessary noise.

Establish traveling libraries and so bring reading matter within the reach of all.

Help to save the forests from demolition.

Clean up her own back yard and make it such a thing of beauty that it will be an inspiration to her neighbors.

See that the health of her fellow citizens is cared for by securing the appointment of a public nurse whose duty is the care and instruction of the poor.

Secure lighted streets at night and thereby prevent crimes.

Insist upon paved sidewalks.

Demand clean streets and get them.

Get rid of tramps by having an ever ready town wood pile; no work, no pay.

Help to prevent the injustice of child labor.

Do away with immoral theaters, moving picture shows and postal cards.

Beautify her street with window boxes.

Prevent telephone and telegraph companies from hacking off and mutilating the branches of trees.

Prevent much loss of life by insisting that all wires be underground.

Arouse public interest in the public welfare.

Keep her garbage box clean and covered and insist upon her fellow citizens doing the same.

She can, because she has done every one of these things. And when she does them all towns and cities will be clean, happy, wholesome places in which to live.—Delineator.

Japanese Floral Calendar.

Reference is frequently made to the floral calendar of Japan. What this calendar is is explained in the Housekeeper. The Japanese are extremely fond of all flowers, and they have therefore made a calendar from them, giving to each month a favorite blossom or leaf. Thus the pine, the emblem of lasting prosperity and life, belongs to January, and its branches are used to decorate all houses on New Year's day. To February belong the blossoms of the plum tree, which stand for purity, and the beautiful blossoms of the peach tree, to which young girls are compared, are associated with the month of March. Next the cherry blossom, the most beloved of all flowers, is held to belong to April, and to May are assigned the gorgeous clusters of the wistaria vine.

The iris flower, to which is compared the strength and beauty of young boys, belongs to June, and July has the glory and perfume of the water lily. The flowering hibiscus tree attaches its beauty to the month of August, while September lays claim to the exquisite charm of the azalea. The royal flower of Japan, the chrysanthemum, which forms a part of the crest of the imperial family, belongs to the month of October, while to November is given the maple leaf, admired for its decorative quality. Finally, with December is associated the beautiful camellia, which blooms in the gardens even in the midst of snow.

Men Do Housework.

In England the proportion of men to women indoor domestics is as one to three or four. In France the reverse is the case, parlor maids being unknown, the one femme de chambre being lady's maid as well as housemaid. The housework—sweeping, dusting, etc.—mainly falls upon the menservants.

One element entailing much extra work for domestics in England is absent in a French home. This is the staying guest, the succession of visitors. Outside private hotels and in the handsome flats of fashionable quarters there is, indeed, no room in Parisian households for friends. The expressions "dine and sleep" and "week end" visits have not found their way into French dictionaries, nor have "dine and sleep" or "week end" guests yet become French institutions.

It is easy thus to understand why three or four domestics suffice in France, while in England a dozen would be needed for people of similar means and position, and where three or four maids are kept in England only a general servant is kept in France.

The Obliging Girl.

The obliging girl may be popular; she is also imposed upon.

To get the reputation of being obliging is to be made the dump of all the disagreeable things that others should do and won't.

Unless you can draw a tight line at imposition better cultivate an unaccommodating spirit.

Don't think it is obliging to do the other girl's lessons. It is mistaken kindness to them and unfair to the teacher.

The obliging girl usually finds herself loaded with all the extra coats and bundles when out on a day's jaunt.

When the other girls have a way of saying, "Ask Jane to do it; she won't care," be sure Jane is afflicted with misguided good nature and is obliging.

To be too accommodating is often a sign of weakness. It takes strength of character to be able to say "No."

Learn to distinguish between selfishness and overobligingness. The latter breeds selfishness in your friends.

For Feline Protection.

A new society for the "protection of cats" has just started into activity in Paris under the name of "Velvet Paws." Pierre Loti is the honorary president and Edmond Harancourt the executive president. The suppression of convents has, it seems, cast many of these poor animals homeless into the streets, and Miss Louisa Reid, who houses and feeds the cats of departed great men, has tried to protect these wandering pets. Her home is overcrowded, so this new society will have to create fresh asylums for the unfortunate pussies that have not had the good luck to belong to a celebrity. The funniest part is that these charming but rarely faithful animals have a newspaper.—Le Moncrief.

A Curious Experiment For the Children.

Cut two crosses out of black paper and place them with their extremities almost touching at about three inches from the eye on a sheet of white paper. You will see three crosses, the middle one being dark and quite separate. The experiment becomes more interesting when red or green figures are used, but in this case a dark background must be used, and a white cross will appear in the middle one.

Was Troubled With Weak Back For Years.

Could Not Perform Household Duties. Doctors Attended Without Avail.

Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes: "For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realizing quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure Backache and all forms of Kidney and Bladder Disease.

A medicine that strengthens the kidneys so that they are enabled to extract the poisonous uric acid from the blood and prevent the chief cause of Rheumatism.

Twenty-five years ago it was difficult to sell spring wheat flour for pastry at any price.

People didn't want it—they were using soft, winter wheat flour, and saw no reason for changing.

But hard wheat flour was persistently pushed and prejudice has been overcome. The women tried it, succeeded with it and appreciated it.—To-day hard wheat flour is the favorite for pastry as well as for bread.

The flour that is doing the most for the reputation of hard wheat flour is the brand known as

Ogilvie's Royal Household

It is hard wheat flour at its best—milled by modern methods, retaining all of the good of the wheat and none of the bad—it is without an equal for every kind of baking in which flour is used.

HAND WEAVING A FASHIONABLE ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE PRESENT DAY

Pretty Examples of Hand Weaving, Including a Bed Spread, Cushions, Stand Covers and Portieres.

Artistic Specimens of Hand Weaving which New York Girls Are Doing.

SINCE the revival of the old handicraft of hand weaving by young folks some charming specimens of household decoration of the "homespun" sort are seen. In many a home the loom has been set up in an unused room or even the general living room where space is limited, and the quaint sight of one girlish figure throwing the shuttle back and forth, just as doubtless her great-grandmother did years ago, is no uncommon cue.

For a summer cottage with mission or old Colonial furniture, or for the girl's sanctum sanctorum in the town house, nothing is more charming in the way of furnishings than the product of the hand loom. So as these bits of weaving cannot be bought in the regular shops the old handicraft has been taken up, and girls are weaving their own dainty room hangings. Just now, too, they are turning out some novel and interesting pieces as Christmas gifts.

One girl has woven a "coverlet" in china blue and white for an old four poster, in a pretty design of fleur de lis and diamonds, and for the floor has woven old style rugs to match. Curtains in deep cream mercerized cotton, with cross stripes of orange, have been made by another New York girl for her own particular den. With these go rugs of the Priscilla type in yellow with white borders to cover the floor. But perhaps the most noted of all is the portière which still another girl has woven in yellow and woody browns, which represent a small boy with a pail gathering berries in the woods, beneath which a quaint Dutch sentiment is added.

If a girl be especially ambitious she can weave a most charming set of curtains with a valance showing rows of little Dutch girls holding hands about a Christmas tree and singing a curious old song about the festal occasion. The Christmas sentiment which is woven in with the pattern makes this a most appropriate gift for the holidays.

For the divan there are cushion covers in a multitude of designs, both Swedish, Dutch and those of our own Indians, and for the highboy, the bureau, stand or work table an endless variety of charming pieces that are suitable and not at all difficult to do. In fact, there is very little of the hand weaving that is too knotty for the average girl to unravel. The main requisites are patience and love of the work.

ANY girl over twelve years can do it after a few preliminary lessons, and once she finds out how rapidly the work progresses and what a host of artistic things she can make she usually grows enthusiastic over it. As a pastime nothing can compare with it, for it requires just enough technical skill to make the work interesting and presents such pleasing problems in the way of originating new designs that there is practically no limit to its possibilities.

There are a few places in New York and Brooklyn where one can become initiated into the mysteries of hand weaving, and not more than six or eight lessons are needed to start with. When it comes to working out intricate problems the novice will doubtless want to appeal to the instructor for a little more knowledge, but for the plainer sort of weaving the principles can be grasped in a short time.

First of all there is the question of a loom. It may be that in some homes there is such a relic reposing in the attic or one that has been preserved for generations in some old New England homestead. If so, so much the better, though, as a rule the old fashioned looms were more cumbersome than those in use among the arts and crafts societies today.

But if one be available and still in working order dust off the cobwebs and give it a place of honor in some room that is not already wholly occupied. Generally speaking, with a little ingenuity supplied by the weaving instructor an old loom can be made to do duty again quite as satisfactorily as it did in the past.

If there are no old attics to be searched then a loom can be ordered. They cost from $5 up to $100, though the cheapest priced mentioned are of the simpler sort used in schools and not altogether practical for all kinds of weaving.

One Swedish instructor supplies her pupils with looms which cost about $20, which she imports from Sweden. She says that though she has ordered a few made here in this country, the cabinetmakers have been so long out of practice that the looms they manufacture are loosely built and not wholly satisfactory. The $20 loom is of all the most practical. It is 45 inches wide, of sufficient width for narrow pieces and yet wide enough for portières, curtains or any other article of household decoration of a similar sort.

IN the olden days our grandmothers, who spent so much time at the loom, made their own dyes. Madder and cochineal, logwood and various flowers and their juices were gathered in the forest, and the dye pot, like the yeast jar, was kept going from one year's end to the other.

In Martha Washington's time even she used to weave and dye her own yarns. It is said she kept all her old, worn silk gowns and scraps, dyed them the desired shade, carefully wound them on bobbins and wove them into chair and cushion covers. To a group of visitors she once is said to have displayed a dress of red and white striped material, of which the white stripes were cotton, the red ravelled chair covers and silk from the General's worn out stockings which she dyed herself.

To tell what would be the cost of materials for, say, a rug 3x6, is somewhat difficult, as it all depends on the sort of material used. If a rag rug the cost would probably not be more than $1. This may be fashioned out of denim, gingham, old or new; turkey red calico, stockings and white or Canton flannel.

Usually the material for a rug is cut in one inch widths, though this depends on its quality. Turkey red calico, for instance, being lighter in weight, must be cut an inch and a half or two inches. In the big factories where the machine product is fashioned there is in use a huge revolving knife that cuts the cloth, after it is rolled, into the required width. A hand weaver can, if she prefers, do this at home. First roll the cloth very tightly and then with a sharp kitchen or carving knife cut the cloth off in inch strips. If old stockings are to be used they are cut round and round in one piece, the same as you would pare an apple.

A very good idea for a girl who is going in extensively for weaving, to determine just how much material one will need for a rug the size mentioned, is to weigh the cloth after it has been cut, rolled and sewed, and jot down the weight as well as the number of yards in a roll. Then, after it is woven, calculate the number of yards of weaving.

For a rug of denim five to seven yards of material will make one yard of weaving. When finished a rug of this sort should weigh two and a half pounds.

Once the material is cut, sewed together and wound into balls, the next process is to wind it off on a rod for the purpose. From there it is placed on what is called a winding wheel, a frame that revolves rapidly, and from which the shuttles can easily be threaded.

IT is best for a beginner to become familiar with the different parts of the loom at the start, so she can receive instruction intelligently. The yarn beam, upon which is wound the warp threads which form the foundation of the weaving, and which stretch in close parallel from it to the cloth beam at the front of the loom, is of first importance. On the cloth beam the weaving is wound as it proceeds. The yarn beam should be made of close grained, well seasoned wood. It must also be well turned and regular in shape, otherwise the work will be imperfect. However, this is something that the instructor will look out for.

Beneath the loom are the treadles, three in number. They are similar to the pedals on a piano, and one of them when pressed down by the foot depresses one set of threads in order to allow the shuttle which carries the woof to go through. There is a templar, an attachment of narrow pieces of wood finished with hooks, into which the selvage of the cloth is fastened to keep it firmly in place while the lay is forcing the weft into place.

Three motions are of particular importance in hand weaving. First, the left treadle is pushed down with the left foot. By this means one heddle holding every alternate warp thread is depressed from the level of all the other warp threads. This makes an opening or "shed" into which the shuttle—an oblong wooden affair much like a sewing machine shuttle—is thrown from one side of the loom to the other. This, it will be seen, goes through every alternate thread. This is the second motion.

In the third motion the right foot presses down the right treadle, and this makes a reverse "shed" between the layers of warp threads. This time, with the shuttle in the right hand, it is thrown from left to right, which completes the process of plain weaving.

When it comes to making borders, putting in patterns, changing the texture of the cloth and the like, the operation is varied by throwing the shuttle of one color back and forth several times according to the demands of the design. A third treadle forms different combinations of threads also. Most of the designs are drawn out on paper which has previously been blocked in squares. It is usually pinned on the loom frame in front of the weaver, and for the beginner is almost always colored.

Rows are called "shots," so that if one wishes five rows of blue the directions will call for five "shots," and so on. While the cost of bedspreads, curtains, portières and cushion covers of solid weaving is more than for rag rugs, still, comparing the price one would have to pay for hand woven fabrics in an art shop, the amount is very small.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"SLENDER, willowy figures are all very well if they are natural," observed the April Grandmother, who was turning over the colored pages of a fashion magazine, "but the dimpled girl should not fret if she is a trifle too plump to adopt sartorial extremes. The chief point about feminine beauty of figure is perfect unity in the proportions of the limbs and of the width of the shoulders and the hips to the height. Consequently excessive thinness, or, rather, attenuation, is not usually commensurate with the proportions of the average figure.

"Nevertheless if a girl is convinced that she has a superabundance of adipose tissue she would best set about reducing her flesh in a rational manner instead of endeavoring to take it off as rapidly as a sculptor reduces a statue with a chisel. The fat schoolgirl, who is jeered at by her companions usually, imagines that it is solely because her waist is large, and makes the mistake of going in for tight lacing, whereas she should allow her figure full play, as it is only by having an opportunity to exercise that the waist muscles can be made smaller.

"Many a girl whose hips are too stout is reaping the harvest of those vacation days in the country during which she persisted in riding a bicycle when she would better have walked—a form of exercise which the plump girl rarely voluntarily adopts, although it is the best means of reducing flesh, especially if taken in the early morning and in proper garb. This includes a short skirt, a warm coat, light weight, loose underwear and shoes several sizes too broad and too long. The latter sacrifice on the altar of appearances need only be temporary, however, and as a reward the seeker after symmetry will find that by affording the muscles exercise space her feet and ankles have grown slimmer and that for ordinary purposes she can adopt more narrow footgear than formerly.

"The girl who would like to be slender as a willow should positively court opportunities for doing errands for elderly friends. That amiable habit will not only make her beloved, but will help to vanquish flesh, particularly if the missions involve running up and down staircases, during which exercises she should always preserve a perfectly erect carriage of the head and never rely upon the balusters for support, for by so doing she will unconsciously adopt a distinction of bearing which will endure long after her figure has lost its patiently attained slenderness and the Directoire modes have faded into the forgotten.

Social Amenities for The School Girl.

IT is of great importance that girls who wish to show perfect breeding at every turn should know how to properly treat servants. These dependents, either in one's own household or in the homes of one's friends, are entitled to courtesy and consideration, and there is a well defined etiquette in regard to them.

Some girls act as if their inferiors were not to be recognized except when service is required of them, and then adopt a manner of haughty disdain, demanding everything and taking the attitude that the servant is a mere machine. There is, of course, the other extreme, that of intimacy with a servant, and the latter attitude is as much to be deplored as the former.

Every girl of wealth in these luxurious days has her own maid, and this domestic naturally comes into close contact with her. It is the maid's business to be at the beck and call of her young mistress at all hours, but the mistress should remember that the maid is human and not make unreasonable demands on her. It is unreasonable to expect perfection, for none of us possess it, in any capacity, and it is unreasonable to expect an intelligence equal to your own, for if the maid had it she would be something of a higher order than a menial.

Politeness is an important part of good manners with servants, and you are not only served better when you are courteous but you present to them a model of manners. Servants are very imitative, and if those who employ them are gentle, soft voiced and uniformly polite they become so, too.

One should always preface or end an order with "Please," and one should say "Thank you" in acknowledgment of a service. Do not say "Thanks," even to a servant, as the word is no longer considered good form. Always say "Good morning" to the servants of your household and also to other people's servants when they are known to you, as in the homes of your intimate friends.

As a rule young girls rarely give orders to servants with the exception of their own maids, but often they give orders for their mothers. There is only one correct form in which to do this. You must not say "Mary, mother wishes you to go up to her room," but, supposing your mother's name to be Mrs. Brown, you should say, "Mary, Mrs. Brown wishes you," &c. The formal prefix applies not only to your mother but to all the other members of your family. Never say "father," "sister" or "brother" to a maid, but always "Mr. Brown," "Mr. Harold," if that is your brother's name, and "Miss Beatrice," supposing that to be your sister's.

Do not call or refer to the domestics in your mother's establishment as "girls." The "hired girl" is a phrase which has been banished from good society, and we say instead "the maids" or "the women" when speaking of the servants, if they are all of one sex.

When you are staying in other people's houses never give orders of any sort to the maids unless it be that one has been assigned to you for your own personal use, in which case, of course, you treat her as you would your own. Otherwise, when you wish things done, ask permission of the hostess to use a servant for this or that. And even at the table you must not request things directly of the maid, as etiquette requires that you make your request to the hostess.

Practical Suggestions for the Girl Who Sews.

Dainty Bag Coverings.

THE frame of a decrepit silver, gold or gun metal chain purse will make an excellent and substantial mounting for a fancy bridge bag, which is all the better for having a reliable clasp. The bags of printed cretonne or of flowered satin have their patterns outlined with soutache, silk floss or tinsel thread, while those in plain materials are decorated with embroidered monograms. All such bags should be lined with chamois or soft French kid and so stitched that rough edges shall not be in evidence when the receptacle is opened.

Opera bags of cretonne or Pompadour silk are wide and deep, soutache, tinsel or floss embroidered and finished at the top with several rows of shirring, through which the ribbon strings may be run. The brilliantly colored silk bags having black satin linings and draw strings are considered immensely smart.

Hot water bag covers shaped like miniature pillow slips, with the open end shirred finely and drawn up with baby ribbons, are made of washable pongee silk matching the prevailing color of the sleeping room's decorations. The small sized bags intended for nursery use are covered with fine white linen slips, hand embroidered in pale pink or blue and drawn up with matching satin ribbons. The same idea may be developed in mussin embroidery.

Notted silk hot water bag coverings are started from a ring adjusted to the receptacle base, the meshes gradually increasing in number as the work progresses. A satin draw ribbon run through the bag about two inches below its upper edge causes the network to form an attractive lacelike frilling about the stopper.

Fancy Baskets.

FRUIT, flower and confectionery baskets of every imaginable size, shape and color are profusely trimmed with ribbons, crêpe paper or artificial flowers. Wide or narrow ribbon is wound about the handles, and the covers and sides are strapped or bowed about the base in every conceivable manner. Sometimes a lattice work effect is woven over the entire basket, the spaces between the lines being filled in with tiny flowers. Again the baskets are so coarsely woven that their silk linings afford sufficient coloring, and only the corners and handles need to be decorated.

With the aid of a small round porcelain dish any large hat of chip or straw may be transformed into a charming flower basket by simply turning the crown upside down, lining it and the brim with satin or with muslin embroidery and adding ribbon handles to its edges. For holding short stemmed flowers like violets or lilies of the valley there is nothing prettier than a porcelain lined, flat straw hat with a fancy ribbon banded brim and a tinsel cord hanger.

On the dark red, blue, green and black straw confectionery baskets spool gold or silver tinsel cord trimmings are most effective, but more unique are the waterproof Swedish leather and French kid baskets formed of arrow sections of felt cemented together (so that there shall be no seams), lined with fancy silk and trimmed on the outer side with leathers of a matching hue.

Indestructible baskets made of the armadillo, a tropical animal having a shell-like spherical shell are highly varnished at the fairs which, when decorated with large bows of ribbon and furnished with hanging cords, make most satisfactory receptacles for growing plants. Almost as substantial as are the armadillo baskets are those made of stout withes woven into the form of a cradle. They have practical wooden wheels, fronts decorated with red and green ribbon lamps, tonneaus filled with bethorge grapes, oranges, persimmons and pomegranates and are large enough to hold a small child.

Vanity Cases.

CAN vanity cases, twelve inches wide [illegible] a half inches long, are [illegible] from folds of V shaped [illegible] with [illegible] taffeta [illegible] The [illegible] sides of the fan are [illegible] and [illegible] place [illegible] one fold [illegible] mother-of-pearl, a special tool is [illegible] fitted with a powder puff bag, a third with an oval bevelled edge mirror framed in shirred satin, and a fourth with a toilet pin cushion. When closed the fan forms a triangle, with top corners joined by ribbon ties.

A second vanity case is of circular shape and three inches in diameter. It is composed of two cardboard discs covered with delicately tinted satin or flowered silk and hinged with matching ribbon. On the inner side of one disc is a silk powder puff pocket having a shirred hem run through with elastic. On the opposite disc is set a bevelled glass mirror framed in shirred silk.

Fraternity Pin Watch Fob.

GIRLS who are the proud possessors of fraternity pins or who are collecting pins of any sort can make a stunning show of them by arranging them to wear in the form of a watch fob. Take a heavy piece of watered ribbon about two inches wide, and, if you can afford it, have one end of it finished with a little gold clasp by a jeweller, so that it will look as the manufactured fobs do. But if you do not wish to make any expense of the matter you can fasten the watch on yourself by making a slip knot in the ribbon where the watch is attached. Then on the ribbon itself, which should not be more than four inches long, put your pins in one or two rows, according to the number you possess. This fob may hang from the belt or from the buttonhole pocket of your coat, the latter place being as far the most effective for showing it off.

Petrified Rosebud Hatpins.

THE novelty of the season in hatpins is the petrified rosebud, which is a real flower treated chemically in such a way that it retains its shape and color and, finished by a long pin of gold, goes its imprisoned way for the use and for the ornamentation of smart hats. But these baubles are so costly that only the few can aspire to them, and to satisfy the general girlish love of pretty things most lovely imitations have been invented. These are artificial rosebuds made of muslin in delicate tints and then shellacked to give them the look of the real buds after they are petrified. One little rose leaf and sometimes two on the bud add a natural touch. These designs do not have gold pins, but just ordinary ones, and in spite of their beauty are so inexpensive that every girl should have several.

BEWARE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Says 'Lame Back and Urinary Trouble Are The Danger Signals.

TAKE CARE OF BACKACHE

More people succumb every year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first class physician.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home as stated by a well known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency (especially at night) painful scalding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy, and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

There is no more effective remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys," is now the physician's advice to his patients.

Humor

HE WAS ACQUITTED.

And by His Own Eloquence, Not by His Lawyer's.

"Strangest case I ever had," said the attorney, who was in a talkative mood, "was up in the northern part of the state last summer.

"I was back in the woods some miles from what you would call civilization on a combined fishing and hunting trip.

"While I was there an old man, who had been acting as my guide and very valuable in spite of his bibulous habits, was arrested for stealing a keg of whisky.

"The case looked pretty black for him, and the old man knew it.

"As the old man was almost indispensable to me, I volunteered to defend him.

"When the case came to trial I used all my wiles to get him clear. But I soon saw that it was uphill work and that the jury had a deep seated conviction that the old man was guilty. The old man realized it, too, and squirmed uneasily about upon his chair.

"The case was about to go to the jury when the old man arose and insisted on addressing them before they retired. The court granted permission, and the old man turned to the jury and said:

"'I jes' want ter ask ye one question. Ye all know me, and what I want to ask ye is this: Do ye think that if I stole that thar whisky that I would be sober now?'

"This was putting the case in a new light, and it seemed to have great effect with the jury, for they declared him not guilty before leaving the box.

"When it was over and the old man was receiving the congratulations of his friends one of them said:

"'Sam, how on earth did you manage it?'

"'Waal,' answered the old man as he solemnly winked one eye, 'when I toted that thar whisky home the old woman saw at once that the first thing that I would go and do would be to go and git full of incriminating evidence, so she took the keg and locked it up in the cellar till the clouds would roll by. But it's mighty lucky that the trial kim off jes' ez she did. 'Fer I couldn't hev held out fer another day ter save my life.'"—Detroit Free Press.

The Main Point.

The Englishman and the American were talking about honesty among men.

"Speaking about honest men," said the American proudly, "our George Washington was the most honest man the world has ever known. Why, he took a hack at the cherry tree and then told his father about it."

The Englishman pondered in silence for a long time. Finally he drawled:

"It may be deuced clever in George telling his father about taking the hack, but tell me this."

"Well, what is it?"

"Did he pay the driver?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

He Said It.

"Horace," remarked Mrs. Figtree, "we are going to have company at dinner, and I do wish you would brighten up and look less like an honorary pallbearer. Say something humorous."

The company came, and, with a few preliminary coughs and winks, which were intended to announce to his wife that the witticism was about to be perpetrated, Mr. Figtree said timidly, "Mary."

"Yes, dear. What is it?" asked Mrs. Figtree graciously.

"Have you got all of your hair on this evening?"—Judge.

Too Late.

"She said nobody was good enough to be her husband."—Catholic Standard and Times.

THE IRISH BIRD CHARMER.

Wid more or less o' tuneful grace,
As fits a Celtic singer,
I've praised the "great bird of our race,"
The stork, the blessin' bringer.
When first to my poor roof he came
How sweetly he was sung to!
I called him every dacent name
That I could lay my tongue to.
But, glory be, that praise from me
So pleased the simple crayture
His visits here have come to be
A sort o' second nature!
I'm glad to see him now an' then,
But, glory be to heaven,
If here he isn't back again,
An' this is number seven!

Och, though this gift o' song may be
In manny ways a blessin',
It brings some popularity
That gets to be disthressin'!
Now, mind, I love this Irish bird—
We couldn't live widout him—
An' shure, I'll not take back a word
I ever said about him,
But now when all these mouths to feed
Ate up our little savin's
The birds whose visits most we need
Are ould Elisha's ravens.
Begor', if they were round these days
I'd sing them such a song o' praise
'Twould keep them always near me!

Uncle Hiram's Deduction.

"Who are them people livin' next door?" asked Mrs. Gadsby's uncle Hiram.

"I don't know," she replied.

"I s'pose they've just moved in."

"No. I think they have lived there for a good many years."

"Ain't they decent?"

"I really don't know. I have never heard anything about them."

"Hm! Gosh, you people must be mighty well off!"

"What has our financial condition to do with the people who live next door?"

"Why, you don't seem to ever have to borrow anything."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Explanation.

A boy was asked to explain the difference between animal instinct and human intelligence. "If we had instinct," he said, "we should know everything we needed to know without learning it, but we've got reason, and so we have to study ourselves most blind or be a fool."

What He Wanted.

"Well, what do you want?" queried the stereoscopic lecturer as a stranger appeared before him.

"Oh, I merely came to get your views," replied the stranger—who proved to be a constable—as he proceeded to levy on the outfit.—Chicago News.

Reverberating.

"Ha, Mrs. Taukaway, I'm not the only one who snores. I just heard you sawing wood."

"You're mistaken again, Mr. Taukaway. That was the echo of your own snoring that didn't die away for some seconds after you woke up."—Kansas City Times.

Providing a Substitute.

He started back with indignation.

"I am a gentleman, sir," he hotly said, "and I never could demean myself by washing windows. But if you'll hold the job open for a half hour I'll see if I can't get my wife to do it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Saving the Pieces.

"Why did you steal the horse?"

"I was drunk."

"Confess the circumstance, and ask the mercy of the court."

"Never! The only thing I have left now is my reputation for sobriety."—Cleveland Leader.

Pertinent Query.

AN INTELLIGENT POLLY.

He Knew Enough to Hold His Tongue in a Lady's Presence.

The man with a sailor-like appearance murmured something about having got on the wrong street and tried to dodge when the lady ran down the steps and made for him.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself!" she exclaimed as she took her stand squarely in front of him to prevent escape.

"You ain't the lady I sold the parrot to, are you?" he asked, throwing back his head and looking at her with one eye.

"Yes, I am."

"An' how's the parrot treatin' you? Fine, I warrant."

"You're a swindler."

He dropped his head and shook it deprecatingly, still keeping one eye closed. "You told me," she went on, with increasing indignation, "that parrot was one of the most intelligent animals of its species and that it had a gift of language which you had never heard surpassed."

"Did I tell you all them things?" he inquired.

"You unquestionably did."

"Well, then I'll stand by 'em. You got a prize, an' you don't appreciate it. That bird has even more smartness than I give him credit fur. Talk about intelligence! He's a marvel. An' he kin talk, too, though I never pretended he had had the advantage of good society. He kin roll off observations of the most p'inted character without end, though I call on you to remember that there waren't nothin' said about politeness."

"But it doesn't say a word."

"That's jes' it, ma'am. That's what shows his intelligence. The minute he seen you he knowed you was a lady an' he holds his tongue."—Washington Star.

The Landlord's Explanation.

"You charge $2 for that possum?" said the guest who had just partaken of one at the Crossroads hotel.

"That's the bill," said the landlord.

"Why," said the guest, "I could dine at the biggest hotel in the city for half that sum!"

"I know it," replied the landlord, "but you ain't at the biggest hotel in the city at this here present time, an' yer case is different. Besides, it took me two nights to ketch that possum, an' by bein' up so late I likewise ketched the devil when I come home, an' it's my consideration that ef my time an' feelin's ain't wuth $2 they ain't wuth 2 cents."—Atlanta Constitution.

Fair Play.

Dear Tom—As you know, I shall marry Mr. Blank during the present month. I shall therefore be glad to have you burn all the little notes I sent you, assuring you of reciprocity with reference to those you sent me.

To this missive the young man had the pleasure of returning this reply:

Dear Marie—I shall at once comply with your request. And incidentally, as your new fiance also holds a few little notes of mine, I should count it a great favor should you be able to induce him to burn them with the rest.

ROOSEVELT GETS SLAP FROM CONGRESS

Congress Will Not Consider His Secret Service Reference.

TO LAY MESSAGE ON TABLE

Perkins' Committee Is Expected to Cause a Sensation To-day When It Moves That the House Simply Refuse to Deal With President's Message Regarding the Shadowing of Representatives.

Washington, Jan. 8.—As disrespectful and unresponsive to the enquiry of the House, the Perkins' committee, when it reports to-day, will recommend that President Roosevelt's secret service message of Jan. 4 be laid on the table.

A similar request will be made for the tabling of that portion of the President's annual message relating to the secret service on the ground that it reflects upon the integrity of the members of the House.

The special committee concluded its consideration of the message yesterday and drafted its report, which will be presented by Representative Perkins of New York. The unusual and extreme course advised by the committee—that of declining to consider any communication from any source which, in the judgment of the House, is not respectful—is likely to cause a sensation when it is read.

After setting forth the statement of the President that the House had failed to understand his message the report of the special committee says that the language itself would be judged according to the accepted interpretation of the English language.

It will be asserted that the language in question was unjustified and without basis of fact, and that it constituted a breach of the privileges of the House.

For that reason the special committee will ask to be discharged from further consideration of that portion of the President's message which refers to the secret service and will recommend that it, together with the subsequent message of the President in reply to the House, demand for an explanation be laid on the table as being unresponsive and constituting an evasion of the privileges of the House by questioning the motives and intelligence of members.

Pelletier Probably Safe.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Joseph E. Morrier, one of three Hudson Bay Railway surveyors, who arrived at Winnipeg overland from Fort Churchill recently, has advised the mounted police department that when surveyors left Fort Churchill a patrol boat, on which Col. Pelletier and his party were to come from Chesterfield Inlet, had not arrived.

This is regarded as additional confirmation of the department's view that the Pelletier party went to the mounted police post at Fullerton and are coming out over the ice to Fort Churchill.

Clergyman Rebuked.

Montreal, Jan. 8.—Recorder Dupuis and Rev. Arthur French are engaged in a battle over the social evil. Mr. French has been instrumental in bringing to court many disorderly houses in his parish. He has had several clashes with the recorder, who yesterday morning censured Mr. French for his method of exposing vice to the gaze of the world, while endeavoring to stop it, and thus making young people familiar with phases of life of which they should never know.

Fought Fire With Buckets.

Saltcoats, Sask., Jan. 8.—With the thermometer 40 below and apparatus only tin pails and water barrels, citizens were turned out by a fire alarm at two o'clock yesterday morning, and by hard efforts got the better of a fire which had broken out in The Recorder office, owned by E. Bolton, postmaster. That building and Willey's drugstore adjoining were destroyed, but the fire was checked there. The loss is fully covered.

MYSTERY ABOUT THE BODY FOUND

Michigan Minister May Be Slayer Instead of Slain.

ONTARIO BEING SEARCHED

New Theory of Police Regarding Steve Mystery Is That Carmichael Murdered Gideon Browning and Fled —Man Answering Description Crossed at Sarnia in a Boat —Teeth May Solve Mystery.

St. Thomas, Jan. 8.—That Rev. J. H. Carmichael, who it was thought had been murdered and his body dismembered and incinerated in two heating stoves of one of his churches in Columbus Township, Michigan, on Wednesday, is the murderer and Gideon Borwning the victim of the affair, is now the belief of the Michigan officials, who are scouring Western Ontario for the missing clergyman.

W. B. Moore, deputy sheriff of St. Clair County, is here following a clue picked up at Sarnia. There it was learned that a man answering the description of Rev. Mr. Carmichael crossed the river at Courtright in a rowboat yesterday. Provincial Officer Servise saw the customs officers at Courtright and got from him a description of the man, which tallies exactly with that of Mr. Carmichael, who is a man of 250 pounds, standing 6 feet 2 inches, exceptionally long-waisted, of dark complexion, and wearing a dark brown beard.

If Carmichael turns out to be the murderer instead of the victim, Deputy Sheriff Moore says the authorities are completely at a loss to supply a motive for his act. They do not think there is a woman in the case. It has been learned from Mrs. Carmichael that when the minister left his home he carried a suit case, but Mrs. Carmichael has furnished very little information beyond this that would assist the police.

The identification of the body as that of Rev. Mr. Carmichael was largely based upon the fact that bloody clothing belonging to the minister and other possessions of his, including his spectacles, were found in the church.

The authorities say that so far as they knew there had never been any serious trouble between Browning and the minister.

On the contrary, they were apparently quite friendly, frequently driving about together, Tuesday afternoon Browning, it is alleged, left a Grand Trunk train at a near-by village of Hickey and enquired the way to the Methodist Church in Columbus Township. He is alleged to have said to two different men that he had an appointment there with a man. C. O. Conat, a rural mail carrier, and Thos. Galvin walked part of the way to the church with Browning. They left him a mile from the building. He has not been seen since.

No reason is known why Rev. Mr. Carmichael should have gone to the church unless he had an appointment there.

It has been learned that Rev. Mr. Carmichael had but four false teeth, while Browning recently bought a full set for the upper jaw. It is now the intention to sift thoroughly the ashes in the stove where the mutilated body was burned in an attempt to discover teeth, which might clear up the situation.

Among the gruesome evidences of the crime taken from the stove in which the murderer tried to incinerate his victim's body is a stickpin, which the sheriff says has been identified as belonging to Browning. The sheriff denied stories that pieces of Browning's clothing and buttons therefrom had also been discovered in the stove.

"The stickpin is the only thing of Browning's we found in the ashes," he said.

Dean Was Poisoned.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 8.—Dr. Howe, special examiner into the death of Dean Frederick Howard of Drake University on Thanksgiving Day, has reported that the professor was a victim of poison. Quantities of morphine was found in the intestines.

Dean Howard had been contemplating removing from his apartments, and on Thanksgiving evening partook of a dinner there in his honor. The next morning he was found dead.

U. S. Postal Service Being Probed.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 8.—With a view of ascertaining how the $222,000,000 appropriated annually for the expenses of the postal services is expended, the House committee on post-offices expenditures has started its probe.

A large quantity of supplies has been purchased by the office, entirely independent of the annual contracts designed to cover everything that the service needed.

Exchanged Not Confirmed.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Officials of the Militia Department are inclined to discredit the rumor that the Canadian Regiment in garrison at Halifax will be sent to Great Britain, imperial troops taking their place at Halifax.

Sir Frederick Borden gave no intimation to his staff on his departure that he would take up the matter of an interchange of troops with the Imperial authorities.

Alberta Wheat For Britain.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 8.—The first shipment of Alberta wheat and flour to the United Kingdom via Vancouver will be made this week by the Vancouver Milling Co., which will send 5,000 sacks. A rate of 45 cents per cwt. has been quoted by the C. P. R., Calgary to Liverpool, this way.

Labor Man's Indiscretion.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—The attention of Hon. Mr. Lemieux has been drawn to the fact that an official of the Labor Department was on the stump during the recent municipal elections mainly against one of the labor candidates. The incident is part of the fight between international labor interests and the national movement.

GRAVES IN SICILY BEING BLESSED

Thirteen Hundred in Messina in One Big Tomb.

BUILDINGS AS SEPULCHRES

Archbishop in Ceremony of Consecration Includes the Military Hospital, College, Barracks and the Archbishop's House Which Are Huge Ruins Filled With Dead— Lamentations of the Crowd.

Messina, Jan. 8.—A most impressive funeral ceremony was witnessed near here yesterday, when Archbishop Darrige made his way through the ruins of the city to the cemetery at Maregrosse and blessed a grave 100 feet wide and 30 feet deep containing 1,300 bodies.

The dead were piled one on top of the other, and the remains have been covered with quicklime.

The prelate was followed to the cemetery by a large gathering of survivors, whose lamentations mingled with the Latin words of the benediction.

Subsequently the archbishop walked through the ruins and blessed the military hospital, the military college, the barracks and the archbishop's house, considering these wrecked edifices as so many cemeteries. Under them were the remains of soldiers, students, policemen, priests and monks.

All the valuables found among the ruins are being taken on board the steamer Duca di Genea in the bay. Wednesday currency to the amount of $9,000,000, including the contents of the safes of the Sicilian-American Bank was transferred to this vessel. A banker named Mauremeti, who was one of the richest residents, lost everything. On Wednesday he went to the authorities barefooted and half clothed and asked for a pair of shoes and an overcoat.

With the exception of Saint Andrea Avellino all the churches in Messina have been destroyed.

Ten Shocks an Hour.

Messina, Jan. 8.—Earthquake shocks are still continuing here at the rate of about ten per hour. Fire also has again broken out, completing the destruction of the City Hall and the records stored therein.

Rose In Kingston.

Kingston, Jan. 8.—Alex. Rose of Toronto, lifer, jail-breaker, alleged lunatic and perpetrator of daring assaults and robberies, is now safe in Kingston. He has begun serving a sentence to which there is no end, although many, even in official circles, believe that with good conduct Rose will be liberated at least at the end of 15 years. He was brought to Kingston yesterday in charge of Deputies Stewart and Sevors.

Rose still persists that he is innocent of the assault on Mrs. Katherine Davis, in her Yonge street liquor store.

Falls on Man.

Cobalt, Jan. 8.—Another fatal accident took place at the Davis mine, Giroux Lake, on Wednesday. Four men were engaged in a shaft down 65 feet; three had gone down the ladderway. Peter Peterson, a Finlander, single, aged 32, called down to his partners below that he was coming down a rope used on the whim for hoisting. Peterson started down the rope, which gave way, precipitating him to the bottom of the shaft 65 feet and killing him instantly. Peterson fell upon Mat Nearmee below, seriously injuring him.

Shah Issues Another Manifesto.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 8.—Despatches from Teheran say the Shah of Persia has again issued a manifesto revoking the constitution.

There has been an outbreak of disorder at Shiraz similar to the recent disturbances at Ispahan. It is feared that the news of the successful plundering of this latter city will result in uprisings on the part of the lower classes in other towns, but particularly among the starving.

Bye-Election In Virden.

Virden, Man., Jan. 8.—The bye-election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. J. H. Agnew is being bitterly fought, despite zero weather and occasional blizzards. Harvey Simpson is the Conservative candidate, and Harvey Forbes the Liberal. Polling takes place on Saturday. The telephone question is the main issue.

Want to Be Locked Up.

Galt, Jan. 8.—Two Toronto mechanics, John Worth and Charles Wray, walked from the city looking for work and finding none, applied to the police magistrate to be sent to jail for the winter. They were told to proceed further west. They said Toronto had a whole army of unemployed.

Three Killed In Fire.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Douglas Bolton and Everill and Marion Curtis, aged two and three respectively, were killed, and Miss Eva Bolton, John Bolton, Mrs. Fred Odell and Mrs. Fred Curtis, mother of the two children, were seriously injured in a fire yesterday which destroyed a small apartment building. Miss Bolton's injuries are believed to be fatal.

The Cold Wave.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Featured by a drop to 44 below zero north of Lake Superior, a snowstorm in this section, threatening weather in the south with freezing temperature and frost predicted for northern Florida and the Georgia and Carolina coast, a cold wave yesterday stretched over the entire country east of the Rocky Mountains.

One Dead; Another Hurt.

Kenora, Jan. 8.—Another tragedy involving the death of one man and the fatal injury of another from an explosion of dynamite occurred in McCrea & Courtney's construction camp on the National Transcontinental last Monday. The dead man was Hendrickson, a Swede, and the injured man is named Anderson.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Galt Liberal Club rooms were formally opened last night.

The United States fleet is at Cairo.

Two immigration inspectors have been appointed for the port of Prescott.

Walter Wilson's barn at Welland-port was burned yesterday morning; loss $1,500. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Nat Massey of Chatham has resigned as liquor inspector, because he has to pay his own expenses out of a salary of $600 a year.

Lord Strathcona has presented the public hospital at St. John, N.B., with 50 copies of a book of photographs taken by Queen Alexandra.

Fire caused $50,000 damage to the warehouse of James Ballantyne & Co., contractors, with headquarters at Montreal, in Winnipeg last night.

Major H. C. Thacker, P.S.C., is to succeed Major H. A. Panet as deputy adjutant-general. Major Panet takes command of B. Battery at Kingston in June.

Because he got only 247 votes in his candidature for council, Sam Holmes of Chatham, a brother of the chief of police and a resident here for 82 years, will sell out and go west.

New Money In Sea.

New York, Jan. 8.—It is understood that Robert Fleming and other important English interests are carefully looking into the affairs of the Lake Superior Corporation with a view to enlarging its scope.

It is expected that considerable new money will be put into the enterprise and it is definitely reported that the English capitalists referred to have been assured of large orders from the leading Canadian railroads.

It is predicted by those who have been familiar with the affairs of this unfortunate company, practically since its organization, that within a reasonably short time the outlook for it will be brighter than ever before and probably the actual business in hand considerably larger than has been recorded up to this time.

C. P. R. Will Expand.

Winnipeg, Jan. 8.—Thirty million dollars was mentioned yesterday at the local offices of the Canadian Pacific as the sum which Second Vice-President Whyte will ask from the treasury of the company to be expended on western lines during the season of 1909.

Mr. Whyte will leave for the east today and will spend the coming week in Montreal. He will be accompanied by the chief engineer for western lines, J. E. Schwitzer, who for several weeks past has been devoting his entire time to a consideration of the work to be done next year in connection with the building of additional track and betterment and maintenance of existing lines.

U. S.-British Treaties.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Secretary Root yesterday signed arbitration treaties with Ecuador, Bolivia and Hayti.

Next week Secretary Root hopes to sign with Ambassador Bryce a treaty for the reference to The Hague tribunal of disputed questions affecting the Newfoundland fisheries, for the settlement of pecuniary claims, and for the mutual uses of the boundary waterways.

With the exception of some claims which may have to be added to the list, Mr. Root and Mr. Bryce have agreed on these treaties, and they now await the approval of the British Foreign Office.

Eighteen Months For Bigamy.

Toronto, Jan. 8.—Edward S. Soames, a middle-aged man, bearing marks of dissipation, was sent to the Central Prison for 18 months yesterday, upon conviction for bigamy.

Ten years ago he married Kathleen McLean in St. Thomas. They lived together for six years and six children were born. Four years ago he deserted her and one of the children died as a result of the poverty which followed.

Recently Soames married Jennie E. Reynolds in Detroit. His defence was that he had heard that his first wife was dead.

No More Helmets.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—Militia orders seem to doom the helmet as far as the Canadian militia is concerned.

They will not in future be issued to rural corps, and to those who wear them only in quantity to complete establishment.

A naval pattern cap will be issued to replace them.

An Airship Over London?

London, Ont., Jan. 8.—Reputable citizens of this city solemnly affirm that about midnight Wednesday an airship, or something very like it, passed swiftly east over London, going in the direction of Toronto. It went over the centre of the city at a great height, traveling steadily.

Hespeler Machinery Co.

Galt, Jan. 8.—The Clark Demill Co., Hespeler, wood-working machinery, has been re-organized as the Hespeler Machinery Co., Limited, with the following officers: George Forbes, president; W. A. Kribs, vice-president; W. G. Chater, secretary-treasurer and manager.

Judge Refused Knighthood.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 8.—Ex-Chief Justice Tuck states that he was offered knighthood three years ago if he would retire, but he refused. He had then two years more to serve to be able to retire on full pay.

GETS A TERM IN SCHOOL

Bessie Mott, Who Pleaded Guilty to Theft From Local Minister, Gets Indefinite Sentence.

SHE WAS ARRESTED IN TORONTO

Bessie Mott, the young girl arrested in Toronto and brought down here last night by P.C. Meagher, was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning on a charge of stealing seven dollars from Rev. Mr. Riddiford, pastor of Park street Baptist Church on Christmas Day and pleaded guilty to the charge.

She was sentenced to an indefinite term not to exceed three years in the Alexandra Reform School, and will be removed to that institution as soon as possible.

The girl was in the employ of Mr. Riddiford, and was left in charge of his child, while Mr. and Mrs. Riddiford were out to dinner. She left on the G.T.R. train for Toronto, taking with her the seven dollars and leaving the child alone in the house where she was found by her parents three or four hours afterwards.

The girl was arrested in Toronto, her old home, from which she had come only a week before Christmas to take the position here.

Coughlin had chopped the tree nearly through when it suddenly gave way, the but coming down on one of his legs. The leg had to be amputated about four inches above the knee.

KINGSTON, ONTARIO.

Boy Run-down and So Ill He Could No Keep Anything On His Stomach.

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY VINOL

"For over a year my brother, James McClellan, was run-down and very low from asthma and bronchial pneumonia. His stomach was so weak he could not keep medicine on on it. A friend brought him a bottle of Vinol and it helped him right away. He has now taken four bottles of Vinol and it has strengthened him and given him a good appetite. I can redommend Vinol as a splendid medicine." Isabella McClellan, 86 Division street, Kingston, Ont.

Vinol is not a patent medicine—but a preparation composed of the medicinal elements of cods' livers, combined with a tonic iron and wine. Vinol creates a hearty appetite, tones up the organs of digestion and makes rich, red blood. In this natural manner, Vinol creates strength for the run-down, over-worked and debilitated, and for delicate children and old people. For chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis Vinol is unexcelled.

All such persons in this vicinity are asked to try Vinol on our offer to refund their money if it fails to give satisfaction.

Vinol is sold in Peterborough by McDermid & Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's Drug Store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

MR. L. M. HAYES WAS APPOINTED CHAIRMAN OF BOARD OF EDUCATION AT FIRST MEETING LAST NIGHT

Elected on the First Ballot—The Standing Committees and Their Chairmen Were Appointed.

THE NEW MEMBERS PRESENT

Mr. Louis M. Hayes, K. C., was appointed chairman of the Board of Education at the first meeting of the year last night. The new term was begun most auspiciously, the same evidences of harmony and friendship which characterized the sessions of 1908 making them enjoyable to the members and assisted in the rapid but thorough transaction of business, being again manifest. There were no absentees, and the new member, Mr. E. F. Mason, who occupies the chair vacated by Mr. W. S. Robinson, was cordially welcomed. He arrived a little late but did not miss any of the preliminary business.

This meeting was for the purpose of striking the committees and preparing for the year's work. The secretary, Mr. W. G. Morrow read the official communication from City Clerk Armstrong giving notice of he election of Messrs. Fair, Mason, Morrison and Ackerman, the result of last Monday's voting.

The selection of a chairman was the first business. The result of the first ballot awarded this honour to Mr. Hayes. When he had taken his position at the head of the Board he thanked the members in a few words for the honour they had conferred upon him in electing him their chairman. His predecessor, Mr. Fair had he said, fulfilled his duties in a most acceptable and successful manner. He assured them that he would endeavour to do likewise, and asked for their assistance in the confidence that continued harmony would be always prominent at the meetings.

Committees Selected

The work of striking the committees was then begun. On Dr. Burnham's motion the following nominating committee was appointed — Messrs. Hill, Ackerman, Crane, Nelson and Dr. Burnham. The following is the personnel of the committees for the year, with the chairman of each—

Finance Committee—Messrs. Fair, chairman; Ackermar, Dumble and Crane.

Property Committee— Messrs. Nelson, chairman; Mason Dumble, Fair and Morrison.

Supervision Committee — Messrs. Crane, chairman; Morrison, Hill and Dr. Burnham.

Committee on Appointments— This committee is composed of all the members of the Board. Mr. Hill was re-elected chairman, the untiring attention he gave this department last year being thus appreciated by the other members of the Board.

It was moved by Dr. Burnham seconded by Mr. Nelson that the joint buildings committee be re-appointed Mr Mason taking Mr. Robinson's place.

Riot In Turkish Armenia; Thirty People Were Killed

Examiner Special.

Constantinople, Jan. 8.—Five battalions of soldiers from Erzinjwn in Turkish Armenia, are to-day nearing Musul, capital of the Villayet of Mosula, to suppress a riot which began there on Sunday, over the arrest of Turkish soldiers for insulting a woman. Comrades of the soldiers broke into the jail, liberated all the prisoners, and started a fight, in which thirty persons were killed and forty wounded on Sunday. At the last report the rioting was becoming general.

The Board Of Education Passes Vote Of Thanks To The Secretary

Ald. Morrow was pleasantly surprised last night when at the Board of Education meeting a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him for the efficient manner in which he has fulfilled the duties of secretary and for the use of his room in the Toronto Savings and Loan Company's offices.

Before the meeting was concluded Mr. Hill stated that the room was suitable in every particular, was convenient and was always comfortable and in every sense was most suitable for the meetings of the Board. His motion that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Morrow was seconded by Mr. Fair. Mr. Dumble took the opportunity of including in the motion the careful manner in which the business was always presented at the meetings. The preliminary work by the secretary showed that it had been well done and this was one of the reasons for the despatch with which it was transacted.

In reply Mr. Morrow stated hat he always enjoyed the meetings. It was 22 years since he attended the first. He was then a young man and he remembered that he had felt nervous on the initial occasion. It was a pleasure to give the members any information he was in possession of at any time and the room was as convenient for him as it was for the members of the Board.

Mr. Morrow's work is generally appreciated and in conveying the thanks Mr. Hayes stated the sincere gratitude of every member of the Board

The Milky Way Was Demonstrated By A Vendor's Horse To-day

The members of the Peterborough Astronomical Society missed a demonstration of the "Milky Way" on Park street this morning that they might have found interesting and instructive. While Mr. Burns, a milk vender residing on the Gravel road was in the house of one of his customers on Park street his horse took advantage of his absence to do a warming up stunt in which he covered a good deal of ground, travelling down Park street to Sherbrooke to Rubidge, along that thoroughfare to Dalhousie and east on that street to Stewart where it was rounded up, but not before some fifteen quarts of milk had been distributed along the way.

The Peterborough Poultry Show was brought to a most successful close last night after a record breaking exhibition Which has proved satisfactory to all concerned and if the directors are disabled from shaking hands with each other they can not be blamed very much. FIREMEN ARE THANKED

C. P. R. is Grateful for Services Rendered at the Parnell St. Wreck in November Last.

DONATION OF $25 WAS MADE

Chief Howard of the Fire Department is in receipt of a letter from the General Superintendent of the C.P.R. at Toronto, asking the chief to convey the thanks of the officers of the company to the firemen for the valuable assistance rendered at the wreck that occured on the night of November 14th last, at the foot of Parnell street, when the wreckage caught fire and the brigade was called to extinguish the blaze, which was soon done by the men. In his letter the Superintendent says he has recommended to the board of directors the appropriation of twenty-five dollars for the brigade. The letter is a personal one and Mr. Oberne thanks the chief for a similar service at a wreck which happened at Owen Sound in which Mr. Wm. H. Boskill was killed. Mr. Boskill was engineer on a passenger train from Toronto to Owen Sound, and is also a brother-in-law to the present mayor of this city. Chief Howard and the firemen appreciate the expression of good will from the Superintendent and hope to be able to show their gratitude at some day not very far distant.

DRY GOODS STORES CLOSING AT 9 O'CLOCK ON SATURDAY NIGHT

The public is reminded that the dry goods merchants of Peterborough have adopted the commendable agreement of closing their places of business at 9 o'clock on Saturday nights and that the system came into force last Saturday night. The citizens are asked to bear the fact in mind and to govern their shopping accordingly. The move is a step in the right direction and is being highly appreciated by the employees of the different stores affected and will doubtless be endorsed by the public generally.

Peterborough Man Who Got Into Trouble at Pittsburg Pleaded Guilty to the Charge of Assaulting Knoedler.

THE PARTING FROM HIS WIFE

Special despatches to the Examiner from Pittsburg, Pa., give additional details in connection with the Peterborough man under arrest there charged with the crime of robbery and shooting with fatal results. Silas H. Pearson seems to be of unbalanced mind, a circumstance which perhaps has more to do with his actions than depravity or conscious criminality. The despatches are as follows—

Special to the Examiner.

Altoona, Pa., Jan. 7, Special—Silas H. Pearson, arrested for robbing Jacob Knoedler's store at Willock station Allegheny county and shooting Knoedler was brought here from Pittsburg to-day by detectives for further investigation of his career. In his rooms were found socks, underwear, watches, belts, knives, spoons etc. He is alleged to have stolen here at night and posed as a Bible agent in the day time. He shipped most of his alleged plunder to Canada.

Silas H. Pearson who confessed on Saturday night that he had shot Jacob Knoedler, the Willock grocer, was photographed by Bertillon Operator Linden yesterday. His wife who is left almost penniless by his arrest is being cared for by the county detectives.

Pittsburg, Jan. 7—With knives, razors, cheap silverware and jewelry, fancy hose supporters, razor strops and suspenders scattered about, Chief County Detective George H. Waggoner's office this morning looked like the interior of a five and ten cent store, while in the outer office the chief conducted an auction with his own men as the bidders, all for the sake of sweet charity.

The ordinary charity bazaar was not in the same class with that of the county detectives this morning and $17 was raised in short order that the sweetfaced little woman sitting in the chief's office, the wife of Silas H. Pearson, the man the detectives arrested for the shooting of Jacob Knoedler, a Willock storekeeper, on November 24, might be sent home to her friends and family at Peterborough, Canada.

Pearson had in his possession when arrested a set of novelty knives which he had been selling and these were auctioned with the kind hearted detectives as buyers. One and all of the men were more than willing to aid the little woman, who has been the guest of Detective George W. Murren since the arrest of her husband.

In the opinion of Chief Waggoner and Detective Murren, Pearson must have been weak-minded or he never would have shot to kill for the sake of the cheap novelties which is apparently all he was in the habit of stealing.

"The devil was in me" the prisoner declared yesterday when asked why he had shot Knoedler, and the fact that he called daily at the Knoedler home and asked about his condition and that he returned here from Canada when any reasoning man would have known that he was almost sure to be arrested, is thought to strengthen the theory.

Pearson pleaded guilty to the charge of felonious assault upon Knoedler before Alderman Louis Alpern last night and is now in the county jail, where his wife bade him a tearful farewell this morning.

MAN WANTED IN MONTREAL FOR THEFT GAVE HIMSELF UP

Cincinnati, Jan. 8—Frederick Corby Pole, 34 years old, wanted in Montreal on the charge of the grand larceny of $25,000, has surrendered himself to the police here. The money according to Pole was taken by him while he was employed by the brokerage firm of McCraig Bros. and Company of Montreal in 1906.

THE PARK ST. CHOIR ENTERTAINED BY THEIR PASTOR LAST NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Riddiford entertained the members of the Park Street Baptist Church Bible Class at their home last night. A very enjoyable time was spent. Refreshments were served at the close of a most enjoyable and social evenings the class has ever had, and left realizing that it had been good to be there.

THE GREAT AMERICAN PLAY "PAID IN FULL"

Writing in the New York American, Alan Dale, the world-famed critic, said, "The photographic power displayed in the characterization of the men and women in "Paid in Full," is the most commanding thing I have ever seen. It is a revelation and Eugene Walter, its author, and Wagenhals and Kemper, the managers, are to be congratulated for giving the American stage so valuable a property." With a superb cast and a magnificent production, "Paid in Full" will be presented at the Grand on Monday night. It will be given here as perfectly as at the Astor Theatre, New York, where it is now in its second season of uninterrupted triumph. The play also has a record of five months' run at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, and comes here direct from the Princess Theatre, Toronto. The cast that will present "Paid in Full" here is a brilliant one, and local theatregoers can look for a real treat. The indications are that a packed house will greet the play on its local debut.

CLOSING MEETING OF THE WEEK OF PRAYER

To-night the closing meeting of the local observance of the world-wide Week of Prayer will be held in St. Paul's Church. The subject of address and consideration will be "The Supremacy of Christ and Its Results." In view of the interest excited by the precedent meetings it is probable, as it is desirable, that there should be a numerous attendance. An offering will be taken. Tennyson tells us that "more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

Former Pastor Of Charlotte Street Church Passed Away To-day In Whitby

Special to The Examiner.

Whitby, Ont., Jan. 8—Rev. D. O. Crossley, pastor of the Methodist Tabernacle, died of pneumonia early this morning. He was taken ill on Sunday night; though very unwell he insisted on going out on Monday to vote for local option, of which he had been one of the chief advocates during a strenuous campaign of several months at the county seat. Rev Mr. Crossley was sixty years of age. His only brother is the celebrated evangelist, Rev. R. T. Crossley.

The deceased was very well known and respected in Peterborough, having been for four years pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church being succeeded by Rev. Mr. Jolliffe. He was liked by all with whom he came in contact and the sympathy of the community will go out to the bereaved relatives.

Searching For Brother Whom She Has Not Seen For Many Years

His Worship, Mayor Rush, has received the following letter, which the Examiner has been asked to publish. Any person who is able to supply the necessary information is asked to communicate with His Worship or with the Chief of Police.

Dear Sir,—I have been informed that there is a young man in your city, Wm. Fulcher, about 30 years of age. He was at one time in Dr. Barnardo's Home for Boys in New Jersey. The reason I write is that I had a brother of that name and we were put in Barnardo's Home, Stepney's Causeway, London, Eng., at the age of four or five years. We were separated and the last I heard of him he was in the New Jersey Home for Boys. He was then about nine years old, and I thought maybe this person might be my long lost brother Willie. Now, if you could give me any information about it I would be very grateful to you. Please let me know as soon as possible. My maiden name was Lillian Matilda Fulcher and my address is Mrs. Wm. McKean, Jr., Preston, Ont., Box 157.

LARGE SUM TO BE SPENT

C. P. R. Will Spend $30,000,000 On Its Western Lines in the Season of 1909.

MUCH WORK IS TO BE DONE

Winnipeg, Jan. 7 — Thirty millions dollars was mentioned to-day at the local offices of the C.P.R. as the sum which Second Vice President Whyte will ask from the treasury of the company to be expended on western lines during the season of 1909. Mr. Whyte will leave for the east on Friday night and will spend the following week in Montreal. He will be accompanied by the Chief Engineer for western lines Mr. J. E. Schwitzer.

The work which has been in progress the past summer and which will be continued this year includes the extension of the Moose Jaw line running to Outlook and on towards Lacombe; the line from Shaunavon to Lanigan, which will probably be completed next year; the line from Wilkie to Battle River, completing the direct line from Winnipeg to Edmonton; the Lethbridge and MacLeod division in connection therewith; the great Lethbridge bridge, the Mowbray extension and a number of smaller lines.

Of the new lines which will be built this year the one most certain to secure the approval of the eastern officials of the company is that running west from Weyburn, continuing the line from Stoughton to Weyburn. This line will without doubt be eventually built through to Lethbridge, as there is a long stretch of good farming country to be served. This year it is expected that from eighty to one hundred miles of track will be built.

EXAMINER SOUVENIR NUMBER COMMENDED

The editor has received the following, which, as well as the subject of it, speaks for itself from Mr. Alexander Potter, C.E., of New York, brother of Rev. J. G. and Mr. Donald Potter, city.

One of my brothers has just sent me a copy of the Souvenir Industrial Number of the Examiner, and you are to be congratulated upon the splendid appearance of this paper. The people of Peterborough are to be congratulated not alone upon this special issue, but also upon having so many large industrial and manufacturing plants, which furnish sufficient justification for the publication of such a paper as you have sent from the press. In the hydraulic lift lock and the plant of the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough is certainly an attractive place from an engineering standpoint. Wishing you ample returns for the thought, labour and energy expended on getting out this paper, I remain

Yours very truly,

FRIDAY, JANUARY 8, 1909

MR. CHAIRMAN HAYES.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., is to be congratulated upon having been unanimously elected chairman of the Peterborough Board of Education for 1909, and the members of the Board are likewise to be congratulated upon two grounds; because the appointment made, insures efficient presidency and because of the broad spirit of fair play and tolerance the appointment displays, the concession of equality of right to all sections of our citizenship, irrespective of any consideration outside of what such citizenship involves. The spirit of recognition is happily in evidence in Peterborough in other ways. The splendid work done by St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society, a Roman Catholic organization, affiliated with and recognized by the church, is regarded with appreciative recognition by the ministers of Protestant denominations, as well as by all good men. It is known that many of the former take a deep interest in the society's work, and are anxious to learn of its details and excellent results to get suggestions as to the best means of prosecuting the similar work of reform, in which they are also interested. At Knox Church last night the speaker referred in evident terms of approval of the work of the T. A. S. These matters gratifying in themselves, are insignificant in comparison with the beauty of the spirit behind them. We are all citizens of a common country. Though divided by what many regard as comparatively minor differences, we are all one in belief in the great supreme truth of the fatherhood of God, and through the redemption provided, in the brotherhood of man. In proportion as we exalt our recognition of this brotherhood, and subordinate the distinctions of doctrine, so shall we be agencies in making its spirit prevail. With common aims, both as to higher things, and as to material things, we are called to the work of harmonious co-operation in unity of spirit and aim, both in moral and material citizenship, without any rivalry except as to who shall give best effect to honest convictions, respectively held and, without any, surrender of conscience, mutually hold the opinions of others in respect.

There is no more sure tie between citizens than when they are united in the object and attainment of common aims and ambitions.

THE WOOLLEN INDUSTRY.

In a despatch published in another column it is stated that the commission appointed by the government to investigate the conditions connected with the British and Canadian woollen industries, has reported to the effect that the Canadian woollen industries do not require more protection, and that all that is needed to enable the Canadian woollen mills to hold their own in competition with those of Yorkshire, is modern equipment and improved methods. This is what the woollen manufacturers have been told, and we have examples of the correctness of the statement. Penman's, Limited, is one of these. By virtue of first class mechanical equipment, and production of first class goods the company is able, under the present tariff, to compete with the world. It is in fact one of our most flourishing industries and the shares of the company are of the gilt-edge variety—much above par. No tariff, however high, can take the place of first class machinery and modern methods. As well might a newspaper publisher think of competing in the journalistic industry in these days, with an old hand press and a corresponding typographical and mechanical equipment. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has assured the woollen manufacturers, that if, after investigation, they are shown to suffer grievances under the tariff, the matter of providing a remedy will not be overlooked. It is desirable that everything possible to be done to aid and encourage our manufacturing industries should be done; but two classes are to be considered, the producer and the consumer. If the complaints of producers are silenced by meeting their demands, only to provoke complaints on the part of consumers, trade disturbance will have been created only to substitute one grievance for another. The government, in the woollen industry matter, may be depended upon to deal justly as between the manufacturers and the purchasers of woollens, and that is all that can reasonably be demanded or expected.

A homely, but venerable, proverb reminds us of the folly of "sending a boy to do a man's work."

THE RIGHT TO VOTE.

A Toronto returning officer of large experience has been taking notes as to the extent to which women exercise the franchise in the cases in which they are entitled to vote. The treatment of the liquor traffic in regard to restrictive measures and regulation generally, is regarded as essentially a woman's question, since upon women themselves and the real kingdom of woman, the home, the evils that come from intemperance most heavily fall. In the recent vote on license reduction in Toronto this observant returning officer noted that in two polling sub-divisions there were the names of seventy-seven women entitled to vote on license reduction. Of these twenty-seven cast their votes. (Women are also assumed to have a special interest in public schools and the education of children. Yet in the same two subdivisions of the city, out of one hundred and fifty-four women entitled to vote for representatives on the Board of Education, only twenty-seven applied for ballot papers, and, as many of these were returned unmarked, several of these twenty-seven did not evidently exercise the franchise. These conditions furnish argument to those opposed to female suffrage against granting the boon so insistently demanded, especially by some of our British sisters beyond the seas. It is, therefore, held that since the many will not use the ballot, the few who desire it and will make use of it should be deprived of it by withholding the franchise from women at large. If they were given votes and many should not use them that fact does not extinguish the right to possess the privilege any more than the fact that men by millions, having the ballot, do not use it wisely, should operate to deprive them of the right to vote. A right is a right, and the question of withholding or granting it is not affected by any consideration of the proper or improper use of it. If women demand the privilege of voting, give it to them and place the responsibility of using or not using it upon them. If they do not exercise the right no harm is done, from the opposition point of view; if they do not use it wisely, they will have to invent new forms of obliquity of morals and judgment, to be greater offenders in this respect than the average masculine wielder of the ballot.

Seneca says that lack of desire is the greatest riches. If this is true then are the British suffragettes poor indeed.

BENEFICENT BORROWING.

Any information regarding the financial relations of Canada and Great Britain will gain in interest by coming from an old Peterborough boy, Mr. E. R. Wood, of Toronto, recently addressed the Success Club of Hamilton on this subject, and in the course of his remarks showed to what an extent Great Britain is Canada's banker. It has been argued by those opposed to the present government of this country, that its "recklessness" has impaired Canadian credit in the Old Country, but the statement made by Mr. Wood that last year Great Britain, on the strength of Canadian securities, sent to Canada the enormous sum of $165,000,000, is practical disproval of this contention. The indebtedness of Canada to the mother land amounts to more than $300,000,000—$254,000,000 by the Dominion Government, and $50,000,000 by the Provincial Government. If to this be added municipal and private indebtedness Canada's total financial obligations to Great Britain amount to more than six hundred millions of dollars. Canada's experience shows two things, one of these is the contradiction of the proverb, "he that goes a-borrowing, goes a-sorrowing." Canada's national experience is not of this kind. Without the money borrowed in Great Britain—without being permitted to draw upon the stocking board of the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, we should not have been able to spend millions—about one hundred millions in the construction of our canals and in the construction of harbours, and more than one thousand five hundred millions in building our 25,000 miles of railways and various other media for the development of our national resources. We, in the second place have by the borrowing of billions been able to convert potential resources into real assets infinitely greater in value than the tremendous total of borrowed money spent. In this way our borrowings are not borrowings. They are investments that yield immense if undefined dividends. By virtue of borrowing Canada has solved transportation problems and effected, natural achievements greater, perhaps, than any other country, of similar population and visible wealth in the world. We send large sums in interest to the Old Country, but in their wake follow fleets bearing Canadian produce of every variety, the creation of our borrowed wealth, and an infinitesimal part of our perennially repeated national wealth.

Up to and including 1907 the total aid to railways from the Dominion and Provinces amounted to $181,298,412, and the land grants totalled 52,183,053 acres.

WRECKED BY WATERSPOUT.

Schooner Annie of Nova Scotia Lost Off Honduras.

New York, Jan. 8.—The bark Annie Smith, which arrived yesterday from Belize, British Honduras, brought five men of the Canadian schooner Annie, who was lost off the Honduran coast. A remarkable story was told of the loss of the schooner, which was as trim a Nova Scotiaman as ever shipped a cocoanut. According to the shipwrecked mariners who arrived yesterday, their vessel was a short distance off the coast on Nov. 16 when she was struck and capsized by a waterspout.

All hands climbed up on the bottom of the schooner, including Captain Decker, who finally ordered a couple of San Blas Indians in the crew to dive down and attempt to clear away the boats. The Indians were expert swimmers and succeeded in getting one of the boats clear.

The seven members of the party then pulled ashore, landing at a small town and went from there to Belize in a small sailboat. Captain Decker came north by steamship and the others by the Annie Smith, except one of the San Blas Indians. The Annie was a total loss. She was only a year old, of 193 tons burden, and was owned in Liverpool, N.S.

Both Women Acquitted.

Media, Pa., Jan. 8.—Mrs. M. Florence Erb, wife of Capt. J. Clayton Erb, who was well-known in political circles all over Pennsylvania, and her sister, Mrs. Catherine Beisel, who were charged with the sensational murder of Capt. Erb, on the night of Oct. 6, 1908, yesterday walked from the Delaware County Court House, free women.

After the jury had been out nearly 18 hours, it brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of each woman, both of whom had been charged separately and jointly with shooting the captain.

Night Riders All Convicted.

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 8.—With a verdict of guilty in varying degrees, the jury in the night rider trials reported last night, finding Garrett Johnson, Tid Burton, Roy Ransom, Fred Pinion, Arthur Cloar and Sam Applewhite guilty of murder in the first degree, with mitigating circumstances, and Bud Morris and Bob Huffman, the other defendants, guilty of murder in the second degree and fixed their punishment at 20 years in the penitentiary. The first six will be senteneed on Saturday.

C. N. R. Extensions.

Edmonton, Jan. 8.—General Manager McLeod of the Canadian Northern was here Wednesday night on an inspection trip. He stated that the company would build railways in Alberta if the Government would guarantee its bonds.

Surveyors are working out on a line north to Athabasca Landing, and also west to the Pacific coast. No definite plans have been made yet regarding extensions. It is possible the line will be extended to Brazeau coal fields this year.

King Manuel Warned.

Lisbon, Jan. 8.—During a banquet given by officers of the army in this city Wednesday night, at which King Manuel was present, a lieutenant publicly warned His Majesty that a plot to dethrone him was in the course of preparation.

The officer declared further that the King was surrendered by spies and traitors.

Extra guards are on duty around the royal palace.

Vote on Bylaw Again.

Kingston, Jan. 8.—In the municipal election a bonus bylaw of $10,000 to the Wormwith Piano Co. was lost by 50 votes. It required three-fifths support. The vote was for 1,422, against 424, but the total in favor was short. To prevent the works removing to Gananoque, where big inducements are offered, the Board of Trade will ask the council to re-submit the bylaw in three weeks' time.

Domestic Science In Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Jan. 8.—The Government has decided to build a domestic science college in connection with the Agricultural College.

A commission with Col. Hosmer of Virden as chairman, will leave on Sunday for the U. S. and Eastern Canada, to investigate similar institutions.

Where It Is Cold.

Edmonton, Jan. 8.—Excessive cold reigned here yesterday. Wednesday evening it was 35 below, dropping to 45 below at midnight, the streets being deserted all evening. At six in the morning the mercury was 47 below, falling to 50 below at eight. No wind.

Great Cathedral In Danger.

Toledo, Spain, Jan. 8.—A board of architects has pronounced the cathedral at Toledo one of the largest and most celebrated Gothic edifices in Europe, unsafe, and liable to collapse.

Mail Service In Gowganda.

Ottawa, Jan. 8.—The Postoffice Department has under consideration the question of the establishment of a mail service to Gowganda, but no decision has been arrived at yet.

Kingston's Fire Losses.

Kingston, Jan. 8.—During 1904 there were 86 fires, with a loss of $72,000 most of which was due to the Worm with piano factory and city building fires.

Skated on Thin Ice.

Waterford, Jan. 8.—While a number of skaters were on the pond yesterday Gordon McGary, about 11 years old, skated on thin ice and was drowned in 11 feet of water.

The body was recovered in about twenty minutes, and although Dr. Good worked over him for some time life was extinct.

Fatal Wreck Near Chapleau.

North Bay, Jan. 8.—Two freight trains met in head-on collision on the C.P.R. 22 miles west of Chapleau, as the result of trainmen's error in over-running a time order.

Fireman William Thompson of Chapleau was killed and other trainmen sustained slight injuries from jumping.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY'S SERVICE

Demonstrates the Industrial Growth of Peterborough—A Wonderful Organization That Enhances the Economy of Business Operations.

There is no surer indication of the industrial and commercial enterprise and progress of either city, town or country than the development of its telephone service. In this respect the record of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada in Peterboro and the surrounding district, in steady growth of exchange service, extension of lines into rural districts, and the expansion of long distance lines and business, is so remarkable as, in comparison, to place Peterboro in the front rank among the cities of Canada.

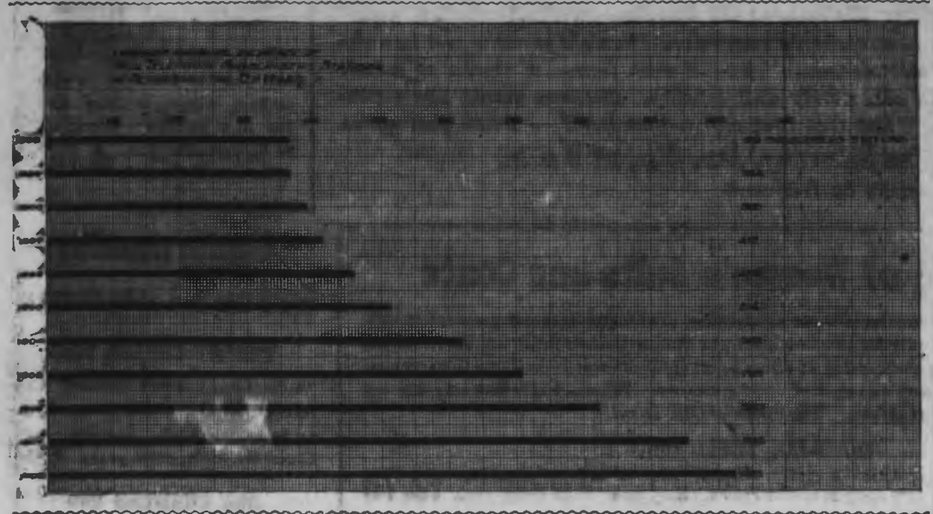
A few salient points which distinctly mark the Company's progress should prove interesting to our readers who take pride in what has been accomplished in making this the commercial centre of the Midland District.

These records show that not only has Peterboro made enviable industrial and commercial development, but that this development has been steady and continued, a fair indication that it is established on a sure foundation and that it may be confidently relied upon to continue.

That the Company has faith in Peterboro's future is shown in the permanent provision it has made for increase in its business.

Ten years ago the Bell Telephone Company occupied three small rooms upstairs in George Street, which was sufficient for its exchange, local manager's office and store rooms. To-day the Company occupies the block shown in the accompanying engraving, erected for its exclusive use. The building in appearance is a credit to the city and the Company, while its interior arrangement and equipment embody all the latest and most approved features of modern telephony. As a pledge of the Company's faith in Peterboro's future, the equipment installed provides for an ultimate capacity of 5000 lines, or based on the usual average, at least 7,000 subscribers' stations—seven times what it is at the present time. This is a practical demonstration of what capitalists think of our future prospects as a city.

That the records of the Company's business fully justify this confidence is demonstrated in the following diagram, showing the steady growth of the Peterboro Exchange for the past ten years.



Few people, even constant users of the telephone, realize what an important factor is this service in the commercial and social life of the community. The following is a comparative statement of local calls in the Peterboro exchange:

1898—Number of exchange connections 892,800
1908—Number of exchange connections to Dec 1st, 2,684,600

But of even greater importance to the industrial and commercial life of the city is the Long Distance Service of the Company, and Peterboro's progress in this respect is equally as remarkable as the local service. The following is a comparison of the number of long distance connections of this year with ten years ago:

	Outgoing Calls.	Incoming Calls.
1898—	16,735	16,840
1908—To Dec. 1st	50,220	50,530

The volume of business which this represents is impossible to compute, but it is undoubtedly one of the largest assets in the commercial interests of the city.

The Bell Telephone Company's exchange, where this volume of business is handled, is a busy place and will well repay a visit to anyone who is interested in seeing how it is done. Commodious apartments, skill and engineering experience in devising equipment of the highest efficiency to facilitate the work of the staff, thorough organization in every department, all go to providing patrons in this city with a service which is unsurpassed. In providing this service the Company gives steady employment to twenty-eight people who live here, and whose earnings go to swell the patronage of our merchants.

The Bell Telephone Company has shown commendable enterprise in the extension of its service to meet the demands of all classes in the district. The City of Peterboro itself, with an average of a telephone for every sixteen inhabitants, shows a development not surpassed, if equalled, by any city in Canada. Every village in the district tributary to Peterboro has connection with the Company's system, and in addition lines now radiate on practically every highway, which give service to scores of farmers, and this service is being rapidly extended.

Ten years ago no one would have anticipated such a complete service as this system affords, and to the inexperienced observer it would appear that little remains to be done, either in increasing local connections or making outside extension. Yet the Company by its provision for the future develop-ment, in its new building, and its lately reconstructed plant, gives practical evidence of its faith that the increase of the past is only a small beginning of what may be anticipated in the future.

The record of the Company in Peterboro, in its improved equipment and in keeping pace with the increasing demands for service, is the best guarantee that they will be found ready and equal to the requirements of the future. Peterboro can congratulate itself in being well served by the Bell Telephone Company, and upon the fact that this service has added materially to the growth and prosperity of this industrial city.

ART OF EXPRESSION.

Advantages of Girl Who Has Learned Control of Her Features.

The girl who has learned the art of controlling her features perfectly has gained a great advantage over other members of her sex. As she uses her features so she may be described as beautiful or plain, interesting or commonplace, refined or otherwise.

A perfectly placid countenance rarely brightened by expression is too apt to denote insipidity. On the other hand, there are women who glory in the extremes of expression. Between the two there is a happy medium that should be cultivated.

A common error into which many girls fall is that of opening the mouth wide and raising the brows—which, by the way, causes the forehead to wrinkle in a manner that in time scores permanent furrows—in order to express pleasure. Far more attractive is the woman who smiles with a slight parting of the lips, at the same time raising the brows ever so little.

To knit the brows in marked disapproval is extremely unbecoming, for expressions of anger and scorn do not sit well on a woman's countenance. Disdain and contempt when expressed at all may be signified in a minor degree by allowing every feature of the face to relax. The eyes and eyelids will express the rest.

Sidelong glances of the eye should be practiced with reserve and caution. A woman's eyes are her chief weapons, and she knows their power well, but she should not overdo their expression or she will accomplish little of her purpose and make herself look ridiculous.

To Water Palms.

To make palms thrive in an ordinary sitting room sponge the leaves once a week with lukewarm water to which a little milk has been added. Then stand the plant for two hours in lukewarm water deep enough to completely cover the pot. This is the proper way to water palms.

The Frenchman Looked Innocent.

Some time since, in a Tremont street store in Boston, a nervous little Frenchman brushed against a pretty trifle of vase ware valued at about $14 and succeeded in getting several score more pieces out of it than had gone into its making. The floorwalker led the abashed Parisian aside and politely explained that the broken vase must be paid for. Monsieur fetched a handful of small silver and copper, mostly foreign, from his pocket when he was told the value of the trifle.

"Mon Dieu," cried the Parisian, "70 francs!" At this he took out his bill book and discovered a fifty dollar express draft, which the floorwalker instantly seized upon, to the unspeakable horror of its owner.

After deducting the value of the vase the former handed the man his change and dismissed him with a floorwalker's blessing. The express draft reached the bank in due time, with four others as fraudulent, but the volatile little Frenchman had departed southward with the swallows.—Bohemian Magazine.

DRESSMAKING HINTS.

As fashionable as big, black, soft satin buttons are, some of the smartest coats show rosettes instead. These are placed at regular intervals and are made of panne velvet or satin.

If the small girl's plaited skirt is made open down the back, with buttonholes on a fly underneath a plait, it not only will be easier to handle in making, but much easier to iron.

All tailored and semitailored shirt waists are made with long sleeves, short ones being appropriate only for evening or very dressy afternoon occasions. Challis and French flannel waists made in perfectly plain, mannish styles without plaits or even tucks are extremely stylish.

Shoulder seams are not so wide, waists are tucked in the back, the front shows considerable fullness in the lower portion, though less at the top, and the belt is drawn down, making the waist much longer. Belts and girdles are also fashioned to produce the long waisted effect now desired.

Collars of linen trimmed with starched lace edges are becoming in white or pastel shades. Linen collars bearing bias folds of another material with fancy bows are worn with tailored waists. The newest ties are merely double loops and may be made of silk, satin, lace, cords, ribbons, tulle, chiffon or any of the stiff lingerie materials.

The following is an excellent way of sewing buttons on children's coats, etc.: Make a good sized knot on your thread, which should be fairly coarse; then place a small pearl button on the inside of the coat. Put the needle first through the material, starting from the right side of the garment, then through the small button, then back again through the material and right through the big button. Continue to stitch through and through until the button feels quite firm, then give the thread a twist or two round the base of the top button and finish off securely. There will then be no fear of the buttons coming off or tearing away the cloth.

A Beauty Tip.

Few women appreciate the value of a bran bath, which soothes the nerves and softens the skin. Take it just before retiring and you will sleep like a child. The bran, which may be bought at any feed store, should be put into a bag a foot and a half long and filled to the thickness of a high pillow. The bag should be allowed to remain in the water until thoroughly soaked and the water pressed out, so the bran can permeate all parts of the tub. Do not remain in the water longer than five minutes, and massage the skin thoroughly after.

Mysterious Crime in Egypt.

A Russian officer named Zimernow, a woman and a little girl have been murdered in a lonely cottage near Alexandria, in which they had lived for some months. It was evident that the crime was committed by Bedouins, who inhabit the district, and a man has been arrested.

Iron Cloth.

Instead of horsehair or canvas the tailors now use a new fabric for stiffening the shoulders and collars of coats. It is called iron cloth and is said to be more effective than any of its predecessors.

PETERBOROUGH EXCHANGE, BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Followed Suit.

On the day of the admission of M. Rostand to the French academy the author of "Cyrano" and "L'Aiglon" gave a breakfast to a few of his friends, the guest of honor being Mme. Bernhardt. The actress was dressed in a handsome gown, which had been made expressly for the occasion. At the end of the breakfast she arose and in an impressive manner took a glass, held it high and said, "I drink to the greatest of French dramatists, M. Rostand, and I drink after the Greek manner!" She then poured the contents of her glass over her head and gown.

Two of Rostand's small sons were sitting at a side table wearing new velvet suits, also made for the occasion. In the silence which followed Bernhard's dramatic tribute the elder of the boys arose and, imitating her manner, said, "I drink to the greatest of poets, my papa, and I also drink in the Greek fashion!" and straightway deluged himself and his small brother with the contents of his glass.

A Scene Not In a Play.

An extraordinary scene took place in the Princess' theater, London, on the night of the first production of Charles Reade's great play, "Never Too Late to Mend," Oct. 4, 1865. During the prison scene a large quantity of water was thrown over Miss Moore, who took the part of Josephs, the character done to death by the warders. One of the critics, Mr. Tomlin of the Morning Advertiser, rose from his seat and publicly protested against the unnecessary cruelty. This aroused almost a riot among the audience, and the action of the play was stopped for some considerable time. Fuel was added to the fire by George Vining, the lessee of the theater, who was playing the part of Tom Robinson and who made a most imprudent speech, in which he practically insulted every critic present, with the result that the theater was left severely alone by the press for many months. The play, however, turned out to be a popular success and had, for those days, the phenomenal run of 140 performances.

His Use For It.

"Yeh," said Tommy, "pa gave me a watch to carry when I started in at school this fall."

"My," exclaimed Aunt Jane, "that's nice, isn't it?"

"Yes'm, 'cause as soon as I git in school in the mornin's I kin look at it an' see how many minutes I'm late."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The "Smart" Schoolboy.

Modern children's intellects seem to bud and unfold much earlier than they did a generation or two ago. You often get some rare posers from the youth who is having his first taste of schooling. The other morning at breakfast an admiring father asked his budding prime minister how he liked school.

"Oh, very well, pa, except the master with the star teeth!"

"Star teeth! Star teeth?" puzzled the father. "What do you mean by star teeth?"

"Why, you know, pa, those that come out at night."

The attendant servant maid dropped the muffins, and pa suddenly found something of exceptional interest in the morning paper.—Edinburgh Dispatch.

Waterproof Coats of Grass.

In the tropics of Mexico, where torrential rains fall a part of each year, raincoats are a very necessary part of man's apparel. Owing to the intense heat which prevails in the summer season the ordinary rubber raincoat cannot be worn. A rainproof coat is made from native grasses and is worn by the men of the middle and upper classes. The grasses are woven close together, and it is impossible for the rain to beat through them, no matter how hard the storm may be. Some of these coats are made with a hood which protects the head as well as the body.

One Was Enough.

"Papa, why didn't you wear a pair last night?"

"A pair of what, child?"

"A pair of skates."

"What does the boy mean?"

"Why, Bill, the coachman, told the cook that you had a lovely skate on last night when you came home."—Exchange.

THE WOOLLEN INDUSTRY—HAS EUROPE PROTECTION?

The Special Commissioner Reports That Modern Equipment and Methods Are Needed.

Ottawa, Jan. 7.—It is understood that Mr. Costello, of customs service, who was named a commissioner to make a report on British and Canadian woollen industries, has reported that the Canadian woollen industry does not require more protection.

All that is required to enable Canadian mills to hold their own with those of Yorkshire is modern equipment and improved methods, such as is to be found in English mills.

Owing to absence in Europe of Mr. Fielding, who is chiefly responsible for tariff matters, the report is not likely to be made public till after the session opens, when it will be presented to parliament.

THE HON. G. P. G.

(With apologies to Kipling)

There's a bloomin' boy in Brockville
As is mighty 'ard to beat,
An' in the realm of Politics
'e's always on 'is feet;
Them there Railways and Canals
Is to 'im like little gals,
An' he never needs fer pals,
Does yer, George?

There's a bloomin' boy in Brockville,
As is mighty sore on show,
An' tho' 'e got a private car
About a year ago,
'e don't ever tell a jay
That 'e owns the Right o' Way,
An' 'e's always nice an' gay,
Ain't yer, George?

Then 'ere's to George o' Brockville
Honest G. P. G.;

Like the G. T. P.

An' 'is 'ead is wondrous wise,

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir, — The explanation to my letter of yesterday is not at all satisfactory. The ratepayers of Peterborough should not be compelled to pay for the maintenance of a woman in the county jail who has a husband earning $8 a week, and every right minded citizen and ratepayer who read my letter yesterday will say W. J. C. is right, and they will enter a protest against it. The poor old woman of 76, who roams the streets in all weathers, in preference to being supported by her children, is to be pitied, and the authorities should see that she is looked after, and her husband and family compelled to support her.

W. J. C.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Dear Sir,—Can you kindly tell me if the city of Peterborough ratepayers are paying their taxes and getting receipts for the same under a stamp which our tax collector told one of our ratepayers was not worth the paper it was stamped on? If so will our new council look into the matter and see that we get legal receipts so as to ensure the safety of our city property owners.

Yours truly,

FAIR PLAY.

JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE

OUR GREATEST PRICE REDUCING EVENT---YOUR BEST ECONOMIZING TIME! SALE BEGINS SATURDAY, JAN. 9th.

Our January Clearance Sale is an event of vital, dynamic money saving opportunities. Its scope is boundless. Nearly everything in the store is sacrificed to force decisive clearance. Profits are unthought of—unexpected. Cost prices prevail, but even cost prices are relentlessly undersold where stocks are especially heavy. Clearance simply means that everything has got to go—that decks must be cleared for our spring campaign. Clearance is opportunity and opportunity is knocking at your door and tremendous savings await your welcome. We never carry goods over a season. It's store policy — one of the unbreakable rules of our business. We dispose of our goods while they are new and seasonable. We stop at no sacrifice to effect absolute clearance of one season's goods before embarking on a new season's campaign. No eight months rest in moth balls for our merchandise. This year we meet the "clearance" period with immense stocks of winter goods. This stock must be moved—cleared out—sold completely and quickly. Because stocks are especially big, prices have been made remarkably small. But this fact will evince itself — when you come.

The January Clearance Sale Begins Saturday, Jan. 9th, at 9 a. m.

Let your first visit be an early one—let your later visits be frequent.

Well Attended Meetings In The Week Of Prayer Series

Earnest Meetings With Stirring Addresses---Murray Street Baptist and Knox Presbyterian Churches.

In both the Murray Street Baptist and Knox Presbyterian Churches last night there were large congregations to hear the addresses on "The Supremacy of Christ in the Social Life." At the former church Rev. Robt. Pogue presided, while Rev. C. H. Coon was the speaker.

At Knox Church Rev. J. R. Webb presided, and Rev. E. A. Pearson, B. A., was the speaker. He based his remarks on Acts II. 36, "Therefore let all the House of Israel assuredly know that God hath made that same Jesus whom ye have crucified both Lord and Christ."

These were the last words of the first distinctive Christian sermon. While Christ crucified was the theme of salvation, it must not keep from view the enthronement of Christ as King. McKay, of Uganda, said:—"The cross must never be permitted to shadow the throne. The first great note of the evangel was the Lordship of Christ. Conviction of sin comes through being in the presence of the King."

His right to lead and rule implies our obligations to obey. Many fail on the very threshold of Christian life because they do not recognize Christ as being of their lives. The words faith and obedience may be different to the eye, but they have the same meaning. How is this to be applied to social life? By what rule shall Christians govern their social relations? Not by the imitation of the examples of others but in the language of Christ, "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." The rule is threefold. First, the teaching of the moral law; second, the rule of influence. It must needs be that offences come but woe be to that man by whom the offence cometh. As an illustration of this point the speaker referred to an incident on election night. He was standing beside a man recently moved into the city from the country. He had been in the habit of drinking considerably when visiting the city, but had since joined the T.A.S., and stopped drinking. He claimed that he did not want his example to be of harm to his boys, who are growing up around him. He is doing all in his power to assist the work of temperance.

The third was the rule of service. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God," which implied in the Christian complete devotion to Christ and his work in the world. There were many things that were not unlawful, but for the Christian were inexpedient. The highest purpose of every Christian ought to be the fulfilment of the will of Christ for the betterment of the world.

Rev. Mr. Pearson closed with suggesting what a year 1909 would be if Christ were enthroned as Lord and King.

Splendid Addresses At The Farmers' Institute Meetings

The last of the supplementary meetings, under the auspices of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, was held in the City Council Chamber yesterday afternoon, and was a great success from an instructive standpoint, although the attendance was not large.

The chairman was Mr. Telford, president of the Farmers' Institute, and the speakers Mr. Wm. Thurston, secretary of the East Victoria Farmers' Institute, and Mr. Alward, of New Brunswick, a well known institute lecturer. The first address was by Mr. Thurston, his subject being "Bees For the Use of Farmers."

A short address by the chairman followed, in which he emphatically endorsed Mr. Thurston's remarks.

The next speaker introduced was Mr. Alward, whose subjects were "Poultry, Their Feeding," etc., and "The Proper Selection of Seeds For Farming."

The lecture brought out prominently the chief needs in poultry keeping, and emphasized especially the necessity of having clean poultry houses, not overwarm but with plenty of sunlight. It was very necessary, said the lecturer, to see to it that the fowls went to roost with a full crop, as it kept up the natural heat of their bodies.

"The Selection of Seeds" was the next subject taken up. Mr. Alward showed, by means of government experimental charts, the outcome of tests; what yield resulted from a plump seed, a medium sized seed and from a shrivelled seed. The yield from a plump seed was shown clearly to be the best in every way. The seeds had been selected from an ordinary fanning mill, which every farmer has, who sells any grain whatever, the light seed being separated from the medium and the plump by the simple method of being blown aside by the wind, whilst the medium passed through the sieve, and the plump seed remained on the top. He also advocated going amongst the grain in the field, when it was perfectly ripe, picking out all the tall stalks, following them to the ground and finding out whether the seed gave yield to one stalk or several, and taking the grain from the multiple stalks to the amount of about a quart measure, or even a pint would do; then the following spring sowing this in a plot of prepared land, and reaping and sowing for a succession of years in the same place, keeping on, of course, extending one's limits. It was surprising, the speaker said, how much the measure would amount to in three years. In his own experiments along this line a three years' test had resulted in several hundreds of pounds of the best plump grain.

He also pointed out that it was always best to plant one's own growth of oats, taking no notice of flaring advertisements of vast yields from other sources, as what was good for one farm was not necessarily adapted to another.

Mr. Alward referred in this respect to the potato, saying that the very opposite was the case, and that it was always better to endeavour to get a change of ground for this root every few years.

In dealing with the question of seed the lecturer said the best principal to go on was to cut potatoes in such a manner as to have two or three eyes in each piece and not to have them in slices, but good and chunky. These always produced a good crop.

BEST PRIZE FOR ESSAY ON MILK

At the New York State Fair prizes were given for the best essay on the care of milk by the consumer. The first prize was won by Mr. B. Publow. The following are some hints from his essay worth noting:

1. Bottle milk is practically free from outside contamination and is the preferable form for purchasing it.

2. Can milk is liable to contamination from dust, from heat, and from strong-smelling substances in the refrigerator.

3. The top and outside of the bottle should be rinsed off with warm water before being opened, as the milkman usually carries the bottles by the top or neck, and more or less dirt and bacteria are certain to be transferred to the outside of the bottles.

4. Place the milk at once in a refrigerator, in cold water or in a cellar. Keep the covers on the bottles as it prevents material falling in, and also prevents absorption of odors.

5. Wash and scald the bottle as soon as empty.

6. Clean vessels only should be used for holding milk sold by measure. These should have tight fitting covers.

7. Never mix fresh and stale milk as all becomes tainted or sour in a short time.

8. Milk slightly sour can be sweetened by the addition of a small amount of lime water. Pasteurization will add to its keeping quality. This latter is not good policy, but it is a remedy for a common evil.

9. Do not buy milk because it is cheap, for usually it is the dearest in the end.

CO-OPERATION AND RESULT TO FARMERS

Co-operation, what it means and its value to farmers, was brought out in a striking manner in a discussion at the annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union recently held in Guelph. The case of the bean producers organizing in Kent County, where, on a paid-up capital of some $14,000, they realized in five years $120,000 more than they would have received had they been unorganized, should start many to thinking out plans which will ultimately crystalize in some form of tangible co-operation, whereby they can sell their produce to the best advantage.

All admit that co-operation has done much for the dairy industry. It has been the very foundation upon which our great cheese industry has been built up to its present status. Co-operation has done much for the fruit growers of Norfolk County, proof of which was the splendid exhibit made at the recent horticultural exhibition in Toronto. Co-operation has done even more for the fruit growers of the Niagara District.

The same principle can be applied equally as well and with telling effect in other lines of agricultural endeavor. Why not extend co-operation to other branches since it has done so much for the fruit and dairy industry. By organizing and by working together in a co-operative way, both in buying and in selling, we can eliminate the profits of the middlemen, produce better crops in larger quantities, get the best price for all that we have to sell and, in doing so, put the farmer's calling on a higher plane, where it would be even more attractive and profitable than it now is.

THE BEST PAYING COWS ON THE FARM

Who is the man most interested in whether or not "cows pay?" Naturally the man who keeps them, he who feeds and milks them, he who attends to their wants twice a day for 365 days each year, he who is both their master and their servant. Yet, in such close touch as he is with them, frequently he overlooks, as has been done many a time, either on the one hand the extra good cow, or on the other, the cow whose profit is to be marked with a minus sign.

There is one excellent way of determining without the shadow of a doubt just what each cow is earning. By the simple method of weighing and sampling milk recommended by the dairy division, Ottawa, no dairy farmer need be in doubt as to the net profit earned by any cow in his herd. Why do we not have more cows in Canada giving 10,000 or even 15,000 pounds of milk, instead of meandering along with so many "average" cows that cannot give more than 3,000 or 4,000 pounds? It is not because farmers would not pay the price necessary to secure them, but it is because no systematic effort has been made to discover the best cows at present here, and breed them in the best way, or to develop those of present good attainments.

United effort, co-operative effort, means millions of dollars extra to the country in increased milk yields. The cow-testing associations cannot be developed and extended any too rapidly. Their aim is definite, logical and eminently practical, and as such should appeal to every dairyman in the land.

MR. EARLE'S ARTICLE ON "SPELLING REFORM"

Mr. Barton Earle will contribute an article to-morrow on the general subject of "Spelling Reform" which is at present attracting as much attention in Toronto. Mr. Earle's long experience as a student and teacher of English should invest his utterances on the subject with more than usual authority and interest. The Examiner opens its columns to comment with the subject on both sides of the question.

CITY LEAGUE SEASON OPENED— T.A.S. AND STRATHCONAS VICTORS

Abstainers Had a Hard Time in Beating the West Ends, While the Champions Swamped the Belmonts by 14-2.

WERE INTERESTING GAMES

Over three hundred fans were in attendance at the opening of the City League at Brock street Rink last night, and saw two interesting if not especially brilliant battles, the T.A.S. beating the West Ends by 2-1 in the first engagement, and the Strathconas swamping the Belmonts in the second by 14 goals to 2. The ice was in splendid shape, and the conditions were in every way favourable for fast hockey although the fact that some of the players were palpably not in shape tended to slow up the contests. The crowd, however, enjoyed the battles, and there is every reason to expect that the City League will be as popular as ever during the season that has just been opened.

The T.A.S.-West End game was by far the most exciting struggle of the two and the Abstainers just managed to nose out a victory by one goal after a hard fought battle, which was any body's game until the final whistle. The T.A.S. led at half-time by 1-0, and they just managed to hold their lead until the end of the game. On the play the Jackson Park outfit were about entitled to a victory.

After the first fifteen minutes they had the better of the going. They out conditioned and out lasted the Abstainers, and only magnificent goal keeping by Derocher, and inaccurate shooting by the losers kept them from winning out. The winners were heavier and older but were plainly not in condition and faded before the middle of the first half, while the West Ends, three of whom by the way had played in a hard game the night before with the Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team against Port Hope, were going strong until the finish, and at one stage in the second half looked like winners all over. Luck was certainly not with them, however, and although they had plenty of opportunities, either Derocher robbed them with a clever stop, or the shot went wide.

Both teams showed little or no team work, and it was mainly a case of individual efforts, although the West Ends had the better of what combination was in evidence. The kids worked hard all the way but the T.A.S. had enough left in them to hold them off until the finish. It was an interesting struggle, the pace being hot throughout, but the contest was good naturedly fought, and there was no rough work. The crowd found the game most interesting and both sides had a big bunch of rooters.

For the winners Derocher in goal, Cahill at cover point, and Quigley at rover were the stars. Derocher was practically unbeatable, the only shot that beat him being a beauty from Pentland's stick, which landed in the top of the nets. Cahill checked well and his rushes always helped, while Quigley worked hard and fairly effectively on the forward line. For the West Ends Halpin played a splendid game between the posts, and Wade and Fox did some good defence work. Pentland and Short of the junior O.H.A. team were the pick of the forward line, although the other pair did good work.

The T.A.S. scored the only goal in the first period on a rush by Cahill, and also got the second counter, Galvin scoring in the second period. Pentland secured West End's only goal on a brilliant lone handed rush followed by a perfect shot.

The teams and summary follow:—

SUMMARY

First Half: 1 T.A.S. — Cahill, 12 mins. Second Half: 2 T.A.S. — Galvin, 6 mins. 3 West End — Pentland, 20 mins.

There was nothing but the Strathconas in the second game, and the champions won under wraps by the hollow score of 14 goals to 2, leading at half by 4 goals to 1. The Belmonts were not in shape and never had a chance to win, although they held the High Commissioners down well in the first half, managing to prevent more than four counters. The winners were in the pink of condition and their team work and speed was too much for the new addition to the City League ranks, who worked hard but could do nothing to stem the Strathcona's attack when the latter got working right. The winners played splendid combination, two, three or four men handling the puck during their assaults on the goal, and they worked in on the Belmont's citadel without the slightest trouble, so that goal keeper Davidson had one of the busiest evenings of his career. At times there was a perfect fusilade on the Belmonts nets while Wilson played solitaire all the way On the play the score should have been larger than it was, the Commissioners being a little off in their shooting, while the Belmont's defence picked off many shots. Despite the one sided score the game was interesting and the crowd remained to the finish.

The Belmonts have a very heavy defence who did good work in blocking shots, helping to keep the score down, but they were not of much assistance in the attack, while the forward line showed lack of practice and had no system in scoring ability. On the other hand the Strath's defence helped out their forward line with continuous rushes, while the advance guard played splendidly together and checked back with effect, the team being exceedingly well balanced. The champions will take a lot of beating during the league this season if their form last night counts for anything. The game was finished with the teams playing five men a side; Waram retired at half time and the Straths dropped Ray at his own request and Weatherstone retired with Clarke when the latter was hurt with ten minutes to play in the second half.

For the winners Dusty at cover and Long at centre were the stars, although all played fine hockey. Ray scintillated while he was on, and Dobson made good at point, his rushing always helping out. Dusty tore off some sensational dashes in the second half and played a fine defence game, while Long was always there in the scoring line.

Davidson played a good game in goal for the losers and Myers and Ecclestone stopped many shots. C. Waram and Wilson worked hard on the forward line.

George Lynch refereed both games and gave every satisfaction.

ROUGH GAME IN CHURCH LEAGUE; ST. ANDREW'S BEAT PARK ST. 4-1

The Church League opened last night with a match between the Park Street Baptist Church and the St. Andrew's teams on the Park street rink and noticeable as much for roughness as for good playing, both teams seemingly trying to engage in a combat of strength than of skill. Penalties were frequent and heavy, the referee, Mr. Wm. Galley, was very impartial in his judgments in this respect. The match resulted in a victory for St. Andrew's by the score of 4-1. For the winners Rae and Patterson and for the losers Gillespie and Killenbeck played the most consistent hockey. These being the only players who were not penalised. A good crowd watched the game and cheered for their respective favourites.

Following is the summary—

GEORGE ST. CHURCH TEAM WON THE JUNIOR CITY LEAGUE OPENER

The junior City League was opened last night before the senior games with a strenuous battle between Otonabees and George street church, the Methodists winning out by 5—2 after a hard battle all the way. Neither team spared the rod to any extent and they laid on the wood freely with the result that Referee Len Dobson was compelled to send a continuous procession to the fence during the contest. There was good hockey in spots, but the spots were few and the game was interesting principally from the manner in which the players wooded up. The score at half time was 2—2 but the Methodists were in better condition and slammed in three goals in the second period while the boys from the south end failed to count. The teams were as follows:

HOCKEY

Although defeated Wednesday night the Peterborough Junior O.H.A. team is by no means out of the running, as the season is only commencing. There are five clubs in the district and anything is liable to happen before the schedule is completed. The locals have still two home games and three games away from home before the district games are over. Oshawa and Whitby have yet to play here while the local kids have to journey to Port Hope, Cobourg and Oshawa.

BOWLING

Winnipeg, Jan. 4 — To Cecil Parrish of the Garry's belongs the honour of being the third man in Winnipeg to make the possible 300 in the ten pin game. The big score, the one ambition of all bowlers, was made at the Strand alleys last week. The other two men who have also made this score are Garnet Hudson, who made his three years ago, while Frank Rosasco, of the Venice team, got his in a match game early in the winter. The two last games were played in the Saratoga alleys.

Parrish has been away east for the last three weeks on his holidays, during which time he has done practically no bowling, and only arrived back in the city a day or two ago. In conversation with one of the city league bowlers on Tuesday he stated that he was feeling pretty strong and for no one to be surprised if he should spring a sensational score.

As a warmer up Parrish started off with a score of 180, then came the big game, he putting down twelve of the best balls that have been rolled on the alleys for many a day. Every ball rolled in this game was a perfect one, there being none of the lucky strikes that one generally manages to mix up with the good ones. The twelfth and last ball, the crucial one for the possible, was, if anything, the best of the twelve.

Parrish also hung up a record for the Strand for three games, getting the excellent total of 737, made up of 300, 223 and 215. It is also the first time in the history of these alleys that the possible has been made there.

The same bowler made 17 consecutive strikes, (which is in all probability the greatest number that has ever been made in the bowling history of the city. He got four at the end of one game, then twelve in the big one, and started off on the next with a strike.

There are many dreary evenings that you spend up in your room,
Evenings that you don't really know what to do;
As a friend I would suggest as a
chaser of your gloom,
To come with me and bowl a game
or two.

Not the flowing bowl of friendship
that you see upon the bar,
But a friendly game of bowling at the pins;
And you'll find to your surprise it's a princely exercise;
You'll enjoy it from the moment it begins.

The business that you work at keeps
you in the shop all day,
Do you wonder that you feel tough upon arising?
Just try bowling and you'll find t'will drive all your cares behind,
You'll get bone and brain and bloom through exercising.

The Frontenacs are a hard-luck team. In their last three games they have had the highest pinnage, but have lost the contest on each occasion.

• • • •

The Mail and Empire team of the Printers' League, Toronto, is out with a challenge to any Peterborough newspaper team. They will be accommodated with a game in the near future. A return game will be played in Toronto when, it is likely, a second team of picked trundlers will accompany the printers to Toronto and meet one of the Queen City's best five-man teams.

"Every knock is a boost," Joe Pollard was heard to remark as he made a strike.

An oyster supper for both teams and the scorer has been wagered upon the first meeting of the Greys and Hams, who are valiantly fighting for the cellar championship. At a conclave last night the Hams were ordered into active training.

Herb. Martin, the energetic secretary of the league, has gone to Havelock for a few days, and his bland smile will be missed around the alleys.

Obviate EYE Trouble

The Greatest Evil in connection with Eye Trouble is due to the fact that the faulty organ does not generally betray itself until the damage has made serious headway. You can prevent this risk by simply paying a visit to Fowler's Optical Department with the Nugent Drug Co., and allowing our Specialist in Eyesight to make thorough examination. If there is no trouble with your eyes, the examination will cost you nothing, and you will have the satisfaction of knowing that your Eyes are right. If, however, there be any defect which needs correcting we guarantee to fit you with glasses that will surely correct it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson for January 10th, are as follows—

The Descent of the Holy Spirit — Acts ii, 1-21.

Golden Text—I will pray the Father and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever; even the spirit of truth.—John xiv, 16-17.

Recall, and repeat some of the thoughts developed in last Sunday's lesson.

Verse 1—What was the day of Pentecost? See Ex. xxxiv, 22, Lev. xxiii 15; Num. xxviii, 26; Deut. xvi, 10.

Is a barren, or unprofitable meeting possible when Christians meet "with one accord?"

Would the Holy Spirit have come on this occasion if there had been divisions among them?

Can the Holy Spirit come to any church in which there are divisions, or into any heart that is not in "accord" or love with everybody?

Verse 2 — Was the sound the Holy Spirit, or was it a great wind which was one of the attendant circumstances of his coming?

Is there any other scriptural account, of God coming with any similar outward manifestations? See I Kings xix, 11-12.

Verse 3. — These cloven tongues were clearly no part of the Holy Spirit; do you think it possible that they were made by forked lightning, or some similar phenomena?

What did the sound of the wind, and the flashes of fire in the shape of tongues typify?

In these days of millions of good books and papers is the human voice still the most potent means of testifying for Jesus?

Was it the Holy Spirit or the tongues that "sat upon each of them?"

Verse 4—What is your conception of the meaning of the statements that "they were all filled with the Holy Spirit," and how many spake with tongues?

Granted that this is the privilege and duty of all men to be filled with the Holy Spirit; does the same hold good with the gift of tongues, and similar spiritual phenomena? See I Cor. xii, 8-10; xiv, 4, 5, 13, 14.

Verse 5 — Are there still "devout men in every nation under heaven," even where the historic Christ has not been heard of?

Verses 6-12—Do devout men filled with God, still make a stir in every community?

What do Christians most need today, in order to "amaze" and convert the world?

All must admit that an educated ministry is desirable, but which will make the most converts, a man with fair intelligence and a common school education, filled with the Holy Spirit or an university graduate lacking such experience?

Verse 13 — What resemblance is there between a man filled with the Holy Spirit, and one under the influence of strong drink?

Verses 14-21—What is the prophesy by the prophet Joel here quoted from? See Joel ii, 28-29.

Should the emphasis for Christian service be upon the natural or the supernatural equipment?

Is the Holy Spirit meant for everybody, even the man on the street, and how may he be received? This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.

Lesson for Sunday, Jan. 17th, 1909 — The Beginning of the Christian Church. Acts ii: 22-47

CHANGING SENTIMENT.

Oliver Goldsmith's "Deserted Village."

Goldsmith in his "Deserted Village," spoke of a certain chapel where those who "went to scoff, remained to pray." So in life one often laughs at what he does not understand and later, when he does understand, his laugh turns to praise. There were some who doubted the merits of Newbro's Herpicide, the scalp germicide and hair dressing, but since they have tried it, they are now among its best friends and strongest endorsers. Herpicide kills the germ that eats the hair off at the root and the hair then grows again. As a hair dressing it is incomparable. Try it.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

The next name that appears on the role of English literature is the one that transcends in glory not only all the great names of British origin but also that of all others in all ages of the world.—Shakespeare, by the unanimous opinion of English and foreign critics has been accorded a place unapproached and indeed unapproachable. His seat is on the very apex of literary glory. The great wonder and mystery is that of the life of this, the greatest literary genius of the world, almost nothing is known.

Dearth of Knowledge about Shakespeare

How is it that a writer, who in his own day was acknowledged to be the first dramatist of the country, on whom so many elegies were showered, and to whose memory in 1623 a monument was erected in his native town should have passed away with so little contemporaneous comment?

Betterton, the famous actor visited Stratford during the 17th century, and made enquiries respecting Shakespeare. He interrogated an ancient inhabitant of that town, who had been born about the time of Shakespeare's death, but he was enabled merely to obtain one or two unimportant items of intelligence from this source. All that we really know as authentic, of Shakespeare, is that he was born in 1564, and was the son of John Shakespeare, and of Mary Arden, his wife; that at the age of eighteen he contracted a marriage with Anne Hathaway, a yeoman's daughter, who was some eight years older than himself, that he shortly afterwards went to London, and there in the space of twenty-six odd years, wrote his immortal poems and dramas, and helped to enact them before the public. Nearly all else is mere conjecture.

Shakespeare regardless of Fame

As that great critic Proctor (Barry Cornwall) has written "The registers of Stratford, his own sonnets, a few casual references to him, in the writings or sayings of contemporary authors, are all the sources from which materials for his life may be safely extracted. The public of his time had no curiosity on the subject, or the writers of his time had no anxiety to collect information regarding him, and he himself—beyond, even "That last infirmity of noble minds" the desire of fame—did not think it worth while to place materials for his own history on record; or, secure of such immortality as earth can bestow, was content that we should track him into depths and recesses of his being by the light of his genius alone. What he did, or thought, or suffered, in his own individual person, is now mere matter for ingenious conjecture. We are sure that his mind was vast, liberal, compassionate, generous; that he saw human nature on every side, detecting it in many masks, and changes, that he penetrated into the innermost mysteries of man; that "From this bank and shoal of Time," his intellect soared upwards, and held commerce with the stars; with our dim "Hereafter," and with worlds and agencies beyond our own; and knowing all this, our curiosity as to the possessor of faculties so varied and wonderful, and our consequent disappointment at being baffled at every point of enquiry becomes proportionably great."

Commentators Evidently at Sea

John Shakespeare, the poet's father seems to have held a respectable position in society. He married the daughter of an ancient house, and seems to have risen to such dignities as his native town afforded. It is hardly likely therefore that the surmises of certain critics are correct, that he was a pauper or insolvent, William Shakespeare seems to have had as good an education as Stratford afforded, and to have picked up there a smattering of Latin and Greek. This must have been at any rate a necessary adjunct to the education of those days as it has been ascertained that intercourse between parents and children and even between the tradespeople of that day was occasionally carried on in Latin. Ben Jonson's reference to Shakespeare's "little Latin and less Greek," shows that he knew both Latin and Greek and may be used by way of comparison as differentiating between the mere word learning of Shakespeare and the riper scholarship of Jonson and other scholars of the period. In all other essentials of knowledge there is nothing to show that Shakespeare was not more deeply-read than any of his contempories. His position at the theatre, as proprietor, in 1589, seems to indicate that he must have been for a lengthy period a writer for the stage. What, indeed, could have conduced more to raise him to that dignity than his production of his own dramas? He was also the friend of Lord Southampton, the patron of genius. How could he have obtained this friendship save by some special recognition on the part of his patron, of his transcendent qualities as a dramatist? In this hurried survey of one or two of the critical objections that have been raised to the authenticity of his great dramatic works, no space is possible to deal with the matter adequately. What has been given above has been merely written to show that there is not much ground for positively asserting that Shakespeare by reason of adverse circumstances could not have been the author of the works attributed to him.

The Greatness of Shakespeare

Everyone knows that Shakespeare is great. How can we form an adequate idea of his greatness? In the first place, he had many sides, in the second, he was great on every one of them. Master, seemingly of all human experience, he knew the human heart to perfection. He had also a greater mastery over language than any author that ever lived. The vocabulary employed by him amounts to no less than 21,000 words. The vocabulary of Milton amounts to only 7,000 Shakespeare also had a far greater power of expression than Milton and a marvellous aptitude for fashioning new phrases. Coleridge speaks of his wonderful judgment: Prof. Craik says: "He has invented twenty styles." Lawyers talk of his wonderful legal knowledge, Theologians speak of his intimate acquaintance with the Bible. Printers say he must have been a printer, sailors that he was a seaman, for he knew every branch of the craft.

The genius of Shakespeare indeed was the natural outcome of the times in which he lived, and does not stand alone. He was but the topmost pinnacle in the midst of a mighty mountain range. Side by side with his, and about as wonder provoking as his own stand the majestic names of Marlowe, Peele, and Greene, of Ben Jonson, Beaumont and Fletcher, Massinger and Ford. These dramatists have never been equalled or surpassed by any one except Shakespeare.

AVERAGE CROP HAS BEEN VERY GOOD

From Farm and Dairy.

Ed. The Dairyman and Farming World:—The general average of crops for the province is very good, although in some districts the results were poor. The total yield is far greater than ever before. In 1906, the banner year, the total grain produced amounted to 63,068,816 bus. Last year it aggregated 53,767,251 bus. This year it is estimated at 89,467,795 bus. The average per acre is not so large as in some years, but is good considering the conditions of weather during the latter half of the growing season.

The following figures show the acreage and yield of the four principal crops, as estimated by the Department of Agriculture of Saskatchewan:

Wheat.—2,374,058 acres, 43,539,606 bus.; average per acre 18.34 bus.

Oats.—1,170,453 acres, 41,663,985 bus.; average per acre 35.59 bus.

Barley.—101,033 acres, 2,695,113 bus.; average per acre 26.67 bus.

Flax.—141,451 acres, 1,570,009 bus.; average per acre 11.10 bus.

The actual figures are obtained from threshers' reports, and usually substantiate the estimates.

The facilities for moving the crop were more than ever inadequate this season. The wheat blockade at an early date threatened to become worse than ever before. At Indian Head, one of the largest receiving points, the elevators, which number 11, were filled early in the season. At the smaller way stations not more than five per cent. of the cars ordered by elevator companies and farmers have been received. During the first week in October, the Regina to Brandon section of the C. N. R. began to haul grain. This relieved the congestion over the northern routes. The G. T. P. are preparing to take a grand slice of the crop from the C. P. R. At points where the two roads meet, the C. P. R. are careful to furnish plenty of cars. At Asquith, where the G. T. R. station has recently been completed, the elevators are nearly empty and many of the farmers have obtained cars. Next year, when the new road will be in operation, little trouble is apprehended.

The following are the actual yields, as taken from threshers' accounts, of the fields in a typical grain-growing township (36 square miles). Township 18, in Range 22, West of Second Prin. Meridian, located about 18 miles west of Regina, in a good district:

Wheat.—Summer fallow and breaking, 3,820 acres, yield 77,080 bus., average per acre 20.17 bus.; sown on stubble, 3,253 acres, yield 43,875 bus., average per acre 13.48 bus.; fall and spring plowing, 310 acres, yield 3,050 bus., average per acre 9.83 bus.; total 7,383 acres, yield 124,055 bus., average per acre 16.79 bus.

Oats.—Summer fallow 119 acres, yield 5,080 bus., average per acre 42.70 bus.; stubble 1,242 acres, yield 30,331 bus., average per acre 24.42 bus.; spring and fall plowing 681 acres, yield 16,313 bus., average per acre 23.95 bus.; total 2,042 acres, yield 51,724 bus., average per acre 24.83 bus.

Sugar Beets.— 6 acres, 3,465 bus., average per acre 577.50 bus.

Turnips.—6¼ acres, 3,550 bus., average per acre 417.64 bus.

Potatoes.—15¼ acres, 2,154 bus., average per acre 138.76 bus.

Sophy of Kravonia

by

ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Copyright, 1908, Anthony Hope Hawkins

"The lamp's broken, and there's only one match in the box," said Sophy, with a low laugh. "Shall we use it now or when you go, monsignaeur?"

"Light it now. My memory rather than my imagination!"

She struck the match. Her face came upon him white in the darkness, with the mark on her cheek a dull red, but her eyes glittered. The match flared and died down.

"It is enough. I shall remember."

"Did I kill him?"

"I don't know whether he's killed—he's badly hurt. This lady here is pretty heavy."

"Give her to me. I'll put her in her place." She took the figure and set it again on the window sill. "And the big man who attacked you?"

"Mistitch? He'll be shot."

"Yes," she agreed, with calm, unquestioning emphasis.

"You know what you did tonight?"

"I had the sense to think of the man in the porch."

"You saved my life."

Sophy gave a laugh of triumph. "What will Marie Zerkovitch say to that?"

"She's my friend, too, and she's told me all about you, but she didn't want us to meet."

"She thinks I bring bad luck."

"She'll have to renounce that heresy now." He felt for the chair and sat down, Sophy leaning against the window sill.

"Why did they attack you?"

He told her of the special grudge which Mistitch and his company had against him and added: "But they all hate me except my own fellows from Volseni. I have a hundred of them in Suleiman's tower, and they're stanch enough."

"Why do they hate you?"

"Oh, I'm their schoolmaster, and a very strict one, I suppose, or, if you like, the pruning knife, and that's not popular with the rotten twigs."

She struck the match.

"There are many rotten twigs?"

She heard his hands fall on the wooden arms of the chair and pictured his look of despair. "All—almost all. It's not their fault. What can you expect? They're encouraged to laziness and to riot. They have no good rifles. The city is left defenseless. I have no big guns." He broke suddenly into a low laugh. "There—that's what Zerkovitch calls my fixed idea. He declares it's written on my heart—big guns!"

"If you had them you'd be master?"

"I could make some attempt at a defense, anyhow. At least we could cover a retreat to the hills if war came." He paused. "And in peace—yes, I should be master of Slavna. I'd bring men from Volseni to serve the guns." His voice had grown vindictive. "Stenovics knows that, I think." He roused himself again and spoke to her earnestly. "Listen. This fellow Mistitch is a great hero with the soldiers and the mob. When I have him shot, as I shall, not on my own account—I could have killed him tonight—but for the sake of discipline, there will very likely be a disturbance. What you did tonight will be all over the city by tomorrow morning. If you see any signs of disturbance, if any people gather around here, go to Zerkovitch's at once, or, if that's not possible or safe, come to me in Suleiman's tower, and I'll send for Marie Zerkovitch too. Will you promise? You must run no risk."

"I'll come if I'm afraid."

"Or if you ought to be?" he insisted.

laughing again.

"Well, then—or if I ought to be," she promised, joining in his laugh. "But the king—isn't he with you?"

"My father likes me. We're good friends. But, 'like father, unlike son,' they say of the Stefanovitches. I'm a martinet, they tell me. Well, he—isn't Nero fiddled—you remember? The king goes fishing. He's remarkably fond of fishing, and his advisers don't discourage him. I tell you all this because you're committed to our side now."

"Yes; I'm committed to your side. Who else is with you?"

"In Slavna? Nobody! Well, the Zerkovitches and my hundred in Suleiman's tower, and perhaps some old men who have seen war. But at Volseni and among the hills they're with me." Again he seemed to muse as he reviewed his scanty forces.

"I wish we had another match. I want to see your face close," said Sophy. He rose, with a laugh, and leaned forward to the window. "Oh, no; you're nothing but a blur still!" she exclaimed impatiently.

Suddenly the prince awoke from his reverie—perhaps from a dream. To Sophy he gave the impression, as he was to give it more than once again, of a man pulling himself up, tightening the rein, drawing back into himself.

"I linger too long," he said. "My duty lies at the tower yonder. I've thanked you badly, but what thanks can a man give for his life? We shall meet again. I'll arrange that with Marie Zerkovitch. You'll remember what I've told you to do in case of danger? You'll act on it?"

"Yes, monseigneur."

He sought her hand, kissed it and then groped his way to the stairs. Sophy went with him down to the porch.

"Be careful to lock your door," he enjoined her, "and don't go out tomorrow unless the streets are quite quiet."

"Oh, but I've a French lesson to give at 10 o'clock," she remonstrated.

"You have to do that?"

"I have to make my living, monseigneur."

"Ah, yes," he said meditatively. "Well, slip out quietly and wear a veil."

"Nobody knows my face."

"Wear a veil. People notice a face like yours. Again thanks, and good night."

Sophy peered out from the porch and watched his quick, soldierly march up the street to St. Michael's square. The night had brightened a little, and she could make out his figure, although dimly, until he turned the corner and was lost to sight. She lingered for a moment before turning to go back to her room—lingered musing on the evening's history.

Chapter Fourteen

KING ALEXIS was minded that all proper recognition should be made of Sophy's service to his family. It had been her fortune to protect a life very precious in his eyes. Allen from his son in temperament and pursuits, he had, none the less, considerable affection for him. But there was more than this. With the prince was bound up the one strong feeling of a nature otherwise easy and careless. The king might go fishing on most lawful days, but it was always a Stefanovitch who fished—a prince who had married a princess of a great house and had felt able to offer Countess Ellenburg no more than a morganatic union. The work his marriage had begun his son's was to complete. The royal house of Kravonia was still on its promotion. It lay with the prince to make its rank acknowledged and secure.

Thus Sophy's action loomed large in the king's eyes, and he was indolently indifferent to the view taken of it in the barrack rooms and the drinking shops of Slavna. Two days after Mistitch's attempt he received Sophy at the palace with every circumstance of compliment. The prince was not present—he made military duty an excuse—but Countess Ellenburg and her little son were in the room, and General Stenovics, with Markart in attendance, stood beside the king's chair.

Sophy saw a tall, handsome, elderly man, with thick iron gray hair most artfully arranged. The care of it was no small part of the duty of Lepage, the king's French body servant. His majesty's manners were dignified, but not formal. The warmth of greeting which he had prepared for Sophy was evidently increased by the impression her appearance made on him. He thanked her in terms of almost overwhelming gratitude.

"You have preserved the future of my family and of our dynasty," he said.

Countess Ellenburg closed her long, narrow eyes. Everything about her was long and narrow, from her eyes to her views, taking in on the way her nose and her chin. Stenovics glanced at her with a smile of uneasy propitiation. It was so particularly important to be gracious just now—gracious both over the preservation of the dynasty and over its preserver.

"No gratitude can be too great for such a service, and no mark of gratitude too high." He glanced around to Markart and called good humoredly. "You, Markart there, a chair for this lady!"

Markart got a chair. Stenovics took it from him and himself prepared to offer it to Sophy, but the king rose, took it and, with a low bow, presented it to the favored object of his gratitude. Sophy courtesied low; the king waited till she sat. Countess Ellenburg bestowed on her a smile of wintry congratulation.

Sophy courtesied low.

"But for you these fellows might, or, rather, would, I think, have killed my son in their blind drunkenness. It detracts in no way from your service that they did not know whom they were attacking."

There was a moment's silence. Sophy was still nervous in such company. She was also uneasily conscious of a most intense gaze directed at her by General Stenovics, but she spoke out.

"They knew perfectly well, sir," she said.

"They knew the prince?" he asked sharply. "Why do you say that? It was dark."

"Not in the street, sir. The illuminations lit it up."

"But they were very drunk."

"They may have been drunk, but they knew the prince. Captain Mistitch called him by his name."

"Stenovics?" The king's voice was full of surprise and question as he turned to his minister. The general was surprised, too, but very suave.

"I can only say that I hear Mlle. de Gruche's words with astonishment. Our accounts are not consistent with what she says. We don't, of course, lay too much stress on the protestations of the two prisoners, but Lieutenant Rastatz is clear that the street was decidedly dark and that they all three believed the man they encountered to be Colonel Stafnitz of the Hussars. That officer much resembles his royal highness in height and figure. In the dark the difference of uniform would not be noticed, especially by men in their condition." He addressed Sophy: "Mistitch had an old quarrel with Stafnitz. That's the true origin of the affair." He turned to the king again. "That is Rastatz's story, sir, as well as Mistitch's own, though Mistitch is, of course, quite aware that his most unseemly and, indeed, criminal talk at the Golden Lion seriously prejudices his case. But we have no reason to distrust Rastatz."

"Lieutenant Rastatz ran away only because he was afraid," Sophy remarked.

"He ran to bring help, mademoiselle," Stenovics corrected her, with a look of gentle reproach. "You were naturally excited," he went on. "Isn't it possible that your memory has played you a trick? Think carefully. Two men's lives may depend on it."

"I heard Captain Mistitch call the prince 'Sergius Stefanovitch,'" said Sophy.

"This lady will be a most important witness," observed the king.

"Very, sir," Stenovics assented dryly.

Sophy had grown eager. "Doesn't the prince say they knew him?"

"His royal highness hasn't been asked for any account at present," Stenovics answered.

"If they knew who it was, they must die," said the king, in evident concern and excitement.

Stenovics contented himself with a bow of obedience. The king rose and gave Sophy his hand.

"We shall hope to see you again soon," he said very graciously. "Meanwhile General Stenovics has something to say to you in my name which will, I trust, prove agreeable to you." His eyes dwelt on her face for a moment as she took her leave.

Stenovics made his communication later in the day, paying Sophy the high compliment of a personal visit at the sign of the Silver Cock for that purpose. His manner was most cordial. Sophy was to receive an honorary appointment in the royal household at an annual salary of 10,000 paras, or some £400.

"It isn't riches—we aren't very rich in Kravonia—but it will, I hope, make you comfortable and relieve you from the tiresome lessons which, Markart tells me, you're now burdened with."

Sophy was duly grateful and asked what her appointment was.

"It's purely honorary," he smiled. "You are to be keeper of the tapestries."

"I know nothing about tapestries," said Sophy, "but I dare say I can learn. It'll be very interesting."

Stenovics leaned back in his chair, with an amused smile.

"There aren't any tapestries," he said. "They were sold a good many years ago."

"Then why do you keep a"—

"When you're older in the royal service you'll see that it's convenient to have a few sinecures," he told her, with a good humored laugh. "See how handy this one is now!"

"You are to be keeper of the tapestries."

"But I shall feel rather an impostor."

"Merely the novelty of it," he assured her consolingly.

Sophy began to laugh, and the general joined in heartily. "Well, that's settled," said he. "You make three or four appearances at court, and nothing more will be necessary. I hope you like your appointment."

Sophy laughed delightedly. "It's charming—and very amusing," she said. "I'm getting very much interested in your country, general."

"My country is returning your kind compliment, I can assure you," he replied. His tone had grown dry, and he seemed to be watching her now. She waved her hands toward the Virgin with the lamp. The massive figure stood in its old place by the window.

"What a lot I owe to her!" she cried.

"We all owe much," said Stenovics.

"The prince thought some people might be angry with me, because Captain Mistitch is a favorite."

"Very possible, I'm afraid, very possible, but in this world we must do our duty, and"—

"Risk the consequences? Yes!"

"If we can't control them, Mlle. de Gruche." He paused a moment and then went on: "The court martial on Mistitch is convened for Saturday. Sterkoff won't be well enough to be tried for another two or three weeks."

"I'm glad he's not dead, though if he recovers only to be shot— Still, I'm glad I didn't kill him."

"Not by your hand," said Stenovics.

"But you mean in effect? Well, I'm not ashamed. Surely they deserve death."

"Undoubtedly—if Rastatz is wrong and your memory right."

"The prince's own story!"

"He isn't committed to any story yet."

Sophy rested her chin on her hand and regarded her companion closely. He did not avoid her glance.

"You're wondering what I mean—what I'm after?" he asked her, smiling quietly. "Oh, yes, I see you are. Go on wondering, thinking, watching things about you for a day or two. There are three days between now and Saturday. You'll see me again before Saturday, and I've no doubt you'll see the prince."

"If Rastatz were right and my memory wrong"—

He smiled still. "The offense against discipline would be so much less serious. The prince is a disciplinarian. To speak with all respect, he forgets sometimes that discipline is, in the last analysis, only a part of policy—a means, not an end. The end is always the safety and tranquillity of the state." He spoke with weighty emphasis.

"The offense against discipline! An attempt to assassinate"—

"I see you cling to your own memory. You won't have anything to say to Rastatz!" He rose and bowed over her hand. "Much may happen between now and Saturday. Look about you, watch and think!"

The general's final injunction, at least, Sophy lost no time in obeying, and on the slightest thought three things were obvious—the king was very grateful to her, Stenovics wished, at any rate, to appear very grateful to her, and, for some reason or another, Stenovics wished her memory to be wrong to the end that the life of Mistitch and his companion—the greater included the less—might be spared. Why did he wish that?

Presumably—his words about the relation of discipline to policy supported the conclusion—to avoid that disturbance which the prince had forecasted as the result of Mistitch's being put to death. But the prince was not afraid of the disturbance. Why should Stenovics be? The commandant was all confidence. Was the minister afraid?

In some sense he was afraid. That she accepted. But she hesitated to believe that he was afraid in the common sense that he was either lacking in nerve or overburdened with humanity, that he either feared fighting or would shrink from a salutary severity in repressing tumult. If he feared, he feared neither for his own skin nor for the skin of others. He feared for his policy or his ambition.

These things were nothing to her. She was for the prince, for his policy and his ambition. Were they the same as Stenovics'? Even a novice at the game could see that this by no means followed of necessity. The king was elderly and went a-fishing. The prince was young and a martinet. In age Stenovics was between the two—nearly twenty years younger than the king, a dozen or so older than the prince. Under the present regime he had matters almost entirely his own way. At first sight there was of a certainty no reason why his ambitions should coincide precisely with those of the prince. Fifty-nine, forty-one, twenty-eight—the ages of the three men in themselves illuminated the situation—that is, if forty-one could manage fifty-nine, but had no such power over twenty-eight.

New to such meditations, yet with a native pleasure in them, taking to the troubled waters as though born a swimmer, Sophy thought and watched and looked about. As to her own part she was clear. Whether Rastatz was right, whether that most vivid and indelible memory of hers was wrong, were questions which awaited the sole determination of the Prince of Slavna.

Her attitude would have been unchanged, but her knowledge much increased, could she have been present at a certain meeting on the terrace of the Hotel de Paris that same evening. Markart was there, and little Rastatz, whose timely flight and accommodating memory rendered him today not only a free man, but a personage of value. But neither did more than wait on the words of the third member of the party—that Colonel Stafnitz of the hussars who had an old feud with Mistitch, for whom Mistitch had mistaken the Prince of Slavna. A most magnanimous, forgiving gentleman apparently, this spare, slim built man with thoughtful eyes. His whole concern was to get Mistitch out of the mess! The feud he seemed to remember not at all. It was a feud of convenience, a feud to swear to at the court martial. He was as ready to accommodate Stenovics with the use of his name as Rastatz was to offer the requisite modifications of his memory. But there, with that supply of a convenient fiction, his pliability stopped. He spoke to Markart, using him as a conduit pipe—the words would flow through to General Stenovics.

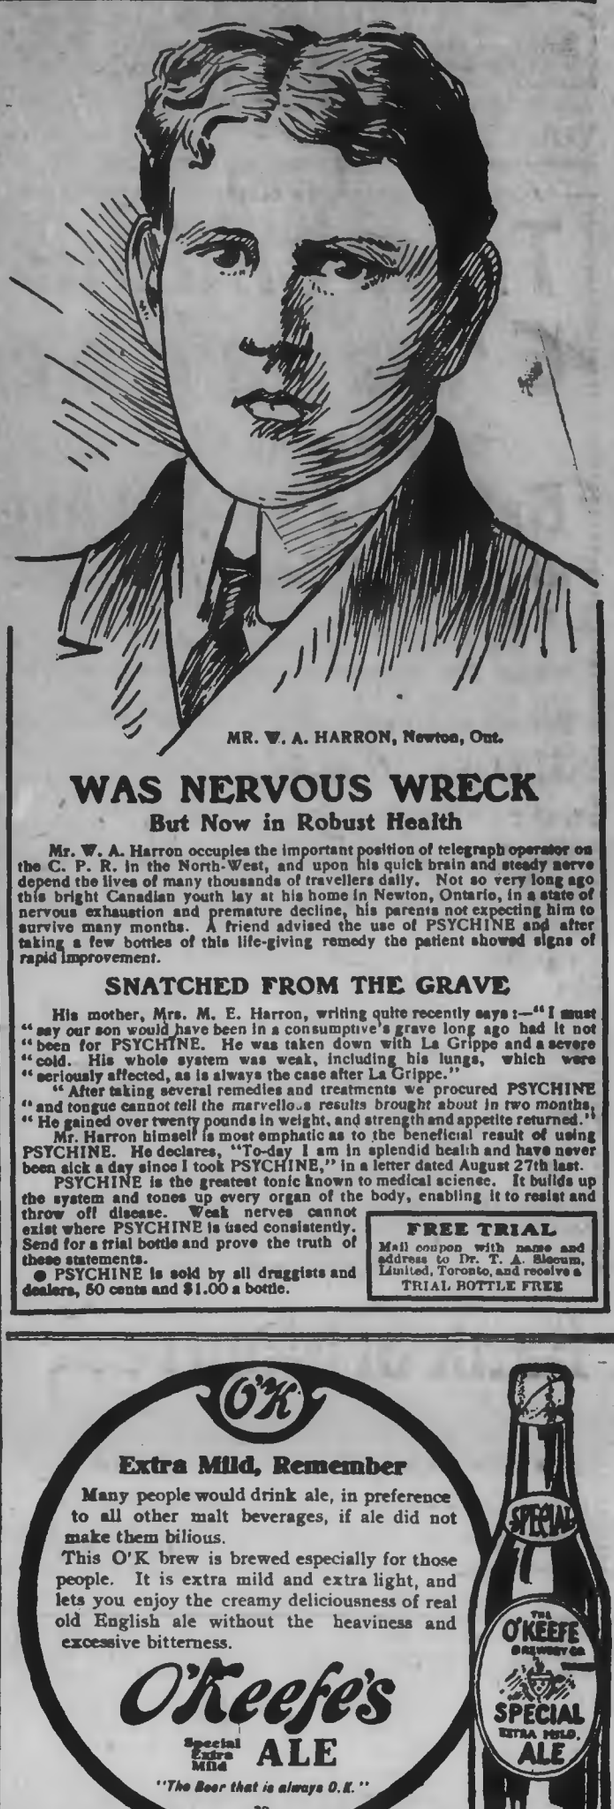
CURE SICK HEADACHE



MR. W. A. HARRON, Newton, Ont.

WAS NERVOUS WRECK

But Now in Robust Health

Mr. W. A. Harron occupies the important position of telegraph operator on the C. P. R. in the North-West, and upon his quick brain and steady nerve depend the lives of many thousands of travellers daily. Not so very long ago this bright Canadian youth lay at his home in Newton, Ontario, in a state of nervous exhaustion and premature decline, his parents not expecting him to survive many months. A friend advised the use of PSYCHINE and after taking a few bottles of this life-giving remedy the patient showed signs of rapid improvement.

SNATCHED FROM THE GRAVE

His mother, Mrs. M. E. Harron, writing quite recently says:—"I must "say our son would have been in a consumptive's grave long ago had it not "been for PSYCHINE. He was taken down with La Grippe and a severe "cold. His whole system was weak, including his lungs, which were "seriously affected, as is always the case after La Grippe."

"After taking several remedies and treatments we procured PSYCHINE "and tongue cannot tell the marvellous results brought about in two months. "He gained over twenty pounds in weight, and strength and appetite returned."

Mr. Harron himself is most emphatic as to the beneficial result of using PSYCHINE. He declares, "To-day I am in splendid health and have never been sick a day since I took PSYCHINE," in a letter dated August 27th last.

PSYCHINE is the greatest tonic known to medical science. It builds up the system and tones up every organ of the body, enabling it to resist and throw off disease. Weak nerves cannot exist where PSYCHINE is used consistently. Send for a trial bottle and prove the truth of these statements.

● PSYCHINE is sold by all druggists and dealers, 50 cents and $1.00 a bottle.

LEADER OF THE "400."

Mrs. John Jacob Astor Will Probably Be Queen of New York Society.

The death of Mrs. William Astor, who for thirty years had been the social dictator of smart New York society, left the very important position unoccupied. There is a rumor that the leadership will pass to her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Jacob Astor. This beautiful young matron is in every way splendidly equipped for the position should she elect to accept it. As Miss Willing of Philadelphia she was a belle of the Quaker City and surrendered to Jack Astor a name old and honored, thus uniting her high social position to his wealth. The Willing family helped make history and were prominent in this country before the Revolution, but the first Aster, as everybody knows, did not start in his fur trading venture till the beginning of the nineteenth century.

The women of the Willing family have always been noted for their beauty, and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, with her lovely prematurely gray hair and aristocratic bearing, is no exception to the rule. As Miss Willing, Mrs. Astor made her first appearance in Newport in 1889. Jack Astor was there that summer. They met always at the same round of social bouts, and by the end of the season he was her devoted admirer. In February of 1891 they were married in the Willing mansion in Philadelphia, and, though this is no fairy tale, they have lived happily ever since. There are two charming children to make life more attractive for this fortunate couple—Vincent, a boy of fourteen, and Alice, a tiny girl of three or four years of age.

During the first years of Mrs. Astor's married life there were misfortunes one after the other to keep the family in mourning and prevent Mrs. Astor from formally appearing or leading in society. But for several seasons she has been prominent in London, at the opera in New York and in the summer at Newport. Although the Fifth avenue home, adjoining the late Mrs. William Astor's house, is magnificent enough to please the most fastidious, the country seat, Ferncliffe, on the Hudson, has always been Mrs. Astor's favorite residence. The stone house on an eminence near the river bank was built about forty years ago. It is not old enough to be called "colonial" nor new enough to be modern, but is justly entitled to the term "good old fashioned." It can put up half a hundred guests for a week end, and no one need sleep on the billiard table either.

On the estate there is a magnificent gymnasium costing $200,000 and a wonderful tennis court. So it goes without saying that Mrs. Astor is decidedly an out of doors woman and devoted to sports. Indeed, she may be said to have the athletic fever. She rides horses, drives a spirited cob and is fond of running her own automobile. Another of Mrs. Astor's favorite sports is shooting. There is a big target at Ferncliffe bearing many marks close up to the bullseye placed there by this fair Diana's unerring aim with rifle and revolver. Besides, there is a clay pigeon trap, and more than once milady has been seen to bring down nineteen clay pigeons out of twenty. Then she plays tennis, and of course she is a good golf player. As for sailing boats, Mr. Astor always looks on with pride when his wife holds the tiller.

The magnificent Colony club of New York, one of the finest of woman's clubs, owes its existence to Mrs. Astor's influence.

How to Use the Hands.

Many a woman has at times keenly sympathized with the amateur actress who exclaimed in dismay, "But what shall I do with my hands, monsieur?" The reply would be as unintelligible to a great many others as it was to her, "Let them hang at the end of your arms." Yet that is precisely the thing to do with them.

Delsarte's old law, "Strength at the center and freedom at the extremities," is one of the most effective rules for attaining grace of body—and one of the least understood. "Strength" is often interpreted as rigidity and "freedom" as carelessness, which is not at all a correct elucidation of the terms. Taken as a whole, the waist is the center, and the law means that it should be held firmly, the torso and lower portions of the body swung freely from it. So with the arms. The wrist is the center, the hands the extremities, and therefore in moving the arm the wrist should lead always, the back of it in any upward movement, the front when the motion is downward.

A beautiful hand is an inheritance to be desired, but it loses half its beauty value unless it expresses sympathy and grace in its every movement.

Here is one exercise, very simple and very old, but one which cannot be brought to mind too often:

Double the forearms against the upper arm so that the backs of the hands touch the shoulders. Drop the hands forward from the wrist as though there were no life in them and shake them from that position. This tends to make the wrist supple and leads to a second exercise that trains the wrist to lead. Allow the arms to hang limp at the sides. Lift the arm, then the wrist, then the hand. Each movement follows so closely upon the next that they seem to be one. A few moments of regular practice of this exercise, after the other devitalizing one, will really work an amazing improvement. Very shortly there will be no need for the question, "What shall I do with my hands?"

Washing Blankets.

When blankets are to be washed soap should be cut into small pieces and dissolved into a jelly. This should be added to warm water, enough to form a suds, and borax put in for softening and purifying purposes.

Into this the blankets should be entirely immersed and allowed to remain for half an hour. The water should not be allowed to get cold.

After the blankets are soaked through they should be soused up and down to release the dirt, then put through a wringer. After this the blankets are put through a second suds prepared in the same way as the first. They are squeezed, but not rubbed.

A board should not be used, and, above all, soap should never be rubbed directly on the blanket. This not only causes it to shrink, but the small hairs are all matted by the soap, and the blanket loses its fluffy appearance.

They should be rinsed in warm water with borax or ammonia added to keep them soft and dried on a day of sun and wind.

Tinted Walls Attractive.

Many women who are having their houses done over this winter are choosing paint instead of paper for all the upstairs rooms.

They think this method more hygienic and more cleanly. The walls can be washed down and do not need to be renewed each season.

Not only pale tints, but rich, warm ones, are used, such as terra cotta, german blue and dull red. All the tones of heavy gray are popular.

For the nursery light blue, rose pink and leaf green are used. The ceiling and walls are alike, and there is no attempt at fresco or dado. A molding is used of stained wood, usually white or buff.

Painted walls, with varnished hardwood floors, insure cleanliness and health in a sleeping room.

Women and children who have tried these find themselves suffocating in rooms with carpets, thick wall papers and curtain drapery.

Things Worth Knowing.

When sandwiches of different kinds are served on the same plate, they should be so arranged and marked that the guest may choose according to his or her taste.

A sweet sandwich having cherries inside should have half a cherry on one corner, and that with preserved ginger should be similarly marked with the ginger.

That, if possible, a patient should be induced to give up tea and coffee during convalescence. In a weakened condition they are apt to induce nervousness and sleeplessness.

If lamp chimneys are so badly smoked that they are unsightly, clean them with vinegar and salt. This will remove spots of smoke and leave the glass bright.

An Auto Workbasket.

An automobile workbox is one of the up to date possessions of the woman who does her own mending. The tiny straw car suggests tidiness and dispatch. Spools of thread, papers of needles, scissors and bodkins find a place in the various parts of the motor. Under the chauffeur's seat the spools are arranged, while the tonneau holds rows of needles and pins. The thimble occupies a place all its own on top of the steering wheel, while the car opens at the back to disclose a tiny compartment for the other small sewing conveniences which are always getting lost or misplaced in the large workbox of a single compartment.

Only a Common Cold,

BUT IT BECOMES A SERIOUS MATTER IF NEGLECTED.

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh or Consumption is the result. Get rid of it at once by taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often affecting a permanent cure.

Mrs. Henry Smallpiece, Bradenall, Ont., writes:—"I was always subject to a cough and could get nothing to relieve me until I saw an advertisement of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thought I would try a bottle, and when I had taken a few doses I found I was getting relief, and when I had finished it I was cured. I procured a bottle for my baby, who had a cough, and a few doses cured him. I would advise anyone having a cough, to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial and I am sure they will never be without it."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup and that one is "Dr. Wood's."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

WILL CURE

Your Cold. Try It

The uniform success that has attended the use of this remedy in the cure of bad colds has made it one of the most popular medicines in use. It can always be depended upon to effect a quick cure and is pleasant to take.

It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. Price 25 cents. Large size 50 cents.

HOUSEWIFE SUGGESTIONS.

Salt and soda will clean tarnished brass and will sometimes clean tarnished silver.

When whitewashing mix lime with skimmilk and it will not crumble off. If you wish it colored add any paint powder.

In choosing a chicken it should be plump on the breast, fat on the back and have white legs. An old chicken is distinguished by its rough legs, and long hairs are found on the breast.

Flower vases often overbalance when in use, for the flowers put into them are likely to make them top heavy. This defect is easily remedied by putting bits of lead, shot or pebbles at the bottom of the vases.

In separating the whites from the yolks of eggs one often will break the yolk into the white. In such case dip a clean cloth into warm water and wring dry. Touch the yolk with the cloth and it will cling to the cloth.

To prevent shoe laces coming undone tie the laces in the usual manner, but before tightening the bow pass its right hand loop through the knot in the center. Then draw the bow tight, and it will stay tied until you pull the string to undo it.

If a lamp is kept full of oil and perfectly clean in all its parts it will never be disagreeable. It is the oil slowly frying on the heated metal which makes the persistent noisome odor, or it is the wick turned too high which emits the occasional choking smell.

To prevent matting from becoming yellow on the floor wash off occasionally with a large coarse cloth which has been dipped in a strong solution of salt water. This will not only prevent it from becoming yellow, but will give the various colors a fresh and new look.

Table linen which has been stained with egg should never be placed in boiling water, as this has the effect of "setting" the stain and making it almost permanent. The best method is to soak the cloth in cold water, which will make it perfectly easy to remove the stain before sending it to the wash.

The Children's Friend.

Mr. C., a distinguished lawyer of Boston, was on his way to Denver to transact some important business. During the afternoon he noticed in the opposite section of the Pullman a gweat faced, tired appearing woman traveling with four small children. Being fond of children and feeling sorry for the mother, he soon made friends with the little ones. Early the next morning he heard their eager questions and the patient "Yes, dear," of the mother as she tried to dress them, and, looking out, he saw a small white foot protruding beyond the opposite curtain. Reaching across the aisle, he took hold of the large toe and began to recite, "This little pig went to market; this little pig stayed at home." The foot was suddenly withdrawn, and a cold, quiet voice said, "That is quite sufficient, thank you."

Mr. C. hastily withdrew to the smoker, where he remained until the train arrived in Denver.—Good Housekeeping.

Hard and Soft.

"What," asked the teacher, "does anthracite mean?"

"That's a kind of coal," said little Willie.

"Yes. Anthracite coal is what we call hard coal. So 'anthracite' must mean 'hard.' Now, can you tell me what 'bituminous' means?'

"That's coal, too," Willie replied.

"But it isn't the same kind of coal that anthracite is, is it? Bituminous coal is what we commonly refer to as soft coal. Now, Willie, let us see if you can form a sentence containing the words anthracite and bituminous."

Willie thought the matter over for a moment and then said:

"Here's one: 'This morning before pa started downtown ma wanted $5 for groceries and things, and she tried to get it by saying bituminous words, but pa gave her an anthracite look, and when he disappeared around the corner she was weeping bituminously.'"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Chinese Story.

A Chinese barber while shaving a customer's head drew blood and put one of his fingers on the place. Again he made a cut and put down another finger, and so on until he had no more fingers free. "Ah," said he as he paused in his work, "a barber's trade is difficult. We ought to have a thousand fingers."—Scrap Book.

"I Went to See Him, Nevertheless"

THE CAPTURE OF "GOPHER BILL,"

BY A. L. DRUMMOND,
Formerly Chief U. S. Secret Service.

(Copyright, 1909, by A. L. Drummond and A. L. Benson.)

IN the language of thieves, a safe is a "gopher." For more than thirty years William H. Robinson worked exclusively as a bank burglar. Hence the name, "Gopher Bill," which was bestowed upon him by his friends in token of his persistency. As long as Gopher's eyesight was keen and his muscles limber, nothing looked so good to him as a bank vault.

But there came a day when he could no longer scale an iron fence at a bound nor work a drill with accuracy. And on that day he began to do what any other moneyless old man must do—pick up odd jobs. But Gopher's lesser tasks were like his greater ones—criminal. He peddled counterfeit money, ran errands for those of his friends who happened to be in jail, and sometimes went through a house if the windows were low, unlocked, and he was sure no one was at home.

I remember a particular occasion when Gopher, in making $3 for himself, made an enormous amount of trouble for others. While I was in charge of the Philadelphia division of the Secret Service an old companion of Gopher came into my office one day and told me he had some news. He said he had seen the old man in a key store buying keys. He questioned him and learned that he intended to take the keys to the Newcastle (Delaware) prison and give them to "Big Frank" McCoy, who was serving time for the robbery of a bank in Wilmington. Gopher told my informant that he was going to run over with the keys the next morning and that on the night of the same day "Big Frank" would walk out.

McCoy had walked out once before while serving the same sentence, and I knew the information was more than likely to be correct. So I wrote to the Warden and telegraphed the postmaster at Wilmington a request to deliver the letter in person immediately after its arrival.

Two days later I was surprised to read in the morning newspapers that "Big Frank" had escaped from the Newcastle prison the night Gopher said he would go. I was astounded. My letter should have reached the warden in plenty of time to warn him, and in my telegram to the Postmaster I had told him of McCoy's plan to escape. So I went to Wilmington to find out what was the matter.

"Did you get a telegram from me two days ago?" I asked the Postmaster.

"Yes."

"Did you receive the letter for the warden?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, "and I delivered it to him personally, as soon as it came."

Then I went to see the warden.

"Did you get a letter from me?" I asked.

"Yes, I did," he said; "but when the Postmaster delivered it to me I was busy at something else, put it in my pocket and did not find it until to-day."

Things didn't look right to me, and after I returned to Philadelphia I sent to the Washington office a report in which I advocated further investigation. In this I was overruled, on the ground that the matter concerned the State of Delaware rather than the United States. "Big Frank" was never captured and Gopher was left to the peaceful enjoyment of his $2.

In 1879, however, the old man conceived an idea that put him in the penitentiary. I hadn't seen him for months when one day a letter came asking me to go to see him. I knew he never wanted to see me unless he hoped to get something for Gopher, as I also knew he could not be believed under oath. I went to see him, nevertheless, intending to listen to what he said and investigate any statements that might seem to be important.

"Mr. Drummond," said he, "a rich old farmer from Hopewell, Pa., is coming in here to-morrow to buy some counterfeit money. I will point him out to you on the street if you want me to, and you can 'shake him down' for $5,000. But you must give me half of it."

I may remark, parenthetically, that to "shake down" a counterfeit money buyer is to arrest him and then take good money for turning him loose.

I asked Bill how he knew the man was coming. Something in the way I asked the question, perhaps, made the old man suspect that I doubted the correctness of his story. His heart was set upon securing my assistance in the task of shaking down the Pennsylvania farmer, and he at once set forth to prove to me the reliability of his information.

"Did you know old Jim Rogers?" he asked.

"I did when he was alive," said I. "I know he used to deal in counterfeit money."

"Well, old Jim was a great friend of mine, and when he was about to die he sent for me. He was lying in bed, hardly able to talk above a whisper, but when I sat down beside him he put his hand out from under the covers and clasped mine. 'Gopher,' said he, 'you've always been on the square with me, and now that I am about to die I want to will you my business. As you know, I've got a lot of customers for counterfeit money all over Pennsylvania. When they want any stuff they write to me. Part of them know me by my own name and send their letters in care of a saloon in Filbert street. The others know me as Jim Martin and send their orders in care of another saloon. I want you to have all of this business now, Gopher. Go to these saloons, get my mail and fill the orders yourself.'

"By good rights, you see, I should have had all of old Jim's business—but I haven't had it. One of the saloons has held out on me. The fellow who runs it has kept all the letters and sold the counterfeit himself. That's how I knew this Pennsylvania farmer is coming. I've got wind that he wrote to the other place and made arrangements."

All the while that Gopher was telling me this story the thought was running through my mind, "I'll catch Gopher and the saloon keeper now—get them dead to rights and put both of them in the penitentiary." However, when he had finished speaking I only said to him:—

"I'll have a man meet you to-morrow at any place you say, Bill, and we'll arrest the farmer. I'll not go myself, because all of the counterfeit money people know me too well. I've got a very clever negro on my staff—I'll send him."

Gopher thought the negro idea was a good one. I had no colored man at work under me, but I felt that if Gopher was lying about the farmer in order to lay a trap for me I could get a white man up close to him while he was looking for a negro.

"But I want this understood before we go any further," I continued, "I shall try to get the farmer to tell from whom he bought the counterfeit, and if he does it I'll put that man in the penitentiary. If he refuses I'll put the farmer himself in the penitentiary."

"Then I'll not point out the man to you," said Gopher, and further negotiations were off, as I expected they would be.

When I went back to the office I wrote a letter to the chief of the service asking him to send W. W. Hall to Towanda, Pa., to await orders from me, which was done. Then I wrote to F. A. Bates, a police official of Scranton, asking his co-operation. And to both Hall and Bates I forwarded the draft of a letter, which I asked them to copy and mail, one letter to be directed to Jim Rogers and the other to Jim Martin. The letter was as follows:—

"Friend Jim:—I expect to be down to the city next week. I wish you would let me know whether you have any high grade stuff, either paper or silver. I am anxious to get hold of a little if it's the kind I want."

The letter was copied and sent, Hall signing his note "Emory Powers," and directing it to Jim Rogers, and Bates signing his letter "William Stark," and directing it to Jim Martin.

In each instance a reply was received almost by return mail. Bates received a letter from old Gopher Bill himself, as I knew from the handwriting. Bill, however, merely told his correspondent to come and see him when he reached Philadelphia.

Hall's letter was answered by a man whom I shall call Moran, since I understand he is now leading a comparatively decent life and has reputable relatives. Of course, Moran signed the name of Rogers, but I knew who he was. In his reply he was as frank and outspoken as Gopher was guarded, describing his goods as freely as might a legitimate merchant and urging Hall to come down and make a deal.

I at once wrote to Hall and Bates to make appointments for meetings. I also instructed Bates to arrange to see Gopher Bill a few days prior to the meeting between Hall and Moran. To make Gopher and Moran feel entirely at their ease when the time came to put through the deals I laid a little trap for them. Gopher and Moran, it will be remembered, had represented themselves in their correspondence to be Rogers and Martin, respectively. Rogers, alias Martin, was a tall man. Gopher and Moran were short and fat. So I told Bates and Hall to feign surprise and to appear suspicious when they kept their appointments—to comment on the fact that old Jim, whom they should declare they knew well, was tall and lean, while the men who came to deal in his name were the opposite.

Bates carried out his instructions to the letter. Playing the part of a sceptical old farmer, he refused for some time to do business at all. Bill at first attempted to reassure him with general statements, and finally told the story of how old Jim had died and willed him his customers. This explanation satisfied Bates and he bought two hundred trade dollars.

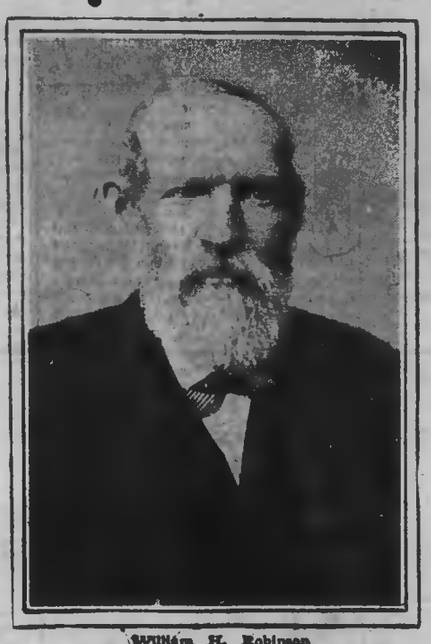
In the case of Moran I thought I saw an opportunity to use his incriminating letter to Hall as evidence against him. In order to do so, however, it was necessary to devise a way to get him to identify it without knowing he was doing so. After photographing his letter I therefore tore out the words in which he had described the goods he had for sale, and wrote on the back of the sheet what appeared to be memoranda regarding the purchase of household effects—this for a purpose that I shall soon make clear.

When the day came for Hall to meet Moran I told Gopher I wanted him to go with me to Camden to tell me if a man whom I pretended I expected to arrest was one of the men concerned in a robbery that Gopher knew about. The old man, knowing he would get $2 for his trouble, readily consented to go. What I wanted was to get Gopher out of Philadelphia while Hall and Moran were negotiating, as I knew Moran, in order to protect himself, would hire Bill to pass out the counterfeit and receive Hall's good money. With one excuse and another I kept the old man in Camden until afternoon, by which time I calculated that Moran would have tired of waiting for him and finished the deal himself.

Hall afterward told me that Moran ran all over town, pretending he was trying to find the man who had the counterfeit, and eventually passed it over himself.

The next thing was to get Gopher into jail as quietly as possible in order not to give Moran an opportunity to flee before we could get him too. So I told him I wanted him to go with me to help me identify a man for whom I pretended to be looking. We walked over to the entrance of the building in which the United States Marshal's office was located, and then I told him I thought we had better go inside, as I did not want to be seen. Before he realized it I had him in the Marshal's office. I gave a signal to Tom Marple, the chief deputy, and he put the old man under arrest.

Marple and I then started for Moran's saloon. As we drew near the place Moran came out and walked down the street in our direction. Moran knew Marple well, as he did me, and when he met us he extended a hand to each in salutation. Each of us grasped a hand and shook it. Each of us held the hand we grasped. As the duration of the greeting seemed to



William H. Robinson

Moran to be a little prolonged, he looked first at Marple, then at me, in a startled sort of way. He tried to pull his hands away. They were fast.

"Come with me," said Marple. "You are under arrest."

Gopher's case was set first for trial and he pleaded guilty. Judge Cadwallader, who was on the bench, received the plea and remanded Bill for sentence until Saturday—it was then Tuesday, if I remember correctly. Moran's case came next, and he put up a stubborn fight. In his day he had been powerful in local politics, and a number of prominent men testified to his good character. It was then that the attorney for the government made use of the letter that Moran had written to Hall, in which he told about the different kinds of counterfeit he had to sell.

Hall was called to the stand and testified to what took place at the meeting when Moran sold him the counterfeit.

"The first thing I did," said Hall, "was to upbraid him for writing me so unguardedly. 'What do you mean,' said I, 'by sending such a letter through the mails?'

"Moran asked if it could be possible that he had been so careless. I replied in the affirmative and withdrew from my pocket his letter. 'There's what you wrote,' said I, 'only I have torn out the words in which you described the counterfeit. Don't ever do that again.'

"'I didn't realize,' said Moran, 'that I had been so careless. Give me the letter,' and he reached out his hand to take it.

"'No,' said I, as I turned the sheet over. 'I have written down some things on the back of the paper that I must buy for my family and I want to keep it.'

"'All right,' said Moran, 'but tear it up as soon as you get through with it.'"

This testimony, of course, if it were true, constituted a complete identification of the letter. But a fortunate circumstance had given me additional proof. Before Moran's arrest I had sent him a letter, in which I asked him to write and let me know where and when I could see him. I supposed he would send the reply to my office, and therefore I gave no address. I was surprised, therefore, one evening when he came to my house and asked to see me. I went to the door and he handed me a letter.

"What Do You Mean by Sending Such a Letter Through the Mails?"

"Here is a letter that I wrote to you to-day," said he, "but when I came to direct it I found that you had given no address, and as I did not know the street number of your house I brought it over. There is nothing in it except the statement that I can see you if you want me to in the back room of my saloon next Sunday morning."

I thanked him, and put the letter in my pocket without reading it. I knew it would come in handy in backing up his letter to Hall, and wanted to get it out of his sight.

After Hall had finished his testimony I was called to the stand, where I told the story of the second letter. As the law stood at that time, attorneys could not make comparisons between acknowledged and disputed examples of handwriting for the purpose of showing their similarity, but the two letters were nevertheless handed to the jury.

Moran was convicted without hesitation, and sentenced to four years' imprisonment. The severity of the sentence made Gopher change his mind about pleading guilty, and he asked permission to withdraw his plea. The term of court was about to close, and Judge Cadwallader said the plea must stand unless the government could get its witnesses back before the following Wednesday. Some of the witnesses were already as far away as Chicago, and the requirement of the court could therefore not be met.

Gopher Bill stood up in fear and trembling to receive his sentence.

"The sentence of this court," said Judge Cadwallader, in the squeaky voice that all who knew him will so well remember, "is that the defendant be imprisoned in the State Penitentiary for a period of eighteen months."

The unexpected leniency almost unnerved Gopher. If he had gone to trial he probably would have got five years.

The old man, who was then sixty-five, served his time, came out, and, great bank burglar that he had been in his prime, was the cheap handy man of criminals to the end of his days. Moran also served his full sentence. I found out afterward that he intended to "put me out of business," as he expressed it, if I had kept the appointment to meet him in the back room of his saloon that Sunday morning. He told a number of his gang that such was his intention. It was never my purpose to meet him, but if I had I presume that somebody who was ostensibly a drunken loafer would have tried to give me a black eye. Moran would have kicked him out of the place—apparently acting indignantly and as my friend—after which Moran and all his friends would have gloated over my discomfiture.

IN LONESOME NEW YORK CITY.

"NEW YORK is commonly said to be an all night city," complained the visitor from up State, "but I for one have found it anything but hospitable as the night wears on. A few days ago I was obliged to meet a late train at the Grand Central Station, very late, in fact, for the tram did not get in till two in the morning. I started down town about eleven, with a vague idea of going to a show. It did not enter my mind that the Great White Way would not offer some attraction every hour in the twenty-four. New Yorkers will tell you that the street never sleeps and that you can carry on any business, do your banking, buy anything you please at any old time. Well, I didn't find it so.

"At eleven the theatres were letting out, every last one of them. I can remember music halls which only began to fill up at this hour, but there is no such shelter to-day. I was not hungry or thirsty, and after strolling through the hotel lobbies for half an hour I felt that I had worn out my welcome. The public waiting rooms were beginning to thin out, and I imagined the clerks' eyes were on me, so I sought the street. The electric signs still made the street gay at midnight, but the cigar stores, penny arcades, phonograph parlors, the latest shops, were closing down.

"An all night barber shop caught my eye. Here at last was a haven of refuge. I submitted to a hair cut—which I did not need—and, after lingering in the welcome warmth and light of the resort as long as I dared, once more ventured forth. It was only a little past midnight. The all night bank occurred to me—splendid idea! Once inside I found I had no excuse for remaining long, and once more I found myself on the street, having killed but ten minutes in the visit. A belated bootblack parlor was still alight, and by having my shoes repolished I managed to purchase fifteen more minutes' shelter. Another walk about the streets brought the time to nearly one o'clock.

"I had forgotten the drug stores. Selecting a brilliant window at one of the busiest corners I entered. Understand, I was perfectly willing to pay a reasonable price for my shelter and entertainment. A hot drink made an excuse for idling ten minutes more and I was about to make some trifling purchases as the price of my entertainment when the place began to darken. I was told that the store closed at one and they had already stretched a point in keeping the place open after time for me.

"Despite the much vaunted all night district I found myself actually on the street without shelter. I sought the station. Here at least I might sit and read till daylight if I chose. For perhaps half an hour I was undisturbed, when a squad of scrubbers took possession. The floor was soon covered with pools of soapy water, and I must pick my way carefully about these lakes to the doorway. The clock indicated half-past one. For the last half hour of my vigil I carried the banner like any outcast. Talk about New York being an all night town! It's the lonesomest town for a bachelor after midnight that I have ever struck."

THE BEE STING CURE.

NOT a cure for the stings of bees, but the sting of a bee as a cure for something else—namely, rheumatism or gout. The belief that rheumatic pains may be relieved by allowing a bee to sting the affected part is prevalent in widely distant lands. It has been classed by many with other odd popular "cures," such as spitting on the bottom of a stone to cure warts and so on. But there is no doubt that, in this case, tradition is correct, for the bee cure has been tested and reported upon too often by reputable physicians to admit of error.

An Oxford professor has recently spent some time in tracing the origin and history of this queer but effective method of treatment. It first appears in print, so far as he could find, about fifty years ago in a Parisian medical journal, in the shape of an account of the experiences of a French bee keeper, who, finding a rheumatic trouble of long standing relieved by the accidental sting of a bee on his wrist, caused bees to sting him in other parts of the body and so was cured. Since his day the cure appears from time to time in medical literature, often as a supposed new discovery. "It has been successfully employed in many parts of the world. Dr. Féré, an Austrian physician, has a record of about seven hundred cases in which he has used it. The sting causes considerable pain, but this soon ceases, as the part begins to swell, and after two or three such treatments the rheumatism disappears for six months or so.

Evidently the sting acts as a natural hypodermic injection and the so-called "poison" contains the curative principle. A chief constituent of the fluid is formic acid, but whether this or some minor element is responsible for the effect of the sting is not certainly known.

HEAT PHOTOGRAPHY.

A METHOD of photographing with invisible heat radiation has recently been devised. It is now recognized that there is no essential difference between what used to be called "heat rays," "light rays" and "chemical rays." Radiation is of divers wave lengths, and only between certain limits does it affect the eye. Between other limits it produces heat effects and between others it stimulates chemical action, as in a photographic plate.

In general the longest waves produce heat; those not so long, light, and the shortest of all, chemical action. Certain waves are both heat and light rays, and certain others are both light rays and "chemical" rays; but in general the invisible heat rays have no chemical effect, and it is impossible to photograph with them directly.

In the new process advantage is taken of the fact that at very low temperatures the ordinary developers have no effect on an exposed plate. If a plate completely exposed to light be treated with a very cold developer nothing will result; but if any portion of the plate be then heated, the developer will act at the heated parts and there only, and an image will be formed. In some experiments recently described a pot of almost boiling water was used as a source of heat, and between it and the cold plate, about four inches away, was held a membrane in which the letter "W" had been cut. The result was a distinct picture of the letter on the plate.

This odd method of photography may be used to show that hard rubber is transparent to heat rays, while glass is nearly opaque. The reverse, of course, is true of light, and the difference evidently depends on the difference of length of the waves. Plates with a thick coat of gelatine are recommended for these experiments, but any plate may be used successfully.

A QUEER NEWSPAPER.

Moscow Has an Organ For Thieves and Vagabonds.

Moscow has a curious newspaper called the Bosatska Gazeta, which interpreted means the Barefooted Man's Gazette. It is a little weekly journal, consisting of one double sheet of printed matter. It is ostensibly run by thieves and vagabonds for the benefit of thieves and vagabonds. The bulk of its contents consists of contributions from burglars and other folk who prey upon society, in which they describe their successful exploits. Its tone is humorous and racy. The text is enlivened with comic sketches, some of which are well done. Unless the police suppress it it bids fair to have a prosperous career.

It is not lacking in advertisements, most of them of a decidedly unique character. In one issue, for instance, a young man announces that, "being full of energy and temperament and having a loving heart, he seeks a life partner in the shape of a young lady with small means." The adventurer goes on to say that, "having practiced housebreaking from his tender youth, he is now at twenty-five as expert a burglar as any in Moscow and can therefore assure his wife comfort and even luxury."

The office is situated in the Nikitinska, a shabby enough street, opposite a small theater. It is in a private flat. The editor is always out, and contributors are invited to leave their offerings on the table, where lie an empty vodka bottle, a tea stained piece of blotting paper and a few cigarette ends.

In a word, the management of the paper is wrapped in mystery. Nobody knows where it is printed, least of all the police, who have been on its track since the first number appeared. It comes out once a week and costs 5 kopecks (about 5 cents).—Chicago News.

An Unkissed Baby.

There is in England a nine-months-old boy who has never been kissed. His parents have set up the following rules in a conspicuous place near the entrance to their home:

"Don't kiss the baby.

"Don't handle baby unless your hands are very, very clean.

"Don't bring baby's face close to your own or to your hair.

"Don't allow baby to touch your face or hair.

"Don't talk, breathe, whistle, blow, cough or sneeze into baby's face. We want him to live.

"Don't use your handkerchief on baby's hands, face or mouth."

At the foot of the rules is written: "To some these rules will appear comical or stupid. But they are not written as a joke or without thought. Therefore any person infringing these rules after having read them will incur our displeasure extremely."—London Mail.

Men's Buttons $100 Apiece.

"Here's a set of vest buttons at $100 apiece," said the tailor. "Man is growing more luxurious in his dress. Soon, if he keeps on, his bills will beat woman's."

The buttons, four in number, were for the white waistcoat of evening dress—a large pearl encircled with diamonds. With them went two pearl studs and a pair of pearl and diamond sleeve links. The set cost altogether $850. "Oh, yes," said the tailor, "I sell lots of these sets of buttons! They are the correct thing, you know. The thief if he ripped the buttons off the white vest of the average rich young clubman would probably get a haul worth two or three hundred dollars."—New York Press.

One Result of Prohibition.

Governor Burke in a smoking compartment of a sleeper was telling how he used to water the cows on his father's farm in Iowa.

"Those cows were fearfully thirsty at times," said the governor. "At times I have carried ten pails apiece for every one of the twenty cows we had."

One of the party remarked that he had watered cows time and again, but never saw one drink more than four pails at a time.

"Perhaps you're right," admitted the governor, "but you must remember that those were dry times in Iowa, when we had prohibition laws."—Minneapolis Journal.

KITCHEN HINTS.

Mix prunes and raisins for a supper dish. The raisins give the prunes a tang that is savory.

Save fuel by washing beans and all dried fruits until the water poured off is clear. Then soak overnight, covering them with warm, not cold, water.

To get best results with rice wash quickly in cold water and drop slowly into water that is boiling rapidly. Rice prepared in this fashion will be soft and mealy, yet whole, in twenty minutes or half an hour. Have plenty of water in the kettle and drain the rice directly it is cooked—before the water stops boiling.

To get best results with macaroni do not break it before cooking. Drop it whole into salted boiling water, cook twenty minutes, drain in a colander, coil it in the baking dish, pour cream sauce over it and finish off with grated cheese and bits of butter. Bake golden brown. You lose much of the substance in breaking it in short lengths before cooking.

To make the mint jelly so popular—and expensive—at exchange and tea rooms try this recipe: Wash and bruise a bunch of fresh mint, cover with a pint of boiling water and simmer very gently fifteen minutes. Strain and to every pint of this liquid while hot allow a package of ready to use lemon jelly powder. Add sugar to taste. Stir until sugar and jelly powder are dissolved. Mold and set on ice to harden. Garnish with fresh mint leaves.

A GOOD STOMACH

Mi-o-na will cure your dyspepsia or any other stomach trouble by building up the flabby walls and making the stomach so strong that it will digest food without pepsin or other artificial aid.

In other words, Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia by removing the cause.

Wm. Madill is the agent for Mi-o-na in Peterborough and he says to every reader of the Examiner whose stomach is weak, who has indigestion or dyspepsia, that Mi-o-na is guaranteed to cure or money back.

The price is only 50 cents a large box, and one box is all you need to prove that you are on the right road to health and happiness.

Mr. Geo. Linder, of corner Mill and Park streets, Elmira, Ont., says: "For about ten years I have been severely troubled with stomach trouble and indigestion so bad that I could not retain my food after eating. I could not eat meat, or scarcely anything and had headaches and constipation. I secured a package of Mi-o-na with the result that now after having taken two boxes I am entirely cured and can eat anything, digest perfectly and am feeling fine. Mi-o-na also overcame my constipation. I am only too glad to publicly endorse and recommend Mi-o-na."

Household Hints.

Nickel may be kept bright by being rubbed with wool saturated in ammonia.

When brushing a room sweep toward the fireplace; otherwise the draft from the chimney draws the dust in that direction.

Bric-a-brac containing mother-of-pearl should never be cleaned with soap and water. Instead it should be rubbed with a cloth dipped into whiting and water.

The soot that settles at the bottom of the teakettle, caused by being on the fire, will keep the top of the kitchen stove blacked. Dampen a cloth, rub on the bottom of the kettle, then over the stove, and it will keep the stove bright.

Too Much For the Ferret.

An old buck rabbit is not to be lightly tackled by weasel, stoat or even ferret. On the sanded floor of a small public house a ferret of long experience was matched with an old lop eared buck, the property of the landlord. The ferret made straight for the rabbit's throat, but the latter was in the air before master ferret could reach him and, leaping clean over the ferret's head, let out with those powerful hind legs of his a kick which hurled the ferret bodily against the wainscot. Twice the ferret returned to the attack, and twice he missed his grip and went hurtling through the air. The third reprise was enough for him. He knew he was beaten and could not be persuaded to stand up for a fourth round.

Brilliant Fish Hues.

Like birds, many fishes assume their brightest hue when they wish to attract the opposite sex of their species. The colors of the male common pike become exceedingly intense, brilliant and iridescent in the breeding season. The eel also puts on an intense silvery hue at the breeding time which is very noticeable and at one time caused naturalists to distinguish it as a distinct species. The males of the tench, roach and perch also show a marked increase in brilliancy in the breeding season.

THE NAMES OF STATES.

Majority of Them Were Handed Down From the Indians.

Do you know why your state was so named? Do you know that the majority of the states of the Union were named after the Indians? It is so. See the list:

Ohio is Indian and means "beautiful;" Massachusetts, "about great hills;" Utah, "mountain home;" Texas, from the Indian word "teaches," which means "friends." Kansas gets its name from the Indians, and the word means "smoky waters." The word Wyoming comes from the Indian and means "broad valleys;" Nebraska, "black water;" Missouri, "muddy water;" Iowa, "across;" Wisconsin, "rushing waters;" Illinois, from "Illini," which means "tribe of men;" Kentucky, meaning "at head of river;" Oregon, from War-e-gan, "beautiful water." Arizona means "uncertain," because of the desert land where the Indians found game scarce; therefore a journey through that portion of the country was uncertain. New Mexico was named after Mexico proper, and the word comes from "Mexitl" of the ancient Aztecs and signifies "god of war."

The Indians call great lakes "seas," and "seas" in Indian is "Michigan."

Mississippi is named after the river which is so called by the red man because of its greatness in width and length. The word means "father of waters."

The two Dakotas were so named after the Dakota Indians, which at one time embraced an immense tribe, all the branches of the Sioux.

There are states which do not owe their names to the Indians. California is named after an imaginary island of Spanish romance; Nevada (means "snowy;" Colorado is so named because of the red granite and sandstone rocks which are everywhere in the mountain regions. Florida means flowers.

FACTS ABOUT FLAGS.

Significance of Various Colors and the Way They Are Used.

To "strike the flag" is to lower the national colors in token of submission.

A "flag of truce" is a white flag displayed to an enemy to indicate a desire for a parley or consultation.

The white flag is also a sign of peace. After a battle parties from both sides often go out to the field to rescue the wounded or bury the dead under the protection of the white flag.

The red flag is a sign of defiance and is often used by revolutionists. In our naval service it is a mark of danger and shows a vessel to be receiving or discharging her powder.

The black flag is a sign of piracy.

The yellow flag shows a vessel to be in quarantine or is the sign of a contagious disease on board.

A flag at half mast means mourning. Fishing and other vessels return with a flag at half mast to announce the loss or death of one or more of the crew.

Dipping the flag is lowering it slightly and then hoisting it again to salute a vessel or fort.

If the president of the United States goes afloat the American flag is carried in the bow of his barge or hoisted at the main of the vessel on board of which he is.

The president also has a flag—a blue ground with the arms of the United States in the center. This was first used in 1883 by President Arthur.

When a flag is displayed "with the union down"—that is, the flag reversed—it is a signal of distress and a call for assistance.

Alliteration—A Game.

This game can be played by any number of persons, each of whom is required to write a story in which each word shall begin with a given letter of the alphabet. The stories may be required to be of the same length, as agreed upon beforehand, or a stated time may be allowed for writing. When all have finished the stories are read aloud, and he whose story is the best, as decided by a majority of the players, is declared the winner.

The Land of Lie-a-Bed.

The lazy land of Lie-a-Bed
Has two fat pillows at the head.
A downy comfort spread all neat
And restful from the head to feet.
A drowsy, dreamy place to stay
And yawn, "I'll not get up today,"
And many children like to go
To wonder-wander here, you know.

It is a pleasant land, and yet
If I were you I would forget
The pathway there and follow back
The shining merry morning track.
The dream world lies too far away
From honest work and happy play,
And you must heed what you have read
And shun the land of Lie-a-Bed.

English Etchings.

More than 1,200 English tradesmen are this year entitled to the use of the royal arms over their shop fronts.

Although the sea has washed away 319 acres from the British isles in the last quarter of a century, it has added more than 30,000, which will become productive in time.

Strawberries were extraordinarily cheap in England this year, the price being 4 cents a quart at one time. The crop was the greatest in ten years, the total exceeding 60,000 tons.

It is a not unusual sight in England to see a motor bus belonging to one city running with a load of excursionists around the streets of another town twenty or thirty miles distant.

Things Theatrical.

Robert Edeson began his road tour recently in "The Call of the North."

Bessie Clayton has been engaged for Anna Held's company in "Miss Innocence."

Digby Bell is to play the part of an American father in "An International Marriage."

Never Knew Her Husband's Name.

In declaring that she never knew her husband's first name Mrs. Esther Nieman of Monroe street created laughter at the central police court.

"I have always called him 'Pop' from the first day I married him, and as he did not object I never worried myself about his first name," said Mrs. Nieman, who had her husband arrested on the charge of failing to support her.

The accused husband by direction of the magistrate was induced to tell his wife his full name.

"Certainly. I'm glad to do it," remarked the defendant, "but I think my wife has known right along that I am Jacob Nieman."

After telling his name Nieman was held in $300 bail for trial.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Inducements to Drink.

In Catania an enterprising wine dealer has initiated a novel scheme of drinking by the hour ad libitum. For 15 cents one may drink for sixty minutes, and the current price of wine is 3 cents a liter. The chances are, however, in favor of the merchant, for it requires a strong stomach to drink three liters of Etna wine in one hour. At a neighboring town the charge is 10 cents for the first hour and 15 cents for two. The fashion seems to have "caught on," and at Bologna, where the wines are better, the charge is 41 cents for the first hour, 31 cents for the second and 20 cents for the third. The result of these inducements to drink is said not to be enchanting.

Profits in Cocaine.

It is stated that cocaine is sold at $2.65 an ounce and that it is sold at retail to fiends at 20 cents for about six grains. There being 480 grains to an ounce, the venders at this rate would realize $16 on an ounce of the drug, a clear profit of $13.35. In view of the enormous profit in this trade it can be readily realized that the temptation to violate the city and state ordinances is a very great one and that many of the unscrupulous dealers will resort to almost any trick in order to evade the law.—Charleston News and Courier.

Amiable G. B. Shaw.

Some time ago Mr. Stead, in London, wanted to gather about him some of the brains of Europe and then make a trip around the world in the interests of everlasting peace. He asked G. Bernard Shaw to be one of the party, which invitation most men would have thought a compliment, but Mr. Shaw said, "My dear Stead, I have far more work to do than kings and queens, but if you will bring a collection of rulers to my house in Adelphi terrace I should be very glad to talk to them any morning."

Mother Gave Her Child Away.

Had Given up all Hope of Living. Heart Trouble was Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905 I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

Price 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

AT DEATH'S DOOR

Doctors had to give her Morphine to ease the pain

Five boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Her

ENTERPRISE, ONT., Oct. 1, 1908.

For seven years I suffered with what physicians called a "Water Tumor". I would get so bad at times that I could hardly endure the pain. I could neither sit, stand, nor lie down. Hypodermics of Morphia had to be given me or I could never have borne the pain. Many physicians treated me, but my cure seemed hopeless, and my friends hourly expected my death. It was during one of these very bad spells that a family friend brought a box of "Fruit-a-tives" to the house. After much persuasion I commenced to take them, but I was so bad that it was only when I had taken nearly two boxes that I commenced to experience relief. I kept up the treatment, however, and after taking five boxes I was cured, and when I appeared on the street my friends said, "The dead has come to life." And this seemed literally true because I certainly was at death's door. But now I can work almost as well as ever I could, and go camping and berry-picking with the girls.

I will be glad if you will publish this testimonial, if it will further the interests of "Fruit-a-tives." They should be in every household. Yours very truly,

Mrs. JAMES FENWICK.

Through the whole country around Enterprise, Ont., people are talking about this wonderful cure. By their marvellous action on the Kidneys, "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when the doctors said she could not be operated on and was doomed to die.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when all else failed. Try them for your trouble. 25c. and 50c. a box, at dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

FARMERS' CLUBS BEING ORGANIZED

From Farm and Dairy.

Realising that organization is the order of the day in all occupations in life, the farmers of Morewood, Ont., decided to follow suit and be in the race. We accordingly organized a farmers' club which has in connection with it a produce directory. This organization was formed, mainly, for the interchange of ideas, social intercourse, general enlightenment and to encourage the young men to be able to express their thoughts in a tangible shape and be able to command an audience without being subject to "stage fright," should the occasion arise. Also, that these young men may ask questions of the older men who have had more experience, and that they may be encouraged to adopt new methods.

The Produce Directory in connection with the club allows the members to register anything they have to sell, such as, horses, cows, pigs, potatoes, grain or in fact anything on the farm.

The directory is to be placed at the post office, or some other place of prominence in the village so that anybody requiring anything may find out who has the same without loss of time. Thus it is a benefit to both parties inasmuch as it saves the buyer from having to travel around the whole country to find what he wants.

The rules that we have formulated and adopted, will give one a good idea of our organization. They are:

1. The organization shall be called the Morewood Farmers' Club and Produce Directory. An annual fee of 50 cents per member shall be charged.
2. The board of management shall consist of president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and a board of four directors.
3. The annual meeting shall be held on the first Friday of December of each and every year. Regular meetings shall be held on the first Friday of each month.
4. No member shall be eligible to vote or to receive any benefits of the organization unless his fees are paid up in full.
5. The object of this organization shall be to benefit each other by means of discussion and debates regarding farming and the uplifting of our profession.
6. No political discussion shall be allowed on penalty of being expelled.
7. Any member selling an article that is registered in the directory shall be as prompt as possible in cancelling the same, so as to prevent repetition of buyers. A time limit of seven days is allowed for cancellation, after which offenders will be subject to the penalty of a fine, to be determined by the executive. This constitution may be added to as occasion requires.

WHAT THE CHEESEMAKER HAS TO CONTEND WITH

From Farm and Dairy.

One of the chief troubles cheese makers had to contend with last season was over-ripe milk. During the hot months the quality of the cheese made in many factories was materially injured because the milk when received by the maker was in an over-ripe condition and the finest product could not be made from it.

The only remedy is to cool the milk, and keep it cool, until it is ready to be sent to the factory. Unless the farmer has plenty of cold spring water, the only way to keep milk cool in hot weather is with ice. Every patron of a cheese factory should store ice for use in the summer months. A small ice house can be erected at small cost and it is not a very difficult task to store a few loads of ice during the winter months. There is always a creek or pond near at hand at which ice suitable for this purpose can be secured. It will come in handy for other purposes as well as cooling milk for the cheese factory. It will pay cheese makers to give some attention to this question during the next couple of months. By explaining the necessity of cooling milk properly for cheese making, patrons can be induced to take the matter up. The storing of ice by the patron is one of the needs of the business at the present time. The maker will have a much more satisfactory season in 1909 than he did in 1908, if he can induce his patrons to make preparations for putting in a supply of ice for use when the hot weather comes.

REASON WHY BOYS LEAVE THE FARM

From Farm and Dairy.

One reason why many boys have left the farm for the city has been because they have not known the difference between real and artificial pleasures. There is a glamor about the large, luxuriantly furnished theatres, and other places of amusement in the city, that draws a certain type of country boy just as the arc light draws insects. Only too often the result in the same in both cases—destruction.

There is need that we shall make clear to our boys and girls that the young men and women in the cities, who are making the greatest successes of their lives, are not the ones who spend time and money enjoying themselves at operas and dances. They are the young people who are working ten and twelve hours a day in offices and stores, or at their studies and who are saving, not spending their money. Success in the city is gained in one and in only one way: That is by hard work. There is far more opportunity to enjoy simple but real pleasure on the farm than in the city and it costs less.

Take an example: The patrons of the Central Smith cheese factory, Peterboro County, Ont., each year for eleven years, have held an annual banquet. These events have grown in interest and in importance. They now are anticipated with pleasure for months. Generally, one or two prominent speakers from outside points attend and speak briefly on agricultural matters. Musical talent adds to the interest.

The banquet that was held early this month was no exception. It was said that some 400 were present. The ladies had furnished a supply of edibles that tested the strength of the tables. There was almost everything to eat that one could find in any large city restaurant. Every person was expected to sit down and eat as long as they could and anything they wanted. As every one else was having too enjoyable a time to watch what others were doing there was nothing to prevent one from eating as much as the limit set by their capacity would permit. Surprising to state there was no such thing as a separate charge for every piece of pie, cup of tea or other article consumed. Had the usual city banquet prices prevailed the average charge to those present would have been about two

After the banquet an excellent program of speeches, musical selections and recitations was provided. These included magic lantern views shown by Messrs. Geo. H. Barr, and C. F. Whitley, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The most enjoyable feature of the evening was the sociability of all present, young and old, men and women. Afterwards came the drive home in the moonlight, over the first snow roads of the season.

We cannot have too many gatherings of this kind. They should be held frequently in every farm community. They promote friendly feelings and add to the enjoyment of farm life. They furnish simple, wholesome pleasure in an abundance that cannot be duplicated by the highest priced entertainments the city can provide. If we will give our boys and girls more opportunities to have a good time we will succeed better in diverting their attention from what is only too often the alluring, but treacherous cry of the city.

A FEW WORDS ON THE FEEDING QUESTION

From Farm and Dairy.

No fixed rules can be laid down in regard to feeding—the heavier breeds will require more food than the smaller, and some fowls eat more than others, so we must use some judgment as to how and what we are feeding. Poultry require a certain amount of animal, vegetable and mineral foods, therefore, you must supply yourself with as many different kinds of food as can be obtained in your locality.

Let it be understood that your hoppers should only contain crushed grains such as oats, corn, bran, middlings, etc., with oyster shell, grit, charcoal and beef scraps. All whole grains such as wheat, corn oats, rye, buckwheat, and even millet seed, should be fed in the litter morning and evening, using a different grain as often as possible, so as not to tire the fowls of any one grain. Corn should only be fed at nights.

During laying we feed as follows: Morning, two quarts of warm skimmilk, one quart of shorts and one of bran well mixed. At noon give them ten to sixteen ounces of green cut bone. At four-o'clock, one-half gallon of whole corn in the litter.

After the birds have gone to roost, I go out and scatter one-half gallon of wheat and oats in the scratching shed to set them to work the minute they can see. A cabbage head, a few red beets, or a mass of boiled potatoes once or twice a week in place of the bone, gives them variety. When the birds show evidence of too much forcing, cut out the midday meal.

The feed last year for 24 birds fed as above cost me $16.00. I sold the old birds on March 22nd to a farmer at 10 cents a pound, $20.40, besides having sold nearly $36.00 worth of eggs at 23 cents a dozen. The birds were the cull of my first hatch, being worth about 56 cents each when I put them in winter quarters. My total gain was $42.96 less feed, $36.96. This leaves out a few eggs we used in the house, before our other stock commenced laying.—F. in Standard

PRICE OF HOGS REMAIN AT REASONABLE FIGURE

From Farm and Dairy.

In last week's issue one of our correspondents said that if the pork packers would keep the price of hogs at a reasonable figure then farmers would raise plenty of hogs. The inference was that the pork packers could do so if they would. This suggestion has been made time and again. It was advanced once by such an agricultural authority as Hon. John Dryden.

We believe that the pork packers would be glad to maintain the price of hogs at any figure that would ensure their receiving a liberal supply of hogs, and still leave them a profit. But, how can they do it? Is there any product of the farm for which an uniform price is paid?

The price that the packers receive for their hogs is not uniform. It shows wide variations. How then can they agree to pay us a minimum price when they can't get the British consumers to guarantee to pay them a minimum price for bacon?
